INCREASE POLICE FORCE; PASS SAFETY MEASURES

Village To Build Sidewalks To New School; Plan Care of Park

DISCUSS SEWAGE PLANT

The appointment of three deputy marshals to police the streets of the village;

Passage of measures to insure the safety of school children going to and from the new Junior High school in Cassingham road;

Steps toward the improvement of the sewage disposal plant;

Plans for the pruning and care of the shrubs in Commonwealth park;

Discussion of the situation existing in Michael avenue relative to its use as an entrance to the athletic field of Capital University;

These constituted the principal business of the Bexley village council at its meeting this week.

Mayor S. E. Ludwig presided at the meeting and roll call was answered by the following: Clerk S. W. Roderick, Treasurer Joseph Stein, Marshal David Shadrack, and Council members D. W. Kerr, Samuel Metz, Allen Pretzman, O. C. Manly, R. J. Wheat Pretzman, O. C. Manly, R. J. Wheaton and F. H. Bonnett.

The appointment of Ralph Antle, Robert Bradfield and C. D. Reed as new police officers in the village, was made by the mayor in accordance with an emergency ordinance passed by the council at the preceding meeting, and upon the recommendation of F. M. Bonnett, chairman of the committee which had examined the three applicants for the positions. The new officers will go on duty October 1, having been appointed for three months. They will receive a salary of $135 a month. The appointments were approved by a unanimous vote.

Consideration of the matter of sidewalks to be built in connection with the opening of school in the new Junior High school in South Cassingham avenue, to which at present there is access by sidewalks, occupied much of the time of the council members.

Prohibition of parking in Cassingham avenue between East Broad street and Fair avenue, was agreed upon as an emergency measure. A motion, made by Mr. Bonnett and seconded by Mr. Kerr, to instruct the village engineer to establish the grade for sidewalks on both the east and west sides of Cassingham avenue, and instructing Solicitor Harley E. Peters to prepare the necessary legislation, was passed unanimously, at the Tuesday evening meeting. A special session of council was called for Wednesday evening at which time the measure was passed providing for the construction of the sidewalks at the earliest possible date.

Unanimous approval was accorded a motion to instruct the engineers to make a thorough investigation of the disposal plant and to report to council what, in their opinion, is necessary to be done to provide adequate treatment of sewage from the territory served. The motion was made by Mr. Bonnett and seconded by Mr. Kerr.

This action came as a response to the order of the director of health, of the state health department, for the village to take measures to correct and prevent the pollution of Alum creek, caused by the sewage. The village has been given until September 9, 1929 to install such means at the plant as shall meet with the satisfaction of the director of health.

A communication from the Shady Lane nursery was reported by President of Council Wheaton, in which the nursery asked the privilege of pruning and caring for the shrubs in Commonwealth park in exchange for such cuttings as would in no wise injure the growth of the shrubs, and at no cost to the village of Bexley. The solicitor was instructed to draw up a resolution granting this permission, to be given consideration by council at a future meeting.

A prolonged discussion ensued when the matter of the future of Michael avenue was taken up. It centered about the question of vacating the street and of making it an entrance way into the athletic field of Capital university. The residents on the street had a representative to speak before council, protesting the use of the street as an entrance to the field.

A protest to closing the street, however, has been made by business houses on East Main street in which it was pointed out that Michael avenue is the only outlet to an alley which communicates with the business building.

[illegible] matter was made after a motion was carried to instruct the clerk to request all those concerned in the future use of the street to meet and come to satisfactory agreement, and then to report the result of their conference at a future meeting of council. The motion was made by Mr. Betz and seconded by Mr. Bonnett.

By way of answer to the residents who have expressed a desire for street lights on Remington road, Cassingham road, Ardmore road and Cassidy road, between Maryland avenue and East Broad street, the solicitor was instructed to prepare petitions for circulation for signatures, and later presentation to council.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Goldsmith, 2556 East Broad street, left Tuesday for a motor trip to Boston and other eastern points.

Fire Causes $225 Damages In Home

Fire in the home of H. C. Brunner, 171 South Dakota avenue, Sunday evening, caused damages of $200 to the house, and $25 loss of contents.

The lighting of a cigaret above the kitchen sink where gasoline had been used for cleaning purposes, ignited the fumes, firemen were told. The blaze penetrated into the plumbing, burning the enamel from the sink, and spread to a breakfast room where draperies were burned and walls and furnishings were scorched.

SCHOOLS START WITH ENROLLMENT OF 917

Increase of 15 Per Cent Shown Over Year Ago

With an enrollment of 917, showing a 15 per cent increase over the enrollment for the same time last year, the Bexley public schools opened the new term this week.

In the senior high school the pupils numbered 286, in the junior high school, 169; and in the elementary school, 425, with 42 children in the new kindergarten which opened in the new junior high school building in South Cassingham road.

The first day at the new building was marked by the visits of more than 100 parents eager to inspect the new school and to meet the new members of the teaching staff. This resulted in confusion to considerable extent, but Superintendent H. C. Dieterich expressed gratification at the interest shown by the parents who, he said, gave evidence of being greatly impressed with the beauty of the building and the excellence of equipment.

All pupils of the new building were taken for a tour of inspection of the building by the teachers, on the first day.

By the second day of school all regular classes were meeting in the three buildings, and by the end of the week the special classes in home economics, physical education, art and music had been organized.

Considerable increase in the enrollment is expected within the next week or 10 days, the superintendent said, owing to the fact that many parents misunderstood the opening date of the schools, that some have kept their children at home this week as a precaution against infantile paralysis, and that others have not yet returned from vacations.

MISSIONARY SOCIETY APPOINTS COMMITTEES

Appointment of standing committees and discussion of programs to be held during the year, constituted the chief business of the members of the Ladies' Aid and Missionary society of Christ Lutheran church which held its first meeting of the year Wednesday afternoon in the social rooms of the church.

Mrs. A. R. Geist, president, had the meeting in charge. No meetings had been held by the society during July and August, and the first gathering of members for the fall was in the nature of a business session.

An address was made on "The Importance of the Christian Education of Youth," by Dr. C. V. Sheatsley, pastor of the church. Members of the society voted to lend their assistance to the Junior Band of the church in the drive for the benefit of the India Hostel. Announcement was made that ladies of Christ church will be hostesses at the Lutheran Hospice on annual donation day in October.

Appointment to standing committees for the year's work were made as follows: Reception committee, Mrs. Mary Dorndirer, Miss Emma Kiefer, Mrs. A. R. Geist, Mrs. Rose Stuckey, Mrs. Paul Mittler, Mrs. Charles Pflueger, Mrs. William Stellhorn, and Mrs. Louis Schneider.

Refreshments, Mrs. Charles Schaaf, Mrs. L. J. Schaaf, Mrs. Adolph Ebert, and Mrs. J. J. Baumgardner; Program, Mrs. Otto Mees and Mrs. Frederick Mayer.

SPEED VIOLATIONS ON DECREASE, SAYS GRAY

There was a time when motorists put a little more pressure on the accellerator when they entered the village limits of Bexley, but they have learned the folly of such practice this summer.

Temptation though it has been to hurry through the village, especially on East Main street and on East Broad street, they have curbed their speed. For the village has made plain that it will not tolerate excessive [illegible]

A few months ago, according to Officer J. H. Gray, the arrests for speed law violators numbered from 10 to 15 each week. In the last month and a half, however, he said, he has found it necessary to hand out only one or two tickets a week. He has found, he said, that Main street and Broad street shares alike in the number of speeders apprehended.

GAME AT GAHANNA TODAY WILL OPEN SEASON FOR BEXLEY

Few Veterans Are Candidates This Year

Bexley High school's football team will take the field at 3 o'clock Friday afternoon against the eleven of the Gahanna High School on the latter's home gridiron for the first game of the season.

The Bexley lads have been practicing for two weeks under the direction of Coach Carlton H. Smith. Each day between 30 and 35 stalwart players have been seen on the high school athletic field in signal practice, in scrimmage, and in the execution of feature plays, preparing for the opening of the fall schedule. Last season's record of no defeat gave them an incentive for increased efforts in the preliminary workouts.

With only a few veterans of last year's victories, remaining on this year's squad, Coach Smith this week expressed the opinion that this year's team would have difficult sailing to measure up to last year's, but that the new material held promise. Most of the first string players will hold over next year, also, he said, which augurs well for the 1928 team.

The loss of nine of the regular players last season, and of three others from the squad, will place in the ranks of this year's first team, a number of names and faces new to their positions. Candidates for positions on the first team, all of whom probably will have a chance to show their mettle in the game today, are: Quarterbacks, Moyer and Pensinger; Half-backs, Capt. Hirsch, Palmer, Rietz, and Kilbourne; Full-backs, Miller and Zuber; Center, Tracy and Taber; Tackles, Woodward, Siebert, Anthony, and Gerholt; Guards, Diehl, Beggs, Russell, and Dicky; Ends, Marsh, Davis, Ross and Jones.

On the season's schedule the stiffest contests are expected to be the last three games, to be played with Grandview, Upper Arlington, and Oakwood High school of Dayton. The third and fourth games will be, also, contests for which the Bexley eleven will need its best form. The schedule of games appears above.

HOLD CONSECRATION SERVICE TO START "EVERY MEMBER" DRIVE

A consecrational service for 80 members who will start the "Every Member" campaign on Monday, will be held Sunday morning at the First English Lutheran church, and formal action will be taken by the congregation on the $17,000 budget for the fiscal year of the church to begin October 1.

The campaign will have a two-fold purpose to stimulate interest in attendance and activity in church affairs and to provide financial support for the coming year. An open forum discussion of the budget was held Sunday evening at the first Sunday evening services this fall, presided over by Rev. M. Lewis P. Keller, pastor of the church.

The budget will provide for the operating expenses of the congregation including salaries of the four regular employees and the part time work of the organist. Besides the pastor, the church maintains as full time workers, Miss Lucy F. Roof, parish worker; Mrs. Henrietta Flook, parish nursery; and a Janitor. The organist is compensated for part time work.

MILLER-MAIN FESTIVAL TO BE THIRD WEEK IN OCTOBER

Merchants Propose To Make Second Event Bigger Than First

G. A. BRAWLEY, CHAIRMAN

The second annual fall festival, centering at East Main street and Miller avenue will be held during the third week in October.

This announcement has been made by Gordon A. Brawley, chairman of the executive committee, representing merchants and business men in the Miller-Main vicinity who will sponsor the festival. The personnel of committees on various phases of the preparations, is to be announced early next week, Brawley said.

Tentative plans for the affair will make it similar in nature and scope to the fall festival which was held in October last year. It will comprise the two blocks in East Main street between Loeffler avenue and Kelton avenue. The business establishments within these two streets will play the role of hosts, keeping open house for two hours in the evening and providing a program of entertainment in the street.

Flags, banners and ensigns, and probably feature lighting, will be used to array the street in gala attire for the evening. Special music, probably by band and orchestra, will be provided. The executive committee has under consideration a plan for roping a portion of the street for dancing.

Last year it was estimated that between 8,000 and 10,000 persons participated in the first fall festival given by merchants in this location, and the expectations this year is to attract an even greater crowd.

Hamilton, 30 South Columbia avenue.

The program of the afternoon included a talk by Miss Ganz, missionary from Africa, who is visiting at the home of her sister, Mrs. H. H. Hammons, 789 Eucliare avenue. A talk on "Service" was given also by Mrs. Vernon Phillips. There was special music by Mrs. E. W. Harrington and Mrs. Hiss, accompanied by Mrs. Jessie Crane.

The lawn fete to be given by the Guild Tuesday evening, will be a benefit for the building fund of the church. The public is invited.

Business Men Are Pleased with Issue of Eastern Times

HEAR REPORT ON INVESTIGATION OF LIGHTING PROJECT

Congratulations were extended to The Eastern Times, and a pledge of cooperation with the newspaper in the future, was given when members of the East Main Street and Bexley Commercial club held their regular monthly meeting Wednesday evening at the New Willard restaurant.

"With the appearance last week of The Eastern Times as our own community newspaper, there was realized a long cherished dream of practically all forward looking merchants and business men as well as of the residents of the East Side and Bexley," said President Gordon A. Brawley.

"We look to the community newspaper to cement the activities of this section."

Fifteen members of the club attended the meeting which was preceded by a dinner at 6:30 o'clock.

A report on the matter of obtaining boulevard lighting standards to illuminate the East Main street business district, was made to the club members by Fred Heiser, chairman of the committee appointed to investigate the proposition.

Heiser reported that the procedure for securing the lights would involve, first of all, the signatures of 60 per cent of the property owners in the district to receive the lights. Petitions to which these signatures had been affixed, would have to be submitted to the city council which in turn would have to take action to approve or veto the request and, if approved, would have to pass the necessary legislation for issuing bonds to finance the work of installation.

Two per cent of the cost of installation would be paid by the city, Heiser said, while the property owners would pay the remaining 98 per cent. No estimate on costs was obtained.

Action by the club, in this matter, was delayed until a future meeting.

With school days here again there arises once more the problem of safe easy it may be to see his way clear by a narrow margin of escape.

The problem presents itself alike in city, village and rural community, for schools must be centrally located and within easy access by good roads. And wherever are good roads, are dangers of accidents. Cities and automobile associations are doing all in their power to lessen those dangers by the creation of school zones in which the motorists is cautioned, by signs, to drive with care. Traffic lights have been installed in many street intersections where children must pass to and from their homes. Teachers aid in many cases by guiding classes of younger children across the streets near the school building.

But with all these precautionary measures, there must be many boys and girls who must traverse, alone or in groups, long distances which cannot but include the crossing of streets.

"Be careful," is easily said, and to the adult who utters it, it seems all inclusive. But it is not enough.

It is a duty of parents and teachers to explain that admonition. Every effort should be made to stamp indelibly upon each child's consciousness what "Be careful" really means.

There is a habit among numerous children to gage the distance of an approaching automobile, and then walk out into the street in the path of the car, leaving just a narrow margin of space in which it can pass by. It is a habit in which children imitate their elders. But the child mind is not quick to grasp all angles of the situation.

Suppose a chuck hole yawned ahead. Suppose a pile of broken glass lay in the path of the car. The driver would, almost involuntarily swerve his car to avoid it.

In countless instances a swerve of a few inches would mean the hitting of a child.

Again, to adventurous lads, it is an exciting thing to negotiate a street intersection against the traffic light. In 99 times out of 100 it may be achieved safely. But the hundredth time may cost an arm, a leg, a permanent injury, even a life.

These things should be explained, time after time, to each child, until the true significance of "Be careful" is understood thoroughly; until it becomes habit for the child to obey the law of the traffic light; until it becomes second nature to take no chances in the path of motor traffic no matter how passage of children to and from school through traffic-busy streets.

Not by any means is it fair to place all the responsibility upon the drivers. Let the children be taught, in their early years how to take care of themselves.

But it cannot be taught merely by the unexplained order, "Be careful."

In Between Times

When youngsters in business make their start they encounter almost invariably, an undisguished dubiousness among old hands at the game. Perhaps, after all, it is an incentive to youth to show just what kind of stuff it is made of. Occasionally a manifestation of that doubt of youth's ability becomes a good story to be repeated to friends over a dinner table. The following one is being told in the East side.

Young John was spending the summer vacation as a salesman working in his father's business. The sales manager made no bones about the esteem in which he held your John's ability. The lad came in after the first day of taking orders.

"Got anything?" asked the manager, with no hope in his tones.

"Certainly, I've got something," Young John swelled out his chest. "I went out for orders and I came back with orders," he boasted.

"Gimme both of 'em," demanded the manager dryly.

She didn't look like a philosopher, but she was, the little lass who marched importantly down East Main street on the first day of school. The swing of her skirts, the toss of her little head, the prim placing of her little feet as she stepped, all betrayed that she realized, clearly, that eyes were upon her.

Then a stone obtruded itself, unnoticed, in her path. A broad-toed little slipper hit it. There was an uncertain moment of frantic attempt to regain a lost balance. She landed unceremoniously on her hands and knees.

But she was not to be daunted. Not she. She rose with a shrug of her small shoulders.

"I don't care," she announced to whom it might concern. "I like to fall down."

Up in Westerville they have originated a game which it is announced, is a combination of croquet and golf, played on a croquet course with a croquet set. And, although to date there has been no announcement of the formation of an anti-golf or croquet league, we would suggest that, in view of the achievements of the other great anti league which had its birth there, golf fans and croquet addicts might just as well abandon their old games and take up the new as soon as announcement is made of such an association being organized.

EATING TO LOSE WEIGHT

By PERCY G. STILES, Associate Professor of Physiology, Harvard University

For many of us it is a consoling reflection that when we are not eating or drinking we are losing weight. Respiration and vaporation from the skin take from the body about an ounce every hour. During exercise the rate of loss is incredibly increased and most of all at high temperatures. But these spectacular losses are largely water and prove to be quite temporary. Nature insists on a rather prompt restoration. The removal of solids even in course of the most active exercise is small — disheartteningly so if it is assumed that such a subtraction is desired. Two ounces of fat withdrawn from the deposits of the body in an hour would be an unusual amount and consumed only in hard muscular work.

Of course, contant exercise, either for profit or pleasure, will help to defend one against excess fat. And for those who are not engaged in work which involves such exercise, certain well-regulated systems may be beneficial, if ordered and supervised by a good doctor who knows his patient.

Such exercise in moderation, will materially aid in any fat-reducing program. But it will not serve as a substitute for proper diet, fresh air and sufficient sleep. This all means that in facing the problem of keeping the weight in balance more reliance must be placed upon diet than upon exercise. Still, the plain facts have to be faced, we lose when we do not eat and drink. We gain when we eat and drink beyond the current requirement. The obstacle to ready regulation is the appetite. It is hard to eat less than we want; it is perhaps harder yet to eat more. The strategy of building up or reducing the body must consist largely in hoodwinking the appetite. To go counter to it may be good discipline, but discomfort beyond a certain degree tends to make one both inefficient and difficult to live with.

Water

Water is the principal compound in the diet and in the makeup of the body. Restriction of water intake is frequently recommended to those who wish to reduce. The virtue in this denial probably lies in the unconscious tendency to eat less when water is withheld. A dry meal has to be eaten deliberately, and Mr. Fletcher showed long ago that prolonged mastication helps to make a smaller ration adequate to satisfy the appetite.

Protein

Next to water the substances most abundant in the body are proteins. These are the chief solids in muscles and glands. The selection of a diet rich in protein has long been advised as a measure for reducing. The processes of decomposition and wasting are definitely hastened throughout the body under the stimulating influence of a high protein ration.

Carbohydrates and Fats

The leading place in all ordinary diets (after water) is held by the carbohydrates,—starches and sugars. These are never accumulated as such in the body beyond a few ounces. We eat them in generous amounts and burn them in similar quantities to meet the current calls for heat-production and muscular work. If the supply exceeds the requirement we change the surplus to fat and store it.

Fat which we eat may also go on deposit though not until it has undergone some modification. When the income falls short of the need for any length of time the stored fat of the system is sacrificed.

Bulk

One of the most reasonable methods for diminishing the income of the body without excessive hardship is to choose an unusually bulky diet. By making the largest use of fruits and coarse vegetables the aching void may be filled even while the resulting contribution of nutrients to the blood is less than has been the rule. Physiologists make a distinction between hunger and appetite. Hunger is a crude physical discomfort, a recurrent gnawing distress, which we presumably experience in common with the lower animals. Anything that is tolerated by the stomach may annul hunger. Appetite is on a much higher psychological plane; it involves memories and conceptions of favorite foods. A diet chosen for its bulk should, therefore, quiet hunger though appetite may have to remain unappeased.

Do not cut out any one of the food elements, although it may be advisable to cut down the portions to the minimum limit. This is especially true of sugars, fats and starches.

The usual danger in weight reducing diets is in following a too narrow list. It is the amount of [illegible] which counts unfavorably [illegible] and not a variety.

A well balanced [illegible] the following: [illegible] once a day is [illegible]

bulky food (vegetables), some raw foods (greens), some cereal, some fruit and some milk each day. This variety is absolutely essential to health.

HOLY ROSARY CHURCH OPENS NEW PAROCHIAL HIGH SCHOOL

Is Final Unit in Making School Complete From Primary Grades to Senior High School

In a handsome, new, modernly-equipped building which faces Berkley road, just south of East Main street and back of the Holy Rosary grade school building in Seymour avenue, the Holy Rosary Catholic church has added a final unit to its educational facilities in a four-year senior school, the first in the history of this parochial school.

The high school which opened last week, is accommodating 140 students, 67 of whom are freshmen, according to Rev. Father J. J. Murphy, pastor of Holy Rosary church and head of the school. The course which it offers is a college preparatory, academic course with classes organized, also, in shorthand and typing but with no separate commercial course. Courses have been provided, also, in home economics and in music.

Built primarily for Holy Rosary parish, children from other parishes also have been enrolled in the classes. Of the freshman class, 32 are members of the Holy Rosary parish and 35 are from others.

Four Sisters of St. Francis and five lay teachers compose the faculty of the new high school.

With the completion and opening of the new building, the Holy Rosary school now includes all grades from primary to four-year senior high school.

Begun just a year ago, the building was in entire readiness for the opening of the parochial schools last week. The plan of the building divides it by a long corridor running east and west on each of the two floors and the basement. Class rooms line this corridor along the north side. The entire south half of the structure is a combination auditorium and gymnasium, approximately two stories in height but because its main floor is lower than the main floor of the corridor and class rooms, windows from the second floor corridor overlook its roof.

The auditorium-gymnasium is the most distinctive feature of the building. A broad stage which communicates with basement and first and second floors, equips it for use for school functions and entertainments, and, as well, for parish gatherings and social affairs. The floor of the room will seat several hundred persons and is of ample size for adaptation as a regulation-sized basketball floor.

Shower and locker rooms in the basement are in close connection with the gymnasium.

Four class rooms are provided on the first floor, and a similar number on the second, all of them large and airy with almost the entire north side consisting of windows. The walls throughout the building are sand finished plaster. Class room floors are of wood while those in the corridors are terrazo and a terrazo wainscoting has been used for the corridor walls.

A large dining room and kitchen are provided in the basement of the building. All floors are provided with toilets and offices for members of the faculty.

Coach Beck, who will have charge of physical education and athletics, already has begun his work with football material. For the basketball season, the new gymnasium has given added impetus to the interest among both boys and girls. Miss Mary Dillon will have this phase of the school routine under her direction.

Book Notes

Among the recent books being added to the Bexley Public Library this week is "The Grandmothers", the winner of the Harper prize novel contest, 1927-28. The author, Glenway Westcott, is a descendant of one of the Wisconsin pioneer families, and in his novel makes one understand the hopes and aspirations, as well as the disappointments of such a family.

The treatment of the story is unusual. It is not told in an impersonal way, but is unfolded gradually as a series of portraits. The characters are seen through the eyes of Alwyn Tower, to whom, as a small boy, they have become familiar through his grandmother's album, and her stories about them.

The Wisconsin farm is described as it was in his boyhood, and it is related how he pondered over the things he was told:—about the shack which preceded the house in which he was born:—how he tried to imagine his grandmother as she would have looked in those days.

As a young writer, Alwyn surprises his European friends by his knowledge of all that had happened to those pioneer relatives. He seemed to know them better than a contemporary would, for he knew all their secrets as well as their ambitions.

The portraits in the book are blended together as a picture of American life. Burton Rascoe in the Bookman says it is a "novel not only with its roots in the American soil, but it is a novel of those roots and of that soil." He compares its appearance in importance to the time when "The Spoon River Anthology" and "Winesburg, Ohio" first appeared.

MRS. BILBY IS NEW LIBRARIAN IN BEXLEY

Mrs. Sarah H. Bilby, formerly cataloguer with the Ohio state library, has assumed her duties as librarian of the Bexley library in the Bexley high school building.

The assistant librarian is Miss Ruth Garbisch who held that position last year also. Miss Garbisch was graduated from Capitol university in June and has spent the summer months touring Europe.

The library has filled an important place in the community this summer, according to Miss Ruth Doescher who has been in charge. One hundred books a day has been the average circulation, she said, with the patrons comprising about an equal amount of children and adults. Circulation records show that the greater demand has been for fiction.

Miss Doescher will return to her studies as a senior at Capitol university.

Shetler Named President

Lieut. Col. John S. Shetler, 2414 Sherwood Road, is the new president of the Thirty-Seventh Division Veterans' association.

Mr. Jack Huntington, the son of Mr. and Mrs. D. Gwynne Huntington, 292 Columbia avenue, will leave Monday for Exeter, N. H., where he will attend Exeter academy this year. Mr. and Mrs. Huntington's daughters, Miss Ann and Miss Solace, will spend the winter at home.

APPOINT COMMITTEES AND SET DATE FOR FESTIVAL

Merchants Start Work on Plans To Make Annual Affair Big Success

STREET AND STORE PARTY

Announcement of Wednesday, October 19, as the date for the fall festival at Miller avenue and East Main street, and appointment of committees which will arrange details for the festival, were made this week.

The festival will be a street and store party in East Main street between Loeffler avenue and Kelton avenue, to which the public is invited. In case of unfavorable weather on the evening of Wednesday, Oct. 19, it will be held Thursday evening October 20, it was said by members of the general committee in charge.

Nine business men in the vicinity of the festival site have been named to serve on committees, by Gordon A. Brawley, executive chairman. On the general committee which will arrange the decorations of the street, are Fred Heiser, Harry McCann, and E. J. Wittenmeier. In charge of amusements are B. C. Nafzger, James A. McClure, and Ralph Stygler. Stygler also will act as treasurer of the festival. Members of the publicity committee are Ray Fischer, Walter Stotz, and A. O. Harris.

The city will be asked to block off from all traffic except street cars, the two blocks from Loeffler to Kelton avenues, for the three hours of the festival from 7 p. m. to 10 p. m.

A prize hunt is to be a feature of the affair. As last year, all the business establishments participating in the festival will present several prizes, and a number of them are planning special souvenirs.

Services of a band are to be secured and it is probable that a portion of the street may be roped for dancing, according to members of the general committee.

This will be the second annual fall festival at Miller and Main, and it is expected that it will attract a crowd even larger than last year, when it was estimated that between 8,000 and 10,000 attended.

SOPHS WILL BATTLE FROSH TODAY IN ANNUAL SACK RACE

The annual sack race, or class fight of Capital university will be held at 5 o'clock, Friday afternoon on the Bexley High athletic field, and at that time freshmen at the Lutheran institution will confront the sophomores for class supremacy.

It will be the first campus event of the year, and it is expected that the entire student body will turn out to cheer the under-classmen in their battle.

Edwin Haverman will lead the sophomores, and Paul Zekany will lead the freshmen. Seven sacks will be placed in the center of the field and victory will go to the class which carries four over the line in 10 minutes.

Sunday School Class Elects Officers

Mrs. Louise Childress was elected president of the Swastika Sunday School class of the Oakwood M. E. church, when the class held its meeting Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Ruth Schuler, 909 Oakwood avenue.

Other officers elected for the coming year were: Miss Frances Davis, vice-president; Mrs. Beatrice Shepard, secretary; and Miss Mildred Gilbert, treasurer.

Following the business session, the meeting resolved itself into a social hour. Members brought gifts for a Christmas box to be sent to Miss Anna Ashbrook, in India, who is the church missionary.

The meetings of the class will be held on the evening of the third Monday in each month for the remainder of the year.

Accident Leaves Village In Dark

One car was badly wrecked, three others received slight damages, and the streets of Bexley were enveloped in darkness for a short time last Saturday night about 9 o'clock, as the results of a traffic accident on E. Main street near College avenue.

Lewis Klingbeil, son of Otto Klingbeil, 2274 Astor avenue, crashed into a light pole after sideswiping three other cars, when he turned into the left side of the street to get out of the path of an approaching street car, according to the police report.

His automobile struck a roadster driven by Roy L. Pierce of Haydenville; a touring car driven by Bernard Roeser, 972 Euclaire avenue; and a sedan driven by Walter F. Herr, 2191 Bryden road, police said.

Klingbeil was injured and was taken to Grant hospital but was able to return Sunday evening to Fostoria where he is employed.

One circuit of lights in Bexley streets remained dark all night but were repaired Sunday.

"Bob" Mees Will Carry Purse For Sophomores

SCHOOL ENROLLMENT SHOWS 21 PER CENT INCREASE THIS WEEK

A 21 per cent increase in enrollment, over that for the same time last year, was shown the second week of the operation of the Bexley schools in the new fall term, it was announced by Superintendent H. C. Deiterich.

By the second Monday of school the enrollment had mounted to 890, as compared with 736 for the second Monday last year. Sixty-two of the new pupils were enrolled in the first six grades; 40 in the seventh and eighth grades or Junior high school; and 52 in the Senior high school.

CAPITAL TEAM TO PLAY FOUR GAMES ON HOME FIELD

Cedarville Is First Opponent On September 30

For the approval and entertainment of football fans, Capital university will put on an unusually interesting menu in the shape of the football schedule for this fall.

Four of the seven contests will be played at home, with September 30, the date of the first game. For this date the Capital team will meet the eleven from Cedarville on the home field.

The schedule of games includes contests with four Ohio Conference foes and these are expected to be especially interesting since Capital is just entering that association of teams. Capital will meet the teams from Muskingum, Marietta, Hiram and Otterbein.

Pending the completion of the new athletic field at the university, Coach Katherman has been given permission to hold his gridiron workouts on the Bexley High field.

The schedule of games appears above.

WINS "BEREA BOOTS"

Milton ("Dan") Sheatsley, who formerly starred in athletics at Bexley High school, and for the past two years has been cutting a wide swath in football and basketball at Capital, has been signally honored by the gift of the "Berea Boots", symbolic of the highest athletic ability at the Lutheran school. "Bill" Bernlohr wore the "Boots" last year and passed them on to "Dan". They are a pair of clumsy, cowhide shoes, purchased in the oil fields of Berea, Ohio several years ago by a Capital student working there. They were brought back by him and the present tradition has grown up around them. Sheatsley is center on the football eleven and guard on the basketball quintet, and will captain both sports this year.

Will Receive Bids On Street Lighting

Bids for the installation of street lights in Meadow Park avenue, for a distance of approximately 700 feet north of East Broad street, will be received September 26, it has been announced from the Bexley municipal office.

Three assessments have been announced also by the assessing board. They are for Westland avenue and Park Hill drive, for Ruhl avenue from Cassingham road to the east corporation line, and for Remington road from Maryland avenue to Ruhl avenue. The assessments are on file for inspection and anyone interested, and any objections to them should be filed with Village Clerk S. W. Roderick within the time prescribed by law, it was announced.

EAST SIDE SCHOOLS ENROLL 4,500 FOR AUTUMN SEMESTER

All But Two Buildings Show Increased Attendance

Forty-five hundred children started back to school in seven east side school buildings when the Columbus public schools opened Monday, two weeks late because of precautionary measures against the spread of infantile paralysis.

At all but three buildings the enrollment showed an increase over the figures for the first week last year. But at Franklin Junior High school the number was the same this year as last, and at East Main street and Fair avenue schools, this year's first week enrollment failed to reach last year's.

The greatest increase in enrollment as east side buildings was reported at East High school where 942 registered the first week as compared to 850 for the first week last year. There were 63 more pupils this year at Livingston school than at the same time last year, but Principal E. E. Garwick said that 54 of these were enrolled in the new kindergarten which opened this year for the first time at Livingston.

A decrease of 35 in the enrollment at the Fair Avenue building, was explained by Miss Rose Hammond, principal, as being due largely to children being kept at home because of infantile paralysis. Miss Hammond predicted that the enrollment would return to normal within a few weeks.

Miss Ruby MacMahan, principal at the East Main Street school, said she thought it likely that the enrollment at that building would not reach last year's figures.

"I know of only two children who will come to East Main Street building, who are being kept out of school in fear of infantile paralysis," said Miss MacMahan. "I haven't been able to discover the cause of the decrease in our enrollment unless it is the growing business section within the school district."

East Main Street school's enrollment this week was 348 as against 420 for the first week last year. At Fair Avenue building the figure this year is 385 as against 420 for last year.

At Franklin Junior High school, it was said that an increase of 25 or more is expected when the students of that school who are quarantined at Fort Hayes, are permitted to return to their homes and to school.

The enrollment for all the east side schools, follows: East Main, 348 this year, 420 last year; Fair Avenue, 385 this year, 420 last year; Livingston Avenue, 538 this year, 475 last year; Ohio Avenue, 592 this year, ... last year; Franklin Junior High, 725 this year, 725 last year; Roosevelt Junior High, 981 this year, about the same last year; East High School, 943 this year, 850 last year.

Mrs. M. E. Murphy, 1462 Bryden road, was in Cincinnati this week to attend the wedding of her nephew, Mr. August M. Kruthaup, and Miss Margaret Tenbrick, which took place Tuesday at St. Philomene's church there.

Football Schedule of East High

Sept. 24: Portsmouth, at Portsmouth.
Oct. 1: Hamilton, at Hamilton.
Oct. 7: Aquinas, at home.
Oct. 21: South High, at South field.
Nov. 7: Central High, at Central field.
Nov. 14: West High, at Central field.
Thanksgiving: North High, at North field.

"FORMATIVE YEAR" ON EAST GRIDIRON SAYS COACH KARSH

Only One Veteran Is On Squad; To Play Stiff Schedule

Working with only one veteran varsity player among 35 candidates, Coach Robert H. Karch, of East High school, has designated this a formative year in East High school football annals.

Practice for the East eleven was started two weeks ago, but of approximately three dozen players who respond to the summons to the field, only Captain Burke has a background of a regular place on the varsity team. All other regular players from last year were lost to this year's squad by graduation.

The team will play its first game September 24, and its first contest at home will take place October 7. The absence of experienced players on the team, and a schedule of games in which the East siders will confront the four other public high schools in the city as well as Aquinas, gives the squad this year a difficult season to face.

Practice up to the present time has not made it possible to announce the names of candidates who are likely to make the first team, Coach Karch said.

The schedule of games is given above.

To Determine Church Policies At Meeting

The annual get-together meeting of the Washington Avenue United Brethren church, will be held at 7:30 o'clock in the evening of October 12. Members of the church and their friends are invited to attend.

A discussion of the policies of the different organizations within the church, will be held to determine the work for the coming year. A program for the meeting also is under arrangement by a special committee in charge.

Attorneys Are Honored

Attorney J. L. W. Henney, 2442 Brentwood road; Attorney General Edward C. Turner, 384 Linwood avenue; and Chief Justice Carrington T. Marshall, 1015 East Broad street, were the only Columbus attorneys named in a list of 12 Ohio lawyers, recently elected to honorary membership in the Mexican Order of Lawyers, the national bar association of that country.

The courtesy was extended to the Ohioans upon recommendation of a delegation of Mexican attorneys who attended the meeting of the Ohio Bar association last July. Henney is secretary of the Ohio association.

PASSAGE OF BUS FRANCHISE DISCUSSED BY ASSOCIATION

Suggest Asking Friends In City To Approve Issue At Polls In November

ADDRESSED BY SPEAKERS

The suggestion that residents of Bexley appeal to their friends in Columbus to vote in favor of granting a franchise for the operation of a bus line between the village and Columbus, was made at a discussion of the proposed bus line at the first meeting this fall of the Bexley Improvement Association.

The meeting was held in the Bexley High School auditorium, Monday evening, with approximately 200 persons in attendance. Presiding was Robert H. Jeffrey, president of the association.

In discussing the bus line question, the president expressed the opinion that the whole franchise situation was a "tempest in a teapot," and that he saw no reason why the people of Columbus would not see fit to grant to Bexley the same franchise that had been granted to Logan, Circleville and other cities.

Members of the association were addressed by Mayor S. E. Ludwig who, from the viewpoint of the municipal government, emphasized the appreciation by the government of the cooperation and support of the association.

Dr. Otto Mees discussed the bond issue for the proposed Bexley library building, explaining in detail the agreement between the board of trustees of the library and the board of trustees of the university.

"Capital university is seeking in no way, to gain control of the public library," said he.

"The university merely grants the lease on the site of the proposed building in order that the people of Bexley may have a splendid location for the building."

It was pointed out that the university does not ask even for a member of the library board, but that it would like permission to have a member of the faculty meet with the library board.

Allen Pretzman, a member of council, spoke briefly on projects now being given consideration by council. Superintendent of the Schools H. C. Deiterich discussed the aims of the public school system in the village, and ways in which schools, associations and the people of the village might cooperate to have the finest kind of schools.

Guild Will Hold Benefit Bake Sale

Members of the Bexley Guild of the Bexley Methodist Episcopal church, will don kitchen aprons and get out their favorite recipes for baked goods to prepare for the bake sale of the guild, which will be held at 2503 East Main street, on Saturday, Sept. 24th.

Will Lead Group At Camp Wildwood Meet

When officers, cabinet members and committee chairmen of the Y. W. C. A. Girl Reserve clubs go into session for their annual setting-up conference at Camp Wildwood over this weekend, Miss Mary Kauffman, 1251 East Main Street, and president of the club at East High school, will be one of those who will have role of leaders to play.

Miss Kauffman will lead the discussion group for service committee chairmen.

BEXLEY VISITOR IS QUARANTINED WITH PARALYSIS

That eighteen-year-old Mary Capuano, who is a victim of infantile paralysis at the home of her grandmother, Mrs. August Sapuano, 761 Pleasant Ridge avenue, has a chance of recovery was the report of her relatives Thursday.

Miss Capuno came from her home in Lancaster on Tuesday, to visit her grandmother. She had been slightly ill for about a week, according to health authorities who quarantined her early Wednesday morning. The disease had paralyzed one limb, it was said Thursday.

According to health authorities this is the only case of infantile paralysis in the east side and Bexley.

Girl Reserves Give Big Sister Party

Last year more than 90 girls belonged to the Girl Reserve organization, and the present membership is laying plans to increase that number this year to include all the girls in the high school.

All members of the cabinet will attend the annual setting up conference of Girl Reserve officers, cabinet members and committee chairmen which is to be held over this weekend at Camp Wildwood, the Columbus Y. W. C. A. camp. Several of the leaders of the Bexley group will play important parts in the conference program.

Dorothy Kelly is conference executive, in charge of all arrangements and sub-committees of the affair. Esther Landrum has charge of the conference poster exhibit, and Elizabeth Tracy is a member of the registration committee. Frances Ketner is chairman of the program committee for the meeting.

Miss Marion Thomas, Miss Ruth McCormick, and Miss Alice Brooks, who are the advisers of the Bexley group, also will attend the conference.

During the summer vacation, the cabinet members of the Bexley Girl Reserves, and the faculty advisers, spent several days at the Lancaster camp grounds outlining the program of activities for the coming year.

East Side Youth, Touring in Europe, Was Detained in Vienna

Detained in Vienna, by attending circumstances of the rioting there this summer, Jack Mayer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sol Mayer, 1204 Franklin avenue, experienced a vacation probably surpassing in excitement the vacations of any of his classmates at East High school.

Young Mayer who is a sophomore this year at East, accompanied an uncle and two cousins from the west, on a tour of Europe during the summer. They visited seven countries on the continent, and England, but it was in Vienna that they found the most intense excitement.

The party had been in the Austrian capital two days when the trouble started following a parade of Socialists, young Mayer said.

"We were at breakfast at the Imperial hotel, sitting at tables placed on the sidewalk in front of the hotel, when the parade passed us marching toward the palace," Jack related. "To me they seemed of very low type intelligence. There were young men and old men and women and children in the crowd."

As the parade passed the party of Americans entertained not the slightest thought that in a short time the members of that crowd would be terrorizing the city, preventing all arrivals and departures, and restricting severely the sight-seeing of travelers.

"When the first word of the trouble reached the hotel, the manager called all the guests inside and locked the doors," said Jack.

"For as long as the trouble lasted the blinds at the windows were drawn, only a few dim lights were permitted at night, and every precaution was taken to make it appear that the place was closed. It seems that several years ago during a similar outbreak in the city, the mob entered the hotel and caused considerable damage, and the management wanted to avoid a second occurrence of such a thing.

"Trains, taxis, and airplane lines were stopped, and it was impossible to leave Vienna in accordance with our plans. My uncle appealed to the chief of police and was told that we could have a car, guarded by a policeman on either running board, to take us to the city limits. But the chief warned us that he could not promise that no shots would be fired at us en route. So we gave up that plan.

"I saw young men who were members of the mob, station themselves before the opera in one of the principal streets, and stop any automobile which came along. They would order the occupants to get out and then they would take the cars for their own use. Of course, not many people cared to risk their cars that way, so they stayed off the streets.

After a delay of several days their party, together with other travelers who desired to leave the city, were able to secure the services of a large sight-seeing bus to carry them to the German border.

It was in Switzerland that he enjoyed most of all the countries which he visited, Jack said. It was here that he experienced the thrill of taking the Grand Alpine tour when the weather was so cold and the snow so heavy that he said not even the oldest inhabitant could remember anything that equalled it for that time of the year.

"We drove down the mountain, through Furka Pass, in a snow storm so severe that it was imposible to keep the windshield clear enough to see where we were going. The chauffeur leaned out on one side and the guide on the other and kept the car on the road by calling 'Right, left' to each other as we rounded dangerous curves and passed through narrow places with sheer drops on one side or the other."

Several trips from city to city were made by airplane.

"From Berlin to Frankfort we traveled by airplane, in a six-seated passenger plane which averaged 80 miles an hour on the trip," said Jack. "The compartment for passengers was very comportable. There was an aisle through the center with three wicker chairs on either side of it. The windows were large so that we could see everything over which we passed, and the compartment had enough height so that a man could walk entirely upright.

"The air passenger service is quite well developed in Europe. In fact, the percentages of accidents in the air is no so great as that on the railroads."

Young Mayer said he found the attitude of Europeans toward Americans very fine. Nearly all the big hotels in the cities where they stopped, displayed the American flag he said.

During the visit to Paris, the party was taken through the great sewer system of the city, which Jack said he found very interesting.

"It is like a big stone hall," he explained. "A ditch in the center carries the sewage. Every house in Paris can be entered from the sewer system. All the streets and even the house numbers are marked along the walls of the network of halls, just as they are marked on the streets above the ground."

The youth said that he and his cousins were greatly impressed by their visit to The Hague, also.

Their itinerary included France, Switzerland, Italy, Austria, Germany, Belgium, Holland and England. Both trips across the Atlantic were made aboard the Leviathan. The tour consumed three months.

BEXLEY WINS FIRST GAME OF SCHEDULE FROM GAHANNA LADS

With almost an entirely new team representing her, Bexley High triumphed over Gahanna last Friday by a score of 7-0 in a somewhat interesting game played on Gahanna's new field. The first game of the season was played under a very warm sun, which necessitated the cutting of the playing time to eight minute quarters.

The opening lineup found Hirsch, Palmer, Zuzer and Moyer in the backfield, Marsh and Davis at ends, Woodward and Seibert at tackles, Diehl and Beggs at the guard positions, and Taber at center.

In the third quarter, the only touchdown of the game was chalked up for Bexley on an off-tackle drive by Palmer. Marsh kicked goal.

Late in the last quarter, with several subs in the Bexley line, Gahanna succeeded in pushing the ball dangerously near Bexley's goal. A Gahanna back skirted right end for thirteen yards but was thrown out of bounds on Bexley's four yard line just as the final whistle blew.

Bexley excelled in every department of the game, registering eleven first downs to Gahanna's four. No injuries were reported on either team. Janes of North High referred.

Bring Your Friends

The fall festival, planned by the East Side business men in the vicinity of Miller avenue and East Main street for one evening the week of October .., is an opportunity to broadcast to the entire city the commercial importance and future possibilities of the district.

Residents of this section are well aware of the advantages that are theirs in living in the community. They know that the East Side residence district is a good place to live, that the East Side business district is a good place to buy. This is a chance to point out the reasons for this to other sections of the city.

The merchants and the business establishments in the two blocks where the festival will be held, will give generously of their time and efforts to arrange the details of the festival. But each man and woman living in the East Side should consider himself and herself as an assisting host or hostess for the affair.

Last year thousands of persons attended the first annual festival. This year there ought to be those same thousands and more. Whatever the distance from which the crowds come, so far will they spread the word of the growth and development in the East Side.

It is a community duty to make the festival an outstanding success. Set aside the date and plan to bring your friends.

A New Library

The need for enlarging the facilities and equipment of a public library, is significant of an increasing interest in the finer things of life. To read widely is to broaden one's understanding and sympathies. Where there is a demand for such books as a properly supervised library offers to its patrons, there is promise of better citizenship.

Bexley has such a library, but its services are limited by cramped quarters. The voters of the village will have an opportunity to make adequate provision for its development at the November election. They have been asked, by the board of trustees of the library, to approve plans for a new building and increased equipment.

Such a library building as the board proposes, would be a decided asset to the village. It would be an institution to be pointed to with pride. But more important, it would be an institution for the advancement of learning and for giving the people of the village an abundant storehouse of wholesome recreation and keen enjoyment.

In the light of the thriving business section of the village, and of the growing residential district, surely the bond issue for a new library building and equipment, should not fail to pass.

EATING TO GAIN WEIGHT

By PERCY G. STILES, Assistant Professof of Physiology, Harvard University.—(Courtesy of Modern Priscilla Magazine)

MRS. ELLA MAE IVES

In last week's issue of The Eastern Times, an article under the heading, "Eating To Lose Weight," introduced a special department to the paper's readers. The department will deal with subjects of particular interest to home makers, and material for it will be supplied by Mrs. Ella Mae Ives, from her book, "The Home Circle Dietitian."

The article this week, and the one last week, are from the pen of Percy G. Stiles, associate professor of physiology at Harvard university, and are included in the early part of Mrs. Ives' book.

It is probable that Mrs. Ives needs no introduction to many home makers of the East Side and Bexley, for she occupies a position of prominence in home economics activities in Columbus.

Mrs. Ives is the regular Tuesday speaker on home economics from the WAIU broadcasting station. She is director of "Cookery Question and Answers by Radio," for the Columbus Dispatch, and she is state director of home economics for the Child Conservation League. She also is county director of scientific temperance instruction in the schools of Columbus and in the County Parent-Teacher association, she is chairman of the committee for better films for children.

Besides being author and lecturer, Mrs. Ives is a housewife and mother with a knowledge of household and parent's problems gained from actual experience. She is a graduate of Miami university and a former instructor in home economics.

By permission of Mrs. Ives, the Eastern Times will publish each week an article taken from her book, "The Home Circle Dietitian," furnishing information and recipes to meet the culinary demands of the real homemaker.

This week's article, "Eating to Gain Weight," is a companian to last week's, "Eating to Lose Weight." Readers who missed last week's and who wish to file the two together for reference, may secure a copy at the office of The Eastern Times.

The general feeling of health and well-being is associated with what we call a normal weight. Yet here, we may as well concede that there are varying types of organisms and we should be cautious about imposing the standard of one upon another.

Increase of weight may be due to increase of food supply, to diminished drafts upon the resources of the body, or to both these factors in combination. But in the attempt to found our practice upon these principles we encounter once more the stumbling block of appetite. In this case it is the limit and not the excess which opposes us. Rest conserves the stores of the system but it also lessens the desire to eat. It often happens that activity rather than relaxation results in a final gain; the appetite more than keeps pace with the expenditure. Frequently this is true when the activity is that of an outing with change of scene and an attractive table. So important is the appetite that some individuals have actually achieved a gain as an indirect result of fasting. They have become so hungry that they have eaten more than enough to offset the effects of abstinence. This is the same result which often follows illness. The convalescent eats with unaccustomed avidity and attains to a weight-level higher than his former one.

It is evidently necessary for the over-weight man either to cheat or to discipline his appetite while the appetite of the undernourished subject must be cultivated and tempted.

One who is seeking to gain may properly indulge himself. He may consider what he would like best and have it when he is inclined. His only care must be that present gratification shall not prevent the prompt revival of appetite. He may make the most of variety and novelty in his diet. He may profit by numerous courses.

Occasional feasts do not count so much as the constant supplementing of the former diet by small, acceptable additions. Perseverance is essential. Those of us who have become overweight after years of indiscereal liberally, and double the aland delayed was the first response of the organism. It may be equally slow when one is merely seeking to reach the normal and not recklessly venturing to pass it.

The fat man should choose bulky food. The underweight person may utilize the concentrated articles, but only within limits lest he satiate the all-important appetite. He may spread his butter extra thick, sweeten his cereal liberally, and double the allowance of cream in his coffee. He may nibble candy and peanuts at odd times, frequent the soda fountain, take a glass of rich milk at bedtime —providing always that he does his system no harm and does not dull the desire for regular meals. He may eat oatmeal in preference to less nutritious modern substitutes.

Many thin people believe that it is constitutionally impossible for them to gain materially in weight. This is sometimes substantially true. There are certain subjects with over-active thyroids whose systems are so prodigal of the food-supply that accumulation is quite prevented. They are hearty eaters and give evidence of the rapid burning to which their food is devoted by the warmth and moisture of the skin. Contrasted with them we have the victims of enfeebled digestion whose life processes have been slowed in accordance with years of short rations and who cannot easily eat more. With such the body surface is pale and cool; the frugal organism is wasting no more heat than it can help.

Most people who are truly in good health can gain in weight if they will persevere in the attempt. Doctor Addison Gulick, of the University of Missouri, has recently recounted the details of such an enterprise. He had been regarded as a man who could not put on weight. But without changing the staples of his diet he contrived to gain about twenty pounds simply by eating larger portions than before and faithfully continuing the routine. This required many months of application.

Conditions which operate through the mental state often affect the bodyweight. It is reduced in seasons of anxiety and unhappiness. The main causes are not far to seek. Appetite and digestion are disturbed; as a natural result the intake is lowered. Restlessness and broken sleep may be experienced, involving a greater destruction of the reserves. Sometimes the thyroid, spurred to abnormal activity by the nervous system, exerts an influence which makes for waste. If we can bring hope and tranquility in place of disquiet, improved nutrition may reasonably be expected.

The two flower girls will be Marjorie Grau, niece of the bride-elect, and Mildred Keller, niece of Mr. Boehm. They will wear dainty frocks of orchid and peach georgette.

The couple will leave for a ten days' motor trip through the East, returning to make their home in Columbus.

WEDDING AT COUNTRY CLUB

Shades of pink, from a delicate blush tint to deep rose, were used in floral decorations and in the gowns of the bride and her attendants, to make an unusually attractive setting for the wedding of Miss Mary Belle Pumphrey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence H. Pumphrey, of the Broadwin apartments, 1812 East Broad street, to Mr. Frederick W. Prentiss, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanton G. Prentiss, 445 North Parkview avenue, which took place Saturday at the Columbus Country club, Big Walnut Cliffs.

In the lounge of the club, made beautiful by lighted candles in seven-branch holders amid ivory baskets of Columbia roses and gladioli before palms and southern smilax, the service was read by Rev. Dr. Samuel S. Palmer, pastor of the Broad Street Presbyterian church. The bridal party walked through an aisle marked by white ribbons and baskets of flowers.

The bride's gown was of pale pink transparent velvet combined with point Venice lace which formed the yoke and edged the long, tight sleeves. She wore a pink velvet picture hat and carried a bouquet of butterfly roses showered with swansonia. Her satin slippers matched her gown in hue.

Georgette in the different shades of pink, was used for the frocks of the maid of honor and bridesmaids. Each wore slippers and velvet picture hat to match her frock. Miss Vera Halliday was maid of honor, and the bridesmaids were Mrs. John H. Pumphrey, sister-in-law of the bride, and Mrs. George L. Gugle (Ann Cannon).

Attending the bridegroom as best man was his father, Mr. Stanton G. Prentiss, and the ushers were Mr. John H. Pumphrey, brother of the bride, and Mr. George L. Gugle, Jr., Miss Marion Prentiss, sister of the bridegroom, had the role of flower girl, wearing a pink crepe de chine frock trimmed with organdie and carrying a basket of pink roses and swansonia.

The gift of the bridegroom to the bride was a platinum pin with diamond and pearl settings. The young women of the wedding party were presented with jewelled pendants of Chinese art, by the bride. And Mr. Prentiss gave the men of the party silver knives.

Mr. and Mrs. Prentiss will return from their honeymoon on Saturday. They will make their home with Mr. Prentiss' parents at 445 North Parkview avenue.

Mrs. Prentiss is a graduate of Columbus School for Girls and of Dana Hall, Wellesley, Mass., and Mr. Prentiss attended Tome school, Port Deposit, Md.

Miss Priscilla Chase, who has been the house guest of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Stevens, 58 Meadow Park avenue, for the last two weeks will return to her home in Dallas, Texas, early next week.

Teachers In Schoolroom Papered With Newspapers; Pupils Are Children of Fishing Villeges

Living in the homes of people who never have seen automobiles, trains, and motion pictures; whose knowledge of the commonest vegetables and fruits of daily use in the United States, is gathered from advertisements in magazines left by missionary teachers; who still clothe themselves much as the early settlers in this country—this was the experience of Miss Elsa J. Fuge, 447 South Drexel avenue, who spent the summer as a missionary teacher among the families of fishermen in remote coast villages of Newfoundland.

Since her return Miss Fuge has been called upon repeatedly to relate some of the interesting incidents of the experience to her friends and relatives. She has prepared the following account of her summer:

By ELSA J. FUGE

Every summer there leave the United States nearly 100 men and women who are volunteer nurses, doctors, teachers, and other workers, bound for Newfoundland and Labrador in the interests of Grenfell Mission work. It is an adventure worth embarking upon, as the sun-browned travelers will tell you when they return from their stations in the autumn.

On June 22, I left Montreal for a glorious trip of four days down the St. Lawrence, my immediate destination being Corner Brook, Newfoundland. The beauties of the St. Lawrence itself, the picturesqueness of the French settlements, and the quaintness of the Canadian fishing villages, it is not my purpose to describe. After a "blowy" trip across the open waters of the gulf, we entered the protected bay of islands, and I was in Newfoundland.

If you see no more of Newfoundland than Corner Brook, Curling and Humbermouth, you may be disappointed in the island because of its similarity to our own western towns.

Corner Brook, as late as four years ago, was only a tiny handful of humble, box-like fishermen's houses scattered among the hills. But today it boasts of rows of smart villas and pretty cottages, a splendid bank, and customs building and post office combined, as well as the ostentatious Glynmill Inn, and several of the inevitable picture shows. The cause of this sudden growth is the huge paper and power plant whose great stackers are constantly at work piling up pyramid-shaped heaps of fir and spruce logs.

After several days of waiting to continue my journey up the coast to my station, I embarked on the government mail boat. This steamer makes countless calls along the coast at little outports, where motor boats and dories put off to bring in mail, freight and passengers.

Part way up the coast is Bonne Bay, a lovely branch of the sea. The wooded mountains coming down to meet the water on all sides rival the fiords of Norway. The Newfoundlanders do not advertise their scenery, and so even cosmopolitan Americans remain in ignorance of this enchanting land.

After leaving Bonne Bay, we called at coves bearing quaint names, such as Cow Head, Parson's Pond, Daniel's Harbor, and Port au Choix. My port of debarkation was St. John's Island, which we reached about three o'clock in the cold, cold dawn. I shivered alternately with terror and delight as I felt myself cautiously crawling down the ship's ladder, to seat myself on my luggage in the motor boat which had "come off" in answer to the steamer's whistle.

Soon I was clambering up a dock where huge piles of fresh and salted cod immediately made their presence felt through the olfactory nerve.

I shall not forget my entrance into the hospitable fisherman's home where I sat beside the cheerful fire in the kitchen range. In a few moments the fishes lads came trooping in for a bite of breakfast. After their shy greeting of "Good morning, Miss," I discovered that they, with the other fishermen of the island, had spent the night unloading a fishing vessel which had run on a rocky reef with her load of cod.

In the few days I spent on the island, I learned much about the charms and also the hardships of the fisher folks' lives. For four centuries the Newfoundlanders have depended on their one crop, cod, for a livelihood. And they find it hard to turn to the other opportunities which the land offers.

The price of dried cod changes constantly. A fair price is about $8 or $9 a quintal (112 pounds). But last year a quintal paid only $4. This year's catch is expected to bring $6.

The men go out to the traps at dawn, come home for breakfast, clean the morning's catch, work on the fish which are in the process of drying on the flakes, bait new lines, and perhaps make several more trips out to their fishing "grounds." The evening finds them out again in boats getting bait, such as the small caplin or squid.

During the busy season, the fisherman's hours of labor are from 2 or 3 o'clock.
in the morning until 10 or 11 o'clock at night.

All too soon, a calm day came and I left for my teaching post, Barr'd Harbor, a tiny cove on the mainland. I had heard that there was "great learnin'" over there, and it proved to be so.

My school house was a tiny store room plastered with newspapers, but it housed eight interesting personalities who were a delight to teach.

After school hours, miles of enchanting rocky shore invited me for rambles with hundreds of gulls and sand-pipers for companions. As a background the lovely dark green forests of spruce and fir were ideal, and farther back towered two mountains whose peaks were often covered by the fogs rolling in from the sea. At my feet wherever I walked were masses of wild flowers of gay colors. Newfoundland is, indeed, a paradise for botanists, fishermen, and lovers of nature.

So passed my seven weeks of living with the hospitable fisher folk who never had seen trains, horses, automobiles, or movies; who never had tasted much of what we think is essential food; who wore sealskin boots and many clothes of home manufacture; who sang long tragic sea ballads of haunting melody; and who through poverty have kept contented, cheerful, and plucky hearts.

Miss Frances Glenn, daughter of Mr. Charles C. Glenn, 653 Euclaire avenue, has entered Ohio Wesleyan university at Delaware, where she is a freshman. Miss Glenn was active in school affairs at Bexley High school last year. She was editor-in-chief of the school annual, senior representative on the student council, and an honor student.

Miss Mary Strapp daughter of Mrs. John Strapp, 1812 East Main street, has entered St. Joseph's Hospital for Nurses, at South Bend, Ind.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Janes, 33 South Ardmore road, are in Chicago for a two weeks' stay at the Edgewater Beach Hotel.

In Between Times

Found at last: One young woman, over in Norwich township, who has refused to allow a public career to interfere with her home duties. Miss Louise Pohlman has withdrawn as a candidate for justice of the peace because she is needed at home. But we strongly suspect that members of the younger set are going to shrug their shoulders and express the opinion that the young woman is simply trying to be different.

And now we understand that over in London, England, the ladies of fashion find it imperative to make about three visits a week, at the market value of $5 a visit, to the hairdresser to keep their bobs in order and properly curled. And we know any number of chancellors of private exchequers who are prepared to advocate disorderly tresses, regardless of their honest preferences, to keep the fashion from spreading across the Atlantic.

It is reported that Coach Katherman, at Capital university, is discouraged over the lack of backs on his football squad this fall, and a young girl friend of ours, who is as utterly innocent of the coarser points of the game as she is of the finer, wondered aloud if that was just another way of saying the players were a spineless lot.

Mr. and Mrs. John Weller Brown, 91 North Columbia avenue, are expected to return to their home the last of the month, from California, where they have been the guests of Rev. and Mrs. B. M. Hause.

Miss Elsie Zimmer is president of the alumni group. Other officers are Miss Ruth Wilkins, recording secretary; Miss Evelyn Creameans, corresponding secretary; and Miss Gladys Baughman, treasurer.

ELEVEN TRAFFIC LIGHTS WILL COME TO EAST SIDE

Will Be Ready To Operate In About Sixty Days, Is Expectation

THREE IN MAIN STREET

The East Side will share to the extent of 11 installations of new traffic control lights, in the city-wide plan of 58 new lights for the safety of school children going to and from the different school buildings.

Following the due process of law for installation, the lights probably will not be ready for use for about 60 days, it was said at the office of the director of public safety.

Three of the 11 lights which will be placed in the East Side, will be on East Main street. They will be installed at the intersections of Main and Ohio avenue, Main and Miller avenue, and Main and Eighteenth St. These three cross streets are used by crowds of school children attending various buildings.

South of East Main street, lights are to be placed at the intersections of Champion avenue and Livingston avenue, and of Ohio avenue and Fulton street. Two lights, also are to be installed at street intersections north of East Main street and south of E. Broad street. These will be placed where Wilson avenue crosses Oak street, and where Miller avenue crosses Bryden road.

Four of the new lights will appear in East Broad street, giving greater protection to East High school students, who must cross that heavily traveled thoroughfare. These will be placed at Broad street and Ohio avenue, at Broad street and Hague avenue, at Broad street and Franklin Park West, and at Broad street and Nelson road.

WORK STARTS ON NEW BUILDING AT DAWSON AND MAIN

Excavation was begun this week at the corner of East Main street and Dawson avenue for the $45,000 store and apartment building which will be erected there by the Galbreath and Leonard Construction company.

The brick dwelling which had occupied the front of the lot was moved to the rear, facing Dawson avenue.

Stone and stucco will be used in the construction of the new business building which will be similar in appearance to the structure nearing completion just across East Main street from the site of the new one. It will have three store rooms on the ground floor, facing East Main street and eight apartments on the second floor. The architecture of the building will follow old English design. It is expected to be completed in about three months.

The building at the corner of East Main street and Pleasant Ridge avenue, also a $45,000 structure, is to be ready for occupancy about November 1, according to members of the company.

Crippen Takes Williams' Place On Bexley Ballot

One name has been scratched and another inserted in its place on the Bexley election ticket for November. That of Langdon Williams, erstwhile candidate for council has been replaced by that of Charles L. Crippen, 248 South Cassingham road.

The reason for his withdrawal, Williams stated in a recent letter to the board of elections, was based upon comment that inconsistent public duties would be involved by his holding of two offices, that of councilman and also of assistant county prosecutor.

Williams' letter stated that this question had been investigated, prior to his acceptance of the nomination, and it was determined that he could hold, legally, both positions. But, he stated in the letter, since public sentiment had questioned his right to serve in both capacities, he chose to withdraw.

Teachers Welcome New Members With Reception

In honor of the new teachers in the Bexley public school the annual reception was given by the faculty in the gymnasium of the high school Thursday evening. Seventy guests were present, including members of the board of education and their wives.

A welcome to the new teachers was given by Superintendent H. C. Dieterich, and a response made by H. Easterwald, principal of the Junior high school in South Cassingham road. Miss Ruth C. Geist, who spent the summer touring in New Zealand and the islands of the South sea, spoke on "New Zealand."

Some of her experiences in the West Indies during the summer, were related by Miss Selma Hamann. Musical selections were given by Miss Genevieve Taylor and Miss Snyder.

Following the program there were stunts and a social hour. The program committee for the evening was composed of Miss Hazel Le Thelen (Mrs.) and Miss Mary Bethel

Opening of the Columbus Y. M. C. A. law school with the largest enrollment in its history, and increase of 20 per cent over that of last year, and of the Y. day school for boys with a doubling of last year's registration found a creditable representation from Bexley and the East side.

DR. MEES COMPLETES QUARTER CENTURY IN LUTHERAN MINISTRY

Has Been President Of Capital University, 15 Years

September marks the twenty-fifth anniversary of the entrance into the Lutheran ministry, of Dr. Otto Mees, president of Capital University. For fifteen of these years, or since 1912, he has been at Capital, the largest educational institution in the Evangelical Lutheran Joint Synod of Ohio.

Dr. Mees, is the son of the late Dr. Theophilus Mees, for many years a professor of mental science and theology at Capital, and was born in Columbus, February 15, 1879. His mother is a daughter of Rev. E. A. Brauer, formerly professor of theology at Concordia Lutheran Seminary at St. Louis, Missouri. His paternal grandfather, Rev. Konrad Mees, was for fifty years pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran church, Steven and Bruck streets.

President Mees received his early education in the Columbus Schools, spending three years in the normal school at Woodville, Ohio, where his father was president. In 1894, he entered Capital University, and graduated from the college in 1898, and the Seminary in 1901.

After his seminary graduation, he did not immediately enter the active ministry, but went to Europe, studied at Berlin and Leipzig in 1901-2 and traveled extensively, especially in Italy. While in Europe a call was extended him by the congregation at Coraopolis, Pennsylvania, which he accepted. During his pastorate of ten years, he built up a well-organized congregation which will never forget his untiring zeal and splendid success. Rev. Mees became active in Synodical affairs and was sent on eight or ten congregations extended calls to him but he remained at Coraopolis. In the fall of 1911, he was called to the presidency of Capital. He accepted and entered upon his new duties January 1, 1912, at the age of thirty-three, being one of the youngest college presidents in the United States. In his initial address at Christ Church, he struck the keynote which has characterized his whole administration—progressiveness. Energetic and zealous himself, he soon infused a spirit of progress into the life and activity of the University.

In the last few years Dr. Mees has had the pleasure of seeing Capital University make rapid strides forward, due largely to his efforts.

He has seen his well-laid and well-executed plans result in the launching of a $1,500,000 building program at the Lutheran school, the first result of which is shown in the recent erection of one of the finest girls' dormitories in the state, a beautiful music conservatory and auditorium, and a new and completely modern heating plant. During his stay at Capital the College Men's Dormitory was completely rebuilt, and the Schenck Divinity hall, one of the finest examples of its kind of architecture in the country, was erected.

The endowment has been increased to keep pace with the requirements of state educational associations, and today the credits of Capital university students are accepted anywhere. A new and thoroughly modern athletic field is under construction, and Capital is entering her first season as a member of the Ohio Conference. The "Fighting Lutherans," as the Capital athletes are called, typify the best in sportsmanship and that Capital Spirit which President Mees has defined as "a comprehensive vital force, which finds expression in the practical application of policies on a platform of Christian principle in which selfish purpose has no place."

Dr. Mees and his wife have four children: Elsa, who was graduated from Capital in 1926, and is teaching in the Lutheran School at Regina, Saskatchewan, Canada; Gertrude, who was graduated from Capital in 1927, Robert, now a Sophomore, and Ruth, attending Bexley High.

The Latin Club of Bexley High school is planning to open its year's activities with a first meeting next week. The program for the meeting, the date of which will be announced early in the week, will include a talk by Miss Caroline Sanford who was graduated in the class of 1926.

Miss Sanford spent the last year in Europe and will use "Rome" as her subject, giving experiences and observations gathered during a three months' visit in Italy.

There will be songs by Helen Wildermuth, Elizabeth and Eleanor Tracy. Miss Wildermuth will preside over the meeting. Election of officers for the year will be held.

WAGE SAFETY CAMPAIGN

A safety campaign in which school children will be asked to participate in different ways, is to be launched in the Bexley schools.

Before a meeting of the teachers of the schools, Superintendent H. C. Dieterich outlined the aims of the campaign and instructed the teachers to give frequent talks to the pupils on the dangers of automobile traffic. He urged the teachers to suggest to their pupils way to safeguard themselves against these dangers.

LONDON COMES TO BEXLEY TODAY FOR GRIDIRON BATTLE

Defeat of St. Mary's Give Two Victories To Bexley

One of the stiffest battles of its schedule is to be played by the Bexley high school football team when it meets the team from London High school this afternoon on Bexley's athletic field.

The Bexley High gridders continued on their way to another championship season by defeating St. Mary's, 50 to 0, on the same field last Friday. The keen edge of joy in the victory, however, was dulled by an injury to Gebhardt, Bexley center, who received a broken collar bone during the game.

Kilbourne, a sub, playing his first game for Bexley, was the most consistent ground gainer in the game. He gained 67 yards from scrimmage, as well as returning two kick-offs a total of 47 yards.

The first two touchdowns were taken from St. Mary's within the first four minutes of play. Moyer carried the ball on the first touchdown and the second one was scored by Palmer. Palmer drew a spectacular play for the third touchdown when he intercepted a pass and raced 60 yards, carrying the ball over the line.

Captain Hirsch scored two touchdowns in the second half of the game by twice intercepting passes and running 55 and 60 yards, respectively, to score. Hirsch scored a third touchdown on a 12-yard off-tackle run.

The other 12 points of the final score, were chalked up by Moyer who returned a punt 35 yards over St. Mary's goal, and Kilbourne who kicked through from St. Mary's 8-yd. line.

ORDER STREET REPAIRS

Two automatic safety highway gates will be installed in College avenue at the crossing of the Southern Ohio Public Service company, and a traffic light will take its place at College avenue and East Main street, as a result of action taken by the Bexley council at its regular meeting Tuesday evening.

Installation of the gates will be made by the Ohio Safety Gate company for purposes of experimentation and display, at no cost to the village of Bexley. The recommendation for the traffic light at College avenue and East Main street, was submitted by Councilman Samuel Bets. Motion to accept the recommendation was made by President of Council, R. J. Wheaton.

In response to a petition presented to council by residents in South Columbia avenue between Dale avenue and Bryden road, asking for the construction of sidewalks in Columbia avenue, legislation was ordered in for the next meeting of council, to provide sidewalks on both sides of this street from East Broad street to Bryden road.

The improvement of East Main street adjacent to and between the tracks of the Ohio Public Service company from Pleasant Ridge avenue to Remington road, was discussed by the council. Solicitor Harley E. Peters was instructed to notify the company to make repairs immediately.

Announcement was made that delivery of the new touring car, purchased recently by the village for the use of the police department, would be made the latter part of this week.

Bids were awarded for the construction of ornamental street lighting standards in Meadow Park avenue, to the Electric Power Equipment company, for $696.38. The standards will be placed north from Broad street for a distance of about 800 feet.

The village fathers listened at length to an appeal made by George G. Whitehead, 87 North Ardmore road, for the prevention of construction planned for a lot adjoining the home of E. P. Gotz, 30 North Ardmore road. The proposed construction, Whitehead said, would be in violation of the zoning ordinance, and would depreciate the value of surrounding property. No decisive action was taken by council, pending an attempt at amicable settlement by those persons directly interested in the matter.

Mayor Ludwig presided at the meeting. Roll call was answered by the following members: Clerk S. W. Roderick, Treasurer Joseph Stein, Marshal David Shadrack, Councilmen D. W. Kerr, Samuel Bets, O. C. Manly, R. J. Wheaton and F. H. Bennett.

GLEE CLUBS TO GIVE CONCERT; ORCHESTRA BAND START PRACTICE

A concert before the Christmas holidays is the goal towards which practice has been begun by the boys' and girls' Glee clubs of the Bexley High school.

Under the direction of Ellis Snyder director of vocal music, the three glee clubs are holding regular practice periods each week. There are two clubs of girls, one composed of freshmen and sophomores, and the other juniors and seniors. The boys' organization takes its membership from all four classes.

Each year these clubs give several concerts, and sing at other school and community affairs in the village. The concert to be given before the Christmas holidays will be the occasion of their first public appearance this year. But it is the plan to give a second such concert in the spring.

Work has begun also for the organization in the department of instrumental music under the direction of Harold Grimm.

The high school band which was formed for the first time last year, probably will be increased to a membership of 30 this year, it was said by Superintendent H. C. Dieterich. Last year it was composed of 20 pieces. For its members the school furnishes uniforms in the school colors of blue and white. Boys of the new junior high school in South Cassingham road, also will be eligible to belong to the band.

In the school orchestra there are 20 members. The services of this organization are called for frequently during the school year. Its members play for almost all school functions.

Corn Fields To The East, Small Farms To The South, When East Side Store Opened 25 Years Ago

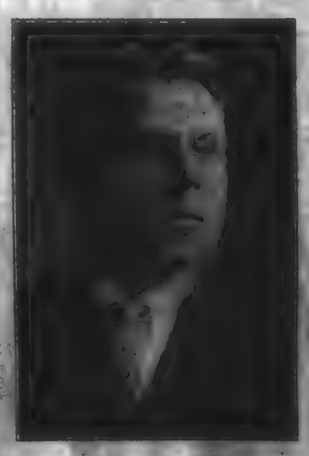
Veteran Merchant's First Job Paid $6.50 A Month

When early fall was the time to bring out the stock of winter underwear, the ankle-length, long-sleeved, fleece-lined union suits;

When calico was a best seller in the department of yard goods;

When petticoats contained yards of materials and were weighted with many ruffles;

When salaries were one-third of what they are today;



It was then that Harry McCann, veteran East Side merchant, first placed his name above the door of a little neighborhood dry goods store where he now conducts a much enlarged establishment in East Main street and Miller avenue.

That was 25 years ago. So it is just a quarter of a century that Mr. McCann has watched the changing face of the East side business section take on the appearance of a growing, thriving community center.

What changes there have been in that time, too, in the contents of the packages sold across his counters to the general public! What changes they bespeak in habits of living!

"Women made a great many more of their own clothes then," Mr. McCann said. "The yard goods department was probably the largest in the dry goods business.

"Men and women and children wore summer underwear and winter underwear. Now these things are the same the year round. The long-sleeved, ankle-length, heavy underwear is a thing of the past. There is practically none of it sold, yet 20 years ago in the early fall of each year we moved all the summer stock back into storage and piled the tables and shelves high with 'woolens.'

HARRY McCANN

"Petticoats used to be standard articles. There is hardly ever a call for one now. There was a big business in cotton stockings then. Silk ones were worn only in special occasions. But not now. There is almost no demand at all for cotton stockings now, and silk ones are the only one's the women will have.

"We used to sell between two and three thousand dollars worth of corsets each year. Now the annual sales in this department total only about $50.

"Umbrellas were in much greater demand in those days. If the sky was even a little cloudy no one started out without an umbrella. Now it takes a good hard rain to bring one into use. Why? I think the difference in the fashion has much to do with it. Women's hats then were [illegible] elaborately trimmed with ostrich plumes and flowers. Rain drops meant ruin to them. But the little felt hats today aren't phased by less than a thorough soaking."

In the early part of the century when Mr. McCann started his first store in East Main street, there were no sidewalks on the cross streets in the vicinity. There were corn fields only a little way to the east; small sized farms to the south and a great many vacant lots to the north and the west.

The stores remained open in the evenings and Saturday was the universal pay day, so that the store's business on that day was equal to that or three or four week days. Now, however, the sales are spread more evenly over the entire week.

Mr. McCann came to his East Main street location from 10 years experience with the old Green-Joyce company. He had started there at the age of 15, just out of grammar school. For the small compensation of $6.50 a month, he performed the duties of stock boy, but before he was 20 years old he had been promoted to the position of city salesman.

Twenty-five years of meeting men and women across the counter of his own store, he declared, has been a wonderful opportunity to know human nature. Undoubtedly it has been one of the most interesting factors in his business life.

Mr. McCann lives at 2116 Sherwood avenue with his wife and son, James. As for hobbies, his interest in his work has been so great that he has felt a need for little else. His radio, his home and his [illegible]

In Between Times

Found at last: One young woman, over in Norwich township, who has refused to allow a public career to interfere with her home duties. Miss Louise Pohlman has withdrawn as a candidate for justice of the peace because she is needed at home. But we strongly suspect that members of the younger set are going to shrug their shoulders and express the opinion that the young woman is simply trying to be different.

And now we understand that over in London, England, the ladies of fashion find it imperative to make about three visits a week, at the market value of $5 a visit, to the hairdresser to keep their bobs in order and properly curled. And we know any number of chancellors of private exchequers who are prepared to advocate disorderly tresses, regardless of their honest preferences, to keep the fashion from spreading across the Atlantic.

It is reported that Coach Katherman, at Capital university, is discouraged over the lack of backs on his football squad this fall, and a young girl friend of ours, who is as utterly innocent of the coarser points of the game as she is of the finer, wondered aloud if that was just another way of saying the players were a spineless lot.

Mr. and Mrs. John Weller Brown, 91 North Columbia avenue, are expected to return to their home the last of the month, from California, where they have been the guests of Rev. and Mrs. B. M. Hause.

Alumni Plan Party For Holiday Season

Fifty alumni were present at the meeting, the first to be held since last March. In the absence of the president, Miss Beatrice Weinfeld was chairman of the meeting. Another meeting will be held in November at which time definite plans for the banquet will be announced.

Miss Elsie Zimmer is president of the alumni group. Other officers are Miss Ruth Wilkins, recording secretary; Miss Evelyn Creameans, corresponding secretary; and Miss Gladys Baughman, treasurer.

ELEVEN TRAFFIC LIGHTS WILL COME TO EAST SIDE

Will Be Ready To Operate In About Sixty Days, Is Expectation

THREE IN MAIN STREET

The East Side will share to the extent of 11 installations of new traffic control lights, in the city-wide plan of 58 new lights for the safety of school children going to and from the different school buildings.

Following the due process of law for installation, the lights probably will not be ready for use for about 60 days, it was said at the office of the director of public safety.

Three of the 11 lights which will be placed in the East Side, will be on East Main street. They will be installed at the intersections of Main and Ohio avenue, Main and Miller avenue, and Main and Eighteenth St. These three cross streets are used by crowds of school children attending various buildings.

South of East Main street, lights are to be placed at the intersections of Champlin avenue and Livingston avenue, and of Ohio avenue and Fulton street. Two lights, also are to be installed at street intersections north of East Main street and south of E. Broad street. These will be placed where Wilson avenue crosses Oak street, and where Miller avenue crosses Bryden road.

Four of the new lights will appear in East Broad street, giving greater protection to East High school students who must cross that heavily traveled thoroughfare. These will be placed at Broad street and Ohio avenue, at Broad street and Hague avenue, at Broad street and Franklin Park West, and at Broad street and Nelson road.

WORK STARTS ON NEW BUILDING AT DAWSON AND MAIN

Excavation was begun this week at the corner of East Main street and Dawson avenue for the $45,000 store and apartment building which will be erected there by the Galbreath and Leonard Construction company.

The brick dwelling which had occupied the front of the lot was moved to the rear, facing Dawson avenue.

Stone and stucco will be used in the construction of the new business building which will be similar in appearance to the structure nearing completion just across East Main street from the site of the new one. It will have three store rooms on the ground floor, facing East Main street and eight apartments on the second floor. The architecture of the building will follow old English design. It is expected to be completed in about three months.

The building at the corner of East Main street and Pleasant Ridge avenue, also a $45,000 structure, is to be ready for occupancy about November 1, according to members of the company.

Crippen Takes Williams' Place On Bexley Ballot

One name has been scratched and another inserted in its place on the Bexley election ticket for November. That of Langdon Williams, erstwhile candidate for council has been replaced by that of Charles L. Crippen, 246 South Cassingham road.

The reason for his withdrawal, Williams stated in a recent letter to the board of elections, was based upon comment that inconsistent public duties would be involved by his holding of two offices, that of councilman and also of assistant county prosecutor.

Williams' letter stated that this question had been investigated, prior to his acceptance of the nomination, and it was determined that he could hold, legally, both positions. But it be stated in the letter, since public sentiment had questioned his right to serve in both capacities, he chose to withdraw.

Teachers Welcome New Members With Reception

In honor of the new teachers in the Bexley public school the annual reception was given by the faculty in the gymnasium of the high school Thursday evening. Seventy guests were present, including members of the board of education and their wives.

A welcome to the new teachers was given by Superintendent H. C. Dietrich, and a response made by H. J. Finsterwald, principal of the Junior High school, in South Cassingham road. Miss Ruth C. Geist, who spent the summer touring in New Zealand and the islands of the South sea, spoke on "New Zealand."

Some of her experiences in the West Indies during the summer, were related by Miss Selma Hamann. Musical selections were given by Miss Genevieve Taylor and Miss Snyder.

Following the program there were stunts and a social hour. The program committee for the evening was composed of Miss Social, Miss Thelma Bickey and Miss Mary Bethel.

This is the second year he has gone there for woodcock hunting.

Opening of the Columbus Y. M. C. A. law school with the largest enrollment in its history, and increase of 20 per cent over that of last year, and of the Y. day school for boys with a doubling of last year's registration found a creditable representation from Bexley and the East side.

DR. MEES COMPLETES QUARTER CENTURY IN LUTHERAN MINISTRY

Has Been President Of Capital University 15 Years

September marks the twenty-fifth anniversary of the entrance into the Lutheran ministry, of Dr. Otto Mees, president of Capital University. For fifteen of these years, or since 1913, he has been at Capital, the largest educational institution in the Evangelical Lutheran Joint Synod of Ohio.

Dr. Mees, is the son of the late Dr. Theophilus Mees, for many years a professor of mental science and theology at Capital, and was born in Columbus, February 1, 1879. His mother is a daughter of Rev. E. A. Brauer, formerly professor of theology at Concordia Lutheran Seminary at St. Louis, Missouri. His paternal grandfather, Rev. Konrad Mees, was for fifty years pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran church, Steven and Bruck streets.

President Mees received his early education in the Columbus Schools, spending three years at the normal school at Woodville, Ohio, where his father was president. In 1894, he entered Capital University, and graduated from the college in 1898, and the Seminary in 1901.

After his seminary graduation, he did not immediately enter the active ministry, but went to Europe, studied at Berlin and Leipzig in 1901-2 and traveled extensively, especially in Italy. While in Europe a call was extended him by the congregation at Coraopolis, Pennsylvania, which he accepted. During his pastorate of ten years, he built up a well-organized congregation which will never forget his untiring zeal and splendid success. Rev. Mees became active in Synodical affairs and when eight or ten congregations extended calls to him but he remained at Coraopolis.

He was finally called to the presidency of Capital. He accepted and entered upon his new duties January 1, 1913, at the age of thirty-three, being one of the youngest college presidents in the United States. In his initial address at Christ Church, he struck the keynote which has characterized his whole administration—progressiveness. Energetic and zealous himself, he soon infused a spirit of progress into the life and activity of the University.

In the last few years Dr. Mees has had the pleasure of seeing Capital University make rapid strides forward, due largely to his efforts.

He has seen his well-laid and well-executed plans result in the launching of a $1,500,000 building program at the Lutheran school, the first result of which is shown in the recent erection of one of the finest girls' dormitories in the state, a beautiful music conservatory and auditorium, and a new and completely modern heating plant. During his stay at Capital the College Men's Dormitory was completely rebuilt, and the Schenck Divinity hall, one of the finest examples of its kind of architecture in the country, was erected.

The endowment has been increased to keep pace with the requirements of state educational associations, and today the credits of Capital university students are accepted anywhere. A new and thoroughly modern athletic field is under construction, and Capital is entering her first season as a member of the Ohio Conference. The "Fighting Lutherans," as the Capital athletes are called, typify the best in sportsmanship and that Capital Spirit which President Mees has defined as "a comprehensive vital force, which finds expression in the practical application of policies on a platform of Christian principle in which selfish purpose has no place."

Dr. Mees and his wife have four children: Elsa, who was graduated from Capital in 1926, and is teaching in the Lutheran School at Regina, Saskatchewan, Canada; Gertrude, who was graduated from Capital in 1927, Robert, now a Sophomore, and Ruth, attending Bexley High.

WAGE SAFETY CAMPAIGN

A safety campaign in which school children will be asked to participate in different ways, is to be launched in the Bexley schools.

Before a meeting of the teachers of the schools, Superintendent H. C. Dietrich outlined the aims of the campaign and instructed the teachers to give frequent talks to the pupils on the dangers of automobile traffic. He urged the teachers to suggest to their pupils way to safeguard themselves against these dangers.

LONDON COMES TO BEXLEY TODAY FOR GRIDIRON BATTLE

Defeat of St. Mary's Give Two Victories To Bexley

One of the stiffest battles of its schedule is to be played by the Bexley high school football team when it meets the team from London High school this afternoon on Bexley's athletic field.

The Bexley High gridders continued on their way to another championship season by defeating St. Mary's, 50 to 0, on the same field last Friday. The keen edge of joy in the victory, however, was dulled by an injury to Gebhardt, Bexley center, who received a broken collar bone during the game.

Kilbourne, a sub, playing his first game for Bexley, was the most consistent ground gainer in the game. He gained 67 yards from scrimmage, as well as returning two kick-offs a total of 47 yards.

The first two touchdowns were taken from St. Mary's within the first four minutes of play. Moyer carried the ball on the first touchdown and the second one was scored by Palmer. Palmer drew a spectacular play for the third touchdown when he intercepted a pass and raced 60 yards, carrying the ball over the line.

Captain Hirsch scored two touchdowns in the second half of the game by twice intercepting passes and running 55 and 60 yards, respectively, to score. Hirsch scored a fourth touchdown on a 12-yard off-tackle run.

The other 12 points of the final score, were chalked up by Moyer who returned a punt 35 yards over St. Mary's goal, and Kilbourne who kicked through from St. Mary's 8-yd. line.

PROVIDE SAFETY GATES AND NEW TRAFFIC LIGHTS

Council Will Build Sidewalks In Columbia Avenue From Broad To Bryden

ORDER STREET REPAIRS

Two automatic safety highway gates will be installed in College avenue at the crossing of the Southern Ohio Public Service company, and a traffic light will take its place at College avenue and East Main street, as a result of action taken by the Bexley council at its regular meeting Tuesday evening.

Installation of the gates will be made by the Ohio Safety Gate company for purposes of experimentation and display, at no cost to the village of Bexley. The recommendation for the traffic light at College avenue and East Main street, was submitted by Councilman Samuel Betz. Motion to accept the recommendation was made by President of Council, R. J. Wheaton.

In response to a petition presented to council by residents in South Columbia avenue between Dale avenue and Bryden road, asking for the construction of sidewalks in Columbia avenue, legislation was ordered in for the next meeting of council, to provide sidewalks on both sides of this street from East Broad street to Bryden road.

The improvement of East Main street adjacent to and between the tracks of the Ohio Public Service company from Pleasant Ridge avenue to Remington road, was discussed by the council. Solicitor Harley E. Peters was instructed to notify the company to make repairs immediately.

Announcement was made that delivery of the new touring car, purchased recently by the village for the use of the police department, would be made the latter part of this week.

Bids were awarded for the construction of ornamental street lighting standards in Meadow Park avenue, to the Electric Power Equipment company, for $696.38. The standards will be placed north from Broad street for a distance of about 800 feet.

The village fathers listened at length to an appeal made by George G. Whitehead, 27 North Ardmore road, for the prevention of construction planned for a lot adjoining the home of E. P. Cott, 30 North Ardmore road. The proposed construction, Whitehead said, would be in violation of the zoning ordinance, and would depreciate the value of surrounding property. No decisive action was taken by council, pending an attempt at amicable settlement by those persons directly interested in the matter.

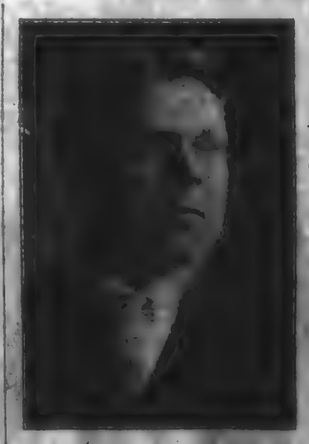
Mayor Ludwig presided at the meeting. Roll call was answered by the following members: Clerk S. W. Roderick, Treasurer Joseph Stein, Marshal David Shadrack, Councilmen D. W. Kerr, Samuel Betz, O. C. Manly, R. J. Wheaton and F. H. Bonnett.

GLEE CLUBS TO GIVE CONCERT; ORCHESTRA BAND START PRACTICE

A concert before the Christmas holidays is the goal towards which practice has been begun by the boys' and girls' Glee clubs of the Bexley High school.

Under the direction of Ellis Snyder Director of vocal music, the three glee clubs are holding regular practice periods each week. There are two clubs of girls, one composed of freshmen and sophomores, and the other juniors and seniors. The boys' organization takes its membership from all four classes.

Each year these clubs give several concerts, and sing at other school and community affairs in the village. The concert to be given before the Christmas holidays will be the occasion of their first public appearance this year. But it is the plan to give a second such concert in the spring.



Work has begun also for the organization in the department of instrumental music under the direction of Harold Grimm.

The high school band which was formed for the first time last year, probably will be increased to a membership of 30 this year, it was said by Superintendent H. C. Dietrich. Last year it was composed of 20 pieces. For its members the school furnishes uniforms in the school colors of blue and white. Boys of the new junior high school in South Cassingham road, also will be eligible to belong to the band.

In the school orchestra there are 20 members. The services of this organization are called for frequently during the school year. Its members play for almost all school functions.

Corn Fields To The East, Small Farms To The South, When East Side Store Opened 25 Years Ago

Veteran Merchant's First Job Paid $6.50 A Month

HARRY McCANN

When early fall was the time to bring out the stock of winter underwear, the ankle-length, long-sleeved, fleece-lined union suits;

When calico was a best seller in the department of yard goods;

When petticoats contained yards of materials and were weighted with many ruffles;

When salaries were one-third of what they are today;

It was then that Harry McCann, veteran East Side merchant, first placed his name above the door of a little neighborhood dry goods store where he now conducts a much enlarged establishment in East Main street and Miller avenue.

That was 25 years ago. So it is just a quarter of a century that Mr. McCann has watched the changing face of the East side business section take on the appearance of a growing, thriving community center.

What changes there have been in that time, too, in the contents of the packages sold across his counters to the general public! What changes they bespeak in habits of living!

"Women made a great many more of their own clothes then," Mr. McCann said. "The yard goods department was probably the largest in the dry goods business.

"Men and women and children wore summer underwear and winter underwear. Now these things are the same the year round. The long-sleeved, ankle-length, heavy underwear is a thing of the past. There is practically none of it sold, yet 20 years ago in the early fall of each year we moved all the summer stock back into storage and piled the tables and shelves high with 'woolens.'

"Petticoats used to be standard articles. There is hardly ever a call for one now. There was a big business in cotton stockings then. Silk ones were worn only in special occasions. But not now. There is almost no demand at all for cotton stockings now, and silk ones are the only one's the women will have.

"We used to sell between two and three thousand dollars worth of corsets each year. Now the annual sales in this department total only about $50.

"Umbrellas were in much greater demand in those days. If the sky was even a little cloudy no one started out without an umbrella. Now it takes a good hard rain to bring one into use. Why? I think the difference is fashion has much to do with it. Women's hats then were elaborately trimmed with ostrich plumes and flowers. Rain drops meant ruin to them. But the little felt hats today aren't phased by less than a thorough soaking."

In the early part of the century when Mr. McCann started his first store in East Main street, there were no sidewalks on the cross streets in the vicinity. There were corn fields only a little way to the east; small sized farms to the south and a great many vacant lots to the north and the west.

The stores remained open in the evenings and Saturday was the universal pay day, so that the store's business on that day was equal to that or three or four week days. Now, however, the sales are spread more evenly over the entire week.

Mr. McCann came to his East Main street location from 10 years experience with the old Green-Joyce company. He had started there at the age of 15, just out of grammar school. For the small compensation of $6.50 a month, he performed the duties of stock boy, but before he was 20 years old he had been promoted to the position of city salesman.

Twenty-five years of meeting men and women across the counter of his own store, he declared, has been a wonderful opportunity to know human nature. Undoubtedly it has been one of the most interesting factors in his business life.

Mr. McCann lives at 2418 Sherwood avenue with his wife and son, James. As for hobbies, his interest in his work has been so great that he has felt a need for little else. His radio, his home, and his pretty lawn are the things that [illegible]

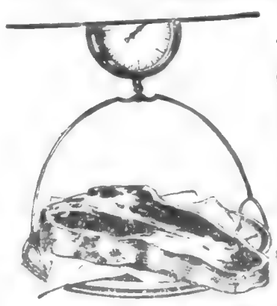
LIGHTS TO THE RESCUE

In both the East Side and Bexley, this week has brought legislation for the protection of school children by the control of traffic through installation of signal lights at busy street intersections. It is action for which parents and teachers, and the children themselves, are grateful. It lessens the dangers, but it doesn't eliminate them. Caution must still be instilled into boys and girls by repeated warnings against and explanations of these dangers.



The vigilance must not be lessened. The lights will be a great aid in maintaining that vigilance. But children and motorists must bear in mind that at every corner, lurks danger, whether or not there blinks a warning light overhead.

It will be some time before the lights can be installed and made ready for operation. In the meantime, let children and drivers of automobiles be forming habits of safety as they go about the streets. The best protection is the habit of safety, deep-rooted in the individual. Without it all the provision of traffic control devices by council, and all the guarding of school zones by the police departments, will not avail to save children from harm.

In Between Times

Rev. Dr. Walter Scott Priest's record of 2130 couples united in marriage and only one, to his knowledge, separated by divorce, arouses a curiosity to know just what kind of a knot he used in making his tie-ups. And even if he weren't already retired from active tying, we doubt if he'd have so much to do these days as the young folks don't really seem to want permanency in their knots.

It's usually pretty effective to beat a fellow at his own game, and we wonder if it wouldn't have worked perfectly to put a stop to those four boys out near Dublin playing ghost if they'd met another white-sheeted figure or two wandering about in their haunt one of those dark nights when they were entertaining themselves by making the people of the vicinity believe a certain road barbecue was haunted.

Our opinion about that fish story out of Delaware about a two-pound carp being found one day swimming in the watering trough in front of the court house, is that that carp has probably had plenty of time to grow to two-pound size since the last horse used that trough, and probably the folks up there might be able to find a good-sized old turtle, too, if they'd look again.

Not so many years ago it was a great honor to be allowed to stay after school with "teacher" at the red schoolhouse and erase the blackboards and clean the erasers and sweep the floors for her, sometimes until after dark, but we'll bet at that crossroads school down near Lancaster where the physiology classes are using a real skeleton dug out of a nearby gravel bank, that even the big boys will find plenty of excellent reasons why they should hurry home long before dark when the short winter days come.

We watched a veteran Ford driver taking a lesson on a gear-shift car the other day, and if he's typical of all of them, we are afraid there's likely to be an epidemic of bitten tongues when the new model of that popular make car, as the news columns generally speak of it, finally makes its appearance,—if ever.

Book Notes

Editor's Note: The following review of Susan Ertz' latest book, "Now East, Now West," has been prepared by Miss Ruth C. Garbisch, assistant librarian of the Bexley Public library. The novel, which is enjoying the popularity of previous volumes from this author's pen, recently was placed on the shelves of the Bexley library.

By Ruth C. Garbisch

Althea Goodall craves and deliciously enjoys novelty and social ambition. She sits back with an easy contemplative air, closing her eyes to the dull commonplace monotonies of life. A feeling of forgetfulness is transmitted through her entire being, as she sits picturing herself, a magnetic figure in the center of a sparkling panorama, with a background such as the city of London alone can offer. New York city with its endless throb of love, hate, pleasure and passion has ceased to stir her emotions. George Goodall, her husband, with a sweeping sense of understanding, realizes that he is only a means to an end.

Miss Ertz effectively depicts this American couple in an English environment. The world has acquired a new glamour and a flash of color has broken in upon the life of Althea Goodall. To her, life is but one escape after another, only to discover new and charming situations, while her husband dreamily passes through all of them.

The author's style is the personification of simplicity. Her words have strength, color and a powerful grasp of sympathy and understanding. Each sentence aids in the production of a finely finished picture. Althea and George Goodall are only an example of the many persons with whom we meet in our every day "humdrum" of life. Miss Ertz has only transplanted them into this charming bit of fiction. The author's delicate sense of humor is only paralleled by her keen polished wit, causing the reader to chuckle with satisfaction.

"Madame Claire", the first successful novel by Miss Ertz brought unusual praise and an enthusiastic public. "Afternoon" was published shortly after "Madame Claire," and it is needless to describe its popularity. With the publication of "Now East, Now West" we can only say that Miss Ertz has crowned her literary career.

The Eversole Guild of the Wilson Avenue Church of Christ served a "jitney" supper at the church Wednesday evening.

"Abraham Lincoln" To Be Presented

A cast of 14 persons will present "Abraham Lincoln," written by John Drinkwater, in the Bexley High school auditorium at 8:15 o'clock Friday evening, October 7.

The play, with the cast which will present it on the Bexley High School stage, is one of the important attractions of the Redpath Lecture bureau. Its coming to Bexley is under the auspices of the Girl Reserves of the high school, and tickets for the event will be in the hands of members of this group.

Church Will Celebrate Anniversary Service

The morning service Sunday at the First English Lutheran church, East Main street and Twenty-second street, will be in the nature of an anniversary service marking the end of the first year of Rev. Mr. Lewis as Speaker's pastorate.

An attempt is being made to bring together at that time all members who have joined in the last year, of whom there are about 100, and the front pews of the church will be reserved for them. All members are urged to be in attendance.

Special music is being arranged by the junior and senior choirs of the church, and also by soloists.

Flute Club To Offer Unusual Try-out Plan

Would-be flutists are to be given an opportunity to determine their adaptability as students of the flute by a plan of the Columbus Flute club to popularize this musical instrument.

Miss Evalyn Parker, 521 Bulen avenue, will have charge of tryouts on the East Side under the plan sponsored by the club. The tryouts are to be held within the next two months.

"Girls as well as boys are taking up the flute, and find it in demand in the school orchestras," said Miss Parker. "The flute is an ideal instrument for the child or adult. The field is not crowded and with diligent practice surprising results may be obtained in a very short time.

"The plan of the try-outs sponsored by the Columbus Flute club will save the pupil the initial cost of an instrument, should he not care to continue."

GROWING STURDY SCHOOL CHILDREN

By Ella Mae Ives

Children can be no healthier than their food will allow them to be! Every separate food element is a brick with which they build and a perfect structure will not result if any are left out. Therefore the mother's most important duty is to see that her children have the right food, served appetizingly under pleasant conditions, and at proper intervals.

School children have several things to combat. One of these is time. Their food at breakfast must be nourishing enough to keep them from getting hungry before noon time, and it must not be so heavy that they will be sleepy all morning. If necessary children must arise a half hour earlier so that they have plenty of time to eat breakfast. Once let children get into the habit of starting off breakfastless and very soon they will complain that they can't eat in the morning — that food nauseates them. This is all habit and one must insist on breakfast until they come to naturally demand food.

Breakfast Should Be Simple

Breakfast should be a simple meal. Pancakes are a doubtful choice where children are concerned, because they are likely to be eaten hastily, poorly masticated and require too much energy in digestion. It is better to serve warm home cooked cereals.

Children often complain that oatmeal, cracked wheat, rice or cream of wheat served morning after morning, become tiresome. Cooking raisins, prunes, dates or apples with the cereal provides the element of variety and adds to the food value.

Fruit should appear at least twice a day in everyone's diet list, especially the children's. Fruit is a wonderful appetizer for it makes you want to keep on eating. It is helpful to remember this when your children have poor appetites. Let them have a harmless "cocktail" of cut up oranges, pineapple and grape fruit slightly sweetened, fifteen minutes before a meal.

If school children object to plain milk they may drink cocoa made with all milk.

Should Drink Milk

Milk should be served to children at every meal. If a child does not care to drink raw milk it should be prepared in some manner to tempt the appetite. Milk is the basis for many soups, for cocoa and for chocolate, and is in many desserts, as custards, junket, gelatin dishes and puddings. When vegetables are served, cream or white sauce (which is made with milk), should be added. The calcium salts found in milk are of great value to the child. Children really ought to be taught to like milk, however, and unless, as is true in very rare cases, plain milk makes them sick, their whims need not be humored; alternate milk with cocoa.

Whole wheat, rye, or graham bread, either plain or toasted, gives added mineral material necessary in the building of a strong, sturdy body.

Now that we have breakfast all lined up we find that it includes fruit, cereal, toast and either plain milk or cocoa. Grape fruit, oranges, prune sauce, baked or stewed apples, fresh ripe peaches, cooked figs or pears or baked bananas are recommended. Cream of wheat, cracked wheat, oatmeal, barley, hominy or rice, toasted graham, whole wreat or rye bread, with real butter and a cup of cocoa made with milk will complete the morning meal.

One-Dish Meal At Noon

The noon meal is another hurry-up meal in which the food must be nutritious and satisfying. Most mothers find the one-dish meal the best for lunch. One can combine all sorts of good foods in one dish and put the whole thing in the oven. Here are a few varieties: spaghetti and cheese; baked beans with bacon; jumbelero, which is cooked rice and tomatoes and bits of bacon jumbled altogether and baked. Stews, corn chowder, or any nourishing soup, hot meat or vegetables and left-over meats broiled meat cakes; baked bananas and bacon. With any of these dishes serve graham bread and a glass of milk. A fruit or milk dessert, or plain cookies or sponge cake may be added.

The school child is entitled to something to eat when he comes home from school in the afternoon hungry. But candy and sweet cookies are not the things to give him. There is nothing that will so ruin his appetite for wholesome food as this between meal nibbling of candy. An apple, an orange, a glass of grape juice or lemonade or a slice of bread and butter and a glass of milk if he is really hungry will satisfy the craving without spoiling his dinner.

The evening meal usually is prepared to cater to the wants of the whole family. Mothers of growing children have found to their delight and surprise that when they ordered the meal with the children's needs in mind they found father perfectly satisfied.

Meat Once A Day

If the children have not had meat at noon they can have it at night. But once a day is enough. A green vegetable and a salad once daily are necessary for growing bodies demand minerals and vitamins found in green vegetables, and there is such a number of them to choose from that none of us need be at a loss for variety. Good canned vegetables may be used when the fresh ones are out of season.

LIGHTS TO THE RESCUE

In both the East Side and Bexley, this week has brought legislation for the protection of school children by the control of traffic through installation of signal lights at busy street intersections. It is action for which parents and teachers, and the children themselves, are grateful. It lessens the dangers, but it doesn't eliminate them. Caution must still be instilled into boys and girls by repeated warnings against and explanations of these dangers.

The vigilance must not be lessened. The lights will be a great aid in maintaining that vigilance. But children and motorists must bear in mind that at every corner, lurks danger, whether or not there blinks a warning light overhead.

It will be some time before the lights can be installed and made ready for operation. In the meantime, let children and drivers of automobiles be forming habits of safety as they go about the streets. The best protection is the habit of safety, deep-rooted in the individual. Without it all the provision of traffic control devices by council, and all the guarding of school zones by the police departments, will not avail to save children from harm.

In Between Times

Rev. Dr. Walter Scott Priest's record of 2130 couples united in marriage and only one, to his knowledge, separated by divorce, arouses a curiosity to know just what kind of a knot he used in making his tie-ups. And even if he weren't already retired from active tying, we doubt if he'd have so much to do these days as the young folks don't really seem to want permanency in their knots.

It's usually pretty effective to beat a fellow at his own game, and we wonder if it wouldn't have worked perfectly to put a stop to those four boys out near Dublin playing ghost if they'd met another white-sheeted figure or two wandering about in their haunt one of those dark nights when they were entertaining themselves by making the people of the vicinity believe a certain road barbecue was haunted.

Our opinion about that fish story out of Delaware about a two-pound carp being found one day swimming in the watering trough in front of the court house, is that that carp has probably had plenty of time to grow to two-pound size since the last horse used that trough, and probably the folks up there might be able to find a good-sized old turtle, too, if they'd look again.

Not so many years ago it was a great honor to be allowed to stay after school with "teacher" at the red schoolhouse and erase the blackboards and clean the erasers and sweep the floors for her, sometimes until after dark, but we'll bet at that crossroads school down near Lancaster where the physiology classes are using a real skeleton dug out of a nearby gravel bank, that even the big boys will find plenty of excellent reasons why they should hurry home long before dark when the short winter days come.

We watched a veteran Ford driver taking a lesson on a gear-shift car the other day, and if he's typical of all of them, we are afraid there's likely to be an epidemic of bitten tongues when the new model of that popular make car, as the news columns generally speak of it, finally makes its appearance,—if ever.

Book Notes

Editor's Note: The following review of Susan Ertz' latest book, "Now East, Now West," has been prepared by Miss Ruth C. Garbisch, assistant librarian of the Bexley Public library. The novel, which is enjoying the popularity of previous volumes from this author's pen, recently was placed on the shelves of the Bexley library.

By Ruth C. Garbisch

Althea Goodall craves and deliciously enjoys novelty and social ambition. She sits back with an easy contemplative air, closing her eyes to the dull commonplace monotonies of life. A feeling of forgetfulness is transmitted through her entire being, as she sits picturing herself, a magnetic figure in the center of a sparkling panorama, with a background such as the city of London alone can offer. New York city with its endless throb of love, hate, pleasure and passion has ceased to stir her emotions. George Goodall, her husband, with a sweeping sense of understanding, realizes that he is only a means to an end.

Miss Ertz effectively depicts this American couple in an English environment. The world has acquired a new glamour and a flash of color has broken in upon the life of Althea Goodall. To her, life is but one escape after another, only to discover new and charming situations, while her husband dreamily passes through all of them.

The author's style is the personification of simplicity. Her words have strength, color and a powerful grasp of sympathy and understanding. Each sentence aids in the production of a finely finished picture. Althea and George Goodall are only an example of the many persons with whom we meet in our every day "hum drum" of life. Miss Ertz has only transplanted them into this charming bit of fiction. The author's delicate sense of humor is only paralleled by her keen polished wit, causing the reader to chuckle with satisfaction.

"Madame Claire", the first successful novel by Miss Ertz brought unusual praise and an enthusiastic public. "Afternoon" was published shortly after "Madame Claire," and it is needless to describe its popularity. With the publication of "Now East, Now West", we can only say that Miss Ertz has crowned her literary career.

The Eversole Guild of the Wilson Avenue Church of Christ served a "jitney" supper at the church Wednesday evening.

"Abraham Lincoln" To Be Presented

A cast of 14 persons will present "Abraham Lincoln," written by John Drinkwater, in the Bexley High school auditorium at 8:15 o'clock Friday evening, October 7.

The play, with the cast which will present it on the Bexley High School stage, is one of the important attractions of the Redpath Lecture bureau. Its coming to Bexley is under the auspices of the Girl Reserves of the high school, and tickets for the event will be in the hands of members of this group.

Church Will Celebrate Anniversary Service

The morning service Sunday at the First English Lutheran church, East Main street and Twenty-second street, will be in the nature of an anniversary service marking the end of the first year of Rev. Mr. Lewis P. Speaker's pastorate.

An attempt is being made to bring together at that time all members who have joined in the last year, of whom there are about 100, and the front pews of the church will be reserved for them. All members are urged to be in attendance.

Special music is being arranged by the junior and senior choirs of the church, and also by soloists.

Flute Club To Offer Unusual Try-out Plan

Would-be flutists are to be given an opportunity to determine their adaptability as students of the flute by a plan of the Columbus Flute club to popularize this musical instrument.

Miss Evalyn Parker, 521 Bulen avenue, will have charge of tryouts at the East Side under the plan sponsored by the club. The tryouts are to be held within the next two months.

"Girls as well as boys are taking up the flute, and find it in demand in the school orchestras," said Miss Parker. "The flute is an ideal instrument for the child or adult. The field is not crowded and with diligent practice surprising results may be obtained in a very short time.

"The plan of the try-outs sponsored by the Columbus Flute club will save the pupil the initial cost of an instrument, should he not care to continue."

Rev. Mr. McIlyar Hamilton Lichliter, 1793 Franklin avenue, will add another distinction in Masonry to those which he possesses already, when he goes to Atlantic City, in September next year to be conferred with the 33rd degree of that order.

The selection of Rev. Mr. Lichliter for this honor by the supreme council, was announced recently. GROWING STURDY SCHOOL CHILDREN

By Ella Mae Ives

Children can be no healthier than their food will allow them to be! Every separate food element is a brick with which to build and a perfect structure will not result if any are left out. Therefore the mother's most important duty is to see that her children have the right food, served appetizingly under pleasant conditions, and at proper intervals.

School children have several things to combat. One of these is time. Their food at breakfast must be nourishing enough to keep them from getting hungry before noon time, and it must not be so heavy that they will be sleepy all morning. If necessary children must arise a half hour earlier so that they have plenty of time to eat breakfast. Once let children get into the habit of starting off breakfastless and very soon they will complain that they can't eat in the morning — that food nauseates them. This is all habit and one must insist on breakfast until they come to actually demand food.

Breakfast Should Be Simple

Breakfast should be a simple meal. Pancakes are a doubtful choice where children are concerned, because they are likely to be eaten hastily, poorly masticated and require too much energy in digestion. It is better to serve warm home cooked cereals.

Children often complain that oatmeal, cracked wheat, rice or cream of wheat served morning after morning, become tiresome. Cooking raisins, prunes, dates or apples with the cereal provides the element of variety and adds to the food value.

Fruit should appear at least twice a day in everyone's diet list, especially the children's. Fruit is a wonderful appetizer for it makes you want to keep on eating. It is helpful to remember this when your children have poor appetites. Let them have a harmless "cocktail" of cut up oranges, pineapple and grape fruit slightly sweetened, fifteen minutes before a meal.

If school children object to plain milk they may drink cocoa made with all milk.

Should Drink Milk

Milk should be served to children at every meal. If a child does not care to drink raw milk it should be prepared in some manner to tempt the appetite. Milk is the basis for many soups, for cocoa and for chocolate, and is in many desserts, as custards, junket, gelatin dishes and puddings. When vegetables are served, cream or white sauce (which is made with milk), should be added. The calcium salts found in milk are of great value to the child. Children really ought to be taught to like milk, however, and unless, as is true in very rare cases, plain milk makes them sick, their whims need not be humored; alternate milk with cocoa.

Whole wheat, rye, or graham bread, either plain or toasted, gives added mineral material necessary in the building of a strong, sturdy body.

Now that we have breakfast all lined up we find that it includes fruit, cereal, toast and either plain milk or cocoa. Grape fruit, oranges, prune sauce, baked or stewed apples, fresh ripe peaches, cooked figs or pears or baked bananas are recommended. Cream of wheat, cracked wheat, oatmeal, barley, hominy or rice, toasted graham, whole wreat or rye bread, with real butter and a cup of cocoa made with milk will complete the morning meal.

One-Dish Meal At Noon

The noon meal is another hurry-up meal in which the food must be nutritious and satisfying. Most mothers find the one-dish meal the best for lunch. One can combine all sorts of good foods in one dish and put the whole thing in the oven. Here are a few varieties: spaghetti and cheese; baked beans with bacon; jumbelero, which is cooked rice and tomatoes and bits of bacon jumbled altogether and baked. Stews, corn chowder, or any nourishing soup, hot meat or vegetables and left-over meats, broiled meat cakes; baked bananas and bacon. With any of these dishes serve graham bread and a glass of milk. A fruit or milk dessert, or plain cookies or sponge cake may be added.

The school child is entitled to something to eat when he comes home from school in the afternoon hungry. But candy and sweet cookies are not the things to give him. There is nothing that will so ruin his appetite for wholesome food as this between meal nibbling of candy. An apple, an orange, a glass of grape juice or lemonade, or a slice of bread and butter and a glass of milk if he is really hungry will satisfy the craving without spoiling his dinner.

The evening meal usually is prepared to cater to the wants of the whole family. Mothers of growing children have found to their delight and surprise that when they ordered the meal with the children's needs in mind they found father perfectly satisfied.

Meat Once A Day

If the children have not had meat at noon they can have it at night. But once a day is enough. A green vegetable and a salad once daily are necessary for growing bodies demand minerals and vitamins found in green vegetables, and there is such a number of them to choose from that none of us need be at a loss for variety. Good canned vegetables may be used when the fresh ones are out of season.

Mr. Walter Watson, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Watson, 1695 Franklin avenue, is a student this year at Yale university which opened Thursday.

Mrs. Charles H. Blodgett, of St. Paul, will remain a guest at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Shedd, 904 North Drexel avenue, until after the wedding of Miss Florence Crocker and Mr. Robert Kilbourne Jeffrey, October 6.

BEGIN CONSTRUCTION OF 17 NEW HOMES IN VILLAGE

Valuation of Building Reaches $316,000 For Month Of September

ONE WILL COST $125,000

Valuation of building in Bexley reached the third highest mark for the year during the month of September, when it totaled $316,000.

Seventeen permits for the erection of dwellings were issued by O. P. Dunlop, building inspector.

The most elaborate house now under construction in the village is that of Robert H. Beaton, being built at 200 North Columbia avenue at an estimated cost of $125,000. It will be a two story house of brick, stone and stucco.

Five permits were taken out by W. B. Fulton, jr., for houses to be constructed in his English village in Sessions place. One will be a $25,000 nine-room, stone dwelling at 44 Sessions place. Others are for a $20,000 eight-room stone and stucco at No. 38 a $14,000 seven-room brick and stucco at No. 43; a $13,000 nine-room brick and stucco at No. 49; and a $12,000 tile and stucco at No. 15.

There are five other houses, among the September permits, valued at $12,000 or more. A six-room, brick house is being erected for James Sofus at 2786 East Broad street, valued at $15,000. The same valuation was given for the house of E. B. Landrum under construction at 2445 Elm avenue. This will be an eight-room stone building.

D. J. James is erecting an $11,500 six-room, brick dwelling at 364 S. Drexel avenue. L. M. and M. D. Krumm are building a six-room, brick house, valued at $10,000, at 170 South Cassingham road; and Mrs. Helen E. Cook has under construction at 45 South Stanwood avenue, a $10,000, six-room tile and frame dwelling.

Other permits for houses were issued to O. W. E. O'Neil, for a $9,500, seven-room, stone and stucco, at 2439 Elm avenue; A. H. Marquart, for a $9,000, six-room, stone at 60 S. Cassingham road; Murdo Morrison, for an $8,000, six-room frame, at 871 Sheridan avenue; H. C. Elsass, for a $7,500, six-room frame, at 670 Vernon road; George A. Wilson, for a $3,000, six-room brick, at 295 South Cassingham; and Ernest Welch, for a $5,500, six-room shingle, at 39 N. Stanwood.

Permits for garages numbered 12 for the month and had a total valuation of $4,800. Additions and repairs were valued at $1,590, and include construction of two rooms over a garage by Charles and Thelma M. Spicer, 2232 Bryden road; a tool house by Michael Abel, 95 S. Parkview avenue; and additions to garages by Arthur H. Kuhlman, 822 Pleasant Ridge avenue; George Cook, 666 Euclaire Avenue; and H. W. Gantner, 2414 Sherwood road.

In the year's record of building permits, the September valuation is exceeded only by that for April and for June. The April valuation was for $424,974 and included the permit for the new Junior High school in Cassingham road.

By more than $50,000 the September valuation surpassed the August valuation. The figure for August was $242,200.

PLAN CAMPAIGN TO ELECT HIRSCH NEW MAYOR OF BEXLEY

Meetings of the Peoples' Party, a committee of 100 citizens of Bexley organized to wage a campaign in support of the Peoples' ticket, headed by Ralph F. Hirsch, candidate for mayor, are being held weekly for the laying of plans for the campaign.

Other candidates besides Hirsch who are being supported by the Peoples' party, are: O. M. Heffner, for treasurer; S. W. Roderick, for clerk; Verne Gray, D. W. Kerr, Murray McLeish, John Millener, and Rufus Shockey, for members of council; David Shadrack, for marshal; H. L. Samuels and A. B. Sanford, for members of the board of trustees; and C. D. Barton and Grace M. Whitehead, for members of the school board.

Planks in the platform of the Peoples' party are adequate fire protection, to work towards the reduction of insurance rates, ample police protection, safety of children, and more and better transportation.

E. E. Legg is chairman of the committee of 100, and H. R. Penney is treasurer.

Pastor In Attendance At Synodical Meet

Rev. Mr. Clarence Woods, 1261 Fair ave., pastor of the Wilson Ave. Reformed church, attended the meeting of the Central Ohio Synod which was held this week in Louisville. The meeting brought together between 250 and 300 delegates and lasted throughout the week.

Williams Heads C. of C. Young Men's Division

Langdon T. Williams, 107 South Ardmore road, is the newly elected president of the young men's division of the Columbus Chamber of Commerce. The division has had charge of the Chamber forum held each Friday at the Chittenden hotel.

Williams, who is assistant prosecuting attorney of Franklin county, was a nominee for member of the Bexley council, but recently withdrew from the race.

BEXLEY WILL PLAY FIRST GAME WITH CITY HIGH TEAM

By "Bud" Lauffer

For the first time in the history of athletics at Bexley High, a Columbus high school eleven will be taken on when Bexley meets Columbus Central on the Pirate's field, this afternoon. The game is scheduled to get under way at 3:30.

Quarterback Moyer, who has been playing under the handicap of an injured leg for the past two weeks, will probably enter the game in good condition. Marsh who has also been bothered with a sore leg, is rid of the stiffness and should be ready for today's game.

Petzinger and Miller, two reliable substitute backs, are on the ineligible list because of scholastic difficulties. This leaves the squad without a substitute fullback, and, to meet the emergency which would arise should Fullback Zuber be injured, Coach Smith has been working Seibert, regular tackle in the backfield for the past week. Ross and Park, substitute ends, are also ineligible.

The opening lineup should find Moyer, Palmer, Zuber, and Hirsch in the backfield, Marsh and Davis at ends, Seibert and Woodward at tackles, Beggs and Diehl at guards, and Taber at center. There is a possibility that Killgarras will be called on, should the regular backs be unable to [illegible] center or Central's line.

Special attention has been given to the backfield for the past week, in an attempt to correct the loose handling of the ball which figured largely in Bexley's defeat at the hands of London, last Friday. Suffering her first defeat since October 30, 1925, Bexley lost to London, on the Bexley field, by a score of 12 to 6. Several fumbles and blocked punts early in the game, seemed to discourage the Bexley gridders, and they played without the pep and fight that had marked their play in the two previous games.

STATE CONVENTION OF BROTHERHOODS BIGGEST YEAR HELD

First English Lutheran Church Plays Role of Host

BOEHM MADE SECRETARY

The largest convention in the history of the Men's Brotherhood of the Synod of Ohio, United Lutheran church, was held on Tuesday at the First English Lutheran church, East Main and Twenty-second streets. Between 350 and 400 delegates from all parts of the state were in attendance.

A business session in the afternoon opened the annual meeting and was followed by a banquet and a program of speeches in the church auditorium which was open to the public. The speakers included several prominent in state and national work of the church.

Carl H. Boehm, 715 South Ardmore road, was elected to the office of secretary of the state organization. He was the only man from this vicinity on the roster of new officers for the coming year.

Questioning how any progress could be made by the church on the amount of money given it for its work, Rev. E. A. Bosch, of Mansfield, told the convention that only three fourths of one cent out of every dollar was bestowed upon the church. Rev. Bosch was the principal speaker at the banquet.

Rev. Dr. Frederick H. Knubel, of New York, president of the United Lutheran Church of America, was a speaker on "The Church's Appeal to Men Who Think." John P. Kramer, of Mansfield, discussed "Ministerial Pensions and Relief," touching on the national appeal which the church will make this year for a $4,000,000 endowment for this purpose.

Greetings from the Ohio Synod extended by Rev. Dr. Paul Koller, of Mansfield, president of the Ohio Synod. The program [illegible] and consecration of the three departments of the church, namely, the Brotherhood, the Luther League, and the Women's Missionary Society.

Top of Smokestack Is High Point On Campus

The highest point of elevation on the Capital University campus now is the top of the 125 ft. smokestack of the new power plant, now almost ready for operation. The plant is 73 ft. by 75 ft. and is built of face brick and concrete adding greatly to its beauty.

There are four boilers, each of 150 horse power capacity. Besides the boiler room there are a supply room, repair shop, garage, engineer's office, tool room, ash room and ash conveyer, and a transformer vault for the entire school. The stack is eight feet in diameter at the top and ten at the bottom.

The plant is complete in every detail and is fully capable of taking care of the needs of Greater Capital. An exceptional feature of the new plant is that all local junkers are underground. A cement drive with openings cover the bunkers. Trucks will come upon the drive, be weighed, and then will be dumped. The approximate cost is $80,000.

Celebrate 47th Anniversary

The 47th anniversary of the Ladies society of Grace Lutheran church will be celebrated by the society this week. The celebration will be a supper at the church on Wednesday evening.

LUTHERAN CAMP IS HOPEFUL FOR BLUFFTON BATTLE

Injuries Will Keep Stars Out Of Saturday's Game

WIN FROM CEDARVILLE

The Fighting Lutheran footballers of Capital university will go into action for the second time this year, when they meet the gridders from Bluffton College, Saturday. Not much is known, this early in the season, regarding the strength of the visiting eleven, but Coach Katherman, of Capital, is not feeling over-confident as to the result. The Lutherans will again not be able to put their full strength on the field. Although Sumpton, star halfback, will doubtless be ready to go, it is extremely uncertain whether Wertenberger, tackle, Herath, guard, and Dickman, end, all star linemen, will be of much use to the Purple and White. Scherzer, veteran guard is also a doubtful starter on account of an injured arm. However, if the same brand of fight is displayed as was evident in the Cedarville game, and if the breaks are again made use of, Capital's chances to walk off with the long end of the score will be considerably brightened. The game will be played either on Columbus Academy field or at Bexley High.

Despite the fact that they were unable to hold the Blue and Gold gridders from Cedarville in check in midfield, and failed utterly in stopping the long runs of Adair, Cedarville Captain and quarterback, Capital University's Fighting Lutherans held [illegible] was in danger, and by taking advantage of the breaks, emerged with a 13-7 win in their first game of the season last Friday.

With Wertenberger and Herath, stat linemen, badly crippled, and Sumption, fastest backfield man on the Capital eleven, unable to ramble on account of a bad ankle, the Lutherans were entirely unable to put their strongest force on the field. Scherzer, veteran guard, also had to be taken out of the game on account of injuries.

On several occasions, the visitors, by mixing line-plunging with forward passes, worked the ball within a yard or two of the line, only to have their oncoming wave hurled back by the desperate stand of the Lutherans. When the final gun cracked, Cedarville was within two yards of the touchdown that would have tied the count.

Capital made good some pretty passes, one of which, Konnert to Sebold, resulted in the first touchdown for the Lutherans. The second and deciding score came when one of the Cedarville backs fumbled a pass from center. Horn, Capital end, grabbed the fumble and ran with a clear field, sixty yards for a touchdown.

The work of Wolf and Prasuhn, Capital linemen was one of the bright spots of the game from a Lutheran viewpoint. These two men are playing their first year as regulars and give considerable promise of brightening Capital's hopes. Captain "Dan" Sheatsley, played his usual fine game at center and backed up the line in wonderful fashion. Horn, playing his first game at the end position, conducted himself in heads-up fashion and furnished the thrill of the game with his touchdown jaunt, near the end of the contest.

The affair was held on the Columbus Academy Field.

Loos, Mrs. C. F. Johnson and Mrs. R. C. Manley.

The Eversole Guild of the Wilson avenue Church of Christ will hold an all day meeting at the church Monday.

NEW STORES AND MANAGERS ENTER EAST SIDE BUSINESS

Building To Be Erected In East Main Street By Radsek Brothers

PLAN MANY OPENINGS

The advent of new business and the changing of certain established business firms into new hands have marked the week in the East Side and Bexley. There has been proof apparent that the business district in the community is expanding and is drawing to it additional activity.

A brief summary of these transactions reveals plans of one East Side shop to build in order to enlarge its quarters; the announcement of an East Side garage moving into a new location, where its growing needs can be accommodated; the opening of a new restaurant; and of openings of a new floral shop and barber shop in the near future, besides a number of new managers in older stores.

With the work of wrecking a dwelling between Miller and Kelton avenue in East Main street, begun this week, the first step was taken toward the new business building which is to be erected on this site by Radsek Bros. construction is expected to start next week.

The building will be a two-story one of brick. On the street floor there will be two store rooms and on the second floor, two offices equipped for doctors or dentists, at the front of the building, and two apartments in the rear. One of the first floor store rooms will be occupied by the Radsek Bros. tailoring shop, and the other, according to Louis Radsek, will be occupied by an east side branch of the Hall Hardware Company. Galbreath and Leonard are contractors for the building which is expected to be completed about December 15. Downie W. Moore, architect, drew plans for the building, and will supervise construction.

The new building is an answer to the problem presented by their ever increasing business for which their present location is inadequate, according to the Radsek brothers. They have been in business in the East Side since 1917. Louis and Nathan Radsek are members of the firm.

Removal of the C. M. T. C. garage from 470 Miller avenue, to 361 Champion avenue, also has been announced, and attributed by F. L. Chambers, proprietor, to the necessity for more space due to increasing business. At the new location, Chambers said, new equipment is being installed to service all makes of cars in the most modern and complete manner. Chambers is a graduate of the Chicago Mechanical Training college, the first letters of which name, he has used in his garage name.

Formal opening of the Leroy restaurant at 1392 East Main street, to take place Sunday, will bring a new business house to the community. The restaurant will be the first occupant in this store room in a building recently completed. Mr. Grover Cleveland Tussing who is the owner and manager of the place, is not a stranger to East Siders or residents of Bexley. He was for a year, manager of the Bexley Inn about two years ago. And he has long had many friends in the community.

His equipment, he said, will be modern in every detail. The restaurant will be open for three meals a day, seven days in the week. Associated with Mr. Tussing, will be Miss Wray as head waitress and in charge of dining room service.

The purchase of Young's Bakery, 1682 East Main street, by W. W. Grace is being announced as one of the latest transactions in East Side business circles.

Mr. Grace has been baking for the shop and managing it for the last 3 weeks. He came to the East Side store from Young's Bakery in Grandview where he had been for more than a year. For four years he has been associated with Mr. Carl W. Young from whom he purchased the Main street establishment.

The name of the shop will be changed to the W. W. Grace Bakery, and Mr. Grace is planning to continue with the same quality of goods which has been handled since his coming to the shop. Mrs. Grace will be associated with the store and will have charge of the new line of delicatessen goods which will be added to the line of baked goods.

Mr. and Mrs. Grace have moved to the East Side and are making their home at 626 Kimball place.

Plans to open a new floral and gift shop at 1400 East Main street, have been announced by Miss Daniella Perrin who lives at 189 East Main street. Her shop will be opened in the near future, it was said, and will carry a complete line of cut flowers and potted house plants and also a department of gifts of many kinds.

The Tomlinson dry cleaning establishment at 2141 East Main street, is being operated under new management this week. Mr. S. M. Tomlinson has sold the place to E. W. and H. P. Rhoades. It was said at the shop that for the present the name would not be changed, and that a fine cleaning service would be given to the public.

A new barber shop with beauty parlor in connection will take its place in the Miller-Main district, as a result of the removal of Frank E. McCracken's barber shop from the corner of Miller avenue and Oak street, to 445 Miller avenue. Work has been done this week to make the location ready for the new occupant, and the shop probably will be opened the first of next week. The beauty shop in connection with the barber shop, will be operated by McCracken's daugter.

STOTZ IS ACTIVE MEMBER OF FOOD SHOW COMMITTEE

Serves As Chairman In Charge of Entertainment

Walter Stotz, associated with his father in Stotz and Son Grocery, 1447 East Main street, has been one of the active workers on arrangements for the Food show which is to be held in the Columbus auditorium from Oct. 10 to 15 inclusive.

The show is under management of the Columbus Retail Grocers' Association, being the first given solely by this organization of grocers, but it is the plan to make it an annual affair. Stotz is a member of the general committee on the show and is chairman of the committee on entertainment.

A comprehensive program of instruction and amusement has been planned, according to Stotz. There will be music by a 10-piece orchestra for two hours each afternoon, and for three hours each evening. In addition, special feature entertainments will be provided. Among these will be acrobatic dancing by Miss Hazel Cook, a pupil of Miss Rice. One hour each afternoon and evening will be devoted to a cooking school and lecture, and a demonstration of meat cuts will be presented by the Ohio State University, also each afternoon and evening.

In the display of foods there will be kinds and varieties from the world over, Stotz said. In connection with the show there will be an exhibition of household appliances in the basement of the auditorium. Special music for this division of the affair, will be furnished by Heaton's.

A refreshment booth under the auspices of the ladies' auxiliary of the Columbus association, will be a feature of the show. Mrs. Stotz, who is president of the auxiliary, has been active in making arrangements for this.

Mr. and Mrs. Stotz are planning to go to Youngstown to attend the state convention of the Retail Grocers' association which will be held there for three days beginning October 24. Mr. Stotz will be one of the 10 delegates sent by the Columbus association, and Mrs. Stotz will make a report of the work of the auxiliary. The Columbus auxiliary was one of the pioneers in women's organizations in connection with the grocers' association, and Mrs. Stotz helped to organize a similar auxiliary in Springfield.

Church Aid Society Plans Annual Bazaar

Plans for the annual Christmas bazaar given by the Church Aid Society of Wilson Avenue Reformed Church, were discussed when that organization met Thursday at the home of Mrs. Samuel Miller, 260 Thurman avenue. An all-day sewing meeting was held, with the business session occupying part of the afternoon.

A meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of the Grace Lutheran church, will be held Tuesday afternoon in the church parlors.

Toys Are More Life-Like; Soda Fountains Have All-Year Patrons; More Small Boys Buy "Treats"

John Gossling Now Sells Wares To Children Of First Customers

Between the toys of yesterday and the toys of today there is a wide, wide difference.

Ask John Gossling. He has watched the widening of that difference for 18 years, behind the counter of his novelty shop at 1466 East Main Street, where toys of yesterday used to range the shelves and the display tables, and where now the toys of today fascinate the imaginations and intrigue the interests of children as no toys ever did before.

There's greater variety and intricacy of design in them. The mechanical toy that the fathers and mothers of today played with when they were little tots, was a simple device compared to that with which children now amuse themselves.

Remember the little man who drove a donkey to a two-wheeled cart, and when the spring was wound up the donkey bucked and kicked and balked as he drew the cart across the floor? Compare that simplicity with the little man today who plays a game of golf on a tin green sward. The mechanism beneath the greensward raises a wee golf ball into exact position for each swing of the little man's golf club. The tap of the club sends the little ball rolling into one of 10 holes, each scoring a certain number of points. Its more than a mere toy. It is a game with the little man trying each time to beat his last score.

Yesterday's dolls, too. They were expressionless and their bodies were far from being like those of real babies. They are dressed in clothes like real babies. They have cribs and pens and all manner of things that a real baby must have.

JOHN GOSSLING

These are striking changes that Mr. Gossling has watched. But there have been others in his eighteen-year-old shop.

"Children used to come in with a penny to spend for candy," said he. "They chose a stripped peppermint stick, usually, or an old-fashioned cocoanut flag stick.

"Now they come with nickles and dimes instead of pennies and they buy more of the candy that comes in wrapped bars. The old-fashioned hard candies have had to stand back before the newer, richer confectioneries."

Soda fountains have progressed in the experience of Mr. Gossling, too. Time was when they did a summer business only, and were closed during winter months. But ice cream and refreshing drinks are now in demand the year round.

Special flavors were once limited to lemon, strawberry, and nectar, he explained. But now they run the whole gamut of fruit juices. There is any number of customers today with a particular preference for a refreshing drink, who run in to Mr. Gossling's fountain at almost regular times daily. The old stand-bys were chocolate soda and lemon soda. And though the former has persistently maintained its popularity, there are now cocoa colas, milk shakes and malted milks running close second for favor.

The practice of treating one's best girl is finding more and more followers among the youngsters, Mr. Gossling said. Each day see little lads in the lower grades at school escorting their favorite little girl into the high stools at the soda fountain. True, many of them order one glass with two straws, or a bottled drink and two glasses. That's a little trick of economy, however, that has always been in considerable vogue.

Mr. Gossling's first little shop was much smaller than the one he has today. At first it was located in a little frame building and then the list of business houses in the Miller-Main district numbered only about one third as many as today.

Twelve years ago the present building was erected and the stock of the little store was considerably increased. At about that same time the business district began to thrive and new establishments came to take their places in it.

Among his regular younger patrons, Mr. Gossling now counts many who are sons and daughters of those who were among the younger ones when he opened his shop. Being there to watch youth grow to manhood and womanhood, to know his customers as his friends, — these are things which have made his long association in this neighborhood of such great interest.

To the people who come into his store, Mr. Gossling, with his quiet, friendly manner, and his understanding smile is not as much tradesman as host. His home is in the rear of his store where he lives with his wife, and his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Yeakum who also have an interest in the shop and whose name appears with his on the front windows of the place.

When Mr. Gossling takes his vacations, he goes preferably to some good fishing place or hunting grounds. He likes best of all to run up into Canada once a year to fish for black bass and trout, where the sport is a matter, he said, of catching the fish on one side of the boat and letting them loose on the other, so many there are to gobble up the bait.

NOW COMES OCTOBER'S BEAUTY

The paint brushes of Autumn have been trailed lightly over the woods and the fields in the last week. But the warm reds and glowing yellows are but a promise of the colorful beauty that is October's. There are those who turn away from Nature when she drops her garments of summer. They say the autumn is melancholy, reminiful of death.

But is the brilliance of color elancholy? Surely there is joy in fields of waving goldenrod, in the red-clad maples, in the orange-hued foliage of bushes and shrubs. The heart-achy joy of the last gay party of one about to die, some say. But what a fine, splendid gesture, then.

And what of October's air? Is there any other so invigorating? Is there any other so perfect for soul-satisfying tramps in the country, for the earthy enjoyment of an open fire with a steak singing on a pronged stick?

If, indeed, it be Nature's farewell party, she has set her stage with beauty and invited all her friends to come.

Bag Worm, Red Spider And Fungus Are Devastators Common Among Evergreens

Paul Offenberg Tells How To Recognize and Treat

What to do when sickness befalls the evergreen trees which are the pride and beauty of so many handsome gardens in Bexley and the East Side, has puzzled many lovers of lawns and gardens this summer. Before the problem, numbers of owners of sick trees have stood helpless while their pretty trees drooped, lost their cool, dainty greenness, and in some cases, fought vainly with the diseases which attack evergreens.

Yet there is no necessity to stand helpless, according to Paul Offenberg, whose fine evergreens in his gardens in East Livingstone avenue, cause many persons to pause in admiration as they are driving past them.

Just as there are treatments for ill people, so there are treatments for sick evergreen trees. Mr. Offenberg has studied these trees and played the role of physician to trees attacked by disease.

Nor is it necessary to call in outside aid to give the trees treatment, said he. There are simple remedies which can be administered by the owners themselves, as they would administer to a cold which they themselves might contract.

A knowledge of the three principal diseases which attack evergreens, and a knowledge of the simple treatments of these diseases, would in almost all cases, save the trees for lasting beauty in gardens and lawns, Mr. Offenberg declared.

Bag worms, red spider, and a kind of fungus, are the three commonest enemies of the evergreens in this part of the country, he explained.

"The bag worm shows up in June and July," Mr. Offenberg said. "They are tiny black worms and it is their habit to cover a part of their bodies with a web into which they work the small branches of the tree.

"When the worm has woven this web, it looks like a small cone and many people think it is a cone which the tree produces. They do not realize that it is a parasite which threatens the health of the tree. But one end of the cone is left open and through this the worm goes out to fed on the tree.

"The cones should be picked off and burned. And the trees should be sprayed with acid of lead. The eggs of the worm are like little brown shells close against the stem. But the most effective time to treat for bag worm is in the spring when the eggs hatch. Spraying then with acid of lead will poison the worms when they start to feed on the trees."

Second in the trio of common enemies of the evergreens, Mr. Offenberg listed the red spider.

"So small that he cannot be seen by the naked eye, is this little spider" he explained. "But when he starts working on a tree it may be noticed that the healthy green of the foliage will begin to change to a pale yellowish brown, right in the top of the tree.

"To combat the red spider, the tree should be wet thoroughly and then sprayed with sulphur. The treatment should be repeated about every second week. And if, immediately following a treatment, a heavy rain should come and wash off the sulphur the spraying should be done again at once."

Nor is it necessary to be equipped with special sprays and equipment to give these treatments, according to Mr. Offenberg. He recommended taking an ordinary tin can and making perforations in it so the sulphur could be shaken out as salt is shaken from a shaker.

The present time, — from the middle of September until the first frosty days, — is the time when the ravages of the fungus are apparent on the evergreens, said Mr. Offenberg.

"Its presence can be noted by the dying of small branches of the tree, usually the inside branches," he explained. "And the treatment which should be given is the same as that for the red spider."

Better Lights To Be Installed On Main Street Near Miller

Expect Installation In Time For Fall Festival

The hope of business men in the Miller-Main district to see the business section there resplendent at night with an up-to-date lighting system, is to be realized within the next two weeks.

This announcement was made Thursday by Fred Heiser, member of the business men's committee which has been working towards this end for some time. All arrangements have been completed for the installation of the lights, except the selection of the globes to be used, he said. The committee is making investigations of the various kinds of globes, and Heiser said, their choice would be made within a few days in order that installation may be made in time for the Miller-Main Fall Festival, to be held Wednesday, October 19.

Lighting standards now in use will be used for the new high powered globes. They were erected 15 years ago when business men in the vicinity combined to procure better lighting for the district.

That system installed 15 years ago, was the first instance of community lighting in the country, Heiser said he had been told by electricians, and it received comment from coast to coast.

It is the plan to install the new lights in East Main street from Loeffler avenue east to the alley east of Miller avenue. The committee of business men working on the project, is composed of Heiser, Harry McCann, Bert Nafziger, and A. O. Harris.

The high cost of living—
And doing your part without misgiving,
Are real problems of the day,
Which leads us to say—
"To render real service to you
We would like to rebuild your shoes
For the welfare of your sole
We'll mend them—make them whole;
To see that you are 'well heeled'
Is our strongest appeal."

Many Want Places In Orchestra, Glee Club

About thirty men responded to the call to try out for the Capital University Glee club this fall. This will give Director Wilbur Crist plenty of opportunity to choose the best of the talent, since only eight places are to be filled, two in each section. Instead of carrying six in each of the four voices, as heretofore, it is planned to have seven in each section, making twenty-eight in all. The men who tried out will be given every chance, a gradual elimination taking place until the minimum is reached. A western tour, reaching as far as Chicago, is being planned by the manager, Forest Stoneburner, of Zanesville. Elmer Zimmerman, of Richmond, Indiana, is president.

At the first try-out for the Capital University orchestra, about fifteen reported to fill the seven places left vacant. Professor Mayer, head of the Music Conservatory, will direct the orchestra again this year. Several concerts are being planned for the school year. Raymond Vogeley, of Buteler, Pennsylvania is manager.

Consider Street And Police Problems; Close Part In N. Ardmore Dispute

The paring of the village budget by two slashes totaling more than $25,500 was one of the important actions taken by the Bexley council at its regular meeting Tuesday evening.

A reduction of $20,000 was made in the general fund for 1928 and the sinking fund was cut $5,680. This will help to reduce the tax rate in the village from $22 on the thousand, to $19.40. A reduction of $20,000 in the budget of the school board also will aid in the reduction.

Was Fourth Lowest

The original tentative rate of $22 gave Bexley the fourth lowest rate among villages in the county, all but two of which have increased rates for 1928. The reduced rate of $19.40 shows an increase over last year's which was $16.10. Only Westerville and Harrisburg are expected to show no increase. These possibly may have a decrease in rate.

State, county, and township rates have increased and for this reason, the village fathers felt it imperative for them to pare the village budget to prevent too great a total increase.

To Award Contracts

Members of the council will meet in special session Friday evening to award contracts for sidewalks on both sides of Cassingham road, between East Broad street and Fair avenue. At this meeting, also, it is expected to come to some determination on the matter of the elimination of the center parkway in Fair avenue opposite Cassingham road to relieve the congestion of traffic at the new Junior High school in Cassingham road.

Matters relative to streets in the village, and police protection, occupied the greater part of the regular meeting on Tuesday, aside from the paring of the budget.

Want Street Opened

A petition, signed by approximately 80 per cent of the property owners involved, was presented to the body asking for the opening of a new street paralleling and between Pleasant Ridge avenue and Euclaire avenue, and extending from Livingston avenue to Mound street. The petition was referred to the city engineer for a report on the exact location of the proposed street.

Harvey Greiner, representing certain property owners in Westland avenue, appeared before council to seek improvement in that street. A motion was passed instructing Engineer Harold Kennedy to make a recommendation for the best possible improvement, short of permanent improvement, and to return an estimate on the same.

Discuss Police Work

The new speed car purchased recently for the police department, will be used to pursue night marauders in the village as well as speeders in the day time; provision will be made for the adequate policing of the village on Sundays as well as on week days; the police car will be equipped with a fire extinguisher; and police officers will be placed on duty on a schedule which will give them one day off each week, as a result of discussion of problems confronting that department.

A letter from Hugh Huntington brought to the attention of the body, the suggestion that the village property of five acres lying between Park drive and Alum creek, and south of Franklin park, be beautified as park land. The matter was referred to the committee on parks.

Replying to a request from Robert Jeffrey, council passed a resolution

CALL FRANKLIN 2298 FOR BEXLEY POLICE

Many calls have come to village officials recently for the telephone number to call police officers. There seems to be a confused idea in the minds of many Bexley residents where to call for police. Several have called the city of Columbus or the Franklin County Sheriff when in trouble.

Police officers of the village of Bexley are on duty day and night and may be reached by calling Franklin 2298. It is the suggestion of Deputy Marshal J. H. Gray that residents of the village paste this number on their telephone books in order to eliminate delay in time of need.

PLAN "FOG-RAISER" AND BANQUET FOR HOMECOMING DATE

Elaborate plans are on foot at Capital university for celebrations both before and after the Homecoming football game, to be played with Hiram on Saturday, October 22. Included in the program are a "fog-raiser" on Friday night before the game, and a banquet afterwards.

The Mens' club is co-operating with the Varsity "C" organization to make the affair an outstanding success. Edward C. Fendt, of Michigan City Indiana, is chairman of the committee elected by the Mens' club. Assisting him are: J. Adrian Pfeiffer, of Springfield, Ohio; Oscar Prasuhn, of Ansonia, Ohio; Paul Kerschbaum, of Middletown, Ohio; and Hans Hansen, of Westbrook, Maine.

As head of its committee, the Varsity "C" chose Theodore Stellhorn, Jr., of Sandusky. Other members are: Wayne Willman, Columbus, George Strobel, Cleveland; Theodore Fricke, Detroit; and Ralph Hax, Springfield.

The Christian Endeavor of the Wilson Avenue Reformed church, held a membership social in the church parlors on Wednesday evening.

NEW CHURCH TO BE RECEIVED FORMALLY INTO PRESBYTERY

Plan To Start Construction Of New Church Home In 60 Days

HAS HAD RAPID GROWTH

Will Elect Permanent Officers At Meeting In Two Weeks

The Bexley Presbyterian church will be formally organized Sunday afternoon at special services in the Bexley School auditorium where the congregation holds its regular services.

A special program of music will open the services at 2:30 o'clock. The committee of Presbyterian pastors of Columbus which was appointed by the presbytery to represent it in the organization of the new church, will be present. Rev. Dr. Arthur H. Limouze, pastor of Northminster church, and chairman of the committee, will act as moderator at the meeting. The other two members are Rev. Dr. W. J. Zuck, and Rev. Mr. Charles F. Johnson.

Crowd Expected

Forty-two churches compose the presbytery and delegations from some and representatives from others, are expected to attend the organization meeting.

Following the musical service, Rev. Dr. Limouze will deliver the sermon at the close of which Rev. Dr. John L. Tait, pastor of the new congregation, will introduce the 100 members of the new church who signed the petition to the presbytery, and those others who have joined the congregation since that time.

On Sunday, October 30, the congregation will meet to effect its permanent organization. At that time elders, deacons and trustees will be elected. John R. Wilkins is the temporary president; Earl W. Boyer, temporary secretary; and Dennis R. Clarridge, temporary treasurer.

Incorporation papers are being drafted now by Attorney General C. C. Crabbe, who has been active in the organization of the new church. As soon as these have been approved by the state, steps will be taken toward the erection of the church home in Drexel avenue facing Bexley Park drive.

To Build Church

Work probably will be started on the construction of the building within 60 days, according to E. F. Arras, superintendent of the Sunday School, at whose home the first prayer meetings and preliminary gatherings of the church were held.

The site for the church has a frontage of 100 feet and a depth of 260 feet. It is the plan to erect an inexpensive building of Colonial design, and architects are now drawing plans to be submitted for it.

Unusual Growth

It is said that no Presbyterian church in the vicinity of Columbus has shown such rapid growth as this organization. The first regular meeting of the congregation was for Sunday School in the Bexley High School auditorium last Easter Sunday. Preceding that there had been prayer meetings and preliminary gatherings at the homes of members. Prayer meetings at the present time are being held in private homes. The membership is not limited to residents of Bexley, though the name of the village has been given to the church. It includes a number of members from Columbus.

Before the coming of Rev. Dr. John L. Tait to the pastorate, the pulpit was filled frequently by Rev. Dr. E. W. Guywn, head of the school of consecration in Columbus, who was active in the starting of the congregation. Dr. Guywn has now been made honorary pastor. Help in the preaching services and teaching, also, was given by Rev. Dr. Quincey Lockrone, 832 College avenue.

New Pastor In Charge

Rev. Dr. Tait who took the charge recently, came to the Bexley church from Alliance. He was formerly pastor at the Indianola Presbyterian church, of Columbus. During the war he and Mrs. Tait, who is an ordained minister, also, were in France engaged in war work. Two sons, John

PARENT-TEACHER GROUPS LAUNCH YEAR'S ACTIVITY

Several Meetings This Week; Others Scheduled

It is the time when Parent-Teacher associations throughout the city are holding their first meetings, appointing their standing committees, and laying plans for the year's programs. The associations at the East Side schools are among the earliest to organize for another active season of work. Some of them already have held their first meetings, and others plan to meet in the near future.

The associations at the Ohio Avenue and the East Main street schools will hold their meetings of the year at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon at their respective buildings. The association of the Fair Avenue school held its first meeting on Wednesday. Next Thursday is the regular meeting time of the association at Roosevelt Junior High school, and the associations at Franklin Junior High school and at East High school, will meet some time this month to outline the year's work, according to officers.

Interesting programs are planned for the meetings today, and such a one was given Wednesday at the meeting of the Fair Avenue school association.

First Grades Entertain

Ninety first graders at the Ohio Avenue building are to present a poem and song recital at the meeting in that building. There will be, also, a report of the recent state convention at Warren, by Mrs. Ralph Rockey, president, and Mrs. W. H. Washburn. Committees for the year will be announced.

Speakers And Tea

When members of the Fair Avenue association met on Wednesday, they heard an address on "The Three-Mill Levy," by Assistant Superintendent G. E. Roudebush. For this group, the report of the State convention was made by Mrs. C. E. Steward. Current events were given by Mrs. William H. Van Fossan, and Mrs. A. L. Reedy reported on the membership drive. There was special music by Mrs. Hosea Bigelow.

THOUSANDS EXPECTED TO ATTEND BIG STREET EVENT

Street and Store Patty Will Present 200 Awards In Entertaining Prize Hunt Through All Stores In Miller-Main District

NEW LIGHTS TO FLOOD STREET WITH BRILLIANCE

Band Will Play at Miller Avenue, Orchestra To Be Provided For Dancing Near Kelton Avenue

With all plans practically complete for the Miller-Main second annual Fall Festival to be held next Wednesday evening, the work of setting the stage for the affair was begun Thursday by the decorating committee.

Flags, bunting, and banners are to be strung across East Main street from Loeffler avenue to Kelton avenue which two blocks are to be roped off from all traffic except street cars. Besides the overhead decorations in the street, the store fronts within these blocks will be draped with flags and bunting, also.

Special Exhibitions

Special window decorations are planned, as well, by most of the shops and several are arranging for demonstrations to give exhibitions in their windows during the hours of the street and store party.

A feature which will add much to the festive appearance of the street, will be the new lights which have been produced by a committee of business men from the vicinity. The lights are more than merely a temporary effect for the festival, however. They are to be installed permanently to flood this East Side business section with brilliant illumination at night.

To Dance In Street

For the three hours of the festival, — from 7 o'clock until 10 o'clock, — there will be a band concert at the corner of East Main street and Miller avenue, and an orchestra rendering a dance program at the corner of East Main street and Kelton avenue. A section of East Main street, near Kelton, is to be set apart for dancing.

The concert at Miller avenue will be given by the Capital University band.

Aside from this general entertainment in the street, the merchants are planning feature amusements of all kinds in their respective shops. At several places, that part of the store not usually accessible to the public, is to be thrown open for inspection by the crowds. At others, special programs are under arrangement.

Plan Prize Hunt

All of the 27 merchants and business men who will be the hosts at the festival, are working together on the plan for the chief entertainment of the evening, the prize hunt. This will be in the nature of a game in which anyone may be a winner of a prize, and each must search through the various stores until he finds his own trophy.

Probably 200 prizes, in all, will be given by the different stores for this hunt. None of the shops has fewer than three prizes listed, for this event

IN CASE OF RAIN

The Fall Festival night will be postponed to Thursday, October 20, in case of rain on Wednesday, October 19.

BUSINESS MEN TO ACT ON CITY BOND ISSUE

Club Will Launch Membership Drive In November

Approval or disapproval of the city bond issue in Columbus by the East Main street and Bexley Commercial club, will be given as a result of the passing of a motion for the appointment of a committee to draw up a resolution on the matter, at the regular meeting of club members Wednesday evening.

The business meeting was preceded by a dinner at the Willard restaurant at East Main street and Drexel avenue. Gordon Brawley, president of the club, presided at the business meeting.

A committee composed of I. A. Lageman, chairman, J. A. McClure and B. C. Nafzger, was appointed to draft a resolution to approve or disapprove the bond issue in the city.

By unanimous vote of the club members present, Ralph Stygler was made treasurer to succeed Darrel Johnson, no longer associated with business in the community which the club represents.

Plans for a membership drive were discussed, and it was decided to launch the drive about the middle of November. Gordon Brawley will announce committees to have charge of the drive at the next meeting of the club.

BLUE AND WHITE TEAM WILL MEET WORTHINGTON TODAY

Seibert And Gerholt Still On Disabled List

By "Bud" Lea for

Although hindered by many injuries and ineligibilities, the Bexley High gridders are set to defeat Worthington when the two teams clash this afternoon on the Bexley field. Both teams have met defeat in their last two starts, but Bexley has bowed to two Class A teams, while Worthington has lost to Gahanna and also to Upper Arlington, by a large score.

Each team has chalked up two victories in their games of previous years. In 1923, Bexley's championship eleven completely outplayed Worthington to score a 26 to 0 victory. In the two succeeding years, Worthington emerged the victor, both times by a margin of one only touchdown. Last year, Bexley's second championship team came through with a 20 to 6 win.

Bexley will play this week without the services of "Bud" Seibert, stellar tackle, who suffered a double fracture of his left arm in the Central game last Friday. Anthony, substitute tackle is also out with a sprained ankle, and this position will probably be filled by Gerholt. Otherwise, the Bexley lineup will be practically the same as last week.

It was learned at the Bexley camp during the past week that the athletic authorities of the Columbus Academy are trying to get a game with Bexley for November 18. Coach Smith is undecided whether to schedule the game or not. He feels that a ten-game schedule might possibly be too strenuous for the team. A definite announcement will be made regarding it in a few days.

VISITOR WHO KNEW LINCOLN PRAISES PLAY AT SCHOOL

"Abraham Lincoln," the play by John Drinkwater which was presented last Friday evening in the Bexley High School auditorium, under the auspices of the Girl Reserves of the school, was well patronized, and many comments of praise for the characterization of the historical roles were heard.

Especial delight with the character of President Lincoln was expressed by Captain J. S. Welsh, of Houston, Texas, who spoke from a personal acquaintance with the martyred President. He praised in particular, also, the portrayal of the character of General Grant.

Captain and Mrs. Welsh have returned to their home after spending a week at the home of Mayor and Mrs. S. E. Ludwig, 2401 Bryden road.

Beauties Of Nature Are Finest Subjects For Photographs, Says Photographer Of Long Experience

"About the hardest thing for anyone to do, is to be natural before a camera.

Most folks think they are in a much bigger hurry than they really are.

And a great many people will stop to admire a beautiful picture, who would be totally blind to the same beauty if they were to look upon it in the original.

These are only three of the many interesting things that C. G. Richey has learned about people from his 32 years in photo graphy, 10 of which have been spent in his shop at 1497 East Main street.

A secret of good portrait photographs is in knowing that people cannot be natural when they try to be, according to Richey. If the shutter clicks at the moment that the "victim" says, "Ready," the result is likely to be a grave disappointment both to photographer and photographed. It shows, usually, a face set and expressionless, with glassy eyes and the appearance of being faced by a firing squad.

"Here's a story about a fellow who had the right idea of taking good portraits photographs," Richey said. He has a fund of good stories and he uses them much more than lengthy explanations to illustrate a point.

"This fellow was taking pictures of a woman who had a good many ideas of her own about the way she ought to look and pose for her photograph. After she's struck several poses, just trying out to see which one suited her best, she looked up at the photographer for advice.

"'Do you think I'd like it best to be standing up or sitting down? she wanted to know. And the photographer said, 'Well, I don't know how you'd like it best, but you were sitting down when I took it.'"

C. G. RICHEY

It's a story that amuses Richey every time he tells it, and it never fails to amuse his hearers, too. But it has in it the essense of good portraits.

"You have to snap them when they don't know it, to get a natural expression," he said.

Richey has done a great deal of such work in his time, having operated the popular tintype booths at a number of parks in the city. But it isn't the work he likes the best. It is Nature rather than people that he likes to use for the subjects of his pictures. The walls of his shop are lined, several rows deep, with these nature studies.

Simple things they are, just little glimpses into this corner of a woods, or the graceful winding of an old road, or the leaning of a great forest tree above a placid stream with a bit of sky in the background.

"The trouble with most people who go out with a camera to get landscape views, is that they crowd too much into their pictures," he explained. "There's the beauty of atmosphere, for instance, in an old broken down wagon, with one wheel off and the weeds growing high around it. But most people would look at that and call it a pile of junk and an eyesore."

Much of the work done in Richey's shop is that of developing films, making prints and enlargements.

"Its a funny thing how so many people take a lovely drive into the country and then when they decide to take a picture, they line the party up in front of some plain barn wall, with never a thought for the beautiful backgrounds that they might choose instead and make the picture a much beautiful one."

Why does he say that most folks think they are in a much bigger hurry than they really are?

"Well, they come in here with a roll of films and want it developed and printed in record time, and then maybe they won't call for them for two weeks," said he.

"One morning a man came in about 11 o'clock and wanted his pictures early in the afternoon. I asked him how long he'd carried the roll in his pocket and he grinned, a bit shamefaced, and said he guessed he'd carried it about two weeks. And sometimes these same people in such a rush for their pictures never do come back for them."

There are finished pictures in Richey's shop that have been ready and waiting to be called for, for more than a year.

All of his life Richey has been interested in photography. In this work he finds not only a business but a recreation of which he never tires. Even when he spends a vacation for his shop, usually in fishing or hunting, he has his camera with him and comes back, always, with more new pictures than fish or game.

"Three or four cameras, a fishing pole, a shot gun and a couple of hounds, — that's the equipment that I like to take on a vacation," he said.

GET A LINE ON THE ELECTION

In some quarters there is, but in all quarters there ought to be, at this time, an increasing interest in the candidates and the issues of the November election. The campaign to get out the vote is being waged by political organizations, by civic and study clubs, and by high-purposed societies. But getting the voters to the polls is no more important than that they go with knowledge and understanding of what they are going to do with their ballots, once there.

There are still, in the citizenship of the city and of every village, those who go to the polls because they want to cast their vote for or against one specific candidate or bond issue. But, every candidate in the race and every legislative measure upon which the public is asked to express an opinion, is deserving of more attention than five minutes on election day.

Find out, if you don't know now, what you are going to vote on three weeks from next Tuesday. Spend enough time in the investigation of the matter to understand clearly the issues and to weigh carefully the merits of candidates.

One hears, frequently, in a year when there are neither state nor national officers to be elected, that it is a "minor" election. The inference is that it is not of enough importance to be given more than a passing glance after it is over, just to see who has won in the races.

But from the ranks of those who are candidates in the so-called minor elections, rise those who become candidates in the major ones. Practically every great statesman has made his beginning in the service of his country, by election to a position to serve his township, his village, his native city. More than that, these men have the management of the affairs which touch closely the lives of the voters themselves.

A statement that is trite but true, is that it is the duty of every man and woman who has the privilege of voting, to vote at the elections no matter how "minor" they may seem to be. To this we would add, it is also the duty of every man and woman to understand the issues and to learn as much as possible about each and every one of the candidates, so that their votes may be cast intelligently.

NEW CAFETERIA IN JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL FEEDS 100 DAILY

The new cafeteria in the Junior High school in Cassingham road, was in full swing this week, having been opened for the first time on Monday. About 100 children patronized the cafeteria daily this week, and it is expected that there will be an increase in the number because of bad weather a little later in the school year.

Children living near the school are urged to return to their homes for their lunches, the primary purpose of the cafeteria being to serve only those who must come greater distances to the school, according to Superintendent of Schools H. C. Dieterich.

"By going to their homes for their lunch, the children benefit by the exercise of going back and forth, and their parents have the assurance that their children are receiving just the foods the parents wish them to have," he explained.

DECORATION STARTS FOR FALL FESTIVAL

and a number will give as many as 10.

The prizes will range from household furnishings and fittings such as articles of furniture, bedding, and kitchen, utensils, through a lengthy list of things to stock the pantry shelves, automobile accessories, and wearing apparel, to a deposit box in a bank, a credit for having a suit or dress dry cleaned and pressed, and an order for chicken dinners.

All Stores Open

All the business places will be open during the hours of the festival. But only those normally open at those hours during the evening, will do business. The crowds will visit the others only for inspection and for the prize hunt.

At the Miller-Main branch of the First Trust and Saving Bank, three officers from the parent bank down town, will be in attendance. These will be Avery Klinger, vice-president; Warren G. Paris, branch manager; and Ray Martin, assistant vice- president. The employees of the Miller-smaller articles will be provided by Wittenmeier for the prize hunt.

Although they are not within the two blocks where the affair will be held, the Eastern Electric Company and the LeRoy restaurant, just west of Loeffler avenue, also will enter into the festivities. A radio party has been planned by Manager Evans, of the Eastern Electric Company, and his list of prizes includes a flashlight, a boudoir lamp, and probably will include an electric iron. G. C. Tussing, manager and proprietor of the restaurant, will permit the public to inspect his equipment thoroughly, even in the kitchen.

Accessories, Clothing, Groceries

Special interior decorations in his dry goods store will be put up by Harry McCann, and his contributions to the prizes for the hunt will include a blanket, a bed spread, silk hosiery and silk underwear.

Main branch will conduct the crowds on a tour of inspection of the banking room and the vaults, — both the big vault for the safety deposit department, and the smaller one for the bank's money, and securities. Among the prizes which the bank will give in the prize hunt, will be three safety deposit boxes.

Variety In Awards

E. J. Wittenmeier, adjoining the bank, is arranging for a program by two radio broadcasting artists, in person, to be given in his tire and battery shop. A new tire and two new inner tubes, and a number of

At the Miller-Main garage, the list of prizes is headed by an electric wind-shield wiper, seat covers, a new tire, and a new inner tube. Prizes which are being offered for the hunt by the United States store will include a sack of sugar, a 25-lb. sack of flour, a side of bacon, and a ham, as well as a number of smaller articles, according to J. P. Hawk, manager.

Similar prizes to these are being given by the Atlantic and Pacific store, the Kroger store, and the Piggly-Wiggly store, it was said by their respective managers. Practically without exception these stores will have extra employees during the hours of the festival, to guide the crowds and to answer questions and give explanations during the tour of the stores.

Plan Demonstrations

Several demonstrations will be in the grocery of Edwin S. Stotz and Son. A demonstration of meats will be made by David Davies, and representatives of the Feiber Biscuit company, and of Airy Fairy cake flour, also, will be there. Samples probably will be found at the Stotz grocery include a ham, a sack of flour, and baskets of fruit and of groceries.

A representative of the Hanna Paint company, who will demonstrate the use of lacquer will occupy one of the display windows of the D. J. Fravel and Son hardware store. Among the prizes provided by this shop will be an electric toaster, a quart of lacquer, a flashlight, aluminum kettles, and pocket knives.

Souvenirs And Shoes

Prizes from the Brawley Shoe store will include shoes and slippers for both men and women. Souvenirs also are to be passed out to the crowd here.

Credits for jobs of dry cleaning and pressing are to be added to the prize list by the Radzek Bros. Tailoring shop.

An opportunity for the public to see the baking machinery will be given by Ye Home Bake Shop, and one large cake and other of the goods turned out by the machinery of the shop, will be provided as prizes.

Pictures, Pies And Cakes

Several mounted colored pictures, suitable to be hung in the home, are prizes which are on the list for the hunt, and which will be given by C. G. Richey's photography and enlarging shop.

Cakes and pies and an order for chicken dinners are prizes provided by the ElVern restaurant. Among those listed from the McClure-Mesbitt Motor company are an automobile heater and a spotlight.

A unique demonstration will be put on by the Nafzger Furniture home. A Supreme Florence coal burning stove will be set up on the lawn to the east of the store, and R. F. Gilliwan, representative of the C. Emrich Company, manufacturers, will demonstrate its heating powers. The list of prizes to be given by the furniture home will include an end table, a magazine basket, a bridge lamp, a picture and a Simmons bed. The store will have on special display for the occasion, furnishings for a complete home of kitchen, dining room, living room and bed room.

Novelty Prizes

A set of mixing bowls, a box of candy and a vase are to be prizes awarded by the Gossling and Yokum Novelty shop. The Harris drug store will give away as prizes a number of toilet articles. From the Wolf Shoe hospital, the prizes will be two pairs of soles and heels, a full bottom job of repair work, and shoe polish.

Bushel baskets of assorted groceries will be the prizes furnished by Fowler grocery. The Braun Radio shop will contribute to the prize list a B battery and a 301-A Cunningham tube. At the Miller-Main restaurant, there will be prizes of a cake, a pie, and an order for two dinners. Articles as high in value as $1.50 are to be given away by the Mykrantz Drug store at the corner of Miller and Main.

Joining the merchants in East Main street, for the festival is the G and R. Electric Company, in Kelton avenue. The prize which this shop is giving for the prize hunt is a lamp with pleated parchment shade.

TORCH STAFF HOLDS ANNUAL FALL PARTY

With a banquet and stunt party the members of the staff of "The Torch," the Bexley High School monthly paper, were entertained at their annual fall party in the high school cafeteria Tuesday evening.

Miss Dorothy Kelly, editor-in-chief, presided over the program of after dinner speeches. Talks were made by Miss Kelly and by Stewart Hirsch, business manager, and by H. C. Deiterich, superintendent of the Bexley schools. The feature of the stunt program was a contest in which each person was given one word for the subject of a news story to be written with headlines.

Autumn flowers and the school colors were combined in attractive decorations for the banquet tables. Besides the staff there were present, Mr. and Mrs. Dieterich; Mr. Russell E. Kessler, principal of the high school, and Mrs. Kessler; and the faculty advisers of the publication, Mrs. Amy C. Brightman, and Miss Ruth C. Geist.

to permit him to fence in, for their better protection, certain trees on village property adjacent to the Jeffrey grounds.

To Issue Permit

An end, so far as the village was concerned, was put to the controversy which arose recently concerning the erection of a house on lot 308 in N. Ardmore road. Property owners in the vicinity had protested the erection of the building on the grounds that it was not in accordance with the zoning ordinance. Robert S. Dingledine reported to council that no amicable settlement of the dispute had been reached by those concerned. A motion was made and passed to instruct Building Inspector Dunlop to issue the permit for the construction of the proposed house by Reynolds.

Mary and John, happy, gay and bright,
Took Stella and Will for a ride one night.
When around a curve a wild driver flew.
A crash, a bang, a lapse of a minute or so,

There it is away down in the mud;
It went over the bank with an awful thud.
Now said John to Will: who can get it out?
MILLER-MAIN GARAGE, said Will, without a doubt.

BEXLEY M. E. CHURCH MOVES TO JUNIOR HIGH AUDITORIUM

The congregation of the Bexley Methodist Episcopal church will move on Sunday from the Loy auditorium on the Capital University campus, to the auditorium of the new Junior High school in Cassingham road. The latter location will be used for the regular church services until the first unit of the new church home in East Broad street, now under construction is completed.

This decision was reached at the official board meeting of the church this week. A plan has been under consideration to build a roof over the basement of the new unit, already constructed. But it was decided to complete the entire unit before occupying any part of it. The first unit will provide ample quarters for all religious education of the church, and will provide, on the second floor an auditorium with a seating capacity of 500.

With removal into the auditorium of the Junior High school this week the church will inaugurate its regular Sunday evening services, starting this Sunday at 7:30 o'clock.

Pastor Will Take Role In Community Pageant

Rev. Harold F. Hohly, pastor of St Albans Episcopal church of Bexley will have the role of "Revelation," in the "Pageant of Humanity," which is to be given in the Columbus auditorium, October 26 to 28 inclusive. The pageant will be a feature of the community exposition.

LT. WALTER AVERY IS SUPERVISOR OF AIRWAYS FOR NATION

The chartering of new airways, the establishment of proper landing fields the business of seeing that they are correctly lighted and assisting in other aeronautical activities, — this will be the work of Walter L. Avery 1119 Bryden road, who has gone to Washington, D. C., to assume his duties as supervisor of airways for the United States department of commerce.

Lieut. Avery was one of Columbus' best-known war-time fliers. He was in command of a fighting squadron in defense of Paris when the Germans started their historic drive on that city in the summer of 1918. Later he was transferred to the 95th squadron of the First American pursuit group, and went with this outfit through the offensives at Chateau Thierry, the Vesle river, St. Mihiel and the Argonne.

Just nine years ago this month Lieut. Avery was shot down by a German flying circus while he was flying at an altitude of 20,000 feet behind the German lines.

For seven years Lieut. Avery abandoned all flying but a little more than a year ago, began making flights from Norton field. A month ago he spent two weeks in acrobatic training with his old outfit, the First Pursuit group, at Selfridge field, Mt. Clemens, Mich.

AWAIT DECREE OF COURT IN GRADE CROSSING PLANS

Ordinances Being Drawn Ready To Proceed As Soon As Possible

The hope of the East Side and Bexley for the elimination of grade crossings over the Norfolk and Western railroad tracks in Livingston avenue, East Main street, Bryden road, Franklin Park south, and Broad street, as well as in east and west streets to the north of East Broad street, rests at present upon the decision of Judges Fermedine, Allread and Kunkle, of the Fourth district court of appeals.

N. & W. Gets Ready

While awaiting the decision of the court, the railroad officials are said to be making ready the ordinances which they will submit to city council to be passed in order that work to eliminate the crossings may proceed as fast as possible. At the same time, however, the Eastgate residents who have caused the delay of the work by their protest against the removal of the tracks to a location further east, which the railroad proposes to make in connection with the grade elimination work, have let it be known that it is their intention to carry the case to a higher court in the event of a decision against them in the court of appeals.

Council Favorable

Bonds have been issued for the work, contracts are ready and practically everything is set for the work of building the overhead crossings, as soon as the Eastgate suit is disposed of. The city council would have to approve ordinances vacating certain streets and alleys, but it is generally understood that the council is favorable to the proposal of the railroad officials.

According to City Engineer Simpson very few of the city streets in the grade crossing program, will be lowered under the plans. A lowering in East Main street, however, will be necessary because of the grade leading to the present tracks.

A right of way is to be sought, also over Maryland avenue and here it is planned to place a viaduct 200 feet long.

Increased Clearance

The revision of plans by the railroad company will increase the average clearance on all the streets, according to the city engineer. The roadbed of the railroad would clear Livingston avenue by 15 feet; East Main street by 16 feet; Bryden road by 15½ feet; Franklin Park South, by 15 feet; and East Broad street by 16 feet.

Increased cost in the elevation of the roadbed under the revised plans, will be borne by the Norfolk and Western railroad company, it has been announced. The city's share of the cost of the grade crossing elimination program will be based on original plans.

Seeks To Study Under Tetrazzini

It is in the hope of studying voice under Tetrazzini that Miss Sara Blasberg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. Blasberg, 1617 Bryden road, has gone to Italy for an indefinite stay.

Miss Blasberg has spent six seasons in New York studying voice under Sembrich. She sailed Monday from New York on the French liner, De Vrasse. She will spend a short time in Paris before going to Milan where she expects to remain throughout the winter.

Harold Yochum, of Fostoria, instructor in Latin, will act as assistant coach. A girls' team will be formed and many trips are planned for the debaters.

A 16-piece orchestra from the Capital University Conservatory of Music, gave a concert Wednesday afternoon at a tea at the governor's mansion at which Mrs. Donahey was hostess to the wives of members of the American Association of Civil Engineers, now holding its annual convention at the Neil House.

The orchestra was directed by Wilbur Crist, also director of the Glee club and band. Assisting on the program were Ellis E. Snyder, vocalist; Raymond Vogeley, violinist; Miss Selma Reece, soprano; and Harold Moench, pianist.

At the home of the officiating minister, Rev. Dr. Samuel S. Palmer, 44 North Ohio avenue, the marriage of Miss Ruth E. Kuhn, daughter of Mrs. Anna Kuhn, 936 East Main street, to Mr. Ralph H. Given, son of Mrs. Ada Belle Given Smith, 182 Yale avenue, will take place Monday. Following the ceremony a supper will be given for the couple by the bride's mother, at her home.

Will Be Representatives At Child League Meeting

Mrs. E. C. Andrus, 920 Euclaire avenue, and Mrs. L. L. Moitel, 748 Sheridan road, will go to Marion next Wednesday to represent the Eastern Circle of the Child Conservation League, at its three-day state convention there.

Mrs. Andrus is president of the Eastern circle, and Mrs. Moitel is president of the City Federation of the Child Conservation league.

Mrs. N. S. Cook, 1036 E. Livingston avenue, has returned from a week's visit with her niece in Chicago and with her brother in Indianapolis.

A $12,000 home is to be erected at C. A. Brandes by 228 South Ardmore road, and this represents the largest single valuation in the list. The house will be of two-story brick construction and will have seven rooms.

A permit for a two-story brick house to cost $9,500 and to be erected at 88 North Remington road, was issued to D. C. Sternberner. Another, for a two-story, stone and shingle dwelling at 164 South Sherwood road, with an estimated cost of $9,000, was issued to Edgar W. Dean. An $8,000 two-story brick is to be constructed for F. A. Wassmuth at 272 So. Ardmore road.

Seven thousand dollars is the valuation of each of three new homes. These will be a six-room, two-story, frame and shingle at 36 North Ardmore road to be built by J. P. GOOD READING IS ENCOURAGED AMONG CHILDREN, BY PLAN

The home reading plan of the Bexley public schools is now in operation and school officials expressed themselves as being pleased with the manner in which the pupils have accepted it.

The purpose of the plan is to encourage the reading of good books among the children, and to establish a habit which they will carry with them through life, it was explained by H. C. Dieterich, superintendent of the schools.

Each child is required to read a book a month under the plan, the books to be chosen from a list carefully selected by the superintendent and the librarian of the Bexley Public library. Each grade in the schools is provided with a list recommended for children of that age.

At the end of the year, those boys and girls who have completed the reading successfully are awarded a certificate setting forth what they have accomplished.

HIRAM IS FOE IN HOMECOMING GAME AT CAP SATURDAY

Lutherans Will Wear Beards If Game Is Lost

Capital gridders will meet their second conference foe Saturday when they play Hiram at Columbus. The Lutherans went down to the tune of 64-2 at the hands of the powerful Muskingum eleven last week, but hope to turn in a victory this week. It will be the annual homecoming game for Capital. Hiram has not won a conference tilt as yet, but may show surprising strength against the Lutherans. The Columbus team defeated Cedarville in the season's opener, but went down in defeat the following weeks to Bluffton and Muskingum.

As a result of the tremendous drubbing handed them last week by the Muskingum huskies, Capital gridders have vowed not to shave or to visit any tonsorial palaces until they have defeated an Ohio Conference foe. The entire squad is in on the House of David agreement and, if the Hiram game turns out to be a debit, there will be several handsome visages concealed behind heavy hirsute growths.

The homecoming game with Hiram College will be the initial opening of football relations with that school and Capital. Formerly, relations were kept on the basketball court, but were discontinued several years ago, until some time when Capital should enter the Conference. With their entrance into the circle of the elite, Capital again was recognised by Hiram.

BEXLEY BRANCH POST OFFICE ASSURED

A branch post office for Bexley is assured in the near future. This became known just as the Eastern Times is going to press for this week.

Several months ago Mayor Ludwig appointed a special committee of embers of the village council, with Councilman Samuel Betz as chairman, to confer with post office officials relative to establishing this branch.

Definite announcement was made late Thursday by Chairman Betz that the request of the Bexley council had been acted upon favorably, and that the necessary steps will be taken in the immediate future to bring this branch to Bexley. Meanwhile the committee is assisting the post office department in finding a desirable location and a person to assume charge.

KARB URGES LEVY TO INCREASE PAY OF POLICE, FIREMEN

George Karb, 1788 Bryden road, former mayor, and president of the Central Ohio Oil Company, is taking an active part in the police and fire department drive to obtain a $25 monthly increase through the vote of the people at the November election. The proposal will be placed on the ballot in the form of a one-third of a mill levy.

"The mayor, his cabinet and the council all approve the increase," Karb declared, "and only lack of funds prevented them from making good the oft repeated promises for a salary increase to the men. The city officials had endorsed the levy as the only legal way to obtain necessary funds to raise the salaries in the safety divisions."

"Business men throughout the city are heartily in favor of the issue," Karb said.

He urges every person to remember that the one third mill levy for current expenses mean a well-deserved increase for the city's protectors.

Karb says he has watched the police and fire departments grow — that in order to maintain the efficient service which these two organizations give, a raise in salary is imperative.

For the first six months a member of the police department, Karb points out, receives $150 a month from which he must pay nearly $200 each year for uniforms and equipment. His average wage, although skill is required in performance of his duties, is less than that of common labor.

A number of football fans from Bexley will go to Ann Arbor for the Ohio State-Michigan game Saturday, aboard the special coaches reserved by the Young Business Men's club. J. A. The following have made reservations with McClure: William R. Diehl, 308 Parkview avenue, for himself and family; Arch E. Houstle, 2583 Bryden road; Mr. and Mrs. Fritz Lichtenberg, 2508 Bexley Park road; Walter Malley, 2478 Bryden road; Clarence E. Palmer, 340 South Parkview avenue; Mr. and Mrs. Harry T. CLUB FAVORS BOND ISSUE FOR POLICE AND CITY FIREMEN

Endorsement of the one-third mill levy for the purpose of increasing the salaries of city policemen and firemen has been made by the East Main Street and Bexley Commercial club, it was announced Thursday by Gordon A Brawley, president of the club.

At the regular meeting of the club last week a committee was appointed by the president to approve or disapprove the various bond issues to be submitted to vote at the November election. No action on any other of the bond issues has been announced.

PRESBYTERY TAKES BEXLEY CHURCH AS OFFICIAL MEMBER

Permanent Organization To Be Effected October 30

Great patience, the willingness to bear hardship for Christ's sake, and the ability to work steadily and without growing weary are qualities which make for the winning, overcoming church Rev. W. J. Zuck, representing the Columbus presbytery, told members of the newly organized Bexley Presbyterian church at its official reception into the presbytery on Sunday afternoon in the Bexley High School auditorium.

Approximately 150 persons were present at the organization services. Dr. Zuck spoke following the introduction of members of the new church by the pastor-elect, Rev. Dr. John L. Tait.

"Many a church can meet an emergency but cannot settle down to the daily grind," Dr. Zuck told the new congregation. "The work of Jesus Christ can never be done by spasms and splurges, but only by the ability to get a shoulder under the commonplace load and to walk on and on with it."

Following its formal reception into the presbytery, the church will hold a congregational meeting at 11 o'clock Sunday morning, October 30, for the purpose of electing elders, trustees, and deacons and forming its permanent organization. It is expected that Rev. Dr. William Oxley Thompson will be present at that time, to represent the presbytery and act as moderator of the meeting.

One hundred names were enrolled on the petition of the church to the presbytery, and 79 members have joined the congregation since that time.

The sermon at the organization meeting last Sunday, was delivered by Rev. Dr. Arthur H. Limouse, pastor of Northminster church and chairman of the committee appointed by the presbytery to represent it. He used as his subject, "And They Journeyed in the Wilderness Toward the Sunrising," taking his text from Numbers 21:11.

Preceding the service, a half hour's musical program was given by the Bible School orchestra, directed by Tyler Brightman, and with Mrs. Samuel Betz, as accompanist. Just before the closing of the service, greetings to the members of the new church were extended by a number of guest pastors.

Rev. Dr. Frank H. Throop brought greetings from the Central Presbyterian church; Rev. Dr. Zuck, from West Broad Street church; Rev Mr. Tom Penn Ullom, from the Presbyterian church of Worthington; Rev. Dr. Limouse, from Northminster church; Rev. Dr. D. H. Cramer, from the Presbyterian Church of Linden; Reverend I. Marshall Page from the Boulevard church, the last to be received into the presbytery before the Bexley church; and Dr. Henry Foreman, formerly of India.

ESTIMATE BETWEEN 12,000 AND 15,000 IN ATTENDANCE

Prize Hunt Leads Crowd Through All Stores In District as Search Is Made for 200 Awards.

MERCHANTS ARE HOSTS; GUESTS THRONG STORES

The sides of Main street, between Kelton avenue and Loeffler avenue would have bulged if they could, with the throngs of men, women and children that accepted the invitation of the business men to the second annual Miller-Main Fall Festival Wednesday evening.

A crowd of between 12,000 and 15,000 persons, is was estimated by members of the committee in charge of arrangements for the affair, attended the big street and store party. These figures are larger by between 3,000 and 5,000 than the estimated crowds at last year's festival.

In their eagerness, the crowds arrived in large numbers a good half hour before the stores were thrown open at 7 o'clock. For three hours, thereafter, they poured over the street and in and out of the stores in a veritable flood of humanity.

There was laughter and gayety and fun. The merchants were the hosts. They came out from behind their counters and met the guest with genial smiles, friendly handshakes, and pleasant greetings as become those who proffer hospitality. That was at first. Later, many of them found the crowds arriving in such overwhelming numbers that they must need add to their host's duties, that also of directing traffic.

Until late in the evening, the crowds flowed in steady streams through the aisles of the shops, and in and out of the entrances of all the business places in the two blocks. And though each store was packed to capacity, the street was full, too. Street cars, the only vehicular traffic allowed between Kelton avenue and Loeffler avenue, were forced to move at a snail's pace and with constantly clanging bell through the throngs.

The weather man had set a perfect night for the festival. There was the tang of autumn in the air, but just enough to be invigorating. And there was a bit of the spirit of Hallowe'en which added to the festive feeling.

The brilliance of footlights upon a stage, was thrown upon the scene by the new high-powered lights which have been procured for all time by the business men of the vicinity, but which had been installed just in time for the festival. A carnival touch was added by the decorations of flags and bunting which had been draped from poles lining Main street.

Special entertainment was provided by the Capital University band at Miller avenue and Main street, and by a dance orchestra in Main street, near Kelton avenue. It was the band, parading from the Capital campus, under escort of motorcycle officers of the Columbus police department, that announced the formal opening of the stores and the beginning of the festival.

But the feature of entertainment that had the greatest number of followers, was the prize hunt. Apparently, the entire crowd was playing

Turns Make Most Trouble To Motorists; Drivers Are Better Educated Now In Care Of Car

If roads had no turnings, garage owners might have to go out of business.

For it is the making of the turns by the motorists, that brings more business to the garage man than any other single factor in modern automobiling, according to Zade R. Petty, who operates, at 2236 East Main street, the only repair garage in Bexley.

Petty's business is one of the oldest in Bexley, having been established when all the business places in the village could be counted on the fingers of one hand, though that was only eight years ago. The experiences of those eight years have taught Petty a great deal about the modern motorist, a great deal, perhaps, that the motorist doesn't know himself.

Now if it weren't for the turns, he'd get into far less trouble, so says Petty.

"They're careless when they turn right and left in traffic" he explained. "A lot of the people who drive automobiles today don't even know how to make a right hand turn, much less a left hand one.

"As for turning out to pass another car, — I think I can say truthfully, that every accident I've seen between here and Buckeye Lake, on the National road, has been caused by one driver, turning out to pass another car without rightly calculating the speed of an approaching car from the opposite direction.

"Trouble on the road would be decreased considerably, too, if every driver would drive with a sense of fairness to the other fellow. I'm optimistic enough to think that 90 per cent of the motorists are fair-minded, but that remaining 10 per cent causes a lot of grief.

"Here's another thing. A speed cop is the motorist's best friend, though most of the motorists don't seem to know it. But as a matter of fact, the speed cop, is a safeguard against the unfairness of that 10 per cent. You know, in a football game if a player cheats, he gets penalized. Well, the same thing ought to apply in driving automobiles."

The automobile driver today is far better educated in how to take care of his car and how to prolong its life by good treatment, Petty declared.

"We used to have to grind valves in a car four times a year, maybe more," he explained. "Now that the drivers have learned the importance of changing oil and greasing regularly, the machines that have needed valves ground four times a year, now need it only once a year.

"The number of little repair jobs caused by former lack of attention, has shown a considerable decrease, traceable, also, to regular oiling and greasing."

Jobbing around for automobile repairs is bad business, according to Petty.

"The motorists who have the most trouble are the ones who job around from garage to garage," he said. "The driver of a car ought to pick out one garage, as he picks his family doctor or lawyer, and stick to it, for the best service. Then, like the doctor, the mechanic understands the history of the case and can make a diagnosis quicker and remedy the trouble easier.

"In this day and age of motors, the mechanic must be as skilled in his profession as a good doctor.

"I believe our garage is safe in laying claim to the distinction of being the only one in the state that has turned out a minister. William A. Allen, who used to work with us here, is now the Rev. Mr. Allen, who is pastor of two Methodist churches, one in Linworth and another in the country near there."

Petty is a man who has watched the village of Bexley grow from nothing at all except a little unnamed settlement on the National road, to its present size and importance. He has lived in its present confines since 1904. For many years he worked with his father who operated a dairy just south of Main street.

"We pastured our cows where Euclaire avenue is now," he said. "At that time everything east of Drexel avenue, south of Main street was farm land. When Capital university built its gymnasium, the building was located in a field which had been used the year before for corn and potatoes.

Just 20 years ago, Petty said he carried mail to the residents of the vicinity, all of whom he knew then by name. In these two decades, he said, he has seen the population increase seven times its original figure.

It was the Pleasant Ridge Improvement association, he declared, that was the seed which grew the present village government. Among its most active members, Petty remembered, H. Sage Valentine, a candidate this year for mayor of Columbus; O. P. Dunlop, George Execian, A. R. Geist, and Frank Holzman.

The big increase in business in the village has come in the years since Petty established his garage. At that time he said the only business places besides his own were McVey's confectionery near the foot of the hill, the Capital Barber shop, Stuckey's Drug store and Klingbiel's grocery located in the building on the northwest corner of Drexel avenue and East Main street.

PLAN EXERCISES TO DEDICATE NEW SCHOOL BUILDING

PUBLIC INSPECTION

Formal dedication of the new Bexley Junior High school in Cassingham road, will be made with a three-day program, November 2, 3, and 4, and will constitute, also, the observance of the Bexley public schools of national education week which will be celebrated throughout the country the week of Nov. 7.

The first meeting this year of the Bexley Parent-Teacher Association, will be the first event in the three-day dedicatory program. This meeting will take place at 7:30 o'clock, Wednesday evening, November 2, in the building.

It will be in the nature of a reception to all teachers in the system this year, and an inspection of the new building by members of the association. The meeting will open with a program of entertainment after which the reception will be held, followed by the inspection of the building.

To Give Travel Talks

Miss Ruth C. Geist, teacher of English in the senior high school, will be a speaker on the program, using as her subject some of her experiences on her trip to the South Sea Islands last summer. Miss Selma Hermann, teacher of Spanish in the senior high school, will talk on her travel experiences in the West Indies last summer. There will be special music, also.

Officers of the association are Mrs. William Diehl, president; H. C. Dieterich, superintendent of the schools, and vice-president; Miss Mary Bethel, secretary; and Mrs. Ray Teagarden, treasurer.

Student Program

Students of both junior and senior high schools will take part in the dedication with a chapel program on Thursday afternoon, November 3, in the new building. Following the program the students of the senior high school will be given an opportunity to inspect the new building.

Public meetings are to be held Thursday evening and Friday evenings, November 3 and 4. Leading educators have been invited to speak on these occasions, and music will be furnished by the musical organization in all three buildings of the Bexley public schools. The programs will be similar except that different speakers will be heard each evening. Two such meetings have been planned according to superintendent Dieterich, in order that the residents of the village may have a choice of dates, and that the crowd may not be overwhelming for either meeting.

Morrison To Head Road Department At Capital

Announcement has been made of the appointment of Edward Morrison, 73 North Princeton avenue, as head of the road department of the Capital University Conservatory of Music. Morrison has been connected with the conservatory in part-time work in the past, but his work now will be full time. He was for seven years assistant to John H. Gill.

HAVE YOU THOUGHT OF THESE THINGS

We are not the kind of an editor who desires to do your thinking for you. But occasionally we do want to ask you to do a little thinking along certain lines. Just now we want you think for a few minutes of the merchants, the business and professional men of your neighborhood.

It has occurred to you many times, no doubt, that they are dependent upon you for their existence. Has it ever occurred to you that you too are dependent upon them for much in your lives that you are likely to take for granted?

They are the nucleus of your community. Many of you were here before they were, you say. Undoubtedly. But it was their coming, their working together, that built the section into a community of its own instead of permitting it to gon on as just so many streets in he city residence disrict. To them must go the credit for planting the seed of community spirit.

Indirectly to them must go much of the credit for the establishment of a community newspaper. They do not own, manage or control your neighborhood paper in any way, but without their patronage the newspaper could not hope to continue. Through the columns of the Eastern Times they tell you in what way they can serve you, and they pay for the permission to tell you.

If you would do your part to further your community, read their messages to you, and then patronize their stores, their shops and their offices. You will find there the best service obtainable, and you will be contributing materially to the growth of a better community spirit.

Once A Pickle Jar Now An Antique Lamp

I found it in grandmother's cellar —an old stone pickle jar, badly smeared with sealing wax. Its graceful lines appealed to me and I cleaned it up and used it for a vase. A few days later I spied a similar jar converted into a beautiful lamp with a hand painted pleated parchment shade. I found out that the G. and R. Electric Shop did the work and had mine fixed just like it. I now have a much treasured lamp out of grandmother's old pickle jar.

MILLER-MAIN FESTIVAL DRAWS THOUSANDS TO ANNUAL STREET PARTY

the game, arranged by the merchants as the special feature of the evening. It led from one store to another until all had been visited. It was a game in which the winners of prizes had to find their own gifts.

Of the 200 prizes offered by the various stores which took part in the festival, practically all were located by the winners some time during the evening.

That the fame of East Main street has spread through the giving of the annual Fall Festival, was evidenced by the many new faces which were to be seen. Several business men commented on the unusual number of hitherto strangers to their stores, who were among the Festival guests.

The unqualified success of the affair this year, practically makes definite the plan to hold such a Fall Festival each year.

Special committees of business men, working under Gordon A. Brawley, executive chairman, had the festival arrangements in charge. Members of these committees were: decorations, Fred Heiser, Harry McCann, and E. J. Wittenmeier; amusements, B. C. Nafziger, James A. McClure, and Ralph Stygler, who also was treasurer of the festival; and publicity, Ray Fischer, Walter Stotz and A. O. Harris.

The following business concerns took part in the Festival: McCann Dry Goods company, Atlantic and Pacific Tea company, Miller-Main garage, United States store, Stearns Motor Sales, Nafziger Furniture Home, Kroger Grocery and Baking company, Mykrants Drug store, Wolf Shoe hospital, Piggly-Wiggly, D. J. Fraval and Son, Harris pharmacy.

You cannot perform your first great duty of citizenship if you fail to obey the election laws governing registration!
Columbus is an annual general registration city under the Elections Code. This means that YOU must register this year! Don't neglect YOUR duty!
Your Last Chance to REGISTER
Friday, October 21st.
Saturday, October 22nd.
Hours of Registration:
8 a. m. to 2 p. m., and from 4 p. m. to 9 p.m.

If you have pride in citizenship you will not neglect your first, prime and essential duty as a citizen.
That first duty is to have a part in civic affairs, and civil government!
The Will of the People Is Expressed at the Ballot Box! Do Not Allow Minorities to Govern and Dictate Elections and Civic Policies!
REGISTER and VOTE
And when casting your ballot on November 8th remember that you are deeply interested in the peace, welfare and safety of your home city, and the wage and working conditions of your policemen and firemen, on whom you rely and depend for protection and safety, for yourself and family, in time of fire, flood, robbery, danger or distress!
If you appreciate faithful service from the Department of Public Safety of your city you will of course vote for the one-third mill levy, which will make possible the salary adjustments for your firemen and policemen.
This proposal is first upon the Levy and Bond ballot.
ELECTION HELD IN THE CITY OF COLUMBUS, FRANKLIN COUNTY, OHIO, NOVEMBER 8, 1927.
A tax for the benefit of the City of Columbus for the purpose of meeting the current expenses of said City at a rate not exceeding one-third mill for a period of three years, including the current year.
Mark Your Ballot thus:
X FOR THE TAX LEVY
AGAINST THE TAX LEVY
Seven hundred and thirty-four faithful firemen and policemen will benefit from the ratification of this proposal, which was unanimously submitted by action of your city council.
The additional assessment amounts to but 90 cents per annum on a property listed at $3,000.00. Surely this is a minimum consideration when one considers his premium on fire, theft, and life insurance, all of which rates are computed on the security of life and property in the city wherein one resides, and wherein the greatest factor in determining rates is the efficiency of the Fire and Police Departments.
May we not have favorable consideration and your affirmative vote in this matter?
Respectfully
THE FIRE AND POLICE ADJUSTMENT COMMITTEE.

PUPILS, TEACHERS, PARENTS JOIN IN WEEK'S PROGRAMS

Schools of East Side Announce Elaborate Plans To Observe National Education Week

EACH DAY'S SIGNIFICANCE

With special programs scheduled to take place in all public school buildings, and with invitations issued to parents, in particular, and the public, in general, to visit the buildings and observe classroom activities, the schools of the East Side have made extensive plans for the observance of National Education week, beginning Monday, October 31.

Each day will have its special significance in the week, in accordance with the outline suggested by the education department. In some of the buildings the outline has been altered to particular needs, but each day will be set apart for the consideration of some special phase of education. In addition to the programs arranged for various groups of the children, by classrooms, on each day, most of the East Side buildings will hold assemblies at which addresses will be made and to which parents have been urged to come.

At East High

The big event of the week at East High school will be a meeting for pupils, teachers and parents in the high school auditorium, at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning. The chief speaker for this occasion will be Attorney John Vorys, and the meeting will be under the direction of the Parent-Teacher association of the building.

Teachers of all subjects will hold classroom programs each day. Monday will be known, at East, as Intelligent Citizenship day and will receive attention in the history department. Tuesday will be Health day and will have a special observance in the physical education department. Wednesday, will be the Wise Use of Leisure day and will be stressed in the English department. Thursday will be Scholarship and Training for Citizenship day and in its observance, the departments of mathematics and science will have a special role.

At Roosevelt

Programs during the activity periods each day and two auditorium programs will mark the observance at Theodore Roosevelt Junior High school. The programs in the auditorium will be held during the activity periods on Wednesday and Thursday, half the enrollment taking part each day. It is on these days that parents are urged to visit the building, though they will be welcomed at other times in the week, as well. Each of the students' organizations will hold appropriate exercises during the activities periods on Monday, Tuesday and Friday, and others will take place in the registration rooms.

At Franklin

At Franklin Junior High School, the observance started early with a meeting last night under the auspices of the Parent-Teacher association, and at which members of the board of education and candidates for election to that body made addresses.

One day is to be set apart next week at Franklin, when parents will

Dr. Keil Is Appointed Prison Physician

Subject to civil service examination, the provisional appointment of Dr. George W. Keil, 1350 Franklin avenue, as prison physician, has been announced by Warden P. E. Thomas. Dr. Keil is to assume his new duties November 9.

He was graduated from the Graduate College of Physicians and Surgeons, Columbia university, in the class of 1912. He was formerly surgical interne at the New York Polyclinic Medical school and hospital, an instructor in the College of Medical Evangelists, Los Angeles-Loma Lind, California; anethetist at Grant hospital, and became, later, an instructor in the medical college of Ohio State university.

Edits South Side Paper

Miss Dorothy Finkelstein, 688 Wilson avenue, is the new editor of the South Side Advocate, a community newspaper in the south side. She assumed her duties this week.

Miss Finkelstein was graduated from Ohio State university last June. She took several courses in journalism while there.

POST OFFICE IN VILLAGE WILL BE SERVICE STATION

Will Make No Change In Present Free Delivery Of Mail To Homes

Applications for the location of the new post office sub-station in Bexley, are being investigated as rapidly as possible, according to Councilman Samuel Bets, chairman of the committee which announced last week that negotiations had been completed with the post office authorities for the establishment of the sub-station. It is the plan to get the location and have the station in operation for the convenience of the residents of the village in the immediate future.

Reports have reached him, Bets said, of a misunderstanding in the village regarding the operation of the sub-station.

"Some persons seem to think that the establishment of the sub-station will mean that the people will be required to call for their mail and that free delivery to the homes will be discontinued," he explained. "This is a mistaken impression.

"The present free delivery service to Bexley homes will not be affected in any way by the bringing of the new sub-station to the village.

Rather, the new station will be a service station. It will be a place where money orders will be issued, where mail may be registered and insured, where packages may be weighed and stamps may be purchased.

"By bringing this service closer to their homes, Bexley residents will not need to go outside the village for such things."

MANY WIN PRIZES IN FEATURE HUNT AT FALL FESTIVAL

Awards Include Groceries, Clothing, Home Furnishings and Accessories

Of the thousands who enjoyed the hospitality of the Miller-Main merchants at the second annual Fall Festival held in the street and stores of the vicinity of the Miller avenue and Main street corner, many took home with them not only the memory of an evening of carnival enjoyment and a better comprehension of the growing business district there, but prizes as well.

The prize hunt which was the feature entertainment provided for the evening, led the crowds through practically all the stores in the section in search of awards which were made by the various business places.

Only a partial list of all those who won prizes has been reported to the committee on amusements, of which Harry McCann was chairman. In some cases names of the prize winners were not recorded by the stores, and in some cases the list had not been sent to the committee chairman. The partial list reported, follows.

Winners at McCann's Dry Goods store: Mrs. J. D. Hystery, 2480 Seneca Park place, blanket; Mrs. Alma

MUST PASS LEVY TO KEEP SCHOOLS GOING FULL TIME, IS PLEA

Proposed Levy Is Renewal of One Now In Effect.

The failure of the three-mill levy for school purposes, to pass the approval of the voters in the November election, would place the Columbus school in the embarrassing position of being able to contract with teachers and maintain the schools for not longer than six months, according to Columbus school officials.

Pointing out that the three-mill levy is a renewal of a levy now in effect, members of the board of education and school officials are maintaining a busy schedule of speaking dates before clubs and organizations of all kinds in the city.

The following statement of the levy and the needs for it, has been issued by school officials.

"For the past eight years the Ohio laws have provided for part of school funds by a certain limited tax levy. The laws further provide that the remainder be subject to approval of the people at certain periods, thereby giving local control over part of the expenditures for school purposes. In keeping with this policy the voters of Columbus approved a 3-mill levy in 1920 for five years and a 2.4 mill levy in 1925 for three years. The present 2.4 mill levy expires in June, 1928, making it necessary to submit the question of the 2-mill levy this November.

It is of the greatest importance that this 3-mill levy be approved if the schools are to be maintained in accordance with the standards which have been established. A conservative estimate shows this amount to be necessary.

The present 2.4-mill levy produces approximately 1,440,000 annually, which is one-third of the school income for operating purposes. The 3-mill levy will produce $1,800,000 annually, an increase of $360,000.00. This increase is made necessary by an annual increase of enrollment of 1400 pupils, requiring additional teachers, and the operating of additional new buildings, such as Open Air, McGuffey, Champion Addition, McKinley Junior High, Indianola Junior High, and new West High.

Failure to approve the 3-mill levy will reduce the income of the Columbus schools by one-third. This would place the schools of Columbus in a very embarrassing position, by making it impossible to contract with teachers and maintain schools for a longer term than six months."

Miss Eich Is Elected By University Women

Miss Justina Eich, new dean of girls this year at Capital university, was honored by the American Association of University Women in recent convention in Youngstown. Miss Eich was elected secretary of the organization.

Miss Tallant Takes Part In Stadium Dedication

Bexley people who attended the Michigan-Ohio State game in Ann Arbor last Saturday felt a special prominence and a special pride in the ceremonies attending the dedication of the stadium, preceding the game, when a young woman of Bexley played the role of representative of Ohio State in the exchange of manifestations of good will.

Miss Catherine Tallant, 2449 Dale avenue, presented Captain Bennie Oosterbaan, of the Michigan team, with a huge chrysanthemum as a symbol of good feeling of Ohio State toward Michigan. Captain Ted Meyer, of the State team, was presented with a similar token of Michigan's good feeling, by a Michigan co-ed.

MORE WATER LINES WILL BE LAID IN STREETS OF BEXLEY

TO REPAIR MOUND STREET

City water mains will be laid in several streets in Bexley as a result of ordinances passed by the village council at its regular meeting Tuesday evening.

The ordinances were passed to levy assessments for the laying of six-inch lines in Westland avenue from Fair avenue to Park Hill drive; in Remington road from Maryland avenue to Ruhl avenue, and in Ruhl avenue from Cassingham road to the east corporation line of the village.

An effort is being put forth by the village fathers to provide less expensive express delivery in Bexley. Discussion of alleged excessive delivery charges, led to the decision to write a letter of protest of such charges to the state utilities commission.

Petitions were presented to the council seeking the installation of lighting standards in Maryland avenue from Walnut street to Cassady road, and seeking, also, to have the name of Walnut street changed to Northview drive. These were referred to committees having these matters in charge, and will be acted upon at a future meeting.

A resolution was passed accepting the amounts and rates as determined by the budget commission and authorizing the necessary tax levies and certifying them to the county auditor.

The next regular meeting night of the council was set for Wednesday, November 9, being postponed one day in order not to conflict with election night.

SYMPHONY CLUB COMPLETES PLANS TO GIVE CONCERTS

With the concert of the New York Philharmonic orchesta, with William Mengelberg conductor, next Thursday evening at Memorial hall, the Symphony club of Central Ohio will begin its series of four symphony concerts scheduled for this winter.

Plans for the coming season were practically completed Monday at the home of Mrs. B. Gwynne Huntington, 292 Columbia avenue, when chairmen of divisions, team captains and members of the teams of the club met there.

Mr. Morris C. Wilson, of the department of music of Ohio State university, spoke before the meeting on "The Value to the Community of a Series of Symphony Concerts," in which he used as an example the series to be produced in Columbus this season.

The three concerts which will follow the opening one, will be: The Cincinnati symphony, with Victor De Sabata, conductor, December 5; the Minneapolis symphony, with Henri Verbrugghen, conductor, February 6, and the Cleveland orchestra, with Nikolai Sokoloff, conductor, March 5.

Following Mr. Wilson's address, the guests were entertained at tea. The hostess group for the tea included Mrs. Helen Pugh Alcorn, Mrs. Edgar Alcorn, Mrs. S. P. Bush, Mrs. F. Stanley Crooks, Mrs. Joseph Villiers Denny, Mrs. E. C. Ensminger, Mrs. M. L. Hopkins, Mrs. William J. Joyce, Mrs. Caleb L. McKee, Mrs. Clarenet M. Worman, and Miss Ruth Stern.

CANDIDATES NUMBER 27 TO FILL 15 VILLAGE OFFICES

Expect Largest Vote In History Of Bexley When Polls Open November 9

TWO ENTRIES UNOPPOSED

With 15 offices to be filled in Bexley at the election November 8, and with 27 candidates seeking election or re-election to these offices, the interest in matters political in the village is running high.

The race has its peak of interest, probably, in the contest for the mayorality, this being the first time that Mayor Stephen E. Ludwig has been opposed at the polls in three consecutive terms. But the spirit of the contest is pervading all the other offices, too.

For the benefit of the voters, and it is expected that the village will see the largest vote in its history. The Eastern Times has collected the following general information concerning the candidates. The problem of limited space demands that this information be given in the briefest possible form.

Candidates for mayor: Stephen E. Ludwig, incumbent, has served three terms as mayor and has been a resident of Bexley for 12 years. He was born in Mansfield and his present business is the manufacture of Luthol tooth paste. His home is in Bryden road.

Opposing Mayor Ludwig is Ralph F. Hirsch, 39 North Cassingham road who has lived in Bexley for nine years. Hirsch was educated in the Columbus public schools, and is now director of advertising with the Ohio State Journal.

For clerk: S. W. Roderick, incumbent, is unopposed in the election. He is serving his fourth term as clerk. Roderick was born in Columbus and educated in the Columbus public schools. For 17 years he has been a resident of Bexley. He is paying teller at the Market Exchange bank, and lives at 460 South Drexel avenue.

For treasurer: Joseph Stein, incumbent, has held the office for eight terms. He has lived in the village for 20 years, attended St. Mary's College, in Dayton, and is engaged in the real estate business.

Opposing him is O. M. Heffner, a resident of Bexley for the last eight years. Heffner was born in Circleville and received his education in the public schools of Circleville and Columbus. He was formerly deputy county auditor for three years, and now operates a general fire insurance agency. His home is at 2538 Maryland avenue.

Church To Celebrate Rev. Wood's Pastorate

The first anniversary of the pastorate of Rev. Mr. Clarence Woods, at Wilson Avenue Reformed church, will be celebrated at the regular church services on Sunday. Special music has been arranged for both church services, and it will be rally day in the Sunday School.

Rev. Mr. Woods came to the church from Staunton, Va. In the last year 100 new members have been added to the church, and the membership in the Sunday school has increased 50 per cent.

NEW MEN'S CLUB TO GIVE REVIEW

"The Blue Danube Review," a Redpath production, will be given on Friday evening, November 18, in the auditorium of the new Junior High school in Castingham road, under the auspices of the Bexley Men's club and will be the first of a series of three entertainments to be brought to the village by this organization.

Founded to promote good fellowship, the Bexley Men's club, which is of recent organization, brought together at its last meeting 70 representative business men of the community.

Charles L. Crippen is president of the club. Other officers are: George Whitehead, first vice-president; Lester C. Bush, second vice-president; Dr. W. D. Lavely, secretary, and Herbert Bankert, treasurer.

It is the plan of the club members to hold a dinner meeting preceding the entertainment on the evening of November 18. Only members will attend the dinner, but the entertainment later will be for their friends and families as well.

To Make Reformation Talk In Ann Arbor

Rev. Mr. Robert E. Golladay, pastor of Grace Lutheran church, will speak Sunday in Ann Arbor, Mich., before a joint meeting of the Lutheran congregations of that city and the Luther club. He will give a Reformation talk in observance of the date of the beginning of the Protestant church October 31, 1517.

Prof. William L. Young, of Capital university, will fill the pulpit at Grace Lutheran church Sunday morning in the absence of the pastor.

BEXLEY SCHOOL LEVY WILL PROVIDE FOR FUTURE, BOARD SAYS

In denial that the $75,000 bond issue which is up for vote at the November election in Bexley, is to be used for the purchase of playgrounds, solely, and to broadcast among the people of the village the need for it, the following statement has been prepared by the board of education and submitted to the Eastern Times for publication.

Members of the board of education are: J. F. Elder, president; Fritz Lichtenberg, vice-president; J. L. W. Henney, clerk; K. G. A. Bushue and O. C. Altmaier.

Is Boom Year

"The population and school enrollment of Bexley are increasing very rapidly. Scores of new homes are under process of construction. More building permits with a larger valuation have been issued this year than in any previous year. This is truly Bexley's boom year. Village officials estimate the population at nearly 6000. The school attendance has increased twenty-one per cent over last year. There are approximately one thousand children enrolled at the present time.

"The members of the board of education, realizing fully the meaning of this rapid growth in population, are asking the voters of Bexley to support a bond issue of $75,000 for the purchase and improvement of school sites on which buildings will be erected. The need for these sites for new buildings is to continue to give its boys and girls the educational advantages which they should have. Provision must be made for the present and future needs.

Businesslike Policy

"The citizens of Bexley, knowing that this increase in population and school enrollment means additional sites and buildings will surely approve the action of the Board of Education in its efforts to make provision for the future. Any other policy on the part of the board would be short-sighted and unbusinesslike. Six years ago Bexley schools occupied one grade building. If the board had not purchased new sites and erected new buildings, Bexley's children would today be without adequate educational facilities.

"It has been implied that the pro-

The leading role of Christian America, in the pageant, will be taken by Miss Edith Swetson. Miss Rosalie Tharp as Response, Miss Ruth Priest as Indifference, and Miss Leota Sines as Uninformed, will be other principal characters. Miss Rosalie Dodsco will have a solo in the pageant. A number of children are being trained to participate under the direction of Mrs. Robert Brosk.

Making And Mending Shoes Has Been Business Of East Side Man For Half Century

C. F. Falk Learned Trade In Old Country; Has Had Workshop Here Fifteen Years

Salvaging soles for the East Side,—that's the work that has occupied C. F. Falk for more than 15 years, a record of service which entitles him to stand in that small group of men who may be said to have fathered business in this section of the city.

It was when men and women could buy fine shoes for $3 or $4 a pair that Falk served his apprenticeship. That was 50 years ago and the width of an ocean and half a continent from his present location at 1231 E. Main street. For it was in his native Germany that he learned his trade.

For two and a half years he served and paid for the privilege a sum equivalent to $65 in this country's currency, he said. That was the day when young men were forced to learn instead of earn over a long period of apprenticeship, forced to pay instead of being paid while they learned.

It is vastly different now. Even the greenest helper in the shoe repair shops today, must be paid a salary, he explained. And there are vast differences in many ways; as few know better than Falk whose experience has covered a half a century.

For one thing, modern shoes fit better than those of yesterday.

Once, in Falk's remembrance, it was the custom for an entire family to visit the cobbler's shop early in the fall and have the feet of each member measured for footgear. The shoemaker made the shoes by hand and had them ready when the family called a few weeks later. If the shoemaker didn't know his trade very well perhaps the shoes were too roomy or pinched a bit. But they were worn despite these things.

It is the repairing of shoes now, and not the making of them, that constitutes the volume of business in such shops as Falk's. Though a glance at some of the jobs which confront Falk in his workroom, would indicate that his work frequently involves almost an utter remaking. Veritably his little shop is a shoe hospital. But he is a doctor who seldom loses a case. Grave as the condition may be, he finds a way to cure it.

One gathers, as one sits on an upturned box in Falk's shop and watches his knife skillfully trimming a new sole to the right size for the shoe on his knees, that in his work this man finds a great pleasure. One feels, unmistakably, that he finds a deep enjoyment in restoring a battered, worn, and misshapen shoe to a new service. One understands, subtly, that something of the pride of the wearer in donning a pair of shoes artfully restored to shapeliness and comfort and use, enters into the life of the cobbler who has brought about that restoration.

If you supposed that in the repairing of shoes, the work on the daintier, perhaps more shapely ones for women was the work that Falk liked best, you would be wrong. He prefers, he said, to re-sole the shoes of men.

The jobs they bring to him, often are little glimpses into the characters of the men and women themselves, this shoeman of so many years, will tell you. Sometimes a fashionably dressed woman will come in with a shamefully disreputable pair of old house shoes. A glance at them reveals a quick picture of the difference between that woman dressed for the street, and the attire she considers "good enough" for at home.

Sometimes Falk has had a chance to watch his customers learning little lessons in wisdom. A young woman brought a pair of fancy slippers to him one day. Their heels were low enough for comfort but too low to be chic as that young woman saw it. She ordered the heels removed and, slim, shiny three-inch ones replaced on the slippers. Falk demurred a bit, but obeyed instructions. But the old heels of comfortable size he put back on a shelf to await developments.

A few days later the young woman returned. Her new heels were too high she could not walk in them, and they tired her unmercifully. Had Mr. Falk a pair of lower ones he might change them for, she inquired.

"I can put the old ones back on for you," he explained with perhaps a twinkle in his eyes.

Vacations from his workshop are rare events for Falk. Twice since he came to this country, he has made brief visits to his old home in Germany. But even then, the thought of his work was with him and he made pilgrimages into the shoe shops in the old country to learn what new methods might be in use there that he could bring back to his own shop.

Better than hours of recreation, when the day's work is done, he likes to take up a pair of shoes, discarded by their owner, and with a patch here, a few stitches there, new heels and soles, give them a new lease on utility. Then he presents these to an institution of charity for some needy person there. For Falk is a philosopher as well as a skilled cobbler, and he has learned that the greatest enjoyment is in service to others.

"It is better to buy good shoes in the beginning," said he. "They will wear longer and stand repairing longer, and still look better than cheap ones."

For president of the society of those who only think of the right thing to say when it is too late, we nominate the young woman reporter whom "Lindy" asked to name a specific instance of his refusal to kiss a girl, and whose only answer was a giggle.

Yes, times have changed. 1890: "May I have the pleasure of taking you for a buggy ride next Sunday afternoon?" 1927: Honk!

A man's reach must exceed his grasp, the poet says, which applies as well to women, we suppose. And now that the seniors at Ohio Wesleyan have elected a co-ed president, we wonder just how long it will be before feminine fingers gain a good grip on the managership of the football team.

NATIONAL EDUCATION WEEK

The coming week has been set aside as National Education week, and it will be observed in the schools of the country from ocean to ocean and from the Great Lakes to the Gulf of Mexico.

It is a good thing for some one to designate a certain time, in this way, for us to think about certain things. In the hurry and hustle of every-day life we are prone to forget to think of some of the important things. In the final analysis, our schools are of such importance to our individual lives and to our national life, that too much stress can hardly be laid upon the matter of giving them thought and attention.

And, of course, to give them the fair kind of thought and attention, we must understand them. That is the thing that National Education week attempts to do,— to give us a better understanding of the great public institution that lays the foundation for personal achievement and national well-being.

The public schools in Bexley and the East Side are planning some special observance of this week. It is a special observance not for the pupils of the school and the teachers alone. It is for the men and women of the community. All of them, not just the ones who are fathers and mothers. The setting aside of the week is an invitation — more than that, it is an opportunity,— for the public to become better informed concerning the schools and the modern methods of education which they employ in laying the foundation for better citizenship and happier, fuller, more worth-while, individual lives.

Don't let the week go by without taking some part in its observance. It is an invitation and an opportunity which you cannot afford to ignore.

Former East Sider Tells Of California Hunting, Fishing And Real Estate

E. M. Humphreys, In California Longs For Taste of Ohio Blackberries

Editor's Note: Letters from former residents of a community, always are of interest to those who remain in the community. It is a source of considerable enjoyment to see distant places through the eyes of old friends, to know what old friends are doing in distant places. The following excerpts are from a letter received by J. M. Lageman, 356 Miller avenue, from E. M. Humphreys, of San Diego, Calif. Humphreys will be remembered by many residents of the neighborhood. He lived in the east side until six years ago, when he went to Florida, later touring extensively in many states and finally settling in California where he is engaged now in the real estate business. His father, Carl ("Doc") Humphreys, 15 years ago conducted a popular place of business at the corner of Main street and Champion avenue. Excerpts from the letter follow:

Mexico Is Rich

"The track is all clear now from here to Thanksgiving, now that 'Lindy' has been here and the World series is over. Of course, Mexico may stir up a little something. No one seems to know just how Mexico stands. That is a great country, the richest of anything in North America that is in natural resources. But as she now stands she is exactly the reverse in any other way.

"Perhaps in another half century Mexico will blossom as the rose. But it will be a long time at best, as some of the old-timers will have to die off and give some of the younger and more educated ones a chance. Also it will be quite necessary to kill off most of the Yaqui Indians that live in the mountains as they are quite untameable.

Real Estate Slows Up

"Things have slowed up quite a bit out here, but it was bound to come otherwise some of the 'real-estators' would have laid out and sub-divided the mountains, and not have stopped even when they came to the desert.

"To be successful in the real estate game, especially in sub-divisions, is to know when to take hold, where to take hold, and when to let loose. It is said that when a boom is once recognized it is two-thirds or three-fourths over.

Birds Aren't Season's Heralds

"If I were to decide out here that Fall was coming, by the black birds I should have to say that Fall commenced about January 1 and lasted until the next January 1. The black birds here are much smaller than those in Ohio. They are alike in every other respect but about the size of the red-winged black bird there. The turtle dove also is smaller, but apparently just the same otherwise.

"The robins are here only a short time during migration. The linnets mocking birds, and sparrows (English) are here all the time and so are the humming birds. I have seen as many as eight or ten of these little birds at one time hovering over a century plant bloom. This bloom occurs on the end of a long, heavy stem that stands 12 or 15 feet high. The bloom is not pretty and after it is done the plant dies. It takes, I have been told, about 25 years for one of these plants to mature.

Jack Rabbit Hunting

"There is no law on rabbits out here, and there are lots of them in some places. I have always heard how a jack rabbit can get up and go. Well, maybe, he can if he has to, but I haven't seen any so far that seemed to think it was necessary to go very fast. In fact, I think they are lazy.

"Now a cotton-tail, especially one that has been stirred up a few times, gets going immediately, as you know. I have found the jack easier to get than the cotton-tails. A young jack, or even a full grown one, stewed a bit with onion and then fried, is pretty nice eating. It is a good deal like the dark meat of turkey.

California Fishing

"Fishing in the bays and in the surf has been rather poor all summer, but out in the ocean a little way, it is good, on the edge of the kelp beds, or ocean weeds. These weeds grow in water up to about 50 feet, and show up on top. There was very fine fishing there, about one or two miles out but it was rather expensive to go very often.

"I have been trout fishing three times, and they are no harder to catch than chubs, — I mean big chubs in clear water. These trout haven't a thing on small-mouthed black bass unless maybe they can wriggle faster.

Longs For Black Berries

"I sure would like to eat some of the blackberries that grow in Ohio. The blackberries here are good to look at, but generally are sour enough to make a pig squeal.

"We haven't had any rain for nearly five months now. Back in the mountains they have rains and we have lots of fog which could easily make rain if the right conditions could just come about, — dynamite a cloud, for instance.

'Thumbing' Unprofitable

"Even kids have a hard time out here getting lifts in autos. Between hold-ups and law suits the autoists are afraid to let anybody ride."

Children Can Be Taught To Like Wholesome Food

By ELLA MAE IVES

Mothers often have been heard to say, "My children won't eat oatmeal," or "Its no use to cook carrots at our house!" Many family meals are unpleasant ordeals, because some member objects to a part of the menu; not a few grown-ups are suffering physically or mentally because during childhood their appetites were pampered.

Firmness Often Necessary

The whims of children should not be taken too seriously. Firmness and persistence, mixed with pleasantries usually overcome a child's fancy about food, although in some cases this may take weeks or even months.

If there is any doubt that a food will be liked, or if a former attempt to make it pleasing, failed, then a small portion might be served in a tiny attractive dish. A larger quantity should not be served until one has made certain that the food is liked; and even then, it is unwise to give a child (or the other members of the family) any food prepared the same way many times in succession.

Substituting Is Bad Practice

Usually when a child does not like his first taste of a new food, the mother offers something else for fear he will cry or get too hungry. Occasionally the substitute is permitted even when the new food was not even tasted. The mother may intend to give in just once, but it is giving in one day and punishing the next which causes a great deal of trouble. Wait several days or weeks between unsuccessful trials, so that the incident may be forgotten, and then be sure the child is both well and hungry. If the second attempt fails serve the food another way; mix it with something else (different vegetables may be mixed and dried fruits may be cooked with cereals); use a fancy spoon, or garnish; or serve the food when some other child is present who likes it. The ordeal may then be turned into a game, a contest or a tea party.

Aversions May Be Overcome

Sometimes, a child's aversion for milk may be overcome by permitting the child to use a straw, or by giving him a small pitcher from which he may pour the milk. In his eagerness to use the new toy, he may forget that he is drinking milk. Often an egg will be beaten, if it is baked with cream in a custard cup, or if it is put into a fancy egg cup and served with bread sticks piled log cabin style. A large portion of lettuce, chopped carrots, or celery may be relished, when placed in thin bread and butter sandwiches, and cut in small squares. A child that dislikes creamed peas or green beans may enjoy them with butter or served cold and then later on learn to eat them with cream sauce.

One child refused to swallow her first taste of spinach; nevertheless whenever spinach was served, a tiny portion was placed upon her plate. She was not told she must eat it and so several times it was wasted. Finally, one day it was made to look interesting by the addition of a slice of egg and bits of crisp bacon. That day it disappeared. No comment was made at that time, and now when she eats her share of buttered spinach, all pretend not to notice the change. Family remarks, excuses and comments that the child does not like a certain food often prevent him from trying to like it.

Enlisting Understanding

If tactful experiments, illustrative stories, reasoning, a teacher's or doctor's advice, and "checking up" on weight and calorie charts, have no effect in gaining a child's co-operation, it may be due to stubbornness. Drop the subject for a few weeks. Then if the food is necessary for health and maximum growth, take the child on a visit to a children's hospital. Without the child's knowledge the nurse might be enlisted, and he could be shown children whose ailments are due to a lack of certain foods. This should be done in a very casual manner. In a few days try the food again, and if he still refuses, deprive him of favorite food, toys, playmates, or athletics. If these measures do not get results, keep him in bed a few hours. This may seem drastic, but a few difficult hours or days may save years of ill health. Perhaps several oranges a day might stimulate an appetite for other necessary foods. Maybe he is given too many sweets; possibly he needs a tonic, more sleep, fresh air, or exercise out of doors. Quite likely, he needs firm discipline.

One mother, who thought she was going to lose her child, because he refused proper food, became desperate. He had rejected milk for several years. Her anxiety made her firm and she forced him to take a sip. When he spit it out, she gave him another. The next morning she put a very small glass of milk before him, but no other food; play was forbidden until he should empty the glass. He howled; then he sulked; when the children came home at noon, he gulped down the milk and ate his lunch. The next two mornings he sat several hours before he drank the milk; however, on the fourth morning he took it at once. The amount was increased gradually, and now he enjoys a large glass of milk with each meal.

BOARD OF LIBRARY EXPLAINS NEED OF PROPOSED BUILDING

In explanation of the bond issue of $68,000 for a new library building and equipment for Bexley, a matter for the decision of the voters at the November election, the board of the Bexley Public library has issued the following statement, in order that its plans and purposes may be understood clearly by the voters.

"The Bexley Public library is managed and controlled by a board of trustees of seven members appointedp by the board of education, each member holding his position for a term of seven years. The members of the board are: Dr. Sidney Sweet, president; Dr. C. V. Sheatsley, vice president; Mrs. Fritz Lichtenberg, secretary-treasurer; E. P. Tice, Amy C. Brightman, Mrs. Hugh Bone and H. C. Dieterich. The school board has no jurisdiction over the library excepting its action on the budget to it by the library board and the appointment of the members of the board. The library board has full control over the library.

"The present library in the High School building is limited in its usefulness by the small size of the rooms which it occupies. There is no space for future growth or development. It is impossible to add the new books necessary for good library service. Proper expansion is impossible. A brief visit to the present library will quickly show this to be true. The Bexley Public library has over 1650 borrowers.

The number of borrowers has increased 59 per cent in the last year. The library has about 5800 books, which is an increase of about 61 per cent in the last year. People who desire to read in the library or to do research work, cannot be properly accommodated. There is no place for conducting story hours or adding new features to the library program.

To meet the library needs of a rapidly growing Bexley, the library board is asking the voters of the village to approve a bond issue of $68,000 for a new building and equipment. The proposed building is to be erected on an excellent site on East Main street midway between Pleasant Ridge and Euclaire avenues, near Bexley's center of population. The land will be leased from the trustees of the Capital university for a term of 30 years. The site will cost the people nothing and will not add one cent to the taxes of any tax-payer.

At the end of 30 or 60 years the lease may be renewed if the parties of the contract do not reach agreement to buy or sell to each other, a most fortunate arrangement for the people of Bexley. Capital university is given no control over the library by the terms of the lease. The control remains in the hands of the library board appointed by the board of education.

The students of Capital university will be permitted to use the books in the library, a permission which they now enjoy and one which no citizen wishes to take from them. While this is true the trustees of Capital university feel that in granting the use of the site to the library board they are making a real contribution to the public library and at the same time giving something in return for the privilege which their students and faculty may enjoy.

"The expenditure would be much larger if the ground for the building were not given over for use without charge. Furthermore, the proposed bond issue will mean an increased tax rate of just about one-quarter of a mill. In other words, one cent added to the taxes on every $40. Surely this is a very small increase in the tax rate compared to the benefit to be gained for the people of Bexley."

URGE SUPPORT OF SCHOOL LEVY AND EDUCATION WEEK

A proclamation of support of the three-mill school levy, by the Columbus and Franklin County council of Parent-Teacher Association, and urging city-wide observance of national education week, has been issued by Mrs. H. G. Watson, president of the council.

"As a representative of the Columbus and Franklin County Council of Parent Associations, I wish to express my sincere desire to cooperate with the board of education in the promotion and passage of the three-mill levy," the proclamation states.

"The primary purpose of our existence as an organization is for the physical, mental, moral, and spiritual education and welfare of the child, and for the education of parents, pointing out and directing them in the responsibility of their children.

"If, as a great prophet has said, the man who is the best educated is the most useful, and the test of his education lies in his ability to serve others, is true, and if usefulness, culture, refinement, and simplicity are the earmarks of an educated man it behooves us as Parent-Teacher workers, and as citizens of Columbus to see to it that the future citizens of our fair city should not lack one of these fundamentals of an education, and that we be willing to provide the necessary means toward that end.

"Let us, as members of the Parent-Teachers Association, make Education Week the biggest, best, and most effective educational week Columbus and Franklin County Council of Parents and Teachers have ever experienced so that Columbus and Franklin County will be a better community because of our existence, and that our children will measure up to the ideals for which we are striving."

Mr. and Mrs. Albert G. Byers, Jr., son and daughter-in-law, of Mr. and Mrs. Albert G. Byers, 1262 Mooberry street, have gone to San Francisco, California, to make their home. Mr. Byers who has been with the General Motors Frigidaire Acceptance Company, of Dayton, has been transferred to the new office of that company which has been opened in San Francisco.

AUTHOR, EDITOR, MODERATOR, WILL GIVE ADDRESSES

Capital Students Will Present Play And Concert On Lecture Course

WILL DURANT COMES FIRST

A lecture course said to be the finest ever brought to the Capital university campus, has been announced for the coming winter, by Cornelius Hansen, senior at Capital who is chairman of the committee in charge of the course.

Will Durant, author of "The Story of Philosophy," will be the first speaker in the series of entertainments. He will appear on the Capital platform, November 17.

The second speaker, scheduled for January 12, will be Norman Thomas, executive head of the Industrial League for Democracy, and contributing editor of "The Nation," and "The World Tomorrow." Later in the same month, on January 26, the third lecture in the course, will be given by Dr. Robert Speer, moderator of the Presbyterian church and head of the foreign missions department of that institution.

Students at Capital will present the two final numbers of the series. Esoterikon, the dramatic club at the university, will give a play on April 19, and the concluding number will be the May Music Festival, on May 3, by the combined musical organizations on the campus. These will include the Glee club, orchestra and band.

BEXLEY SCHOOL LEVY MAKES PROVISION FOR FUTURE, BOARD SAYS

posed bond-issue is to provide funds for the purchase of play-grounds alone. This is not true. The real purpose is to purchase and improve ample sites on which school buildings will be erected.

"Bexley's tax-rate is low as compared with other taxing districts in the county and state. Some of these rates are as follows:

"Bexley, 19.4; Columbus, 21.8; Grandview, 23.; Westerville, 23.4; Toledo, 25.4; Cleveland Heights, 22.4; Upper Arlington, 20.; Oakwood, 21.4; Canton, 21.; Cincinnati, 21.14; Cleveland, 24.1; East Cleveland, 22.8; Akron, 24.6; Lakewood, 23.; Dayton, 23.6; Marion, 23.7.

"The bond issue, if passed will not increase the taxrate more than two-tenths of a mill. To state it differently, the tax-payer's increase because of this bond issue will not exceed twenty-cents on every $1000 valuation. Surely every tax-payer will be pleased to contribute this increase that the highest and best interests of Bexley's schools and children may be promoted.

Land Values Increase

"Due to increasing land values in Bexley, desirable sites for school purposes are acquired with great difficulty — a difficulty which will increase as the village grows. The board of education should acquire good sites when they are still available.

"That the voters of Bexley want good school buildings erected on ample well-chosen sites is shown by the fact that they have always supported bond-issues and levies for this purpose. "Good Schools for Bexley's Children" has always been the slogan. Let us remember our boys and girls when we go to the polls on November 8th and cast a ballot for the $75,000 bond-issue to purchase and improve school sites and thus assure good school facilities in the future."

EXPLAIN PROCEDURE FOR ANNEXATION

Whether or not Bexley becomes a part of Columbus, by annexation, is a matter which must be decided by both the voters of that village and the voters of the city.

This point was brought out by the county board of elections, which was asked for an explanation of the legal procedure necessary, following discussion of the matter by residents of Bexley.

Three steps are necessary for the annexation of Bexley to the city of Columbus, it was stated at the office of the board of elections. The steps were explained as follows: (1) a petition signed by 25 per cent of the total vote at the last previous municipal election, must be presented to the city council; (2) a majority of the village must vote in favor of annexation, and (3) a majority of the Columbus voters must favor such annexation. These steps, it was explained, are in accordance with Sections 3566 and 3671, of the General Code of Ohio.

Dr. Fowler Will Give "Why I Believe" Series

A series of ten "Why I Believe" sermons has been prepared by Rev. Dr. Frank G. Fowler, pastor of the Bexley Methodist Episcopal church, and will be given at the regular Sunday evening church services for 10 consecutive Sundays, beginning this week.

The subjects are as follows: "Why I Believe," "Why I Believe in the Bible," "Why I Believe in God," "Why I Believe in Jesus Christ," "Why I Believe in the Holy Spirit," "Why I Believe in the Church," "Why I Believe in the Resurrection," "Why I Believe in Folks," "Why I Believe in My Country," and "Why I Believe in the Brotherhood of Man."

Among those who will go from the East Side and Bexley to attend the Princeton-Ohio State game on November 5 will be Mr. and Mrs. Meldrum Gray, 230 Parkwood avenue; Mr. and Mrs. Earl E. Burr, 85 South Champion avenue; Mr. and Mrs. Herbert B. Halliday, 405 North Parkview avenue, and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest R. Halliday, 1044 Bryden road.

Women of Christ Lutheran church were hostesses Tuesday afternoon and evening at the annual reception and donation day at the Lutheran House, 685 South High street.

STUDENT NEWS AT EAST HIGH SCHOOL

Girls Give Lie To Charge That They Are Not Interested In Homemaking

By Ruth Woods

Thirty-one girls at East High school this year are disproving the oft-heard cry that girls of today are not interested in home-making. This number of East High students has enrolled in the household arts college preparatory course which is being offered this year for only the second time in the history of East High.

Clothing, costume design, millinery cooking, dietetics, house furnishing and decoration — these are studies which occupy the girls who enroll for this course, which is chiefly for those who are expecting to major in home economics in college.

The rudiments of home-making are studied over the usual three-year period, and in connection with regular academic work. The first-year girls in the course are required to study clothing, costume design and millinery with the usual Tenth grade English, geometry, occupations and cooking. In the junior year the girls enroll for dietetics or advanced foods, house furnishing and decoration, looking toward the development of the artistic home, as well as for 11th grade English, history and science.

By the time they are seniors the students in the household arts course study tailoring and advanced cooking in connection with the regular English, history and science.

The apartment on the main floor of the building is the laboratory for this work. Here the principle studies in the house decoration classes are applied. Miss Marvel Woodrow is the instructor of household arts at East.

W rk on Posters

Miss Roberta Barlow, art teacher at East High, is working overtime on posters to encourage the voters of Columbus to support the three-mill tax levy for the benefit of the schools.

Beautiful work has been done by the following students: Betty Busey, Vivian Agler, James Reynolds, Anne Rumer, Catherine Boyd, Elizabeth Williamson and Charlotte Johnson — all 10th graders.

The Community exposition also has been advertised by posters from the East High are department. These have been made under Miss Barlow's supervision to advertise the Pageant of Humanity. Among those whose work was outstanding were: Betty Sims, 12-B; Joseph Walker, 10-B; Eleanor Day, 10-B; Frances Davis, 11-B, and Margaret Althoff, 11-B.

AMERICAN LEGION ENDORSES NATIONAL EDUCATION WEEK

Commending the work of the public schools, and endorsing the observance of National Education week by the schools and for the benefit of the general public, the American Legion of Franklin county has issued the following statement, signed by Chairman Weisskerz, of the Franklin County Council of the Legion:

The American Legion, an organization which came into existence after the World War, incorporated into its constitution the reason for its existence — namely "To uphold and defend the Constitution of the United States of America; To maintain law and order; To foster and perpetuate a one hundred per cent Americanism; To inculcate a sense of individual obligation to the Community, State and Nation; To combat the autocracy of both the classes and masses; To make Right the master of Might; To promote Peace and Good Will on Earth, to safeguard and transmit to posterity the principles of Justice, Freedom and Democracy.

We of the American Legion are happy during Educational Week to let the people of our community know that the very ideals of the American Legion are embodied in what is taught young America today thru our public schools. It is through the youngster of today that we are educating the man and woman of tomorrow.

At the outbreak of the World War thousands of young men who were called to arms were unable to read and write. They did not understand the problems confronting them. They did just as they were told because our government had tried to teach them only one vital thing in this crisis — that was obedience.

Today the children of our public schools are taught not only obedience but the fundamentals of education. Our teachers are trained specialists who know the problems of the boy and girl and it is thru their efforts that the children of today develop into the man and woman of tomorrow.

We are very happy that Educational week is in progress in our community and know that it will be a source of much good to our people.

WHEN THE FEDERAL CENSUS IS TAKEN

Two years hence, under the Ohio law it will be necessary for Bexley to provide and set up a city government; this will require a municipal building.

The building must house the following departments:

1—A municipal court.
2—A fire department.
3—A police department.
4—A city engineer.
5—Offices for city officials.

The U. S. post office and the Bexley library should be cared for under the same roof.

One structure can be built and maintained cheaper than two. Why not use the money to be voted for a library together with the money from the bond issue already authorized for a municipal building and erect one adequate building on land now owned by the village of Bexley?

With the presentation of the drama "In Little Old New York," by the pupils of Holy Rosary High school, next Friday and Saturday evenings, November 10 and 11, the auditorium in the new building will be opened to the public for the first time.

For many of the parents of students enrolled in the school it will offer the first opportunity to inspect the building. The rooms will be open for inspection preceding the giving of the play.

The new building was completed during the summer and was ready for occupancy at the beginning of the school term in September. It constitutes the final unit in the educational facilities of the Holy Rosary school. Approximately 150 students are enrolled in the new high school.

"In Little Old New York," the play which was chosen for the first public use of the new auditorium, has a plot similar to the better-known, "Orphans of the Storm." The students at the school have won for themselves an enviable reputation in previous amateur theatricals, and every effort is being made to make this event an outstanding one.

Leading parts in the drama are to be played by Betty Clifford, cast as Old Judith; Helen Klausman and Helen Connor as Frances and Mabel, the orphans; Mary Margaret Sullivan as Mrs. Allerton; and Katherine Kappes as Mrs. Hammond.

Three-Day Exercises Dedicate New Building

P. T. PRESENTS SILK FLAG

The crowds that attended the Wednesday and Thursday evening meetings of the three-day dedicatory exercises of the new junior high school building in Cassingham road, which are constituting the observance of American Education week in the Bexley public schools, are evidence of the deep interest of the residents of the village in their school system and its facilities.

The meetings are the first public ones to be held in the building which was opened in September. Special programs in the auditorium and a reception to all teachers in the Bexley schools by the Parent-Teacher association are features of the meetings each of which is being followed by an inspection of the building.

At the final meeting which will be held this evening, an address will be given by Dr. W. R. McChesney, president of Cedarville college. There will be special music, also, by the musical organizations of the junior and senior high schools. These include the Junior High school orchestra, the Senior High school orchestra, the Senior High school Boys' Glee club, and the Senior High School Girls' Glee club. The orchestras are under the direction of Harold Grimm, and the Glee clubs under the direction of Ellis Snyder. Dr. C. V. Sheatsley will pronounce the invocation at this evening's meeting.

Dr. Daniel F. Rittenhouse, pastor of the First Baptist church, was the speaker at the Thursday meeting. A short talk was made, also, by J. F. Elder, president of the board of education. Dr. Frank G. Fowler, pastor of the Bexley Methodist Episcopal church, gave the invocation, and music was furnished by the same school organizations that will be heard this evening.

Miss Ruth C. Geist and Miss Selma Hamann, both teachers in the senior high school, provided the chief talks for the Wednesday evening meeting, using experiences gathered during their last summer's vacation as their themes.

"A Summer in New Zealand and the South Sea Islands," was Miss Geist's subject and Miss Hamann talked on "The Islands of the Caribbean."

Devotions were led by Miss Mary Bethel, secretary of the Parent-Teacher association, and there were solos by Miss Selma Fern Reece and Miss Maude Ochs.

Presentation of a new silk flag to the building was made in behalf of the Parent-Teacher association by Mrs. William Ross Diehl, president. Formal acceptance of the flag was made by Fritz Lichtenberg, vice-president of the school board. A talk was made, also, by Miss Amy C. OPPOSING FORCES BRING CAMPAIGN TO ROUSING CLOSE

The political pot in Bexley has boiled hard this week, the fire beneath it fed by accusations and answers flung like [illegible] the [illegible].

To change the simile, with a few exceptions the candidates are lined up in two opposing camps and their hostilities are giving the village the grimest political battle in its history. Platforms, regardless of Republican and Democratic parties, have been laid down and charges have been made that are expected to bring out the largest vote the village has ever known.

A general invitation has been issued to all citizens in the village to attend what promises to be an interesting community meeting at 7:30 o'clock Saturday evening in the store room at 2503 East Main street. This probably will be the final firing of the guns before the contest goes to the judges at the polls next Tuesday. If both sides are fairly represented at the meeting there is promised a heated debate of election issues.

In signed statements in the advertising columns of the Eastern Times this week, the position of each side has been clearly given, with platforms and issues analyzed and explained.

PARENTS OBSERVE EDUCATION WEEK BY SCHOOL VISITS

East Side Buildings Conduct Daily Programs

"Schools are the training camp of democracy. Here we are taught our duty to the flag and our heritage in the fundamentals of obedience and democracy. Self-governing peoples must be educated."

This was incorporated in the message which Attorney John M. Vorys brought to parents, teachers and students at East High school at the meeting Tuesday which was the principal event in the observance of American Education week at East. A number of parents were present, many of whom remained throughout the day, visiting in the different classes.

The observance of the week has occupied daily attention of students and teachers in all East side buildings of the Columbus public schools, and has brought hundreds of parents into close touch with the schools, a survey of the different buildings showed. Programs were arranged and special invitations extended to parents to pay a visit to the classrooms.

Wednesday and Thursday were special visiting days at Roosevelt Junior High school, and at the activity period each day appropriate programs were given. At Franklin Junior High school, too, there was a special day set apart as visiting day for parents.

Evening classes were conducted at East Main street, Wednesday evening, in order that parents unable to visit during the day, might have an opportunity to see classes in regular operation.

Fair Avenue school held open house to parents on Wednesday and Ohio Avenue set last Friday as special visiting day. Special welcome to visitors was extended all week at Livingston Avenue school.

All buildings held daily programs in which pupils participated in the observance of the week.

One Cent Bought Two Eggs, And Quarter Paid For Chicken, When E. S. Stotz First Sold Groceries

Veteran Grocer Says Success Lies In Study And Quality Of Service

They sold eggs for six or seven cents a dozen, a pound of butter for 10 or 12 cents, turkey for 12½ cents a pound and 25 cents would buy a four-pound chicken, when Edwin S. Stotz learned the rudiments of the grocery business. He was a schoolboy then, helping out in his father's store.

Today Mr. Stotz is one of the best known grocers in the East Side. His store, the Edwin S. Stotz and Son grocery, in which he is associated with his son, Walter F. Stotz, at 1447 East Main Street, has been at its present location in the Miller-Main district for the last eight years. Before that it was located at Parsons avenue and Mound street. And it is one of the things in which both father and son take great pride, that many of the regular customers today have been regular customers since the store was first established.

The public has a way of taking much for granted in its every-day life. If he thinks of it at all, the man on the street probably thinks the grocery business exists today much as it has always been. But let him stop for a chat with Mr. Edwin S. Stotz and he'll begin to realize that yesterday was yesterday in the grocery business and today is today, and wide is the difference between the two.

With a quarter of a century in the grocery business, and 20 years before that in the produce business, Mr. Stotz has had only a little less than half a century in the work of marketing food-stuffs. In the pictures that his memory holds there are many interesting glimpses not only into the grocery business, but, indirectly, into the lives of the people themselves.

Imagine a store without a sack to put things in when they were sold to the customers! Mr. Stotz remembers that there weren't any sacks when he was a boy helping in his father's store.

EDWIN S. STOTZ

"Sacks hadn't come into use then," said he. "And let me tell you that took a real expert to use a flat piece of paper to wrap around a pound of rice or sugar or beans. Molasses was drawn out of a huge hogshead which was kept in the store, and sold in any quantity desired.

"Every grocery then kept a barrel of whiskey in the basement and it was sold by the pint or quart or gallon as it was wanted. But it was as much a part of the stock of the store as sugar or coffee.

"Coffee was one of the things sold in greatest quantity. And in those days we roasted our own coffee and the housewife ground it herself at home. And with every pound of coffee a small box of essense of coffee was sold. They thought at that time that they couldn't make good coffee without it, but today it is only the real old-timer who can ever remember about it.

"So many more things were sold in the bulk than are sold that way now. In fact, one of the greatest changes the years have brought is the greater number of foodstuffs now ordered in handy packages."

Times were, and since Mr. Stotz' established his business in the East Side, that green vegetables were to be had only in season. Now the groceries carry them the year round. Not more than 20 years ago, the greater quantity of green vegetables and fresh fruits was not sold in the groceries but from the wagons of truck-sters who sflouted their produce through the streets.

But, today, the groceries keep a large stock, at all times of the year, of green vegetables and fresh fruits that have come from as far away as Florida and Texas and California.

Sales now are made almost wholly by weight, instead of by measure as they used to be, and Mr. Stotz explained that he considered this change one of the most beneficial to customers and merchants alike, that had taken place in the last half century.

The increasing amounts of canned goods and bread sold by groceries at the present time bear testimony to the change in present day housekeeping over that of yesterday.

"Bread baking and canning were done by the housewives in their own kitchens when we started our business in Columbus," Mr. Stotz declared. "I remember when we were at Parsons and Mound street a number of the women in the neighborhood still kept their outdoor ovens where they baked the bread for their families.

"It was the same with vegetables and fruits. But now there are a great many housewives who tell us that they can buy canned vegetables and fruits that are better and cheaper than those they might can for themselves."

Advertising and attractive window displays are two phases in the grocery business that have become more and more important in recent years, according to Mr. Stotz. The present store's advertising appropriation is more today than the year's profit for the first two or three years of the store's existence.

The making of attractive displays in the window is of such importance that it is a special work of Mr.

CLEAN STREETS AND WASTE PAPER BASKETS

A woman and a little girl in East Main street, the other day, gave us food for thought on the matter of civic pride, and we believe it is a thought that ought to be passed on in the interest of community betterment.

The woman crossed the sidewalk and tepped into her car at the curb. In her hands she carried a small parcel which she was unwrapping as she walked. She completed the unwrapping and wadded the wrapping paper into a ball as she seated herself behind the steering wheel.

Then just as she pulled her car away from the curb she thrust one hand out of the car window and dropped the ball of paper into the street.

It was a few minutes later within a few yards of where the woman had enacted her part of the story, that a little girl came along to play her role.

She was walking home from school, alone, and with thoughtful mein. Suddenly the breeze picked up a torn page of a new paper from the curb and fluttered it across the sidewalk in the path of the little girl. And the little girl, quite as if she were picking up a scrap of paper that displeased her mother's parlor, stopped and picked up the torn paper in the street. She crushed it into a ball and tucked it into her armload of books to take to the nearest trash box, or, if necessary, home to a waste paper basket.

A grown woman who ought to have known better than to litter the streets with unsightly paper, and a little girl who might have been excused more quickly for not knowing better, but who didn't need to be excused!

That woman may be a good housekeeper in her own home, but she is not a good community housekeeper. That little girl already is forming habits that will make her a good community housekeeper.

Our streets, strewn with stray papers, not only indicate to strangers passing through them, that we are careless and slovenly and unmindful of civic pride, but they are less attractive places in which to walk and ride ourselves. Perhaps the thought of picking up dirty scraps of paper from the streets and carrying them home to a proper place for them, repels you, though that is the only way to keep our streets really tidy.

But they can be kept a lot less untidy if we will all get the habit of not dropping our odd bits of scrap paper into them.

sociation held a reception honoring all teachers in the Bexley public school system.

The inspection of the building following the reception on Wednesday and the program on Thursday, sent many of the guests to Superintendent J. C. Dieterich and members of the board, with expressions of delight with the new school and its equipment.

Beauty and utility have been combined in the structure, both in its exterior and interior. Bexley school officials have boasted that in arrangement and equipment, the building is second to none of its size in the state.

One of its distinguishing features is the auditorium, occupying the center area of the first and second floors. With a seating capacity of approximately 800 it provides a place for all large and important school functions.

Simplicity is the keynote of the decoration of the auditorium. The plainness of its walls are relieved only by plaster medallions and plaques of Greek figures in the nature of a frieze. Its stage, 70 feet by 145 feet, provides a gymnasium during the daily school routine, and may be shut off from the rest of the auditorium by a soundproof partition for use as a place for meetings at other times.

It will serve as a banquet room, also, for convenient access has been given to the foods laboratory or kitchen just across the corridor.

Another feature of arrangement to give varied utility to the same space, is the joining of the foods laboratory with the cafeteria by means of wooden windows which when closed give the appearance of panels and completely isolate the kitchen so that the cafeteria may be used as a study hall or place to hold gatherings of a social nature.

An unusually attractive interior decoration makes the room particularly well adapted to this use. The woodwork throughout is an ivory gray and the furnishings are an attractive blue. Similarly finished and decorated is the kindergarten room, where the first public kindergarten in Bexley was opened this year.

The building has provided, according to school officials the most modern facilities for the present need of the junior high school and also for the future.

The Aid society of the Wilson Avenue Reformed church met in the parlors of the church Thursday afternoon. Election of officers was held and plans completed for the bazaar and annual dinner to be given by the society in December.

ONE CENT BOUGHT TWO EGGS WHEN E. S. STOTZ FIRST SOLD GROCERIES

Stotz' son, Henry J. Stotz, who is a clerk in the store.

Success in the grocery business today, according to the veteran grocer, is dependent upon keeping in close touch with conditions and progress throughout the country by studying trade publications; upon taking an active part in retail grocers' associations; upon attractive advertising and upon quality in merchandise and service.

"Never before has the buying public been so insistent upon quality of goods," said he.

One cannot talk to Mr. Stotz of his business without realizing how great a factor in its growth has been the harmony and cooperation and comradeship that there has been in his association with his son, Mr. Walter F. Stotz. Both father and son have been active members, for 25 years, of the Columbus Retail Grocers' association. Both are past presidents of the association and Mr. Walter F. Stotz is at present a member of the board of directors.

Mr. Edwin S. Stotz is a native of Windy Gap, Pa. His has long been a family of merchants. The establishment in Pennsylvania which was once his grandfather's and later his father's, is still operated under the name of Stotz though it is no longer conducted by members of the family that founded it.

At the age of 21, after his graduation from Nazareth Hall, a military school at Nazareth, Pa., Mr. Stotz came to Ohio and was in the produce business in Lithopolis for 20 years before coming to Columbus.

The volume of business for the day of the store which he and his son established 26 years ago, was measured by $36, and at the end of the first year both were deeply discouraged. But their later success bids fair to bear out the old adage that a "bad start makes a good ending."

Mr. Stotz makes his home at 515 Fairwood Avenue, and his son lives at 625 Carpenter street.

Miss Paul Is Bride

While harp, violin and 'cello played softly, "I Love You Truly," marriage vows were exchanged at 4:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon by Miss Mabel Paul, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Paul, 2542 Fair avenue, and Mr. Robert H. Hoffman, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Hoffman, 368 Morrison avenue, in the home of the bride's parents.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. A. G. Schatzman, an uncle of the bride, before an altar of palms and ferns at either side of which were a seven-branch candelabra and a basket of large yellow chrysanthemums and pink pom-pom chrysanthemums.

A half hours' musical program was played preceding the ceremony, by Miss Zella Roberts, harpist, Mr. Lewis Saile, violinist, and Miss Ethel Ames Harris, 'cellist.

The bride's gown was of ivory satin moire draped to one side and caught with an ornament of rhinestones and pearls. Her slippers were white satin with rhinestone buckles, and she carried a shower bouquet of white rosebuds and lilies of the valley. She wore no veil nor hair ornament.

Mrs. Richard Finkbone was the bride's only attendant. Her gown was of pale rose chiffon trimmed in silver and she carried an arm bouquet of yellow roses.

The best man was Mr. Newton McCloud.

Following the reading of the marriage service, a reception was held for the 70 guests who were present. Mr. and Mrs. Hoffman left that the reception for a wedding trip through the East by motor. They will return to make their home temporarily with Mrs. Hoffman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Paul.

Miss McCray Weds

The shades of autumn, blending from yellow to rich bronze, were carried out in floral decorations and in the gowns of the bride's attendants to give one of the season's most attractive settings to the marriage of Miss Helen R. McCray, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Gibbony McCray, 2424 Plymouth avenue, to Mr. William Morgan Reynolds, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur William Reynolds, 920 Franklin avenue, which took place at 4:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon in the home of the bride's parents.

Tall white tapers and baskets of pom-pom chrysanthemums in autumn shades were used in decoration. With a fireplace as a background, the marriage service was read by Rev. Dr. Samuel S. Palmer.

Ivory satin, simply fashioned with tight bodice, long, close sleeves, and bouffant skirt with uneven hemline, was worn by the bride. Her veil of tulle fell to the floor and was held in place by a severely plain headdress of mediaevil design. She carried a shower bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley with an orchid center.

Miss Deborah Reynolds, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Wilhelmine Sloan, of Jackson, who were bridesmaids, were similarly gowned in Titian sand georgette with bronze velvet hats and slippers. Their flowers were arm bouquets of pom-pom chrysanthemums in bronze tones.

RALPH F. HIRSCH FOR MAYOR

Heading the People's ticket at the Bexley election, November 8, is Ralph F. Hirsch, who has been prominently and actively identified with the civic and social life of Columbus and Bexley for many years. His greatest interest has been to put his native city "on the map," and since coming to Bexley nine years ago he has been an enthusiastic worker for everything contributing to the progress of the community.

Few men in Franklin county are better and more favorably known than the genial Ralph Hirsch. A born optimist, he has spread good cheer and has offered encouragement when enthusiasm and confidence were most needed. He has been a tireless worker for the public good, and is the type of man that Bexley is proud to have available for the office of Mayor.

After graduating from Central High school, Columbus, Mr. Hirsch became identified with his father's paper—the Express-Westbote—and later became its publisher. When the World War came he discontinued publication, and became identified with the Ohio State Journal, of which he is director of advertising.

Mr. Hirsch is a member of Wilson Avenue Church of Christ, a 32nd degree Mason, an Elk, Woodman of the World, a member of the Columbus Athletic Club, Young Business Men's Club, the Scioto Country Club, Kiwanis Club and the Advertising Club. For two years he was the progressive president of the Columbus Automobile Club.

Mrs. Hirsch and two sons complete the family, at 39 North Cassingham road. Their older son, Frederick L., graduated from Ohio State university in 1925. Their younger son, Stewart, is a senior in Bexley High school and is captain of the Bexley High school football team.

It was at the earnest solicitation of Bexley friends who recognized in him the high qualities of leadership in a critical period of community life, that Mr. Hirsch agreed to have his name presented to the electorate of Bexley for the office of Mayor. His election is equivalent to a "four-square" administration.

VOTERS WILL FAVOR LEVY FOR SALARIES NEEDHAM DECLARES

A canvass of the eastern portion of the city by Lieutenant James Needham, has revealed he said, that the majority of the voters favor the one third of a mill levy which comes up on the November ballot and provides for a $25 monthly increase in police and firemen.

Lieutenant Needham made this report to members of the police and fire executive committee. That veteran officer has taken an active part in the crusade and is much in demand as a speaker. Some interesting facts have been produced by the lieutenant which he is using to further the police and firemens' cause.

"In 1926," he pointed out, "firemen laid 77 miles of hose, raised 1900 feet of ladder and used 1200 gallons of chemicals. They responded to 1705 alarms. In the same year there was a total valuation of seven million dollars on Columbus property with a fire loss of less than one million dollars during that period. That illustrates the necessity of an efficient fire department."

"In the last year more than 735 [illegible] were arrested on felony charges by the police, complaints totaling loss by theft and otherwise aggregating $1,118,017 were reported and $881,093 was recovered, leaving only $236,924 unrecovered. This is a remarkable record. The grand jury now in session has before it cases of 225 persons who have been arrested on felony charges during the past few months by the police."

"For the first three years a member of the police department receives only $150 a month, finally receiving the maximum of $160. He must pay from $150 to $175 yearly for equipment and uniforms. Firemen receive $140 for the first five years. Then they get $160."

SCHOOL LUNCHES SHOULD BE TASTY AND NUTRITIOUS

By Ella Mae Ives

Containers for the carried lunch should be strong, easy to carry, slightly ventilated and made of odorless material — never use a basket, newspaper or cardboard box. Unless hot soup or cocoa is provided at the school, a thermos bottle should be included in the equipment. Tests show that the hot lunch raises the standard of efficiency, health and weight of pupils.

Use Wax Paper

Each article in the lunch container should be wrapped in waxed paper and placed in the order in which it is to be eaten. Always line the box with a paper napkin and put a folded one on top of the lunch (100 napkins cost only 15 cents). Pack the articles so the food will not shake around. A drinking cup may be needed, also a small knife, fork and spoon.

Tiny bean jars, custard cups, muffin tins and gelatin molds may be used in preparing and carrying many types of food that are good hot or cold: beans, custard, bread puddings, gem cakes, individual pies, tarts etc. Often an oven is provided for heating individual cups of creamed vegetables or any other foods requiring reheating.

Fill Small Jars

Various sizes of screw top glass jars (cold cream jars, etc.) will hold sandwich fillings, cooked fruits, gelatin desserts, sauces, sliced fruits, salads, cottage cheese, nuts, raisins, other dried or preserved fruits. Celery, lettuce, radishes, tender carrots, tomato, or some fresh uncooked fruit should be included in every lunch in order to get the vitamins necessary for growing children.

Milk in some form should always be included and small amounts of meat and eggs should often be added; also cheese occasionally. The container should be frequently scrubbed and sunned.

Should Eat Slowly

See that the children are compelled to keep quiet long enough to eat their lunch slowly. Do not allow their whims or desire for sweets to influence your better judgment. Plenty of fresh fruit and an occasional bit of Hershey's milk chosolate, or raisins, cocoanut, dates or nuts will satisfy them and be so much better than candy.

The lists of sandwiches, puddings, plain cake and cookies chilled desserts and soups in other parts of this book will give many ideas for variety in lunches.

Five Suggested Lunches

Clear soup, meat sandwich, apple, milk.

Cocoa, nut-raisin sandwich, orange, custard.

Tomato soup, chopped meat sandwich, banana, jello.

NOTE—If child is under weight add nuts, a chocolate bar, dried fruits or cheese often, but warn him to chew them thoroughly and always include milk in some form. Never put warm milk in thermos bottles — it soon sours.

In Between Times

We're going to wear leaves again. They are maple instead of fig this time and they come under the list of accessories instead of complete costumes, being merely choker necklaces, but in view of the increasing abbreviation of the costumes, we wonder if this could be what might be termed an entering wedge.

It seems now, that the fashion in furniture decrees any number of "occasional" pieces such as coffee tables, tilt-top tables, book-trough tables and nests of tables, in every room in the house, and so far as we can see the only use they are put to is to skin unwary shins in the dark, and unfortunately that use is likely to be more continual than occasional.

There's a small boy of our acquaintance whose mother has reminded him repeatedly that he'd never get anywhere going fishing, and we saw him the other day clipping the newspaper story about the Wisconsin girl who unearthed $375 in gold coins while digging for angle worms to take on a fishing trip, but he told us he supposed it would be just his luck if his mother never again made her well-worn comment and gave him a chance to use the answer he'll have ready and waiting.

A sufficient number of new one-dollar bills to replace the entire issue now in circulation, is to be ready by July 1, 1928, states an authoritative announcement, and the new ones are to be smaller in size than those we are using now, but we trust that that won't mean a lessening of the buying power as we've stood as much shrinkage in that direction as we possibly can.

We don't say that she was Scotch, but we believe that there is reason to think that she might be, — that woman who we saw the other day in a restaurant. She was lunching with a friend who left a piece of chicken untouched on the plate, and which the woman in our story discovered only as she rose to leave the table. She was half way to the cashier's desk to pay her bill before her thrift asserted itself. Then she turned around and went back, sat down at the table again, and devoured with relish that piece of chicken which her friend had left untouched.

STUDENT NEWS AT EAST HIGH SCHOOL

Native Porto Rican Is Taking Post Graduate Work At East

By Ruth Woods

Sehorita Carmen Sagarra, graduate of San Antonio High school, San Antonio, Texas, is now a post graduate student at East, after having lived in Porto Rico, Mexico, Canada, and many parts of the United States. In her travels she has discovered that most persons know little of her native island of Porto Rico. In a talk before the Spanish club of East High school, on Wednesday, she gave answers to questions frequently asked of the island.

"Porto Rico is one of the West Indies," she told club members. "It's population is one third Negro and two thirds white. The native of Porto Rico was the same Indian found in the United States.

"The American flag has flown over the island since 1898 and the Porto Ricans hope eventually to be admitted to the Union as a state. There is much poverty existing in the interior, but owing to the frugal habits of the people they live in comparative comfort. Crime, lawlessness, and small offenses do not exceed those committed in the United States, proportionally.

"Porto Ricans are much the same as other humans. They eat, sleep, play, dance, and live much as we do. They have a wonderful system of schools, good theatres, parks, public buildings, universities and colleges. They indulge in all forms of athletics, horse racing being their favorite just now."

Miss Segarra is at East this year to observe the methods of presenting Spanish to beginners in that language. Spanish to beginners in that language. She is enrolled in four of Miss Reel's Spanish classes.

Gamut Club Concerts

Included in the outside talent which is booked to appear before the Gamut club this winter are: Mrs. Dorothy Stevens Humphrey, in a costume recital assisted by Alma Borneman and Louise Ackerman; Regina Bleil, violinist; Mrs. Marion Wilson Haynie, and Mrs. Marie Hertenstein Waller.

Last week's program which was presented in the music room, under the auspices of the club, was as follows: "To a Water Lily," MacDowell, by Faye Zeller; "Adoration," Borowski, "Humeresque," Dvorak, and "To Spring," Grieg, by Eleanor Smith, violinist and Vondale Smith, accompanist; "Golliwog's Cake Walk," Debussy, by Evelyn Nassau; "The Rosary," Nevin, and "A Dream," Bartlett, by John Allen, trumpet, and Ruth Woods, accompanist; "Legende" Friml, and "Polish Dance," Scharwenka, by Alberta Starks.

New officers of the Gamut club have been elected as follows: Ruth Woods, president; William Adamson, vice-president; Mabel Cass, secretary; Dorothy Cox, treasurer. The members of the program committee are: Margaret Marian, chairman; Ruth Jones, Grace Mitchell, Alice Knepper, Hope Johnson, and Archibald Krumm.

Former East Student Elected

Dorothy Aspinall, who was garduated from East High school last June and who entered Ohio State university this fall, has been elected freshman representative on the women's council at the university. While a senior at East Miss Aspinall won considerable recognition as Yum Yum in the presentation of "The Mikado," in the East auditorium last February.

Girl Reserve Activities

The members of the Girl Reserve cabinet were the guests of their faculty advisor, Miss Nellie Henderson, on Wednesday, at the Gray Moon tea room at Long street and Taylor avenue.

Recognition service will be held on the triangle, November 10. "The Gypsy Trail," is the theme for the year, announced by the cabinet. The topic of the last meeting was "Guideposts." A playlet, "Candles That Burn," was presented.

"Ring Standards" was the subject discussed by Miss Henderson, and she pointed out that Girl Reserve rings are given not as a reward but as a symbol that the wearer has shown that she is striving to grow better in body, mind, and spirit, — those qualities symbolized by the sides of the blue triangle.

Danced With Symphony

Adeline Borneheim, a 12-B student at East was the dancer who appeared opposite Jorg Fasting in the "Waltz of the Flowers," from the Tschaikowsky suite, at the concert given October 25, by the Columbus symphony.

Analysis of the Platform of the So-Called People's Ticket

In view of the newspaper articles that have come out in support of the People's Ticket and the glaring inaccuracies of fact upon which these supporters base their conclusions, and in view of the fact that many newcomers in Bexley have not had the opportunity of living in Bexley long enough to know the actual facts, and for fear such newcomers will be misled by certain statements in articles that have appeared in the newspapers and which have appeared in the platform of the People's Ticket, this article is prepared and herewith submitted and every resident of Bexley who believes that this village is now and has been a good place to live in, is urged to read this article so that he may be for the first time correctly informed as to certain statements that have appeared.

The Much Talked of Library Property

There have appeared many statements, oral and written, by the persons supporting the Hirsch ticket, stating that the Village of Bexley made a gift to Capital university of the land upon which the new library is to be erected. One example of such a statement is sufficient in the article signed by "Yes Verily" under date of October 18th in the "Ohio State Journal." The following are the FACTS concerning this question: This 30-foot strip in question and which is claimed to have been donated by the village council to the trustees of Capital university, was laid out as a street in a plat made by the Welles heirs. An examination of the plat at the Recorder's office shows that this plat was never accepted by the county commissioners. This was all done years before Bexley ever existed as a village. This substantially was an offer of a street by the Welles heirs, which was never accepted and the ownership of the property, of course, remained in the Welles heirs. Before a street could exist the plat of such street had to be accepted by the county commissioners and its non-acceptance eliminated all possibility of its being a street. The fact that the property was not used in any manner by the public for seven years absolutely settled the question as to there being no public right in the property. Neither village council nor the public of Bexley had any more title or right to that property than they had to Olentangy Park. How, therefore, could there be a gift of this property to Capital university?

Sidewalks

The People's Ticket, earlier in this campaign, came out with a newspaper article in the "Ohio State Journal" stating that at a meeting of the People's party, among other things endorsed, was a project for putting in sidewalks in Bexley. As soon as the People's ticket realized that they had made an unpopular suggestion the matter of sidewalks immediately disappeared from their subsequent platforms, as contained in their advertisement in the "Eastern Times" on October 28th, and in the map which they sent around showing the voting precincts and also stating their platform. The present administration has pursued the sane policy of only putting in sidewalks where the residents wanted them or where for the protection of school children they were necessary and in this way helping to keep down the property owners' assessment rates wherever possible. The People's ticket would put in sidewalks and let the property owners carry the burden, yet the People's ticket reiterates economy throughout all their literature.

Fire and Police

In the precinct map sent out through the compliments of the People's ticket and in the "Eastern Times" advertisement of Oct. 28th, they ask for adequate and better police and fire protection at reasonable cost. There are now five police officers continually on duty in Bexley and the present administration believes that they are not warranted at the present time in expending more of the taxpayers' money for additional police, so long as Bexley is practically free from those crimes requiring additional police.

The so-called People's ticket wants better fire protection and state that Bexley should have its own fire department. The reason Bexley has not had its own fire department and its own fire crew to maintain is because Bexley has been able to obtain adequate fire protection through a contract with the City of Columbus for a less expenditure of the taxpayers' money than would be required to install our own fire department and maintain an adequate crew of fire fighters. We wonder if the People's ticket realize that it would cost more to purchase, equip and maintain two fire engines and crews for our village for the year 1927, than it is going to cost the village to have the benefit of all of the departments of the City of Columbus at any time needed. An example of whether our present protection is adequate or not: A short time ago some rubbish in a field caught on fire and before the fire made any appreciable progress two of the fire divisions of Columbus were on hand. However, the People's ticket, whose password is economy, wish to extend the expenditure of funds to install our own fire department, and they are perfectly willing to keep seven firemen on duty at all times at a combined yearly salary of $12,600.00. This equipment to meet a half a dozen fire calls a year, some of which are mere bonfires. Does this sound like economy? The most ridiculous thing of all concerning the fire department is that the People's ticket are going to undertake at the time of the next Federal census, to build a new municipal building to house the various municipal departments. We congratulate the People's ticket on their optimism in endeavoring to decide at this time what will be done after their terms expire, even if they were elected at this election. If this is a sample of the kind of legislation that Bexley can look forward to under the regime of the People's ticket, we are convinced that this analysis will not be written in vain.

The People's ticket wish to extend Bexley's street lighting system. In the period from 1922 to 1927 the present administration has installed lights at an expenditure of $111,862.47. We believe that Bexley is very well lighted at the present time and the present council, upon careful consideration, extends the lighting system as and when desirable and necessary, giving consideration to the desires of the persons residing on the streets where new lighting is wanted. Can any new party who seeks to obtain office depart from this conservative procedure without expending more of the taxpayers' money than is required?

Post Office

The People's ticket pledges itself to work for a United States Branch Post Office and the elimination of unsightly mail boxes. It is some satisfaction at least to the members of the present administration that the People's ticket, in the event it is successful, will undertake to carry on work for a United States Branch Post Office, which work has already been under way by the present council long before the People's ticket was ever heard of and which work has resulted in the securing in Bexley of a Branch Post Office, there only remaining now the establishment of said Post Office in a proper location. The work will, in all probability, be completed by the first of the year so the present administration wonders just what additional work the People's ticket will be able to do on an already practically completed enterprise. The People's candidates may undertake the elimination of what is termed unsightly mail boxes, but the present council has taken no steps to eliminate the existence of mail boxes which are now located down on the street, for two reasons:

The first reason is that the Post Office Department requested that the boxes be established near the street to make mail distribution and collection easier, and the present administration immediately concurred with the humanitarian desire not to compel the postmen to walk the many additional miles which would be required in carrying the mail from the street clear back to the front doors of the various residents on their routes.

The present administration believes that postmen are human beings and it has no desire to compel this group of persons who do well serve us all, to walk through snow and ice an additional distance when our mail boxes can be placed on the street for their convenience. Apparently the candidates on the People's ticket have not considered the postman's side of the question.

Streets

Another platform in the People's ticket is to obtain street repairs which they claim are now badly needed. The only answer to this suggestion is to ask any resident of the Village of Bexley to ride over Bexley's streets and compare them mile for mile as to the condition, construction and passability with any other village or city in the state. When such an inspection is made the taxpayer must remember that the present good and passable condition of our streets has been accomplished with the eyes of the administration always upon the tax rate so as to inflict as little a burden as possible on the residents of our community, all to the end that Bexley now enjoys one of the lowest tax rates of any of the villages in the state equal in size to our own. Of course, the People's ticket, if elected, are at liberty to have every side street in the village paved, whether the paving is needed or not, and whether residences are built on such streets. It is very easy for an administration to make improvements with other people's money, and from the platform as set forth by the People's ticket, Bexley is certainly in for having an era of street paving, bridge building, light installation, and other improvements which will make the Bexley tax rate resemble a Notre Dame football score by the time the People's ticket have had their two years' chance at the village. This is assuming, of course, that the Village of Bexley is willing to elect the People's ticket and repudiate the old one.

Grade Crossings and Transportation

The People's ticket state that they will hasten to eliminate the N. & W. grade crossing and work for better transportation. The Village of Bexley has done everything in its power up to the present time to co-operate with the City of Columbus and the N. & W. R. R. to the end that the grade crossing may be eliminated. The present village council of Bexley has procured after strenuous effort, an agreement to a franchise for the Interurban company which will assist the early elimination of the grade crossing. Beyond this, neither the village council of Bexley nor any other authority in our village can do more. Bexley is not now, or has it ever stood in the way of the elimination of the N. & W. grade crossing, despite the fact that certain authorities in the City of Columbus have attempted to pass the burden of this delay on to Bexley. The burden of the delay was passed on to Bexley not because Bexley was in any way standing as an obstacle to the elimination of grade crossings but for other purposes which are not necessary to enumerate in this article.

A committee of the Village of Bexley has been working with the Columbus Railway Power & Light company and the Interurban company toward the end of better transportation for our village, and happily this committee has been able to accomplish some progress in this line, which progress will probably go for naught if a change in administration is effected in the next election. It is sufficient in answer to the People's ticket to issue a challenge to the People's ticket to get away from the generalities of their platform and to point out any specific item in which the elimination of grade crossings or better transportation could be procured than has already been done by the present administration. No voter on this question is going to believe that a grade crossing can be eliminated and perfect transportation effected at a moment's notice.

Beautification

We come next to the one plank in the People's platform, which seems to have been adhered to consistently by the People's ticket and not abandoned from time to time in their literature as it seemed advisable, depending upon whether such a platform was popular or unpopular with the people, and that platform is the one for beautification for Bexley. Certain of the parks and public places in Bexley are now well planted and well taken care of by the park committee of the present village council. The present village council could have spent many thousands of dollars of the taxpayers' money in planting new shrubbery at certain locations in our parks; transplanting other trees and shrubbery and generally engaging in landscape architecture on a wholesale basis. The present council and the park committee have believed, and still believe, that the public grounds of the village present a very agreeable appearance, and that the same are well kept up. These grounds, let it be known, are kept up on the extra time of certain of our present village employees, so that money which could be lavishly spent on super-beautification could be applied to the improvement and paving of streets, the construction of additional sewers, the addition of extra policemen, all of which applications tend to promote the convenience and comfort of the residents of the Village of Bexley, and we believe that the present condition of our parks and public grounds will not in any way shock the aesthetic senses of the residents of our village. Another matter of beautification which the present village council of Bexley has sought to eliminate, and are now taking steps to eliminate if possible, is the erecting and maintaining of billboards and advertising signs throughout the village, which everyone knows do not in any way tend to increase the beauty of a community such as ours. The council has endeavored and is now taking steps toward the elimination of a number of billboards which exist on the north side of Broad street as one enters Bexley from Columbus. Any resident of the village, who wishes to see a concrete example of just what kind of beautification the People's ticket stands for, may enter Bexley from the east on East Broad street and cast their glance to the right and see a large and unsightly billboard recommending the election of the People's ticket.

If the erection of this billboard is a sample of what type of beautifying may be expected if the People's ticket is elected, it is well for the voters of the Village of Bexley to understand the matter at the outset and not be mislead by such a platform as this.

The residents of Bexley are not without the benefit of a former instance in which Mr. Hirsch, as president of the Columbus Automobile club, promised a beautification of Bexley. Let us see how well it has been lived up to. At a meeting of the council of the Village of Bexley on the evening of August 24, 1920, Ralph F. Hirsch, the present candidate for mayor, was then president of the Columbus Automobile club and appeared before council on the evening mentioned with a landscape drawing setting forth the beautification of the circle which then existed and still exists at Broad street and Drexel avenue. Mr. Hirsch stated to the council that the Columbus Automobile club, under his regime, would be willing to spend up to $2,000.00 in the beautification of the circle if the village council would permit the State Highway department to continue Broad street and Drexel avenue straight through the circle in place of going around the circumference thereof. Council, under these conditions, granted the request. The next morning on the first page of the "Ohio State Journal" appeared an article stating that the avenues mentioned were to be cut through the circle in a straight line and that the Automobile club, of which Ralph Hirsch was president, would spend up to $2,000 in beautifying the circle. On the first page of the "Columbus Dispatch" in its evening issue of August 25, 1920, was a reproduction of a landscape drawing similar to the one exhibited to council the night before, showing the circle as it would look when improved and beautified.

Council and residents of Bexley have now waited seven years and approximately two months for the fulfillment of this promise and the circle remains unimproved without an expenditure of one cent. The voters of the Village of Bexley can judge for themselves therefore how much faith may be placed in the promises of beautification and other enterprises fostered by the so-called People's ticket.

Extension of Bryden Road

For a ticket which has as its slogan "economy," the next plank of the People's platform is probably the most amusing of all. This is the project to connect Bryden road of Bexley with Bryden road in Columbus, giving what is termed as another main artery into Bexley.

This project involves a number of important things which should be placed before the people, first of all it involves the difficult task of convincing the City of Columbus that in order to insure another main artery into Bexley, the City of Columbus should put before its voters a bond issue to provide the following things:

1. An extension of Bryden road from Rhodes avenue in the City of Columbus, together with the pavement and street lights as far as the N. & W. tracks.
2. The erection of a viaduct crossing from the end of Bryden road over the tracks or underneath them.
3. The paving of the street from the N. & W. tracks to within 300 or 400 feet of South Parkview avenue in Bexley together with the necessary street lights to be established on the street.
4. The condemnation and purchase by the City of Columbus of certain private property lying between the N. & W. tracks and Alum creek, over which territory Bryden road will be moved.
5. The cost of making a large fill from Nelson road in Columbus to connect with the viaduct or bridge over Alum creek.
6. 50% of the cost of a viaduct or bridge over Alum creek together with 50% of the pavement and street lights necessary on such street and bridge.

This is assuming, of course, that the City of Columbus is willing to put into a bond issue one-half of the cost of such bridge. As to whether or not the City of Columbus is willing to finance an enterprise of this sort is very questionable in view of the tremendous cost of such construction to that city.

Let us look at it now from the standpoint of Bexley and see what the cost of such a proposition will be to the taxpayers of Bexley. Assuming that Columbus could be successfully coerced into the building of such a bridge, Bexley will have to bear one-half of the cost of the bridge, the filling in of the low ground between Alum creek and where a street could connect with higher ground just west of South Parkview avenue, together with the paving of a street and the establishing of street lights on the street and bridge. First of all, if Bexley bears but one-half of the cost of the bridge, an engineer's estimate of the cost of such construction to the Village of Bexley will be, at a conservative estimate, $80,000.00. If Bexley would have to pay for the entire construction of the bridge, the estimate would be in the neighborhood of $125,000. The taxpayers of Bexley, therefore, if they are to believe all of the outlines in the platform of the so-called People's ticket, can prepare themselves for a nice little bond issue of $80,000 at the very minimum and possibly an issue of $125,000. Yet the residents of Bexley must remember also that the so-called People's ticket stands for economy. The cost to Bexley of the fulfillment of this promise, in all probability, will exceed either of the bond issues now before the people for new school building sites and for a library. If Bexley is to pay the entire cost of the new bridge the bond issue will equal in amount both of the present bond issues for a library and for school sites. When the N. & W. grade crossing is eliminated, East Main street will be improved in the vicinity of Hanford, so that it will present as passable a thoroughfare into Bexley as East Broad street now is and both streets, together with Livingston avenue, will sufficiently care for the ingress and egress to and from our village. Do not the voters of this village believe that it is more important that the bond issue to provide adequate schools for the future for our rapidly growing village and a fine library for the benefit of its residents are far more important than the connection of Bryden road in Columbus with Bexley?

Sewers and Sanitation

The so-called People's ticket ask for practical sewers and sanitation. Let us examine this platform of practical sewers and sanitation. It is the belief of the present administration of Bexley that its residents are entitled to specific charges instead of the so-called People's ticket hiding behind vague generalities which no one can name. It is easy generally to condemn but extremely difficult to point out specific instances to support the condemnation. Again the old administration issues a direct challenge to the so-called People's ticket to come out in the open, throw their cards on the table and give us at least one specific complaint out of the multitude of generalities contained in the literature of the People's ticket. The present administration challenges the so-called People's ticket to find wherein the present sewers in the village are impractical under all of the circumstances surrounding the construction of the same and wherein the sanitation of our village is impractical. Just what is the so-called People's ticket driving at? Let them speak a language which means something to the persons that have thus far waited in vain for a single logical platform in opposition to the present administration. In the advertisement of the so-called People's ticket in the October 28th issue of the Eastern Times, three questions are asked, as follows:

Bexley needs a library—why not build it on Bexley property?

It is sufficient to refer the residents of this village to the letter of E. P. Tice in last week's Dispatch in the column provided for the letters from the readers and also the letter of Charles J. Pretzman in the November 3rd issue of the "Ohio State Journal" in the same place as Mr. Tice's letter. The question is sufficiently answered in those two letters and we wish to commend these writers for signing their full names to their letters. These men and others who have written letters in behalf of the old administration do not have to hide behind a fictitious name such as "Yes Verily," "Ditto," "A Bexleyite" and "Mrs. W." Are these people who have written under these slogan names afraid to come out above their signatures? Are they afraid that the so-called facts stated in their articles may be checked up? Why the subterfuge? Many residents of Bexley wish an answer to this question. Going further, the so-called People's ticket in the October 28th issue of the "Eastern Times" wishes to conduct an economical, business-like administration. The answer of the old administration to this is to refer the so-called People's ticket and any other resident of Bexley to the official reports of the state examiners who every year make an examination of the Bexley records and all of the activities of the Bexley administration. The examiners have given Bexley a clean bill of health every year and have gone further and in certain instances have commended the Village of Bexley on good government and efficient management and throughout the reports of these examiners are contained complimentary references as the various topics of administration are reviewed and reported upon by them.

Bexley has voted funds for a fire department—why do we depend upon Columbus?

The third question is as follows:

Bexley has a sewage disposal plant—why has it been out of operation for months?

The answer to this question is to challenge the truth of it and let the so-called People's ticket prove that the sewage plant has been out of operation for months. This plant has been in operation ever since it was established and is now operating.

Conclusion

At the top of the advertisement of the so-called People's ticket in the "Eastern Times" under date of October 28th is the following statement:

"Elect this ticket for a still better Bexley."

An analysis of this statement shows that the so-called People's ticket thinks that Bexley is a better place. This concession means that the activities of those that have had the welfare of Bexley in charge, have made a better place out of it, or in other words, have performed their duties properly and efficiently; yet the so-called People's ticket wishes to make it still better. With what equipment do they hope to make a better place still better. Not one of the candidates on the entire so-called People's ticket has had so much as one month's experience in the management of a municipal government. Against this lack of experience which means everything in the proper conduct of any enterprise, there is the record of the old administration whose experience runs from two years to ten or twelve.

It is the belief of those many residents of Bexley who by reason of their interest in the welfare of their community have made this page possible, that the foregoing examination of just what the so-called People's ticket stands for, will assist the residents of this community in voting on November 8th with a little bit better idea of the merits or demerits of the respective parties.

We take pride in pointing out its beautiful homes, its well-kept lawns, its splendid schools, its natural beauty, and its public-spirited citizens.

Bexley Has Passed the Village Stage

We are now a city, in population, and it is necessary that we elect to office men with broad vision and progressive ideas.

These Candidates Stand for a Business-Like Administration

1. WE ADVOCATE a fire department located in the heart of Bexley. (We are paying Columbus more than $15,000 a year.)
2. WE ADVOCATE our own engineering department. (We are paying Columbus private engineers, under the fee system, approximately $16,000 a year for part-time services.)
3. WE ADVOCATE compliance with the state laws requiring competitive bids for the deposit of public funds. (Examiners from the auditor of state's office report finding no such record.)
4. WE ADVOCATE sanitary sewers that are practical, and can be used. (Many sewers have been laid at great expense, which are now useless to the assessed taxpayers.)
5. WE ADVOCATE an equitable gas rate. (Columbus is enjoying a lower rate than Bexley, with a further prospect of a substantial refund.)
6. WE ADVOCATE extension of our street lighting system. (Many well-populated streets are in total darkness. Illuminated streets are a protection against accidents and burglaries.)
7. WE ADVOCATE co-operation with the City of Columbus and the N. & W. officials, for the elimination of grade crossings. (Bexley officials have been accused of hindering this project.)
8. WE ADVOCATE extension of the Livingston avenue car line to Bexley's eastern boundary. (At present there is no transportation service south of Main street.)
9. WE ADVOCATE greater efficiency in keeping our public records. (We quote from the state auditor's report for 1926: "The numerous errors listed in this report of building inspection indicate that there is a lack of accuracy in keeping these accounts. We urge that more care be shown in this regard. A more careful check should be made by the clerk as to the entries in the cash book and thereby avoiding all, or nearly all mistakes such as shown by the above statement.")
10. WE ADVOCATE adequate police protection. (Private watchmen should not be necessary in Bexley.)
11. WE ADVOCATE a public library in Bexley, but we insist that it would be poor business to place it on land which Bexley does not own.
12. WE ADVOCATE a post office sub-station with carrier service to each door. (Many streets are marred by unsightly rural mail boxes. Do not be misled by promises which involve a government allowance of only $50 a year.)

K. K. K. Head Is Not Dragon But Only Pennsylvanian

The K. K. K. at Capital university has chosen a new head for the year, but it will cause no ripple of interest in the Ku Klux Klan, for the K. K. BEXLEY VOTERS RALLY TO SUPPORT OF MAYOR'S TICKET

Ludwig's Entire Slate Triumphs By Wide Margin In Record Vote

PASS TWO BOND ISSUES

When Bexley residents turned out to the polls Tuesday to cast a total vote which was larger by one third than the election two years ago, Mayor Stephen E. Ludwig triumphed almost four to one over his opponent, Ralph F. Hirsch. For Mayor Ludwig, 1937 votes were cast, while Hirsch received only 503.

The mayor's entire ticket was returned to office with him. The election this year closed a hard-fought campaign, and aroused the greatest interest in municipal affairs which the village ever had seen.

MAYOR STEPHEN LUDWIG

Bexley's new library became a certainty, also, when the bond issue of $68,000 to provide it was approved by 1370 votes and opposed by 974. Approval was given also to the school bond issue for $75,000. There were 1519 votes for it and 762 in opposition.

The following tabulation shows the number of votes polled by each of the candidates for the various village offices other than mayor in the final unofficial count:

For treasurer: Joseph Stein, incumbent, 1717; O. M. Heffner, 616.

For members of the board of trustees: William R. Schirmer, 1702; Otto Klingbeil, 1695; Grover Orr, 1520; Alva H. Sanford, 609; Harry L. Samuels, 506.

For board of education: K. G. A. Bush, 1604; J. L. W. Henney, 1620; Mrs. Grace M. Whitehead, 667; C. D. Barton, 562.

There was no opposition in the field to the re-election of S. W. Roderick, clerk, and David Shadrack, marshal.

ELECTION FANS GIVE RODERICKS HOUSE-WARMING

To all appearances Village Clerk Ross W. Roderick held a house-warming Tuesday evening. The Rodericks recently moved back into their home at 1600 South Drexel avenue after having vacated it for the summer while redecorating was being done.

But what looked like a house-warming was entirely unpremeditated and unplanned by the Rodericks.

Upwards of 40 guests arrived, however most of them staying until three o'clock in the morning, and some until later than that. They were villagers coming to the returns, the polls in each case having been notified to bring their record books and make their reports to the clerk at his home.

The last report was from Precinct C at 4:15 o'clock in the morning. But some of the guests were still there to hear it when it came.

VILLAGE FATHERS MEET FIRST NIGHT AFTER RE-ELECTION

Members of the Bexley council met in their accustomed places around the council table, Wednesday evening, and settled themselves for another term of office in their same places.

It was the regular council meeting moved back a day to avoid conflict with election night. Only routine business occupied the council's attention which, perhaps, was just as well since most of the members had spent the greater part of the preceding night watching the returns coming in from the various precincts.

The meeting consumed a shorter time than any other in the last several weeks. Nor was there much loitering after the motion to adjourn. Almost to a man, the sentiment seemed to favor getting home and making up lost hours of sleep.

CHURCH ARRANGES "FOOTBALL" NIGHT

A special invitation has been extended to all those interested in the football controversy at Ohio State university centering about Dr. Wilce, to attend the "Football" night at Morgan Memorial Methodist Episcopal church Sunday evening.

The address of the evening will be made by Rev. Mr. R. O. McRae, pastor of the church, who is a former varsity football man at Ohio Wesleyan university. His subject will be "Scoring a Touchdown". Special music will be furnished by the colored chorus of the Pilgrim Junior High school. The chorus will sing a group of Negro spirituals.

Rally Day and Homecoming At Mayflower Church

Homecoming and rally day will be celebrated Sunday at the Mayflower Congregational church at Studer avenue and Livingston avenue. Appropriate services have been arranged for the Sunday School and church hours. Rev. Mr. Louis Greene is pastor.

Formal Call To Be Extended To Pastor

The congregation of the Bexley Presbyterian church will meet at the regular morning service hour Sunday to extend a formal call to Rev. Dr. John L. Tait, pastor-elect.

Dr. Tait came to the church before the formal organization in the present had been effected. The meeting will be moderated by Rev. Dr. W. A. Perkins, who is in the state work of the church, representing the children's and old people's homes of the denomination. Rev. Dr. Perrins also will preach the morning sermon.

New School Radio Heard At Association Meeting

The radio which was installed recently at Livingston Avenue school by the school and the Parent-Teacher association of the building, furnished the musical program for the meeting of the association held in the building Wednesday.

At a luncheon preceding the meeting, Mr. E. E. Garwick, principal, and the teachers at the building were guests of honor. Mrs. H. E. Adel, principal of Felton school, was the chief speaker on the program, using as her subject, "The Elementary School."

Mrs. H. O. Caldwell presided at the meeting, and Mrs. Louis Vogel was social chairman.

MISS GEIST AND MISS FARBER ARE "BEST STUDENTS"

Three Other East Siders Are Included In Merit List

Two of the best students at the new Y. M. C. A. junior college are Miss Ruth Geist, 2269 East Mound street, and Miss Mollie Farber, 1611 Bryden road, according to complete tabulation of grades of first period of present semester. Both of them are doing outstandingly excellent work in French.

Miss Marie Drugan, 1970 East Main street, Mrs. Margaret McGowan, 1415 East Broad street, and Miss Margaret Bosher, 1050 Oak street, have also been included in the first merit list of this new college.

In the reports made by Ohio State and Capital university professors on the Y. junior college faculty to Charles M. Roudebush, director of the Columbus Y. M. C. A. Schools, they observed that freshmen in this new junior college were superior in ability to the average college freshman.

Professors attribute this superiority to students' seriousness of purpose and their determination to get the most possible out of the only opportunity available in Columbus for securing arts college work in the evening, as well as to the maturity of the average student, whose age is 23.

Attendance records show that students in this new Y. junior college have practically no absences from class marked against them. Their classes meet three evenings a week.

MRS. ASCHER IS IMPROVING

Mrs. E. K. Ascher, 1367½ East Main street, is improving at her home from bruises and shock sustained when the automobile in which she was riding with her daughter, Mrs. Henry Lindenberg Hinkle, skidded and ran off the River road south of the Dublin bridge last Saturday. Besides shock, Mrs. Ascher suffered an injury to one arm.

MEMORIAL SERVICE IS HELD AT EAST

Pay Tribute To 13 Former Students Who Died In World War

Hugh L. Martin was the principal speaker at the memorial service which was held Thursday in the East High school auditorium as a tribute to the 13 East High school boys who lost their lives in the World War.

Pictures of the 13 boys were thrown on the screen and a brief history of each was given by Anthony Dolesal, teacher of history and occupations. The double quartet of the school sang Frank La Forge's "Requiem and Recessional." The quartet is composed of Talmadge Crawshaw, Archibald Krumm, Paul Pasini, Edward Bastian Isabel Duesenberry, Verna White, Hope Johnson, and Margaret Crawford.

The program was given under the auspices of the "E" association in which several of the 13 who paid the supreme sacrifice in the World war, were members. The 13 were Albert Agler, Eli Bates, Harold Courtney, Herbert Drake, Harold Huffman, Ralph Kennel, Russell Mann, Gleason McCarthy, Clyde McCormick, Vaughn McCormick, Ray Murphy, George Seltzer, and Rollo Stevens.

LUTHERANS MEET RIO GRANDE LADS IN FINAL GAME

Capital University will close its grid season this week-end when the "Fighting Lutherans" meet the Rio Grande football warriors at Columbus on Armistice Day.

The season has not been a very successful one. The main difficulty is accredited to the lack of organization in the team and the abundance of injuries on the squad. Not a single game was played during the season into which the Capital mentor could throw his full force.

In spite of the adverse luck of the season thus far, no pains are being spared by the Lutheran eleven in preparing to close the football campaign with a victory.

Will Observe Harvest Home Day

Members of the congregation will take gifts of foodstuffs Sunday to the First English Lutheran church in observance of the annual harvest home day. These offerings of provisions will be given to charitable organizations in the city for distribution among needy families. A monetary offering will be taken for the Lutheran Pacific seminary at Seattle and for the Saskatoon College and seminary in Canada.

Special music will mark the services to be held at the church on this day.

Home For Aged Celebrates 40th Year On Donation Day

Has Occupied Present Location In East Main Street Since 1904

It might be called the house of dreams for dreamers have lived there for 28 years. They are dreamers not of the future and of things to be achieved in rosy-hued tomorrows, but of the things that have been in the past.

For the house that might be called the House of Dreams is the Pauline Home for the Aged, 1323 East Main street, which Thursday celebrated its 40th anniversary on its annual donation day.

The dreams that they dream; these 21 residents of the home, go back three score years and more, for the oldest resident is Mrs. Greisley whose birthday will be her ninety-fourth. And the youngest is past 65. If their dreams could be woven into a fabric it would be a crowded tapestry of many scenes. There would be some of girlhood days in the time of the Civil War and before. There would be others of families of children in the 'seventies and 'eighties. There would be great variety of detail for no two of the dreams are quite alike.

An ideal background against which to weave these dreams is the structure which the home occupies. A generation, even two generations ago, it was the old Kimball home. Cut on a page of glass today, in the room of Miss Evaline Stage, superintendent, [illegible] may be seen this [illegible] "Charles Kimball, [illegible]" [illegible] Kimball.

[illegible] spacious lawn, the house contemplates serenely the hurrying traffic of East Main street, but none of that hurry and bustle penetrates into its quiet rooms.

The founding of the home 40 years ago was upon the suggestion of Mrs. Pauline Haddeus, wife of Rev. Mr. Christian Haddeus, of the Independent Protestant church in East Mound street. Its present name was given it in 1918 in honor of its founder. Following its incorporation it was located in Grove City but was removed to its present location in 1904.

There is no endowment for the home and it does not share in the Community fund, its support being dependent entirely upon its members and friends. The annual donation day brought many gifts for the comfort and pleasure of its residents. It brought quantities of provisions, linens, and dozens of glasses of fruits, jellies and preserves.

Mrs. W. J. Kienzle, 476 Wilson avenue, is president of the board of managers of the home, and Mrs. Theodore Reeb, 892 South Twenty-second street, is vice-president. LIBRARY OBSERVES BOOK WEEK WITH SPECIAL DISPLAY

National Book Week, beginning November 14, is to be observed in the Bexley public library in several ways which have as their purpose interesting parents and children in good children's books.

Though little space is available in the present cramped quarters of the library, one table in the library rooms will be used to display special editions of children's classics and some of the newest worth-while books for children.

Mrs. Sarah H. Bilby, librarian, also will have lists of good books for children, and books for parents on the importance of choosing the best for their children to read. She has extended an invitation to parents to come in and discuss with her the problems of interesting the child in good literature.

CAST OF 100 IS REHEARSING FOR "ROSE OF TOKIO"

Japanese Musical Comedy Will Be Annual Autumn Play Of High School

Rehearsals are being held daily in the Bexley High school for "The Rose of Tokio," the musical comedy which is to be given in the high school auditorium on Thursday and Friday evenings, November 17 and 18 as the annual fall dramatic production of the High school students.

The play is being rehearsed under the direction of Miss Leone Artley, representing the John B. Rogers company from which the play was obtained. The cast includes 14 principals and a number of feature chorus groups. Approximately 100 students will take part in it.

Elizabeth Tracy will have the title role. Supporting her will be Helen Wildermuth, as Mei-o-Mei, daughter of the Royal gardner; Ruth Phalor, as Kokosaki, wife of the mayor; Burton Elder, as Ying Fo, a minstrel; Charles Tracy, as Ho-Ho, the mayor of Tokio; Arch Houstle, as Saturday, the bodyguard of the mayor; Morris Mattlin, as Baron Kaneko, an ambitious nobleman; David Beggs as Richard Smith, an American reporter; Francis Lauffer, as Chi Fu, who appears in the various disguises of a beggar, a witch, the green eyes, and Dr. Wo; James Zuber, as Wen-a-Su, keeper of the royal gardens; Norma Ijams, as Aunt Chloe, a darkey mammy; Jack Jones, as Sergeant Melo, a Japanese officer; and Lawrence Lamp and David Strickler, as soldiers. Eloise Clark will be pianist.

Besides a plot of baffling mystery and tuneful melodies, tense moments and comedy situations are expected to make the production an outstanding entertainment. Elaborate settings and costumes will be used. The special chorus groups include poppies and gardiners, cymbal dancers, toy soldiers, Parisian girls, undertakers, parasol girls, and flowers in a Japanese garden.

BLIND STUDENTS AT CAPITAL ARE EMBRYO LAWYERS

Lack of ambition is not present in the case of Vance E. Stuller and J. H. Iams, blind students at Capital university. Both these young men, handicapped as they are, are taking up the pre-law course at the Lutheran institution, and were former students at the Ohio State School for the Blind.

Stuller, who hails from Mount Vernon, Ohio, is in his second year at Capital and has music for his hobby, spending all his spare time picking on the banjo. Iams is in his first year at the Lutheran School.

It is remarkable with what ease these boys find their way about the campus and through the traffic of Columbus and Bexley. They regard a trip to the heart of Columbus as an every day occurrence. Both hire readers to help them in their studies.

To Hold First Of Brotherhood Luncheons

The first regular luncheon of the Men's Brotherhood of the Wilson Reformed church, will be held next Wednesday in the basement of the church.

A speaker will be engaged to address the gathering. The luncheon will be furnished and served by the [illegible] Aid society.

ANNUAL HOME MISSION DAY WILL MAKE GIFT TO CHURCH

Three Synods To Contribute Sunday To Building Program Of Wilson Avenue Reformed Church

BUILD $40,000 ADDITION

Reformed Church Among Oldest Denominations in City

A gift of between $20,000 and $25,000 is expected to be collected from approximately 1,100 Reformed churches on Sunday for the use of the Wilson Avenue Reformed church in its building program which proposes to erect a $40,000 addition to the present church home at the corner of Wilson Avenue and Fair Avenue.

This will be annual home mission day in the Reformed churches throughout the country, an occasion when a free-will contribution is made by every congregation of this denomination to be given to one certain church in the district for its building program.

The contribution this year from between 1,000 and 1,200 churches in the Ohio, the Midwest, and the Northwest synods, will come to this institution in the East Side. These synods cover the country west of Pennsylvania to the Pacific coast and part of Canada.

It is the plan of the Wilson Avenue Reformed church to raise the rest of the $40,000 within its own membership and to start construction on the new unit soon after the first of the year.

An auditorium with a seating capacity of 400 persons is to be built adjoining the present edifice. With completion of the addition, the present building will be converted into the educational unit of the church. Folding doors will connect the new auditorium with the present structure. The basement beneath the auditorium will connect with the present basement to provide social rooms.

A club room for Boy Scout activities is to be provided in the new part of the basement. At the rear of the present church, an addition to cover a space 15 feet by 40 feet will be used for the primary department and for a nursery during church hour.

According to Rev. Mr. Clarence Woods, pastor of the church, the new portion will be ready for dedication about September 1, 1928. It is probable that the dedication will be held to mark the celebration of the second anniversary of Rev. Mr. Woods' pastorate here.

Members of the building committee are E. V. Barr, chairman; J. W. Weaver, secretary; C. C. McBride, treasurer; Dr. Clifton Reedy, W. H. Weatherby, C. O. Fravel, W. S. Runkel, F. P. Zinn, Alvin Fury, L. B. Wheaton and Charles Rau.

The present church which has been in existence for about 35 years, is the fifth organization of the Reformed church in Columbus, Rev. Mr. Woods said. The denomination is, however, one of the oldest in the city. The first organization, from which the present one sprung, conducted Reformed services in Columbus as long ago as 1840.

Within the organization of that first church, the records show, the Heidelberg College of the Reformed church, now located at Tiffin had its beginning. There, too, began the Central Theological seminary, now located in Dayton, and "The Christian World", the official voice of the Reformed church, now published in Cleveland.

Additional facilities which will be provided in the church with the completion of the new unit, will lay the foundation for expansion of the activities of the church. One of the largest and most important factors in this expansion, Rev. Mr. Woods said, is expected to be the establishment of a church center in the Ohio State university district next year.

Dies After 27 Years At St. Vincent's

Sister Julitta (Miss Elizabeth Jacobs), 53, who had devoted the last 27 years of her life to the care of children in St. Vincent's orphanage, 1490 East Main street, died at the orphanage Tuesday after a week's illness from influenza which developed into pneumonia.

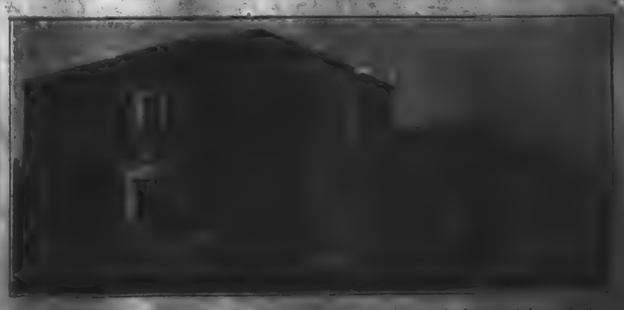
Sister Julitta came to this country 27 years ago and became connected with the orphanage immediately. She is survived by several brothers and sisters all of whom live in the old country.

Funeral services were held in the chapel at the orphanage Thursday morning. Interment was made in St. Joseph's cemetery.

OHIO SENDS ONE THIRD LUTHERAN SCHOOL ENROLLMENT

Five foreign countries and twenty-three of the forty-eight states in the United States are represented in the student body at Capital university it was learned in a recent check-up of the records. Nearly one-third of the enrollment comes from outside the state. Ohio is the leader of 378 and Columbus has 94 of these.

Pennsylvania is next after Ohio with 31, Indiana has 12, closely trailed by Michigan with 17. Illinois and Wisconsin have 9 each, Maryland 8, West Virginia 7, New York, Minnesota, Alabama and Texas, 4 each; California 3, Maine 2, Iowa, Washington, Virginia, North Carolina, and the District of Columbia 1 each. Canada is the home of 7, and Palestine, Australia, Germany, and Czecho-Slovakia, also are represented.



Will Durant Will Lecture At Capital

"Is Progress a Delusion?" is the subject of the lecture which Dr. Will Durant, author and philosopher, will deliver at Capital university next Thursday evening, November 17. This will be the first of the lecture course series which is being presented by the Capital University Culture club. Dr. Durant is best known as the author of the "Story of Philosophy."

Brawley, president, and Minard Holsman, vice-president, the meeting was conducted by B. C. Nafziger, secretary. Only routine business was transacted.

HOLY ROSARY HIGH SCHOOL

Parents of the children enrolled, other members of the parish and their friends were given their first opportunity Thursday evening to inspect the new Holy Rosary senior high school building which was completed and opened for use in September.

The building faces Berkeley road and is just back of the Holy Rosary grade school building in Seymour avenue. When pupils of the school presented the play, "In Little Old New York," Thursday evening, it was the first time that the auditorium had been opened to the public. An opportunity to inspect the rest of the building was given preceding the play.

LET'S BE READY WHEN CHRISTMAS COMES

It isn't too early to be thinking about it. The day is only a little more than six weeks distant.

Each year as the season approaches, most of us think several weeks in advance that this year we'll make our plans, buy our gifts and be ready without being caught in the rush and confusion of last-minute shoppers. Then we don't.

And it is so easy to do it, too. The Christmas list is just one of those things it is easy to put off. But let's not this year. Somehow it takes away from the spirit of the day to have to dash about at the last minute picking up something that will do, instead of just the right gift for each person.

Let's get out a pad and pencil right away, make our list and begin immediately to cross off each item in its turn. Have you ever known the joyous satisfaction of having it all done, the packages wrapped and sealed and ribboned and put away in a drawer, ready and waiting for delivery on Christmas eve? It adds fifty per cent to the happiness of the day. Let's try it.

THIS YOU CAN DO TO HELP

The Eastern Times is your community newspaper, and we thank you for your interest in sending us your news. But we want to ask you to help further by sending it to us early. Thursday morning at 8 o'clock is our news deadline. That means that the news you send us should be in our hands in plenty of time to have it typewritten and edited by that hour.

We know it isn't necessary for us to have to be swamped each Wednesday with late material that it takes until midnight to get ready for the compositors, but that's what has happened each week so far.

Sometimes it has been necessary to omit this article or that because it reached us too late. And we don't want to omit any of it because we want our columns full of all the neighborhood news. So we want you to try to get your material to us not later than Tuesday.

TEACH STUDENTS OF MUSIC IN BRANCHES OVER ENTIRE STATE

The Capital University Conservatory of Music, which operates the largest extension field of any Conservatory in Ohio, is planning to open its twentieth branch studio at Ashville, as soon as the studio is completed there. At the present time, the circuit includes: Reynoldsburg, Kirkersville, Etna, Hebron, Gahanna, Worthington, Galloway, West Jefferson, London, Grove City, Harrisburg, Derby, Washington C. H., Commercial Point, Five Points, Walnut, Circleville, Hamilton and Pickerington.

Courses of instruction which the Conservatory offers in most of these branch studios include piano, violin, viola, 'cello, saxophone, clarinet, drums, cornet, trombone, and other brass instruments. Voice is also offered where there is sufficient demand for it, and flute and piccolo are given at Washington C. H. A new course this year is furnished by the dramatic arts department of the Conservatory.

The extension department also supplies such needs as directors for bands, orchestras, glee clubs, and church and community choruses. The corps of instructors is as follows: Floyd Elliott, Columbus, Violin, viola, and 'cello; Albert Germanson, Columbus, violin; Elizabeth Stolz, Columbus violin, Edward Morrison, Columbus reeds and drums; Ruth Pearch, Columbus, piano; Wilbur Crist, Middletown, brass instruments; Fred Brobst, Columbus, flute and piccolo; and Albert Heinz, Columbus, voice.

The teachers move in five circuits which include the entire extension field, each circuit being covered once each week. The fact that the instructors are certified by the State makes it possible for the Conservatory to transfer credits to other schools if desired. Many extension students attend the Conservatory after they have finished high school, and make a serious study of music, taking either the public school music course or the certificate and diploma course which the school offers.

WHISNER TEACHES ART CLASSES OF DOWNTOWN SCHOOL

Says Artist Must Be Constantly At Creative Work

HEADS LARGE ART STAFF

Advertising art is being added to the subjects available at the Columbus Y. M. C. A. downtown school of commerce, beginning Monday evening Nov. 21. These new art classes are to be given by George A. Whitmer, 998 South Ohio avenue, director of art department at the Terry Engraving company.

Sessions of this advertising class are to meet each Monday and Friday evening.

Whitmer, who has been associated with Terry's ever since his graduation from South High school in 1908, is director of the largest art staff in Columbus. He has taken a leave of absence only during his study in New York City under Winald Rice. Previously he had been a student of Julius Gois at the Columbus Art school.

Remarking that, "Unless an artist is doing creative work every day, he soon begins slipping backward," Whitmer explains his own constant activity. He never permits his executive duties to keep him away from his board and his pencils and brushes.

For the past three years, he has conducted private classes in the Pen and Pencil club rooms, but he plans to continue his teaching only in the art department of the downtown Y. M. C. A. school of commerce.

As a member of the Pen and Pencil club since 1914, he is a former president of the group and a permanent member of the entertainment committee.

Students Will Hear Dr. Cass Reed Tonight

Dr. Cass Reed, president of the International College of Smyrn, will address the students of Capital university Friday evening in the basement of Christ Lutheran church. Dr. Reed will speak earlier in the day before the student body at the Columbus Academy.

Youth Loses Wager; Plays Armored Knight

The expression "When Knighthood was in Flower" became very real last week for Charles Hax, a student at Capital university. Only this theme was played with variations in his case.

The trouble started when Hax made a wager with his roommate, Adolph Layher, that the Rio Grande eleven would run roughshod over the Capital athletes in last Friday's game. But Rio Grande failed to do that, so Hax, to carry out the provisions of his wager, encased himself in a suit of armor, grasped his trusty shield and lance, and mounted on a "fiery" charger, rode post haste to the new girls' dormitory and presented his favor, a large chrysanthemum, to Miss Hilda Bright, a co-ed at the university.

THANKSGIVING FEAST AND HARVEST FESTIVAL WERE CUSTOMS LONG AGO

Has Been Holiday by President's Proclamation Since Time Of Lincoln

FUN CENTERS IN FEAST

Next Thursday, by the proclamation of the President and the re-proclamation of the governors of the states, there will take place the festival of the harvest. Then, the spirit of thanksgiving will manifest itself in family reunions and gatherings of friends on every street in the East Side and Bexley, as in streets all over the country.

It will be an occasion of gayety and joy tempered by the dignity of religious ceremonies. In practically every instance it will center about the Thanksgiving dinner, a table filled with the season's most savory goodies.

Thanksgiving day, which has come down from Pilgrim times, founded upon a feeling of gratitude to a kind Providence for a goodly harvest, never has lost its original significance. As the early settlers of Plymouth and Boston town gathered their families about a heaped board 300 years ago on the day they set aside for Thanksgiving, so do the homes today keep the spirit of the occasion.

Though Thanksgiving day is purely an American custom, nevertheless it was not an original idea with the Pilgrims who have passed it on to us. The festival of the harvest was held among the Canaanites whom, the book of Judges says, "went out into the fields and gathered their vineyards, and trode grapes and held a festival."

Among the Jews the Feast of the Tabernacle was a regular holiday following the harvest from the threshing floor and the wine-press. Early Greece celebrated in the month of November her Thesmophoria or feast of Demeter. And in ancient Rome, October 4 was the day when Thanksgiving was made to Seres, the harvest diety.

In England the Harvest home was an autumnal festival of the Saxons of the time of Egbert. And the Dutch, among whom the Pilgrims lived prior to their coming to America, kept a thanksgiving day in the fall of the year. So that in all their teachings and in the traditions of the countries which had been home to them before they settled in New England, there was a tendency toward the custom.

Started by the Pilgrims in 1621, the custom has spread and the influence has deepened until it is now a national holiday by proclamation, the only religious festival celebrated in the United States by virtue of the authority of the civil government.

During the American Revolution, people and the Continental army observed a Thanksgiving day by proclamation of the Continental congress. And as first President, George Washington also set aside a day for such festivities.

Later Presidents sometimes forgot to set the day by proclamation until the time of Abraham Lincoln from whose term on down to the present the custom of issuing a Thanksgiving proclamation has not been interrupted.

THANKSGIVING

"For the hay and the corn and the wheat that is reaped,
For the labor well done and the barns that are heaped,
For the sun and the dew and the sweet honey-comb,
For the rose and the song and the harvest brought home,
Thanksgiving, Thanksgiving.

For the trade and the skill and the wealth in our land,
For the cunning and strength of the working-man's hands,
For the good that our artists and poets have taught,
For the friendship that hope and affection have brought,
Thanksgiving, Thanksgiving.

For the homes that with purest affection are blest,
For the season of plenty and well-deserved rest,
For our country extending from sea to sea,
The land that is known as the 'Land of the Free,'
Thanksgiving, Thanksgiving."

TURKEY DINNER FOR SIX COSTS $11 THIS SEASON

Housewives Have Choice Of Substitutes To Lessen Cost Of Feast

OHIO TURKEYS SCARCE

Housewives, in the coming week, will turn their attention to the planning and preparation of the Thanksgiving dinner. In some homes it will be a feast to which uncles and aunts and cousins will be invited. In others it will be just a gathering of the immediate family perhaps with sons and daughters coming from distant homes, for Thanksgiving day has come to be [illegible]

The menu of the Thanksgiving dinner remains much the same every year. On the shopping list for the affair, the first item more frequently than not is turkey, for turkey long has been considered as the center of the Thanksgiving feast.

Ohio turkeys are said to be scarce this year, more scarce than in former years. And their scarcity has placed them at a selling price which to many thrifty-minded housewives, is prohibitive. If she is planning a dinner on Thanksgiving day for a family of six persons, the housewife will find that a turkey large enough for the meal will cost approximately $7.50. There will be cheaper ones to be had, but many housewives insist on having one that has not been shipped in from the west or the south.

But if turkey seems too dear, there are substitutes to be had, and at some homes, a substitute is preferred. A chicken for a family of six would cost $2.30, while a duck would be priced at about $3.50, perhaps. And there is rabbit, too, which is in season, two of which would serve a half dozen people and could be bought for about $1.

From the wide range of choice confronts her for the meat for her dinner, the housewife usually decides to estimate the rest of the dinner, and then see which of the meats she can afford.

For six persons — 15 cents worth of Irish potatoes to mash; 15 cents worth of sweet potatoes; 35 cents for oysters to scallop; 10 cents for cranberries; 20 cents for beans, or peas or corn; 15 cents for celery; 15 cents for lettuce or cabbage for slaw, or endive; 15 cents for enough mince meat for a pie, or 10 cents for enough pumpkin; 35 cents for nuts; approximately 75 cents for a dish of various kinds of fruit. And the pencil in the hands of the housewife marks down the total. Just $3.54.

Another dollar would cover practically all of the essentials for the cooking and also for the table, including butter, coffee, cream, crackers and bread. Then the total is $3.54.

A turkey dinner with all the "trimmings," she may bring home from the shops for approximately $11. If she choose a duck she may shave off enough to bring the total down to about $8, or chicken would permit slicing off another dollar.

MEMBERS BAG GAME FOR BROTHERHOOD'S FEAST OF RABBITS

Forty rabbits which were shot the first day of the hunting season by nine members of the organization, were served to the Brotherhood of the Christ Lutheran church Thursday evening in the social rooms of the church, when the Brotherhood held its annual rabbit dinner.

Among those who reported bagging their full quota of five rabbits for the day were Rev. Dr. C. V. Sheatsley, Dr. Otto Mees, and Prof. Orr. Others who took part in the hunt to supply a sufficient number for the dinner were Charles Wilson, Mayor Stephen Ludwig, William Yaebel, Prof. Bush, Adam Petsinger and Phillip Petsinger and Prof. Kraus.

Winners Eat Turkey; Losers Served Beans

That was the kind of a table to which the employees of the Pepper-Jones Company sat down last Tuesday evening at the Elks' home. And they ate the turkey while across the table from them sat their hosts, eating beans.

The dinner was the result of a contest won by the Pepper-Jones company against another Columbus Chevrolet dealer, because the former company made the better sales record for the month of October. All departments of the company helped in making the record which won the contest on the final day of which, 14 new cars were sold and delivered. Regular working hours were forgotten frequently and the last car was sold and delivered at 1:15 a. m., November 1.

This East side automobile agency also enjoys the distinction of being the only Chevrolet dealer in Columbus to win sales honors in the last three successive months.

FIRE IN DAVIS HOME

Members of the family of Ben Davis, 1478 Bryden road, came very close, Wednesday evening, to watching their winter's supply of coal going up in smoke on the outside of their furnace.

When rubbish on top a coal pile in the basement was ignited, the fire department was called to extinguish the blaze. No damage was reported but considerable excitement was caused in the neighborhood by the smoke which poured from the windows of the house.

CO-EDS CONSIDER OWN PROBLEMS IN NEW COUNCIL PLAN

HOLD FORUM DISCUSSIONS

Co-eds at Capital university will solve many of the problems of school and dormitory life, themselves, as the result of a new form of co-ed government which has been devised by Miss Justina Eich, new dean of women at the university.

The plan of government consists of a dormitory council, whose members are representatives of the four college classes, and proctors, appointed by the dean, who are members ex-officio. The seniors are allowed three representatives while the other classes have one each.

It is the purpose of the council to present to the dean matters of importance which might escape notice. A forum is to be created in which the co-eds themselves may rule on matters concerning dormitory life. The council will discuss the suggestions of classmates and strive to overcome difficulties that arise by holding forums [illegible]

The organization is purely advisory with the final decision resting with school authorities. Its meetings are held on the second Mondays of each month.

To Hold Union Service At Washington Ave. U. B.

The Union Thanksgiving service of all South Side churches will be held at 7:30 o'clock Wednesday evening, November 23, in the Washington Avenue United Brethren church. Rev. Kreager, pastor of the South Baptist church, will deliver the sermon.

MEN'S CLUB GIVES DINNER IN HONOR OF FOOTBALL TEAMS

Program Open To Public Will Follow Dinner For Athletes

DR. MEES WILL SPEAK

Members of the Capital university and Bexley High school football squads will be the honored guests of the Bexley Men's club on Monday evening in the Bexley High school for the first of a series of public entertainments preceded by a dinner for the club and its guests, which has been planned by this organization.

The evening has been designated as "Capital University night," and the entertainment in the auditorium following the dinner will come from the university. Dr. Otto Mees, president, will be the chief speaker, and there will be music by the Capital Glee club and quartet. This part of the evening will be open to the public.

Preceding this, the Guild of the Bexley Methodist Episcopal church will serve the dinner to which only members of the club and the university and high school football athletes have been invited.

As the first of a series of such entertainments under the auspices of the recently organized Bexley Men's club, the entertainment was announced originally for November 18 and the entertainers were to have been the "Blue Danube Singers." However, an entertainment by these singers has been scheduled for January 25 in order to make possible the evening in honor of the football squads at this time.

A third and final evening of entertainment is to be held in February or March, and will be probably the occasion for bringing an outstanding speaker to the village.

The committee in charge of the affair Monday evening is composed of C. L. Crippen, president of the Bexley Men's club, Lester Bush, and George Whitehead.

Recovering From Injuries

Mrs. Clarence Palmer, 240 S. Parkview avenue, is reported entirely recovered from bruises received Saturday night in an automobile accident at Preston road and East Broad street, but Mr. Palmer, who received more serious injuries, has not yet returned to his office.

Mr. Palmer's arm and hand were cut so badly that several stitches were required in dressing them.

The accident made it necessary to re-route traffic until the wreckage could be cleared away. Fire, which resulted when a spectator tossed a burning match into a pool of gasoline, destroyed one of the machines. H. C. Stephen, 61 North Ardmore road, who crashed into the wreckage, escaped injury.

Conduct "Activity" Period To Develop Leadership and Aid In School Management

Roosevelt Junior High Is Among Pioneers in Plan

MAKES FOR FINER SPIRIT

Learning to conduct a public meeting, learning to plan programs for such a meeting and to take part in those programs now are included in the regular curriculum at the Theodore Roosevelt junior high school.

The plan for giving this instruction to the students, has been worked out at this school building through the establishment of an "activity" period during each day of the week. It is a plan which has put an end to after-school meetings of the many school clubs. It has created a regular place in the weekly routine, also, for general assemblies in the building's auditorium at which every pupil enrolled has the opportunity to hear lectures on subjects of special interest.

In an age of organization, the plan bids fair to prepare boys and girls for active roles in organization affairs when they go out from school to take their places as citizens in the community. More than that it has been found, according to Principal W. W. Wager, of Roosevelt, that the plan increases interest in school affairs and is to considerable extent, a solution to the problem of order and discipline in a building which has a student body of more than 1,000 boys and girls.

Roosevelt school is a pioneer in working out such a plan. At only two other buildings in the city have similar plans been put into effect. And it was said that the one at Roosevelt has been worked out in greater detail to reach all of the students, than either of the others.

The "activity" period occurs every afternoon and is 36 minutes long. On Monday, Tuesday and Friday afternoons the period is used as the meeting time of the various school clubs. These are 26 in number and include the glee clubs and athletic clubs, the orchestra, Girl Reserves, Boy Scouts, and all of those of specialized interest in certain departments such as Latin, French, chemistry, mathematics, dramatics and art clubs.

On Wednesday and Thursday of each week programs are arranged in the auditorium for the entire school body, half of the enrollment assembling each day. The half which is not in the auditorium for the special assembly and program there, meets in smaller groups in the regular registration rooms, sometimes for specially prepared programs of their own, sometimes for discussion of school problems and school plans in open forum.

Usually the discussions center about subjects offered for consideration by one or more of the four representative organizations of the pupils which have for their aim the strengthening of a fine school spirit.

"It isn't the 'Hip, hip, hooray' spirit which these four student groups are building, but a deeper, finer spirit of school betterment along all of it's working lines," explained Principal Wager.

The four groups are the student council, the thrift club, the boosters club, and the school beautiful club. Mr. Wager outlined some of the things which these groups have accomplished.

Student government is the special province of the student council. A system of 130 monitors who are on duty whenever the classes change and during the lunch hours, has brought about a splendid order and discipline in the building, the principal said.

The best record of all buildings in the city in school savings was attained last year at Roosevelt, largely through the activities of the thrift club, he said.

Better attendance, less cutting and a higher average of scholarship are things which have been achieved by

Blue Is Second, Red Is First In Tournament

The tournament of "Serve-Us" ball which has been the center of interest in girls' athletic circles at East High School this month came to a close on Tuesday when the Blue team lost in the finals to the Red team. The game was followed by the losers buying ice cream for the winners. In the final game the Red team won by a score of 12 to 5.

Basketball will be started for the girls next week.

Factory In East Side Has Made Piano Accessories For 35 Years

Reveals None Of Its Processes To Passerby But Ships All Over Country

ORGANIZED IN 'SIXTIES

The East Side is not heavily endowed with factories, but it boasts of one which is said to be the only one of its kind in the state and which occupied its present location when the western part of what is now the East Side was only the eastern rim of the city.

It is the Henry Holtzman and Sons Company at 2112 East Main street which came from Pittsburgh 35 years ago. To East Main street it presents only its long, many-windowed front walls. But behind those walls are throbbing engines and, normally, 100 workers whose business is the manufacture of products which are shipped throughout the country, from ocean to ocean and from the great lakes to the gulf.

Piano accessories is the term that might be used to cover, in summary, the products that are made there. They include piano stools and benches and ornamental scarfs and moving covers. And the equipment of the factory is such that they are turned out in many thousands each year.

If the making of a piano bench seems a simple process, it is because you never have made a tour of such a factory as this. It is the story of the many important steps between raw lumber and the skillfully built expertly turned, highly polished piece of furniture which gives beauty with utility when it is placed in the room of a home.

A distinguishing feature of the factory of the Henry Holtzman and Sons Company is its own power plant. It is properly the first thing to see in a tour of the factory, for it furnishes the power for all the departments. It is a 250 horse-power unit with a capacity for the production of 600 amperes of electrical power. And it has been said by insurance inspectors that it is one of the best units for serviceability in the city.

Then if one would start at the beginning of the complicated process of the making of a piano bench, one must see the drying kiln where all lumber must undergo drying in a temperature of 140 degrees for 60 days before it is seasoned for use. The drying kiln is large enough to hold 200,000 feet of lumber at a time.

When the lumber has been thoroughly seasoned in the drying kiln, it is ready for the first process towards converting it into the finished product. Some is shipped to the factory in primar lengths for use, some must be cut there.

Going through the different shops of the factory, one finds a machine in one place which receives a four-sided stick of wood and turns it out a perfectly rounded and properly leg for a bench or a stool, and besides this machine another for turning out equally shapely square ones.

One sees other machines for smoothing broad flat pieces for bench or stool tops. There are others occupied only with producing cross pieces, and still others to give the correct edge to bench and stool tops.

In one department the gluing together of pieces for the tops is done, and it must be done expertly so that the joinings will not be visible in the finished, polished service.

Machinery does practically all of the work of fashioning the pieces of the products. It does much of the finishing, also, after the bench or stool has been put together. Even the putting on of the varnish, is done with the aid of special equipment of air sprays.

But the last attention which the stool or bench receives before it is ready to be packed for shipping, is given by hand. That is the washing with water and powdered pumice stone to give a dull finish to the otherwise glossy polish, and the final rubbing down with soft cloths.

The company was founded in Civil War days by Henry Holtzman, whose name the company still bears, though he is no longer living. The brothers who are the "and sons" of the name, are Emile Holtzman, who is vice president, and C. E. Holtzman, who is secretary-treasurer.

NEIGHBORLINESS

We happened into Mrs. L——'s home in the East Side the other morning and it led us to talking about neighborliness. Mrs. L—— was baking cookies and the first pan had just been removed from the oven as we arrived. Mrs. L—— turned them out to cool with a deft twist of the wrist and reached for a plate at the back of the table. She heaped it with the warm, crisp, new cookies.

"Excuse me just a minute," she said. "I want to run across the street with these while they are still warm. When she came back she explained further.

"That plate belongs to Mrs. R—— but in the last six months it has traveled back and forth between our homes about once a week. It came over last week with a pumpkin pie on it. It came the first time, the third day we lived here, and it had on it eight fluffy, hot biscuits.

Oh, no I haven't ever seen Mrs. R—— then. Didn't even know who she was. But with our belongings only half unpacked and not a friend in the whole neighborhood, that first plate of hot biscuits was like meeting some one from our own home town, in a strange land. It was real friendliness, real neighborliness. And since that time the same plate has traveled between our two homes quite extensively, and it never travels empty."

That phrase "real neighborliness" stuck in our mind. We feel that there is a great deal of it in the community, but we advocate more of it. It makes for a happier, pleasanter place to live.

We do not advocate everyone baking biscuits or pies or cookies and passing them wholesale around the neighborhood. We use that incident only as a tool. There are innumerable ways of being a good neighbor. The best way to start is with a friendly smile and a cheerful greeting.

And in the final analysis, we don't think there can be much higher praise of any man than that he is a good neighbor.

Observe Book Week

National Book week is being observed at East. N. C. Wyeth's posters attract students to the library where Miss Alice L. Morris, librarian, has colorful editions on exhibition.

Getting the students interested in 6,000 books, including 1,000 volumes of bound magazines, is Miss Morris' task. At the beginning of each semester she teaches all 10th grade students to use the catalogue and to understand the Dewey decimal system of cataloging. Printed test sheets are given each pupil, which assigns him definite problems to solve. These are graded and averaged with the pupil's 10-B English grade.

Elect Swimming Captain

Members of the East High boys' swimming team have elected Kelton Jones to captain them this season. Negotiations are under way by swimming Coach George E. Parkinson, to secure the Y. M. C. A. pool for the team to use for practice.

The outlook for the East swimmers this year is very promising according to Coach Parkinson. The first meeting of the year will be held Dec 16 at the Y. M. C. A. pool.

Medals For Typing Speed

Medals for meritorius work in typing speed tests were awarded to Mildred Marsh, Viola Kagey, Marjorie Feckey, Geneva Bryant, Frances Montgomery and Edith Kounts, by four typewritor companies in a recent contest.

The contestants were required to copy the test for 15 minutes, to estimate the average words a minute. A gold medal signifies 50 net words a minute for 15 consecutive minutes, with not more than five errors on any make of typewriter. A silver medal signifies 40 words and a certificate, 30 words. For each mistake contestants are penalized 10 words. The awards were made by the Remington, Underwood, L. C. Smith, and Royal typewriter companies.

Conduct "Activity" Period To Develop Leadership And Aid in School Management

the organization of boosters, according to the principal, while the school beautiful club has been instrumental in having the school lawn planted with trees and shrubs, and works constantly for clean playgrounds.

Mr. Wager gave as the chief reasons for the establishment of the "activity" period the desire to make greater use of the school auditorium for the benefit of the students, and the desire to develop leadership through training the boys and girls to manage their own school affairs and club activities. He expressed himself highly gratified with the way in which the plan has worked out. It was inaugurated last year. Each of the clubs has one or more faculty advisors, but as the plan has become established, less and less of the actual arrangement of programs devolves upon these advisors and more and more is being assumed by the students themselves, it was said.

Mr. William Pearl Beavers, brother of the bride, served as best man and the ushers were Mr. Thomas Everts, of Winfield Park, Fla.; and Mr. William Winklehausen, 608 Wilson avenue.

DR. WILCE TALKS ON FOOTBALL AT BEXLEY BANQUET

Songs And Cheers Give Dinner Aspect of "Pep" Rally

ATHLETES HONOR GUESTS

Football should illustrate the precept, "build soundly," Dr. John W. Wilce, director of football at Ohio State university, told members of the football squads of Bexley High school and Capital university, and members of the Bexley Men's club Monday evening at the celebration of "Capital University Night" by the club.

Dr. Wilce was the principal speaker for the evening's program following a banquet at which the two football teams of the village were honor guests. The banquet was served in the basement of the Bexley High school by members of the Bexley Guild.

Declaring that football has become a national obsession, Dr. Wilce scored those football fans who demand a winning team above all else. He said that football ought to be done away with, if it cannot be made to reflect the philosophy that "some one else has rights in the world." It is the gamblers on the games, those whose interest is a commercial one, who insist upon a winning team at all times said the coach who has had a 21-year association with football and who is president of the national committee on football.

"Blood-lusters" was the way Dr. Wilce characterized a number of football fans who, he said, appear to want not as much a football game as a modified form of gladitorial combat. Football, he indicated, ought to teach self-control, and added that "self-control is what this nation needs more than anything else."

Dr. Wilce called this year a peculiar one in football, and led his audience to expect that the national committee on football will take under consideration certain aspects of the problems that have been developing as a result of what he called "national football obsession," when the committee meets this week in New York.

At Dr. Wilce's entrance into the banquet hall, he was welcomed by the singing of "Carmen," by the entire company of guests. At the close of his talk he was given a spontaneous rising vote of thanks.

Short talks made during the evening, also by President Otto Mees, of Capital university, and by Mayor Stephen B. Ludwig. There was special music furnished by the Capital Glee club and quartet, and the gathering joined whole-heartedly in high school and college songs and cheers.

Bexley Schools Hold Year's First Midterms

Thanksgiving Day had a special significance for the students of the Bexley High school, for the three days preceding it were marked by the regular midterm examinations in all classes of the school.

The midterm examination at the Bexley High school is a happy medium between the old formal examinations and none at all, according to Superintendent H. C. Dieterich. The examinations are shorter than the old-fashioned ones which sometimes consumed a half a day. They require only an hour for each one and they cover less work than formerly.

It is their purpose, according to the superintendent, to give the teachers a knowledge, in the middle of the term, of the progress being made by the students, individually, and also to prepare the students for the taking of examinations, without something like stage-fright, in college.

Grades made by the students in these examinations will be combined with the grade made in a similar examination at the end of the term, and with the grade for regular classwork, to ascertain the final standing in a subject.

EAST SIDE PIONEER MANUFACTURER DIES; ILL ONLY FEW DAYS

APOPLEXY CAUSES DEATH

In the death this week of Louis A. Holtzman, 58, 491 South Parkview avenue, president of the Henry Holtzman and Sons company at 2112 East Main street, there was closed the career of one of the pioneer business men of the East side.

Mr. Holtzman has been identified with the manufacture of piano accessories in the East side for 35 years, having come to Columbus when the factory was brought here from Pittsburgh by his father.

Funeral services were held at 3 o'clock Thanksgiving afternoon at the home. Pallbearers were D. W. Kerr, F. D. Weiss John Seidensticker, Clyde Minic, Edward Volinger and George Beshtel.

Apoplexy was the cause of death, which occurred Tuesday in a hospital in Wheeling, W. Va., where Mr. Holtzman had been overtaken by illness while on a business trip. He was ill only a few days. His widow, Mrs. Clara Holtzman was with him at the time of death.

Mr. Holtzman was a member of the Magnolia Lodge of Masons.

Besides his widow he is survived by his mother, Mrs. Wilhelmina C. Holtzman; a brother, Charles E. Holtzman, a son, Henry; and five daughters, the Misses Wilhelmina, Clara, Mary, Frances and Augusta, all of the home.

Cogger Dies After Automobile Accident

Internal injuries suffered when his automobile was crowded from the road and crashed into a telephone pole last Friday afternoon as he was en route to Mt. Gilead, caused the death last Saturday of Everett J. Cogger, 36, of 857 Gilbert Street.

Cogger was chrushed beneath the steering wheel of his car. He was removed to the Jane Cass hospital in Delaware where he died. The driver of the car which crowded Cogger's from the road, made his get-away from the scene of the accident, but the license number is said to have been secured.

Cogger was a traveling salesman for the Morton Salt company. He is survived by his widow; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Cogger, 865 Wilson avenue; and a sister, Mrs. Charles Carlson, of Mt. Vernon, N. Y.

TABER IS CHOSEN AGAIN TO HEAD NATIONAL GRANGE

Mr. Taber was formerly master of the Ohio Grange, and is a former president of the Ohio Farm Bureau federation. He served as secretary of agriculture under former Governor Harry L. Davis.

OUTLOOK IS NONE TOO BRIGHT FOR CAPITAL CAGERS

Thirteen Out of Fourteen Games Are With Conference Foes

TWO LETTER MEN BACK

With the football season but a memory, Capital athletes are turning their attention to basketball. Having been treated to an exceptional brand of the indoor sport it is doubtful if the Lutheran cagers will be able to live up to the expectations of the fans this year.

There are but two letter men back for the squad. They are Albert Kauber, forward, and Milton "Dan" Sheatsley, backguard and captain. Kauber lives in Columbus, while Sheatsley resides in Bexley. James Haub, center and hailing from Racine, Wisconsin, will also be available this year, having won his reserve letter in the sport last year.

Capital plays fourteen games, and thirteen of these are with Ohio Conference foes. If he can bring his team through to an even break, Coach Katherman will feel that the season will have been a success. The first meeting of the candidates was held Tuesday afternoon where the coming campaign was gone over and discussed. Enthusiasm and earnestness at the meeting indicated that while talent may be missing this year, the fighting spirit still carries on.

Jan. 3—Bowling Green, Columbus.
Jan. 7—Ohio Northern, Ada.
Jan. 10—Antioch, Yellow Springs.
Jan. 14—Heidelberg, Columbus.
Jan. 19—Otterbein, Columbus.
Jan. 28—Antioch, Columbus.
Jan. 31—Muskingum, New Concord.
Feb. 3—Marietta, Columbus.
Feb. 7—Dayton, Columbus.
Feb. 11—Baldwin Wallace, Berea.
Feb. 15—Kenyon, Columbus.
Feb. 18—Otterbein, Westerville.
Feb. 22—Marietta, Marietta.
Feb. 24—Ohio Northern, Columbus.
Feb. 27—Kenyon, Gambier.

GRIDIRON SEASON HAS BEEN SUCCESS FOR BEXLEY HIGH

Opponents Score 68 Against 149 Run Up as Bexley's Total

PALMER IS NEW CAPTAIN

By "Bud" Lauffer

With a 19 to 0 victory over Dayton Oakwood, the curtain rang down on a most successful season for the Bexley High football team. A resume of the past few weeks in sport history at the suburban school shows that Bexley has won six out of nine games, scoring a total of 149 points to their opponent's 68.

Defeats have been handed out to Gahanna, St. Marys, Worthington, Grandview, Upper Arlington, and Dayton Oakwood, while Bexley has bowed to London, Columbus Central, and Groveport.

The victory which Bexley points to with most pride is the win chalked up against Upper Arlington. Previous to the Bexley game, Arlington was undefeated, having scored something like three hundred points to their opponent's six. Bexley was generally conceded to be the under-dog in view of these comparative scores, and Arlington worried little. Two long forward passes of the Hirsch to Marsh variety, however, spelled bitter defeat for the northwestern eleven and the records show the final score as: Bexley, 14; Upper Arlington, 6.

Another satisfactory result of the 1927 season was the victory over Bexley's ancient rival, Grandview. Grandview was also undefeated prior to the Bexley conflict. The Bexley gridders uncorked some beautiful offensive plays to win a 21 to 14 victory over a surprised Bobcat eleven.

Bob Palmer, halfback, and Bus Moyer, quarter, are in a tie for the individual scoring honors, each having seven touchdowns and two points after touchdown, a total of forty-four points each to their credit.

Six of Bexley's regulars will be lost by graduation this year. Those who have played their last game for Bexley are: Captain Hirsch, halfback; Zuber, fullback; Moyer, quarterback; Marsh, right end; Diehl, left guard; and Trany, center.

Bob Palmer, a junior and an outstanding backfield man this year, was elected captain of next years team at a meeting of the letter men a week ago.

Hugh K. Martin Is Made U. S. District Attorney

Announcement has been made of the appointment of Hugh K. Martin, 817 Linwood avenue, as assistant United States district attorney. He was formerly United States commissioner and the position, left vacant by the new appointment, will be filled by Joseph W. Barnes, 324 South Parkview avenue.

GIRLS' BASKETBALL SQUAD AT BEXLEY BEGINS WORKOUTS

Will Open Schedule With St. Mary's Dec. 9

SEASON'S PROSPECTS GOOD

The smart slap of basketballs on the gymnasium floor, the shrill of the coach's whistle, the dull thud of rubber-soled shoes — and the girls' basketball squad of Bexley High school got down to the earnest business of practice for the season, this week.

Prospects are better this year than last, was the opinion given by Miss Clare Schooler, coach of the squad and head of the girls' physical education at the senior high school.

The opening game will be played December 9, with St. Mary's, when the boys' team also will go into action. Last year the girls' team played eight games and won six. This year, games have been scheduled with the girls' teams of Gahanna, Groveport, Westerville, Arlington, Grandview, and Oakwood High, of Dayton. And two dates on the schedule have not yet been filled.

Practice for forwards was started three weeks ago. There will be veterans this year at all positions except center. For this place on the team, Miss Schooler is finding it necessary to develop new material.

NINE BASKETBALL VETERANS ARE OUT FOR TEAM AT EAST

Schedule This Year Will Be Two-Round Affair

TWO LETTER MEN OUT

By Jack Keller

This year's basketball team at East High looks as though it will be of sterling caliber.

The team has a number of last year men to choose from. They are Wilbur Burke, usually placed at center; Paul Cohen, a versatile player; Dave Cohen, as versatile as his brother Paul; Walter Coppess, a remarkable shooter; Eugene Hamilton, a good all round player; Paul Walker, a good back guard; Charles Turney, who has played at center; Fred Morton, a plugger; and Leland Closson, as good as most if not better.

From this material it is expected that Coach Karsh will be able to mold a team that will take a goodly number of games, if not winning the championship. The above named players are all good at basket shooting. Although some have not had much experience, they should, before the season starts, be able to round out into some mighty promising players that will mean a threat to any who face them.

The letter men back are Burke and Coppess who played last year in most all the games. These two are very good players both defensively and offensively.

The schedule for this year has two rounds of play to it. This will enable the teams to show real caliber if they are to play two rounds against the other schools during the season. The following is the schedule:

First Round

Jan. 6—East vs. North at North.
Jan. 13—East vs. West at East.
Jan. 20—East vs. Central at Central.
Jan. 24—East vs. South at East.
Jan 27—East vs. Aquinas at East.

Second Round

Feb. 3—East vs. North at East.
Feb. 10—East vs. West at Central.
Feb. 17—East vs. Central at East.
Feb. 21—East vs. South at South.
Feb. 24—East vs. Aquinas at Aquinas

Neighborhood Post Office Has Served Community For 20 Years

Age Of Speed Is Reason For Increased Sale Of "Specials"

BUSY SEASON APPROACHES

Selling approximately $200 worth of stamps each week, from 10 to 20 money orders a day, and weighing up parcels post packages varying in number from 25 to 100 a day — that is the business of being a neighborhood postmaster, according to A. O. Harris who operates the substation at Miller avenue and East Main street.

The busy season for the neighborhood post office, as for post offices the country over, is looming up just ahead. It is the Christmas season and it means, to the Miller-Main substation, a flood of packages and greeting cards that rises about December 18 and does not ebb until the eve of Christmas.

During that rush there are many days when three truckloads of mail are hauled away from the substation in the Harris Drug company. Frequently the line-up reaches from the rear of the store to the front.

"The people are very patient, though," Mr. Harris said. "I guess they know that they'd probably have to wait longer if they took their packages down town."

It sometimes seems to a neighborhood postmaster that the person who wants to make the smallest purchases is the one who demands the quickest service. The buyer of a single two-cent stamp is invariably the person who wants immediate attention irregardless of how busy the clerks in the store may be.

"If we are very busy in the back room and hear someone enter the front and rap smartly on the counter, we can bet every time that its someone who wants to buy a two-cent stamp," the neighborhood postmaster said with a smile.

"A man may have put off writing a letter for days, maybe weeks, but as soon as he has written it, he wants it to get to its destination at once.

"We sell a great many more special delivery stamps than were sold several years ago. I put that down to the age we're living in. Everyone wants speed in everything. There is much more insured mail than there used to be, too."

The Miller-Main substation has been established for more than 20 years, Mr. Harris said. In that time more than 60,000 money orders have been sold. Multiply that by $10, the average amount of a money order and it is seen that a goodly fortune has been represented in this particular branch of the business alone.

Sometimes the neighborhood postmaster is appealed to, to recover a parcel or letter for a sender who has changed his mind after mailing it. But this, he explained, is out of his province. Once mailed, a package or letter must remain mailed unless the sender goes to the main post office and goes through the necessary procedure of explanation there to those in charge of this particular thing.

Attend Celebration Of Former Charge

Dr. Frank G. Fowler, pastor of the Bexley Methodist Episcopal church, and Mrs. Fowler will go to East Liverpool Monday to attend the three-day celebration of the 100th anniversary of the First Methodist Episcopal church of that city, where Dr. Fowler was pastor before coming to the charge in Bexley.

Dr. Fowler will be one of the speakers on Monday evening at a reunion of former pastors and at the meeting in their honor.

Desert Campus For Thanksgiving Recess

A short recess this week end allowing Capital university students to visit their homes and enjoy there, their Thanksgiving dinners, is being observed by the university. Wednesday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock all class work ceased not to be resumed again until Monday. The majority of the students live within a radius that will permit them to reach home and spend several days with their parents. Those who, because of distance, are unable to go to their own homes are usually invited to homes of students living near Columbus.

LUTHERANS' FIRST CONFERENCE YEAR AVERAGE IS .429

Seven Members Of Squad Close Football Careers

Capital University has concluded her first year of Ohio Conference football competition with a comparatively good record. Although winning but one conference game, the Lutherans completed the season with an average of .429, winning three games out of seven starts. In view of the small squad and the dearth of material, Coach Katherman is reported well satisfied with the showing his team made.

Intercollegiate football competition at Capital is but five years old. During this period, the Purple warriors have engaged in 35 games, winning 15, losing 16, and tying four. The last deadlock in which the Lutherans featured was when they played Denison to a scoreless tie last season at Granville.

In this span of years, Capital is on the short end of the score, crossing the goal for a total of 346 points while her opponents were rolling up 415. In respect to the caliber of her opponents, Capital has met the best of the conference the last three years and always has come off the field with a creditable showing, even if it was not always a victory.

Seven men closed their football career at Capital this season; six of them will be lost thru graduation. They are Capt. Dan Sheatsley of Bexley, center; Albert Herath, Washington, D. C., guard; Paul Dickman, Anaheim, Calif., tackle; Marvin Wertenberger, Arlington, Ohio, fullback; Merle Sumption, Gahanna, halfback; Jack Imbrock Deshler, halfback; and Lawton Gerlinger, Fostoria, guard. All are letter men of more than one season except Imbrock, who played his first year for Capital.

MAYOR'S ADDRESS DEFINES SPIRIT OF THANKSGIVING

That the Thanksgiving spirit should be in evidence at all times, and not only at Thanksgiving time, was pointed out by Mayor Stephen B. Ludwig in a Thanksgiving address Thursday at the Christ Lutheran church. The mayor outlined what the Thanksgiving spirit may mean in private and civic affairs.

The mayor said in part:

"This true spirit of Thanksgiving Day may be expressed constantly and in innumerable ways: by obedience to the laws of our country, which are responsible more than any other single factor for our safety, happiness and prosperity; by our active participation in the duties and responsibilities of government, at least to the extent of intelligently exercising our God-given right of franchise; by actively supporting the extension of churches schools and libraries, those staunch bulwarks of organized society; by properly ordering the homes in which we rear our children; by strict observance of the Golden Rule; by cheerfulness, friendliness and kindness towards all with whom we come in contact; by keeping constantly in mind our moral obligation to do the best we can towards making the world a better place in which to live.

"This I conceive to be the true spirit of thankfulness and gratitude, which will be reflected in peace of mind and happiness to the individual —in national cohesion and unity—and ultimately in universal peace among the nations of the world."

WILL ATTEMPT TO FURTHER WORK ON GRADE CROSSINGS

City Attorney Leach Will Study Entangled Situation In Effort To Help

R. R. ASKS REHEARING

The proposed elimination of the grade crossings in the East Side over the Norfolk and Western railroad, which became more deeply entangled in litigation by the attention of City Attorney Charles A. Leach in an effort to further the project, it was indicated this week.

"I expect to give the situation some study within the next few days, to see if there is anything that I can do to push the work," Attorney Leach said early in the week.

The latest move in the project is that of the railway company and the Virginia Holding Company, under which it acquires its real estate, in filing an application for rehearing in the county appellate court in the case in which Eastgate property owners obtained an injunction preventing the railroad from moving its tracks into their addition.

In the application for rehearing, the defendants have appealed the recent decision of the court of appeals, that a railroad company cannot exercise the right of eminent domain by proxy or delegate that right. The court decided that the Virginia Holding company's title became subject to the building restrictions when it took title to lots in the restricted addition. Under this decision, before the Norfolk and Western Railway company can relocate its lines through the restricted district, it must acquire the real estate upon which the relocated tracks are to be constructed, and must establish its right under the statute to change the location of the road.

The defendants in the application for rehearing insist that the appellate court was in error in its decision because it failed to decide the lot owners had a primary right which was being infringed by the defendants.

They maintain that no discussion of the power of eminent domain was essential since neither defendant was seeking to invoke that power that decisions under which the court rendered its opinion had become obsolete because the statutes under which they were rendered have been changed; and that the probate court, which the appellate court suggested as the tribunal for the determination of rights of the parties, has no jurisdiction since it is limited to proceedings for the appropriation of lands.

That the lot owners have no right of injunction, but only a right of damages, if that, is the contention of the railway company and its holding company, and that restrictive rights, claimed by the lot owners to have been violated by the railroad right of way, are not property rights.

In conclusion the defendants insist that the only remedy of the lot owners is a remedy in damages, and that their petition for injunction should be dismissed.

No date has been announced for the rehearing of the case.

ON BEING YOURSELF

The difficulty of being yourself will be admitted by anyone who ever has apologized for his own words or deeds by saying, "I was not myself when that happened." Perhaps this poor substitute for your better self is the creature of worry, or illness, or intemperance of body or spirit. But even the best of us experience the difficulty of being always at our best.

To be at your best physically is a difficult achievement. The great singer must train his voice hour after hour before his audience can listen to it in comfort. We often remark, "How naturally he sings." Yet behind that simple naturalness are years of grinding practice.

How much more difficult then it is to be ourselves in that realm of intangible thing called personality. There seems to be a certain depravity into which we naturally gravitate. We set out nobly to be at our best, and fall far short of that shining goal. We do the thing we should not have done, and leave undone the thing that we should have done.

Yet out of this never ending conflict of the spirit, comes personality, power and influence. It makes us what we are. It is the secret of such tremendous personalities as Lincoln's or Roosevelt's.

Being one's true self is not easy. But beyond its accomplishment lie the rewards of life. The great bard was right: "To thine own self be true, and it must follow, as the night the day, thou canst not then be false to any man."

Book Notes

He passed through life like a phantom — so softly — so lonely. It was whispered over so delicately that this phantom-like being could bring from the soul of a piano, such harmonies that stilled the restless throb of life into a terrible silence — so terrible that it was beautiful. Frederick Chopin, dreamy and fanciful, with a soul exquisitely sensitive, gave back to the earth that nurtured him, music so delicate and lovely, that the harshness of words to describe it, is only to mar its sanctity.

Mr. de Pourtales brings back to us a Chopin who has given spirited wings to music — music that rings so deep that one must strain his ears to hear its echoes. But he gives us back another Chopin, in the plaintive lover who loved in silence. He was destined to be a man of loneliness, always giving and never asking. What a tender being he must have been! One thinks of him as a tall, slender willow, swaying to and fro in a gentle breeze, whispering doleful and plaintive harmonies which fall to earth — never to rise again. But they have fallen only to crucify the tall and willow and to sweeten the earth that has swallowed them. This was the life of Frederick Chopin.

The author has been profuse and yet succinct in giving to us this powerful biography, at once sympathetic and companionable. He has presented an intimate style paralleled with simplicity. To read "Polonaise" by Mr. de Pourtales is to realize that the spirit of Chopin lives as fervently today in his music as it did in that century which has long passed into nothingness.

Thanksgiving Programs Given In Bexley Schools

By special programs on Wednesday the pupils in the Bexley public schools observed Thanksgiving Day. Pupils in the senior high school met in the auditorium of their building for their program, as also did the pupils at the junior high school in their auditorium. In the grades, each class held its own observance with appropriate exercises.

The programs were given by the pupils themselves. They consisted largely of songs, recitations, and readings, with special music by the musical organizations at each building.

Give Exhibit To Buy Pictures For Schools

Two hundred art masterpieces were on exhibition during the first three days of this week in the junior high school in Cassingham road. Proceeds from the exhibition will be used to purchase pictures for the halls and class rooms of the school buildings. The pictures on display represented the work of Egyptian, Greek, Roman, Italian, French, German, Dutch, Spanish, English and American masters.

Seminary Students Hear Former Prexy

Dr. L. H. Schuh, formerly president of Capital university, and present pastor of St. Paul's congregation, of Toledo, addressed the Seminary association at Capital, Monday evening. Dr. Schuh spoke on the subject: "The Joy of the Christian Ministry." This is the second lecture given this season under the auspices of the seminary organization, which has arranged an interesting lecture series, through which prominent Joint Synod leaders are brought to the Capital campus.

Dr. Schuh was president of Capital from 1901 to 1912.

Brotherhood Entertains Wives

Members of the Brotherhood of Hope Evangelical church, entertained their wives and friends at their first annual banquet Tuesday evening in the church social parlors. More than 100 persons attended. Talks were made by Dr. Robert E. Golladay, and Dr. C. V. Sheatsley, and a number of the guests were called on for toasts. Dr. L. B. Plum is president of the Brotherhood.

A PLEASANT SURPRISE

One of the most pleasant surprises Mother could find among her gifts this Christmas would be the tinted enlargement of one of her favorite snapshots, nicely framed in a swinging or wall frame.

The entire job is inexpensive and in the case of some negatives, especially your favorite scenery snapshot, it would play close second to expensive paintings. There is the added charm of the memories connected with its taking.

Place orders early.

The Capital University Conservatory of Music has moved over to its new home on the main campus, and is operating, in spite of the fact that much must yet be done before the building is complete. By January 30 the structure is to be entirely finished.

Static May Be Laid On Dirty Connections

Loose or dirty battery connections often account for some of the noise heard in a radio set, according to an east side battery dealer.

"The terminals on a storage battery are coated with lead to withstand corrosion from the spray of the electrotype," he explained. "But nevertheless they oxidize quickly, and therefore require an occasional scraping and cleaning.

"All connections should be as tightly made as possible. Then a coating of pure vaseline should be spread over the battery terminal. The wires leading to the radio storage battery should be rubber covered with braid; since braid is attacked by the storage battery spray, lead is destroyed in a short time. Rubber is immune to this spraying or gassing."

Sportsmen Will Bring Thompson Seton To Speak

Nature lovers, teachers and members of bird clubs, as well as sportsmen will have an opportunity to hear Ernest Thompson Seton nationally known apostle of the Out-of-doors, author and lecturer, at the League of Ohio Sportsmens banquet Dec 15 at the Deshler-Wallick it was announced at League headquarters this week. Protect Your Money by Investing in the Securities of Seasoned Companies

Millions of dollars are lost annually by the investment public through the purchase of worthless securities; there is no denial of this fact. But it should not be the case. The reason is the investor neglects to take the time to investigate before buying.

Remember dividends of any company depend upon earnings, and no company can pay beyond its earnings and be safe. In order to safeguard your funds "company earnings" should be your watchword.

Every American city is growing and with their growth earnings of Public Utility Corporations are certain to improve.

A Utility Corporation with valuable franchises, complete and modern equipped plants, stands best to increase its earnings through the natural growth of population. The Utility Corporations have built their plants and equipment for the present and future natural growth of American cities. Their investment is secure, their earnings increasing and dividends are practically assured.

Prosperity of America is only in the making—undeveloped resources are beyond comprehension—think of the sale of electricity alone today for radio, light, power, refrigerators, washing machines and in fact, almost every modern household appliance. Is it not reasonable to suppose that the earnings of Utility Corporations with electrical current and power to sell will increase their earnings at a tremendous rate?

Let us send you descriptive circular on the following companies:

North American Company
Cities Service Company which we especially recommend for investment.

Miss Gladys Ryan Is Bride

One of the most beautiful and impressive wedding ceremonies of the season took place at 7:30 o'clock Wednesday morning in Holy Rosary church when Miss Gladys Ryan, daughter of Mr. William J. Ryan, 1828 Bryden road, became the bride of Mr. Theodore Hinterschied, son of Mrs. Anna Hinterschied, 1181 Bryden road.

The ceremony was attended by 150 guests. Green and white were the colors carried out in the elaborate decorations of the church and in the gowns of the wedding party. The altar was banked with palms and ferns and baskets of white chrysanthemums. White ribbons stretched the length of the aisle and were tied at either end and to chrysanthemum-filled baskets and were caught at the ends of the pews with the white blooms.

The Ave Verum mass was sung by a quartet and at the offertory Mr. C. C. Hinterschied, brother of the bridegroom, sang the "Ave Maria," by Kahn. At the close of the mass Mr. Hinterschied sang "All For You." Rev. Father J. J. Murphy read the marriage service.

An Agnes model of white chiffon was worn by the bride. The gown was made with long sleeves and a three-tiered skirt embroidered with silver and beaded with rhinestones, with pointed inserts of heavy silver lace. A girdle of wide heavy silver ribbon was tied in front with orange blossoms. The bride wore a tulle veil which fell from a coronet of real lace and orange blossoms, and her flowers were a shower of white roses and valley lilies.

Mrs. Julian Lawrence, who attended as matron of honor, was gowned in love apple green, Colonial corded taffeta made in bouffant style, with a Queen Anne collar and long tight sleeves. The skirt was made with uneven hem line and scalloped at the bottom with maize, which was the color used in the gown of the maid of honor. Mrs. Lawrence carried orchid chrysanthemums.

The maize-colored dress of Miss Helen Keller, maid of honor, was of the same material and was made similar to that of Mrs. Lawrence. Both wore large black velvet picture hats, and Miss Keller carried maroon chrysanthemums.

Mary Martha Hinterschied, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Hinterschied, 2894 Sherwood avenue, was flower girl, wearing a dress of white Colonial taffeta and carrying a basket of pink and white roses. Four-year-old John Riff Holden, the youngest cousin of the bride, was the ring-bearer. He wore a Little Lord Fauntleroy suit of black velvet and carried the ring on a white satin pillow.

The best man was Mr. John Rutherford, and ushers were Messrs. Walter Holden and Kenneth Francis, cousins of the bride, and Messrs. Clarence Lutz and Julian Lawrence.

Following the ceremony, a wedding breakfast was given for 50 guests by the bride's father, Mr. William J. Ryan, at the Broadwin. Mr. and Mrs. Hinterschied left for a wedding trip and will be at home after December 1 at 1828 Franklin avenue.

VILLAGE COUNCIL PLANS MORE PAVING AND LIGHTS

Will Limit Parking To One Hour In Front Of East Main Street Stores

MEETING IS BUSY ONE

Approximately 1¼ miles of street paving and the lighting of 16 streets in the village were approved for the 1928 improvement program in Bexley by the village council which met in regular session Tuesday evening.

The streets to be paved and provided with sidewalks are: Dawson avenue from Main street to Fair avenue; Cassady avenue from Sherwood road to Brentwood road; Cassingham road from Main street to Fair avenue; Elm avenue from Parkview avenue to Columbia avenue and also from Cassady avenue to Remington road; and Remington road from Elm avenue to a point 176 feet south of Powell avenue.

Installation of street lights is to be made in the following streets: North Ardmore road; North Cassingham road; North Remington road; North Stanwood road; South Remington road from Broad street to Powell avenue; South Stanwood road from Broad street to Powell avenue; and in Cassingham, Remington, Vernon, Chelsea, Roosevelt and Montrose avenues from Main street probably as far south as Charles avenue.

It was a busy evening for the village fathers.

A number of ordinances were passed to levy assessments for improvements made during the last year. Several residents of the village appeared to make requests for special legislation of various sorts. Petitions were heard from others, and action was taken on business which included a wide variety of subject matter.

Seek Business Center

Consideration was given to a request to establish a new business district in North Cassady avenue from the railroads south to Caroline avenue on the west side and to Columbus street on the east side. This matter was referred to a committee composed of Councilmen Kerr, Manly and Betz, for investigation and subsequent recommendation to council.

A discussion of the parking problem in East Main street ended in the ordering in of legislation for the next council meeting, to restrict parking to one hour before the business places in the street. Steps were taken along this line, also, to prevent parking on the east side of College avenue between Main street and Mound street on evenings when entertainments are being held on the Capital university campus, to relieve congestion of traffic at these times.

Repairs For Mound Street

The oft-recurring problem of keeping Mound street in repair was presented by A. R. Geist. Councilman Betz was delegated by Mayor Ludwig to confer with Capital university authorities relative to the building of driveways not yet completed from Mound street into the university grounds, this step being deemed necessary to make the street passable.

Requests were heard for a traffic light in East Broad street at the intersection of Cassingham road or Remington road, to provide greater safety for school children going to and from the new junior high school, and also for street lights in Westland avenue and in Ardmore road from Broad street to Maryland avenue. The first request was referred to the safety committee of which Councilman Bennett is chairman, for investigation and report. The others were referred to the engineer.

Protest Topping Of Trees

From Clifton avenue came the request that steps be taken to prevent Columbus Railway Power and Light company from cutting out the tops of shade trees on residents' property.

In regard to the safety gates at the crossing of the traction line in College avenue, permission for the erection of which was granted by council at a previous meeting, a request was heard from the company which will make installation, seeking to give an accident and liability insurance policy in lieu of a $10,000 bond demanded by council against loss on account of bodily injuries or property damages which might be caused through installation of the

Seek To Establish Masonic Lodge In Bexley

A masonic lodge in Bexley will be established if plans started at a meeting Wednesday evening attended by approximately 50 Masons living in Bexley, materialize.

The meeting was held at St. Albans mission and was presided over by Charles Pretzman, past Grand Master of Ohio Masons. Mr. Pretzman outlined the proceedure for petitioning the Grand Lodge for a charter for a Masonic lodge in the village. An effort is to be made to call together for participation in the project all Masons residing in the village. A second meeting has been called for 7:30 o'clock, Friday evening, December 9, at St. Albans.

DWELLERS IN FAIR AVE. UNDERTAKE TO BEAUTIFY PARKWAY

Sodding Between Dawson And Cassady Puts Project Under Way

TO CONTINUE IN SPRING

Civic pride has manifested its presence in Fair avenue through the move on the part of residents to beautify their street.

The parkway which extends through the center of the street from Drexel avenue to Remington road has been sodded from Dawson avenue to Cassady avenue, and the work is the first step in a project undertaken by those who live on the street, to make the parkway a beauty spot from one end to the other. It is a part of the same plan to sod the rest of the parkway in the spring.

Though several Bexley streets have parkways through the center, the one in Fair avenue is the only one which is planned to be a grass plot exclusively. All the others have been planted with shrubbery, but in Fair avenue, the residents have decided to make the parkway a simple but beautiful greensward.

Instead of appealing to the village fathers to undertake the beautification of the parkway, the residents of the street held their own neighborhood gathering and have undertaken the work themselves, bearing the cost of the plan among themselves.

EAST SIDE DEALER IS AMONG HOSTS AT FORD OPENING

TO CONTINUE SATURDAY

It was not yet possible to estimate, at the time today when the Eastern Times went to press, how many persons would have attended the first day of the most famous debut of the season — the coming out party of the new Ford at Memorial hall which opened this morning for two days and a night. But the first few hours of the affair indicated that the crowds in attendance would be record ones.

Among the assisting hosts for the debut was the McClure-Nesbitt Motor company, East side dealer in this make of car. All Ford dealers in the city established headquarters in booths at the hall and assisted in showing the new models.

Probably never before was so much interest shown in the new model of an automobile. They may well be due to the fact that the new Fords differ so materially and in so many ways from the old ones.

Outstanding among the changes and the one which received the first attention of the crowds to view the new cars, is the standard selective gear shift. The new body designs, longer and lower than those made formerly for this car, also came in for first minute scrutiny, and interest.

"And will it really make between 55 and 65 miles an hour?" was the oft-repeated question of the crowds as they looked the new models over carefully from new steel-spoke wheels to new engine.

The cars will be on display at Memorial hall today, tomorrow and all day Saturday.

CAMPFIRE GIRLS TO COLLECT TOYS FOR GIFTS AMONG POOR

The four organizations of Campfire girls in the East side and Bexley, will take an active role in the conducting, by all Campfire Girls in the city and village, of a Christmas Toy shop on the first floor of the Chamber of Commerce building which opens Saturday for a week.

Collection of slightly worn or discarded toys from as many sources as possible, the repairing of these and their distribution among children's welfare organizations to be given to poor children at Christmas time, is the purpose of the Toy shop.

At the toy party this afternoon at the Central Methodist church, which will be attended by all Campfire groups in the city, each guest must bring one toy in order to be admitted.

There are two campfires in the East side and two in Bexley.

Wocha campfire is established at Franklin Junior High school and the leader of the group is Miss Elizabeth Green, 1388 Franklin avenue. Alkula campfire is at Franklin Park Methodist Episcopal church, and is under the leadership of Miss Mulva Davis, 1606 Bryden road.

In Bexley, the Tahali campfire is lead by Miss Carlos Davis, 2650 Indianola avenue, and Neonta campfire has as its leader Miss Marjorie Rickey, 78 North Remington road.

Announce Dates Of Vacation In Schools

Christmas vacation for the school children in Bexley will be two days shorter than for those in the East side.

Announcement of the dates for the holidays was made both in the city and in the village this week. In Columbus the schools will close at 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, December 20. In Bexley they will close at 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon, December 22. Re-opening of the schools in both city and village will take place Tuesday morning, January 3.

Recovers From Operation

Claudine Hartman, little daughter of Mrs. Carmen Hartman, 913 Champion avenue, who underwent an operation for double mastoid recently at Grant hospital, was able to be returned to her home the first of this week. She is making excellent recovery, it is reported.

Shave And Siesta Cost Student $2.25

The next time Forest Stoneburner, student at Capital university, wants to catch up a few lost hours of sleep, he'll choose a park bench or a street car instead of a barber shop.

Stoneburner is lamenting to the world that a barber shop is an expensive place to take a nap. And he speaks from experience. While on a Thanksgiving visit in Pittsburgh, he entered a barber shop to get a shave and fell asleep in the chair. When he awoke he discovered that the barber had gone through his entire program of treatment and Stoneburner's shave and nap cost him just $2.25.

CONFER DOCTORATE OF MUSIC ON MME. SCHUMANN-HEINK

Music School Gives Degree For First Time In Its History

DR. MEES GIVES DIPLOMA

The first honorary doctorate of music to be given by Capital university in its 27 years of existence, was conferred upon Madame Ernestine Schumann-Heink, on the occasion of her farewell concert in Columbus, Wednesday evening. Dr. Otto Mees, president of Capital university, presented the diploma and Dean F. C. Mayer, of the music conservatory and R. V. Smith, of the college, fastened the symbolic hood over the shoulders of the beloved contralto.

The occasion marked an epoch in the musical history of the Lutheran school, whose musical traditions date from 1851, when the famous "Swedish Nightingale," Jenny Lind, sang her farewell concert in Columbus as a benefit affair for the then infant Capital university.

The Capital university school of music, whose dean, Prof. F. C. Mayer, played an important role in the ceremonies attending the conferring of the degree upon Madame Schumann-Heink, today occupies one of the most modern and complete conservatory buildings in the state, and ranks with the foremost music institutions in the middle west. Yet it has scarcely eight years of history to account for its remarkable development.

It was organized in 1918, and moved from pillar to post on account of over-crowded conditions while a faculty of three interested and enthusiastic music-lovers used to the greatest possible advantage the meager new quarter million dollar home, its faculty comprises more than a score of accomplished musicians, and it operates extension studios in 20 different cities and villages over the state.

Enrollment in the school of music now exceeds the 550 mark, and all indications point to an increase when the conservatory opens its second semester in the new building.

Seniors At East Elect Year's Officers

John Mercer is the recently-elected president of the seniors at East High school. The class election this year developed unexpected interest among members of the four-year class. In the race for president, young Mercer defeated Eugene Hamilton.

Other officers of the class are: Jane Harmon, vice-president; Betty Miller, secretary; Charles Hughes, treasurer; and Virginia Rarey and Frederick Morton, senior representatives in student council.

W. E. Putnam Gives Up Commercial Managership

W. E. Putnam, 330 Linwood avenue, who has been commercial manager of the Ohio Bell Telephone company in Columbus for the last six years, retired from that position Thursday to take up a position in the company's division offices.

Mr. Putnam has behind him a record of 31 years in the telephone business. He started in the Columbus plant in the repair department. He will be attached to the company's southern Ohio division in his new work, but will spend the greater part of his time in Columbus.

The change was made, it was announced, upon advice of Mr. Putnam's physician that he take up less strenuous work.

BEGIN WORK OF INSTALLING NEW LIGHTS NEAR SCHOOLS

All Lights Will Be Ready For Operation, Probably, By Feb. 1

ELEVEN IN EAST SIDE

Preliminary work for the installation of the traffic control lights in school districts to provide greater safety for children going to and from the school centers, was started this week under the direction of C. F. Clay, superintendent of fire and police telegraph.

Eleven of the new lights, of which there are to be 62 installed throughout the city, will come to the East side. Contract for the lights was let three weeks ago to the Tokheim company of Fort Wayne, Ind., according to Safety Director John E. McCune.

Shipment of some of the materials has been made, and it is the plan to have the first few of the lights in operation within the next week or 10 days. Contracts call for installation within 90 working days. The probability is, however, that all of the lights will not be in operation until about February 1, Superintendent Clay said.

The preliminary work started this week, is that of obtaining service for the operation of the lights.

Three of the lights to be placed in the East side will be installed at intersections in East Main street. These will be at the crossings of Main street and Ohio avenue, Main street and Miller avenue, and Main street and Eighteenth street.

Others will be put up to regulate traffic at the intersections of Champion avenue and Livingston avenue; Ohio avenue and Fulton street; Wilson avenue and Oak street; Miller avenue and Bryden road; East Broad street and Ohio avenue; East Broad street and Hague avenue; East Broad street and Franklin Park west; and East Broad street and Nelson road.

Auxiliary Honors Mrs. Walter F. Stotz

In tribute to her untiring work and active interest in the ladies' auxiliary of the Columbus Retail Grocers' association, Mrs. Walter F. Stotz, 625 Carpenter street, who has served as president of the organization this year, was presented with a wrist watch by members of the auxiliary at a dinner given by the members Thursday evening at the Chittenden hotel.

A company of 65 members and their husbands was present at the dinner. Upon her arrival Mrs. Stotz was presented with a corsage bouquet and at the close of the dinner, presentation was made of the wrist watch, which came as a complete surprise. Gifts also were presented to the other officers of the auxiliary, by Mrs. Stotz.

There was special entertainment following the dinner. Included in this was a group of solos by Mr. Carl E. Turvey.

Victim Of Gas Fumes Is Saved By Daughter

Samiel Shakly, 1122 Oak street, owes his life to the fact that his 17-year-old daughter, Elizabeth, was helping her mother with the housework Monday evening.

Mr. Shakly had gone to the garage at the rear of the house, after the evening meal, to adjust the carburetor of his car while Elizabeth and her mother washed the dishes in the kitchen. On going out to take a pail of garbage, Elizabeth found the garage filled with smoke from the car's exhaust, and failing to see her father, called her mother.

The motor was still running and Mr. Shakly was unconscious under the car, having been overcome by the fumes of carbon monoxide gas. A police car was called and Mr. Shakly taken to St. Francis hospital where it required an hour's work to restore normal breathing and consciousness, by artificial respiration and massage.

Student And Choir To Give Evening's Program

An illustrated lecture on "People of Palestine," and a holiday recital by the Junior choir of 35 voices, are to be features of the Sunday evening services this week at the First English Lutheran church.

Asis N. Shahla, a student at Capital university and a native of Palestine will give the illustrated lecture at the meeting of the Luther league at 6:30 p. m. Following this, at the time of the regular Sunday evening services, the Junior choir will give its recital. The choir is composed of 35 voices, people ranging in age from 12 to 16 years. It is directed by Alice Swan. Mr. Ralph Lowe will play the organ.

COACH SMITH IS SHAPING CAGERS FOR FIRST GAME

Squad Embraces 21 Players Most Of Whom Are New Material

By "Bud" Lauffer

Two weeks of basketball practice at Bexley High have failed to make the prospects for a very successful season any brighter. At the first practice, Coach Carlton Smith was confronted with practically all green material, since last year's entire team has been lost either through graduation or ineligibility. Ross and Elder are the only letter men of last year to return.

Although twenty-nine candidates answered the first call, a cut has been made by Coach Smith and the present squad embraces only twenty-one players. They are: Hirsch, Dickey, Palmer, Elder, Woodward, Zuber, Edmonds, Miller, Marsh, Kilbourne, J. Jones, Brunner, and Davidson. This squad will remain as it is until about the first of January when another cut will be made, reducing it to sixteen.

Of this squad, Ross, Russell, and Miller are ineligible, and with the exception of Ross, there is very little chance for them to become eligible before the first of February, if then. The loss of Russell, this year's captain and a stellar forward, is especially regretted.

Two weeks is a very short time in which to size up the ability of the squad, but at this time, Hirsch and Elder seem to be the best bets for the forward positions, although Morris, Kilbourne, and Boyland, are all promising. The center position is a little harder to pick, since Dickey, Zuber, and Anthony are all on about a par. However, we would pick Dickey as the probable winner in this race. Palmer, Woodward, and Diehl are the outstanding guards and Woodward and Diehl should win out.

The Bexley quintet face an exceptionally heavy schedule this year. The first game will be played December 9, against St. Marys on the Bexley floor. The next week, Gahanna will be met at Bexley, and then both squads will have a rest over the Christmas holidays.

January 7, Bexley plays Groveport at home, and the following week, the new floor, in Bexley's new Junior High school will be dedicated with a contest with Delaware, a Class "A" team.

Child Dies As Result of Burns

After fighting for his life for a week after he had been severely burned when a paper which he held in his hand caught fire from a grate in his home, Charles William Smith, III, three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Smith, jr., 1662 Oak street, lost to death Monday afternoon in Children's hospital.

Pneumonia, contracted following the injuries from burns, was given as the cause of death.

The lad was the older of two sons and would have celebrated his fourth birthday on the first of January. Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon in the Schoedinger company chapel.

Surviving the child are his parents and infant brother, Richard, and his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John A. Miller, 861 Sheridan avenue.

P. T. Association Will Hear Rev. Mr. Chauncey

Rev. Mr. William Chauncey, pastor of Trinity Episcopal church, will be the chief speaker on the program of the Bexley Parent-Teacher association which will be held in the Junior High school in Cassingham road, at 3:30 o'clock next Tuesday afternoon.

The program for the meeting will include also special musical selections. Members have been urged to bring their friends.

Horses Drew Main Street Cars; State Fair Was at Franklin Park In Dr. Ackerman's College Days

Oldest Member Of Cap's Faculty Entered As Freshman 52 Years Ago

PICTURES MAIN ST. THEN

A country highway improved only by loads of gravel and crushed stone, with fields of grain waving on either side and farm houses set far apart . .

That's a picture of East Main street 52 years ago, as drawn from memory by Dr. Carl Ackerman, 2315 E. Main street, who is now the oldest faculty member at Capital university, and who came to Capital for the first time as a freshman 52 years ago this fall.

"There were corn fields at Ohio avenue and Main street . . . . There were almost no sidewalks this side of Parsons avenue . . . . At Miller and Main there was a small cluster of general stores . . . . The street cars were horse drawn and came out only to Rhoades avenue . . . . Sometimes the horses would shy at blowing paper and jerk the car off the tracks and a group of by-standers would volunteer their services to put it back again. . . .

From Alum creek to the railroad was sometimes a sea of mud and students at Capital university who had, of course, no way to get into town except to walk, used to negotiate that stretch of mud by walking a high board fence which ran along the road. Then would walk the railroad tracks over to Broad street and on into town . . . . There were no cross streets, only meadow land and farmed fields between Main and Broad out there then. . . . ."

Dr. Ackerman points to the details of the picture with a vivid memory [illegible]

what is now Franklin Park," said he. "I remember seeing there, during my student days at Capital, the demonstration of a crude instrument that was the forerunner of the telephone. It was thought very wonderful at the time for there were no such things as telephones connecting homes and stores then."

What a yawning chasm there is between the collegian of today and the collegian of 50 years ago.

Chalk up a merit for the student of today, for Dr. Ackerman declared that he believes the college youth of yesterday was a more mischevous chap than the college youth of today.

"In those days there were boys being called before the faculty almost all the time, to answer for the unfortunate consequences of some prank," said the man who was a student a half century ago and who is now secretary of the faculty and is known as "Capital's grand old man."

It costs a great deal more to go to college now than it did when Dr. Ackerman went, and this is attributes to the higher standard of living generally prevalent. Sixty-five dollars once reached over the incidental expenditures of a student, for an entire year, exclusive of room and board. Dr. Ackerman can vouch for this because the $65 was his own and it reached over his expenditures, including even his fare to his home near Wooster for the Christmas holidays, and that item alone was approximately $8.

"But students were satisfied in those days with things that the student of today simply wouldn't endure at all," said Dr. Ackerman.

It is the vogue to go to college these days, which accounts for the many many more students attending institutions for higher education, according to Dr. Ackerman.

"There are many of them in college, too, who get out of it not sufficient to recompense the expense and the sacrifices which many parents make in order to meet that expense," said he.

College courses have altered greatly too.

"Students in college have a wider choice in making out their courses," he explained. "There are more electives now. There used to be a great deal more fixedness in the courses. A number of years ago freshmen and sophomores were told what to take and only juniors and seniors were permitted to elect what they wanted. Now even the freshmen have electives.

"It is a result of the tendency to specialize in everything. But there

DO YOUR DOLLARS WORK FOR YOU?

Before you give that order to an outside concern for merchandise, think it over a few minutes. Perhaps you'll change your mind about it.

The dollar spent among strangers is gone forever.

The dollar spent in your own neighborhood remains and works for you.

Your neighbor takes better care of your needs and wants than does a stranger who has no interest in you further than to get your dollars. Your merchant-neighbor's future depends upon holding your confidence. He is always here to make mistakes good.

When you spend your money with your home merchants you help them, you assist in the building of your home community. They in turn help to build up the community, and to make greater opportunities for you and your children.

Spending your money at home is like putting a mortgage off it to come back to you. Spending away from home is simply bidding goodbye to it, and its further usefulness to you.

WHAT PRICE PROGRESS?

Down in Packaway county two giant old elm trees are confronted with annihilation, a sacrifice to progress. They are the twin elms located in the center of the Scioto trail just south of South Bloomfield, and are probably the most famous trees in Ohio.

They have stood there since the Scioto trail was established as a road nearly 125 years ago. They stood there long before that when no white man had penetrated the Redman's wilderness about them. They have commanded the admiration of thousands of tourists who have traveled the highway beneath them in the last 25 years.

And why are they doomed now, when their beauty and grandeur still live? Because the voice of progress has condemned them as an obstacle in the path of speed and the saving of public money. The slaves of progress would uproot their beauty to make the road wider and to save a few paltry dollars which it would cost to rebuild the road on either side of them.

But the announcement of their proposed destruction has been greeted with a cry of protest. May that cry crystalize into action which shall prevent the ruthless act of sentencing beauty to death in the name of progress.

As well consign to the rubbish heap a Rembrandt masterpiece, the better to see the wall behind it.

is much that may be said for the old-fashioned well-rounded college course."

Simply, briefly, Dr. Ackerman summed up in the following words his theory of teaching: "Education is not what I put into people, but how well I develop their powers."

For a little more than a third of a century, Dr. Ackerman has been doing educational work. He started his teaching work as president of the first Lutheran college in the Joint Synod of Ohio, to permit the enrollment of girls in its student body. That was the Lima college which Dr. Ackerman helped to found and which existed only 15 years, but paved the way toward co-education in Lutheran colleges throughout the synod.

Since 1909 Dr. Ackerman has been professor of English language and literature at Capital. Of his classmates who were graduated with him when he received his bachelor of arts degree in 1879, there are only three others living. His master's degree he received in 1882 and was ordained in the Lutheran ministry in 1884.

Dr. Ackerman is listed in "Who's Who," and serves in a number of positions of importance in national educational activities and in Lutheran affairs. As well as secretary of the faculty at Capital, he is secretary of the Joint Synod of Ohio and of the Lutheran Historical society; chairman of the committee on Lutheran Church and Sunday School hymns; an author and translator of several juvenile books; and a member or executive of many state and national educational associations.

One forgets all these when one talks to him, however. He is simply a quiet, courteous, shyly friendly man whose eyes and lips seem most natural when they are smiling.

gates. A resolution was passed accepting this proposal.

Accept Sessions Plat

Acceptance, by ordinance passed, was made of the plat of W. D. Fulton, jr.'s Sessions, a sub-division in the village of Bexley. A resolution was passed, also, to modify the contract for the improvement of Sherwood road from Drexel avenue to Sherwood road, by providing a six-inch drain tile instead of a four-inch one as had been previously planned.

HOMES IN BRYDEN ROAD ENTERED BY DAYTIME BURGLAR

Youth Suspected; Uses Glass Cutter; Takes Mostly Clothing

LEAVES BLOOD TRAIL

A youthful housebreaker operated in Bryden road on Tuesday morning and was successful in entering and ransacking two homes where occupants were absent, and from which he made a haul of clothing, jewelry and toilet articles valued at about $300. At a third house he was frightened away after cutting the glass from a rear window.

Most of his loot he obtained from the home of Mrs. T. E. M. Taylor, 1936 Bryden road, but he received a lacerated hand for it. Mrs. Taylor estimated her loss at about $280.

Just as Mrs. Taylor was preparing to leave the house to go down town, she answered the doorbell and found a young man who asked to be directed to a home in the neighborhood. When Mrs. Taylor drove away from her home she observed the young man walking back toward it. When she returned several hours later she found the house ransacked from top to bottom. A neighbor told of seeing a young man walk from between the houses later in the morning, after Mrs. Taylor had gone.

The thief had entered by breaking the glass in a side door. But in doing this he had apparently cut his hand severely as he had left a trail of blood through the house.

Because the young man whom Mrs. Fred Myers, 1651 Bryden road, found had cut the glass in a rear window in her home, a short time later in the same morning had one hand wrapped in a handkerchief, it was assumed that he was the same person who had entered Mrs. Taylor's and cut his hand there.

Mrs. Myers said she would be able to identify him again because she had walked from the rear of the house to the front with him, not having discovered until after he had gone that he had cut the glass in a window.

Mrs. F. A. Leonard, 1455 Bryden road, reported that a thief had entered her home, also, Tuesday morning and had exchanged his old pair of shoes for new ones and taken other pieces of clothing.

Thieves were active this week also in Oak street. Early Sunday morning the cash register in the Kroger store at 1258 Oak street, was looted. And a milkman making deliveries in the 1500 block in Oak street, was held up and robbed of $14 in cash, $45 in milk tickets, and a flashlight valued at $1.50.

PLAN C. E. RALLY IN JANUARY; DR. POLING TO SPEAK

Plans are being made by the Christian Endeavor of the Wilson Avenue Reformed church for a rally of Christian Endeavor societies over the entire city, to be held in January during the week of the Ohio Pastors' convention.

Dr. Poling will be in the city to attend the convention of pastors and has been secured by the Christian Endeavor of the Wilson Avenue Reformed church, to speak under their auspices.

The rally is expected to attract approximately 1,500 persons, and probably be held in one of the large downtown auditoriums. Dr. Paul F. Laimbuch, of Philadelphia, editor of the "Reformed Church Messenger," and president of the editors of the Federated council of churches in America, also will be a speaker at the rally.

Plays Center On "Y" Team

Shop Early For Tags Advises County Auditor

Automobile owners have been urged by County Auditor Thatcher to do their shopping for 1928 licenses early. There are more than 95,000 old license plates in the county which must be exchanged for new ones if the owners of these cars want to have them ready to drive on the first day of the new year. December 31 has been set as the final date for the appearance of the 1927 tags. After that users of old tags will be taken, likely, to have to explain in their tardiness to the police court.

The tags are available at the county auditor's office in the courthouse and also at the Columbus Automobile club in the Southern hotel building at Main street and High street.

Patron Saint Of Christmas Must Have Emptied Famous Pack In East Side Shops

Neighborhood Merchants Make Elaborate Preparation For Holiday Shoppers

WIDE RANGE OF CHOICE

Santa Claus has made the East side business district a veritable headquarters for Christmas shoppers. It would almost seem that the jolly old saint has shown partiality toward the East siders, so extensively has he equipped their neighborhood stores with gifts for their convenience in shopping.

Perhaps he placed his finger aside of his nose, analyzed the situation and came to the realization that his Christmas shoppers would appreciate nothing else so much as places to make their purchases without the problem of parking on busy down town streets and the crush of the down town throngs in the stores.

At any event, he has set the stage in the East side with a wide choice of gift suggestions.

In practically every store in the neighborhood there is special Christmas stock. It ranges from all kinds of toys for boys and girls of all sizes, to such things as family gifts of an automobile, a piano, a radio, or a new suite of furniture.

One may shop in the East side for a musical Christmas, an electrical Christmas, an "automotive" Christmas, or just the old-fashioned Christmas of gifts of all kinds and varieties.

One hardware store has put in a special stock of toys and gift suggestions outside its usual lines. Another, besides its usual lines is offering to give suggestions for special decoration of home made gifts.

The East side radio stores are ready with a wide range of radios, from the most inexpensive sets to those built into handsome cabinets ready to take their place as beautiful articles of furniture in any home. The community music shops are ready to supply pianos or phonographs.

In the electrical shops the display of gifts includes appliances and conveniences for every member in the household. The two East side gift shops are showing attractive suggestions that have the distinction of being different. One may find there imported pottery, Swiss wood carvings, unusual lamps, and exquisite shades, imported ornaments and jewelry.

Holiday stock in the dry goods stores includes countless ideas for the household and also for personal gifts. In furniture, there may be purchased in the East side district anything from the occasional table or the console mirror to suites for any room in the house.

An East side shoe store is offering a special line of house slippers. The East side floral shops are ready with cut flowers or potted plants for gifts.

The garages, the battery shops, the tire shops, all will help in the selection of automobile accessories to be hung on the Christmas tree or left beside the Christmas stocking.

There are available highly specialized gifts, as well. One photographer's shop suggests a tinted enlargement of a favorite snapshot.

It is impossible to imagine a more elaborate display of Christmas toys than will confront the shoppers in the East side. They range from all kinds of dolls and games and mechanical toys to bicycles, coal chests, doll tea sets and doll furniture.

Christmas tree ornaments are here, too, and at the electrical shop a new Christmas tree base, wired for the tree lights, is being shown.

The particular messages of each store and shop may be found in the advertising columns of the Eastern Times. That information has no place in the news columns, but it is impossible to go about in the East side business district these days without being deeply impressed with the elaborate preparations which have been made by these stores toward supplying the answers to the most extensive and varied list of the Christmas shoppers.

REMEMBER THE 1928 TAGS

It might be a good idea to put at the top of your Christmas shopping list this item: 1928 license tags.

You've heard of the boy who went visiting and who bought his return ticket as soon as he arrived so he wouldn't spend all his money and find himself ready to go home, but without the money for his ticket. It would be well to follow his example in regard to the new tags and Christmas shopping.

There's another thing, too. The longer shopping for the tags is delayed, the more of a crowd there'll be, and the longer the line of applicants. Safety Director McCune has warned the city that December 31 will be absolutely the last day for the old license plates. Wouldn't it be better to have yours in the garage all ready to be put on, for a couple of weeks ahead, than to have to dash out at the eleventh hour and buy them?

INSTRUCTIONS ARE ISSUED TO AVOID MAIL CONGESTION

Postal Authorities Ask Early Mailing to Insure Early Delivery

URGE CARE IN WRAPPING

Instructions to the public for wrapping Christmas packages for mailing and an appeal for early mailing to avoid congestion and delay during the Christmas rush, have been issued by Postmaster General Harry S. New, and bulletins on the subject are being distributed by A. O. Harris from the East Side neighborhood post office at 1450 East Main street.

During the holiday time the volume of mail increases approximately 200 per cent throughout the country. At the neighborhood post office in the East Side, one person will be occupied practically all day long at the work of weighing, registering and stamping the parcels brought there to be mailed.

Mr. Harris has called attention to the fact, however, that the post office hours close at 6 o'clock in the evening, and no parcels will be received after that time.

Careful wrapping, secure tying and plainly written addresses are the details which the post office authorities have emphasized in the instructions to the Christmas mailers. An appeal has been made, also, to encourage the mailing of quantities of Christmas cards as long as two weeks before Christmas day. If these are delivered in person to the post office or postal station, or tied in one bundle and labeled to show that they are Christmas cards when they are deposited in a street collection box, they will be stamped with the date for delivery and kept at the post office until one or two days before Christmas. If patrons will take advantage of this special holiday service, it will greatly facilitate the handling of the heavy volume of mail at the last minute.

Rev. Mr. Sweet Talks In High School Chapel

"No one has a right to boast of his brains as superior to another's," Rev. Mr. Sidney E. Sweet, told senior high school students at chapel Monday morning in the high school auditorium.

"No one is responsible for his mental equipment," Rev. Mr. Sweet said. "No one is responsible for the color of his skin. All that is determined by heredity. However, each person owes it to himself to make the most of the brains and healthy body he was born with.

"The feeling that we are not entirely responsible for some of our characteristics ought to give us two things: a feeling of sympathy for those who have not been born with the same hereditary traits that we are, and an appreciation for the gifts which we ourselves had nothing at all to do with acquiring but which can enjoy from the time we are born through life.

COMPLETE TEST OF NEW POWDER TO "STEP-UP" GAS

Experiments for "stepping up" gasoline by the use of a powdered compound which would seem to have some of the same potentialities as fairy dust of fairy tales, were concluded this week by Fred Heiser, of the Miller-Main garage.

The experiments have been made for the last two months, showing, according to Heiser, that the compound used in proper proportion to gasoline, will give from four to six additional miles per gallon. Seven different standard makes of cars were used, he said, in the experiment, and these included the popular-priced cars, intermediate-priced cars and expensive cars.

It was found that the greater additional in mileage per gallon was obtained from the lower priced cars, he said. The experiments were conducted, he explained, by disconnecting the vacuum tank from the gasoline tank, placing a quart of the treated gasoline in the vacuum tank and letting the owner drive as far as he could on that quantity.

The return trip was then made on gasoline from the supply tank. But always more than a quart was necessary to get back to the starting point, Heiser said. Besides these short runs using various makes of cars, Heiser said he used the solution in his own car for 1,000 miles to learn whether or not it caused any damage to the valves. He said he found the valves without injury.

COUNCIL AND PETTY DEADLOCK ON PLAN TO SET GARAGE BACK

Terms of Fire Protection For Years Reached With Columbus

RESTRICT PARKING

Hopes which nearby property owners and the village council had had of the removal of six feet from the front of the Bexley garage to make it conform to the building line adopted by the village zoning commission, fell flat Tuesday evening when the village fathers, meeting in regular session, discussed the project and heard the ultimatum of Zade R. Petty, owner of the garage.

Petty made it plain that the only proposition he would accept regarding the removal of the front of his garage, was a 30-foot improved alley from Drexel avenue to the west line of his property and the expenses of the removal of the front of the building to be borne by the village. Unless this proppsition was accepted by the council, his building, he declared in positive tone, "could stand there till it rots."

Council members pointed out the impossibility of accepting this proposition due to the fact that they had no legal right to put the village funds to such use. They asked that Petty permit surrounding property owners who are said to be willing to bear the expense for the sake of their own property and the improvement in the appearance of the street, to pay for the removal. This Petty refused in no uncertain terms.

Councilman Pretzman who had investigated the proposed alley from North Drexel avenue to the west line of Petty's property, reported that the cost of removing the transformer station on the village property in the path of the alley, and paving the alley would amount to approximately $1,250, exclusive of the cost of removal of the front of Petty's building.

In view of the fact that the council was powerless to accept Petty's proposition, the matter was tabled.

The passing of the ordinance to limit parking in East Main street in front of any building or store room devoted to business, to one hour between the hours of 8 a. m. and 6 p. m. was included in other business which council took up at the meeting. Warning standards are to be placed by the marshal and his deputies in the restricted zones.

A complaint of residents in Eulaire avenue, that they are handicapped by low voltage in the electric current supplied them, was heard and council decided to direct a communication to the Railway Power and Light company asking that this situation be remedied.

Bexley will have fire protection, provided by the city of Columbus for the next three years, at a cost of $11,000 in 1928, $12,000 in 1929, and $13,000 in 1930, and will pay a bill of $11,000 for such protection during 1927, following action taken by the Columbus council and reported to the village fathers at their Tuesday meeting, by Councilman Samuel Betz who headed the committee which had the matter in charge.

Mayor Ludwig and the councilmen praised the spirit of the Columbus council in the negotiations and expressed their appreciation of the cut in the 1927 bill from $15,223 to $11,000.

The friendly feeling toward the city was further manifested following the report of Councilman Manly that in an interview with Chief of Police French, of Columbus, the latter had extended an invitation to the Bexley deputy marshals to attend one of the police officer training schools conducted by the city police department.

At this meeting, procedure was started by council to appropriate property for opening and extending Remington road and Elm avenue. A board of assessors composed of Dr. E. C. Mills, C. E. Underwood and Ray L. Phelps was appointed for the street lights in Meadow Park road and the sidewalks in Cassingham road. The request for the village to vacate a portion of Walnut avenue, which was heard at the preceding meeting of council, was tabled.

Councilman Betz reported that a satisfactory agreement had been reached with the Capital university authorities for prohibiting parking on the east side of College avenue on evenings when entertainments are being held in Loy auditorium or in the music hall.

Marshal Shadrack reported that the lights throughout the village are being checked twice a week for replacement of burned-out bulbs. The marshal also submitted a recommendation for machinery which he said is needed for his work of taking care of the streets, and asked that three fire extinguishers be purchased for the police department.

Memorials from the zoning commission were accepted by council to permit erection of the following residences as exceptions to the zoning ordinance: Mrs. Maie Carolyn Smith, a 27-ft. house on a 40-ft. lot at the northwest corner of Fulton street and Montrose avenue, which would make the margin between house and cross street seven instead of 10 feet; Dr. S. D. Edelman, a residence at the northeast corner of Fair avenue and Remington road which will be 18 feet from Remington road; J. A. Smith on the east side of Roosevelt avenue, the fourth lot south of Powell; and J. S. Alspach, the northwest corner of Cassingham road and Dale avenue.

Light Pole Is Traffic Casualty

One of the street lighting poles at the corner of East Main street and Miller avenue, fell a victim to a traffic accident on Sunday afternoon, when it was struck by an automobile and hurled to the street with a crash that brought the neighborhood to investigate.

According to a bystander, the trouble occurred when a street car traveling west in East Main street, and a sedan traveling south in Miller avenue, arrived simultaneously at the intersection of the two streets. The car going west was said to have been traveling at a high rate of speed and veered across East Main street into the pole on the southwest corner, in order to avoid striking either the other automobile or the street car.

The lighting pole was broken off and hurled against the building, by the impact of the car, it was said.

POST OFFICE IS ESTABLISHED IN BEXLEY GROCERY

The problem of Christmas mailing has been facilitated in Bexley by the opening of the Bexley branch post office in Wharton's Grocery at 2258 E. Main street. W. A. Wharton will be in charge of the station which was established last week.

A post office station for Bexley was made possible through the efforts of the village council represented by a committee composed of Samuel Betz, chairman, Allen Pretzman and R. J. Wheaton.

EAST HIGH AWARDS LETTERS TO 18 ON FOOTBALL SQUAD

Fourteen Receive Big "E"; Four Get "E A A;" Five Given Mgr's Letters

GIVEN BY SKIMMING

Recognition of honors won this season on the gridiron was made at East High school last Friday when football letters were presented to 18 members of this season's football squad and to five boys who had been active as managers.

Fourteen of the letters were the coveted "E's" which mark their wearer as recipient of the highest honor in athletics. Four members of the squad received the E. A. A., which signified athletic activities worthy of recognition but not worthy of the big "E". Two major manager's letters were bestowed and also two minor manager's letters.

Presentation of the letters was made at a chapel assembly in the auditorium, by Principal W. W. Skimming.

"E.A.A.'s" were awarded to David Cohen, Tahlman Krumm, Robert Kostoff, and John Grant.

Howard Millieson and Paul Copeland were presented with major manager's letters and minor manager's letters went to Ralph Osborne, William Van Fossan and Paul Coleman.

Teachers Will Have Christmas Party

A Christmas for all the teachers of the Bexley public schools will be held Monday evening in the cafeteria of the Junior High school in Cassingham road. A dinner will be served at 6 o'clock at which members of the board of education and their wives will be guests. Christmas decorations will be used on the tables and about the room, a program of talks and other entertainment will follow the dinner.

Miss Marion Lilly is chairman of the committee on decorations, and H. C. Dieterich is chairman of the committee on entertainment.

EAST SIDE BOY SCOUTS WILL GO TO WINTER CAMP

Skiing, Skating, Trail-craft, Hiking and Wood-lore On Program

In the 30 Boy Scout troops in the East side and Bexley, there is considerable keen anticipation these days of the Boy Scout winter camp which is to be held at the 200-acre Ro-Fre-La scout reservation, 20 miles north of Columbus, during the Christmas holidays.

The camp will be thrown open to 100 scouts, and in the list of reservations already made there are included a dozen or more from East side troops. It is expected at Scout headquarters that all of the 30 East side troops will be represented.

Phil B. Weaver, 1364 East Rich street, who has headed up the last two winter camps and who has directed the summer camp at Ro-Fre-La for three years, is to be the winter camp director. The camp quartermaster will be another East sider, Grant O. Graves, 128 Wilson avenue, who recently was made chairman of the committee of 30 scoutmasters who will have charge of promotion work at the camp. He is scoutmaster of Troop 28, of North Broadway Methodist Episcopal Church.

It is the first year that the winter camp will be held at Ro-Fre-La, though five such camps have been held in previous years at Potter's cabin, near Worthington, at Camp Johnson near Flint, and at Ladder Lodge, in the hills south of Lancaster.

Uley Morris, caretaker of Ro-Fre-La, has been very busy for several weeks, remodelling the big mess hall, and transforming it into an ideal cold-weather lodge. Much equipment has been donated by Walter H. Richter, contractor, and installed to turn the big assembly hall into a fine winter "hang-out", capable of housing more than 100 campers.

The program of activities which will be put into operation at the camp will afford the campers practically all the sports that make winter fun enjoyable. The camp will open at noon on Tuesday, Dec. 27 and will close at noon, Saturday, December 31.

Into those five days is to be crammed a schedule of sports the like of which is seldom found south of Canada.

Skiing and ski jumping will be provided on one of the big hills on the reservation. At the top of the hill a big ski start and chute is being built. A 12-foot toboggan has been purchased and will be placed at the disposal of the campers.

The water will be left in the big natural swimming pool so that the boys may have a surface 60 feet wide and more than 300 feet long, for ice skating. There will be ice hockey and "shinney" tournaments scheduled for several afternoons. Among other contests will be the famous Polar Bear hunt, dart throwing, checker and chess tournaments, and contests in the use of the buck saw, the axe and the knife and the cross-cut saw. There is to be a moonlight hike to the haunted house, too, and there will be pop-corn and marshmallow roasts, and the midnight initiation into the Order of Voyageurs, the winter camp secret society.

Worn Shoes And Papers Help Boys In College

"Shoes, shoes! Any shoes, today?"

It may sound like the arrival of the old-clothes man, as this cry rings through the halls of the dormitories at Capital university. But it isn't that, at all.

It is Wilbur Stegemoller, a sophomore at Capital university, going on his regular rounds of a job by which he is working his way through school.

Stegemoller is one of the students at Capital who has chosen a unique way to attain a measure of economic independence while he pursues his studies. He is an agent for a shoe-repairing shop, and maintains, also, a laundry agency on the campus.

Estal Minneman, a junior at the Lutheran school, is another who has an unusual way of replenishing his finances. He has a paper route among the residents in the school dormitories.

FOOTBALL LETTERS ARE AWARDED TO 25 BEXLEY LADS

Presentation Made In Chapel; Squad Honored In Evening With Banquet

GAUTIER IS SPEAKER

Presentation of 25 letters, significant of the achievement of distinction in athletic activities, was made at chapel exercises in the Bexley High school auditoriun. Thursday morning at an assembly of the entire student body.

Eighteen of the letters were 10-inch blocked ones, the highest honor bestowed upon athletes at Bexley high school. Two were manager's letters, and five were eight-inch unblocked letter known as "service" letters, awarded for activity which fall just short of winning one of the larger letters.

All of the students to whom the letters were given had won them on the football field this fall. Presentation was made by Coach Carlton H. Smith. To the following was awarded the 10-inch letter: Captain Stewart Hirsch, Harold Marsh, David Davis, Captain-elect Robert Palmer, William Diehl, Charles Tracy, Robert Woodward, Edward Gerhold, Robert Dickey, Lawrence Moyer, Lewis Reits, Lincoln Kilbourne, Robert Potzinger, David Beggs, Howard Anthony, James Zuber, Henry Seibert, and Paul Taber.

Those who received the award of the service letter were Bruce Gebhardt, David Strickler, Jack Jones, Chris Lambrecht, and Walter Hanes. Manager's letters went to Frances Lauffer and Arch Houstle.

These letter men of the 1927 football season together with six others who were members of the squad also, were honor guests of the Athletic association Thursday evening at the annual football banquet which was held in the junior high school in Cassingham road. Besides those whose names appear above the honor guests included Hugo Spats, Lee Polster, Dan Busch, Walter Russell, Mac Bysll and Neil Neuhaerz.

Opening with a rousing school song, the evening was a merry one from start to finish. The banquet was served by girls of the senior class under the direction of Miss Marian Thomas and Miss Lucebe Galbreath, home economics teachers in the senior and junior high schools. A number of parents were present and also members of the faculty.

The ethics of the game were touched on by the principal speaker of the evening, Coach George Gautier, of the Ohio Wesleyan university, whose subject was, "The Goal."

A clever program of toasts had been arranged with Superintendent H. C. Dieterich sitting in the seat of the toastmaster but termed the "broadcaster." Following the school song which opened the program following the banquet, H. R. Townsend, the Judge Landis of high school football in Ohio, and officially known as the commissioner of high school athletics in the state of Ohio, talked on, "The Kick-off."

After the program of talks and toasts, the members of the squad had the unique experience of seeing themselves in action on the football field. Mr. William E. Diehl showed motion pictures which he had taken during the last season's games.

GIVE CHRISTMAS PROGRAMS ON DAY BEFORE VACATION

East Side Schools Will Devote Tuesday To Special Exercises

TO DISPENSE CHARITY

In all the public schools in the East Side, next Tuesday afternoon will be devoted to the giving of Christmas programs in which, in practically all cases, the children will participate, and to which their parents have been invited.

Besides their holiday programs several of the school buildings are planning the dispensing of Christmas charity in the form of baskets of food, clothing and gifts for needy families.

The children of Franklin Junior High school will bring fod and clothing for baskets, which, it was anticipated by Miss Edna B. Hatton, principal, will number between 12 and 15. Four families are to be furnished with Christmas dinner, a Christmas tree, clothing and toys by the pupils of Fair Avenue School. From Livingston Avenue building eight baskets are to be sent out, these to be filled by the Parent-Teacher association of this school.

Taking of the annual shoe fund will be a part of the Christmas activity at the Ohio Avenue school. Each year the children at the various buildings bring a contribution to this fund which is dispensed from the office of the clerk of the board of education, to children who have no shoes to wear to school. In many of the buildings the collection of the fund is done at Thanksgiving time, but at Ohio Avenue it is a Christmas activity. Mrs. Margaret Raney, principal at the building, estimated that $100 would be brought by the pupils at the school this year.

At East High, Fair Avenue, and East Main Street schools, the programs were started this week, those at the last two buildings being held in connection with meetings of Parent-Teacher associations.

A program arranged for the Parent-Teacher meeting of East Main Street school at 7:45 o'clock this evening, will be marked by carol singing led by the Sixth Grade Glee club, and by a talk on "Art's Contribution to the Christmas Spirit," by Karl G. Bolander, director of the Columbus Fine Arts gallery.

The East Main street program for next Tuesday afternoon will be an assembly with a devotional program and the singing of Christmas carols under the direction of Miss Emma O. Dewey, director of music at the building.

Three Christmas plays which were given at Fair Avenue school Thursday afternoon before the meeting of the Parent-Teacher association, are to be repeated for the pupils next Tuesday afternoon. Two of the plays — "Mr. St. Nicholas," and "Mrs. Santa Comes Into Her Own,"—are being presented by fifth grade pupils, and the third, "The Doll's Farewell," is being given by the first graders.

Carols were played in the halls Thursday afternoon by the Harmonica club. Besides the Christmas program on Tuesday afternoon there will be two others Tuesday morning. At 9 o'clock the first, second and third grades will have theirs, and at 10:30 o'clock the fourth, fifth and sixth grades will have theirs.

A series of plays was presented at a matinee on Wednesday afternoon at East High School, by the dramatic clubs under the direction of Miss Mabel Huges. The plays were "The Boy Who Comes Back," "Grandma Pulls the String," and "Why the Chimes Rang." The last one will be repeated at the program at 10:30 o'clock next Tuesday morning when the entire school body will be gathered together in the chapel for the Christmas program. A cantata will be sung by the department of music.

Christmas music by orchestra and Glee club will ring through Franklin Junior High school at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, and will be the signal that the hour of the Christmas entertainments has arrived. The orchestra will play and the Glee club will sing from the halls, while other pupils remain in their rooms with the doors open. At the close of the musical programs each room will present its own Christmas program.

Two Christmas plays by pupils of the Six-A and Six-B grades are to be presented at Ohio Avenue school at 1:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. At Livingston Avenue building there will be carol singing in the halls and Christmas programs in each room.

The activity period Tuesday afternoon at Roosevelt Junior high will be the occasion for the entire student body to assemble in the auditorium and the gymnasium, for the Christmas program at that school center.

Sunday School And Choir In Programs

A Christmas pageant, "The True Light Cometh", will be given by the Sunday School of the Washington Avenue United Brethren church, Wednesday evening, December 21. On Friday evening, December 23, a cantata, "Chimes of the Holy Night," will be given by the choir.

PREPARE FOR CAGE SQUAD TO GO INTO ACTION JANUARY 3

Sheatsley, Kauber, Haub, Dill And Rickets Are In Probable Lineup

FRESHMEN HAVE TEAM

The Capital University cage squad is being drilled hard and fast by coach J. L. Katherman, whose efforts at present are centered on the development of a presentable basketball five to do battle with Bowling Green immediately after the Christmas recess when the season's opening game will be played January 3. Capital lost four of her outstanding cage stars through graduation last June. Captain Milton (Dan) Sheatsley is the only regular left of last year's stellar outfit.

All attention is being centered on the development of an offense. On the defense the Lutherans are unusually strong, with Captain Sheatsley bearing the brunt of the attack. Coach Katherman must develop an aggregation that can manufacture baskets if he wants to keep the majority of the games in the winning column. Kauber and Haub, two of Capital's more dependable cagers, are expected to hold down the forward positions. Ricketts also a promising lad, is booked for the pivot position, while Sheatsley and Dill will do the guarding.

For the first time in the athletic history of Capital University, an official freshmen basketball squad is being sponsored at the Lutheran camp. The yearlings will scrimmage the varsity at every practice session. Over twenty candidates reported for the first-year quintet. Numerals will be awarded at the end of the season.

ROOSEVELT GIRL RESERVES TAKE IN 60 NEW MEMBERS

Sixty new members were received into the four Girl Reserve triangles at Roosevelt Junior High School, this week, at a recognition service conducted by Miss Mary Cannon, Girl Reserve secretary of the Columbus Young Women's Christian association.

The ceremony was held in the gymnasium and was an impressive one. The processional was accompanied by three of the girls playing banjos and Georgiana Hickerson at the piano. At the close of the service, the girls sat on the floor and sang Christmas carols and Girl Reserve songs.

Each girl brought with her to the meeting a donation of canned fruit, fresh fruit, or toys to be given to the Salvation army for Christmas baskets.

The presidents of the four triangles at Roosevelt, — Helen Buchanan, Thelma Palestrant, Bonnabel White, and Elaine King, — assisted Miss Cannon in conducting the recognition service.

Short Circuit Causes Fire In Automobile

The fire department was called about 5:30 o'clock Monday evening to the 1600 block in Bryden road, to extinguish a fire caused by a short circuit in the automobile driven by Mrs. Roland W. Miller, 1589 Granville street. Only slight damage was done to the car.

TO OUR READERS

The EASTERN TIMES is now fifteen weeks old. We believe that in that time it has made many friends in the East Side and Bexley, which is the territory through which it distributes six thousand newspapers each week. We believe it has gained new friends each week. And because not since the first issue, September 12, has any explanation been made of our plans and aims for it, we feel that there are many of those friends who would like such an explanation.

The EASTERN TIMES is a community weekly newspaper of high ideals. It's desire is to give all the news of the East Side and Bexley,— and that news clean, fresh, and in full.

At the present time it is conducted on a plan of free distribution. Its expenses are paid by the revenue from its advertising columns, in which the neighborhood merchants broadcast their messages to the community. This means, of course, that if it had not the support of the merchants it could not exist. But the merchants do not dictate the policies of the newspaper in any way. The EASTERN TIMES is an independent newspaper devoted to community interests, and the merchants, by their use of the advertising columns, are simply contributing to the advancement of the community by giving it a voice of its own.

The report has reached The EASTERN TIMES management that an attempt was made recently by boys to collect for the paper from homes to which it had been distributed. We believe that our paper boys who distribute The EASTERN TIMES each week on Friday, are honest and dependable, and we do not believe that any of them would attempt to collect for it.

If such an attempt should be made, however, we would appreciate very much having the names of the boys reported at once to The EASTERN TIMES office.

Above all, let no one collect money for its distribution to you. At the present time there are no paid subscriptions and this policy will not be change without a complete announcement of such a change being made in the news columns.

Another thing, if you have received some of the issues of the paper and have failed to get others, let us know this, also, by a telephone call to the office. We do not want you to lose interest through irregular distribution, and if we are informed of irregularities we will endeavor to remedy them.

STAY-AT-HOME NIGHT

We heard of a plan the other day which we think is well worth passing on. It is called Sta-at-Home night and in some cities it is a part of the program planned by municipal recreation departments. The theory of the idea is splendid and the practice, on the word of those by whom it has been tried, has proven highly successful.

Stay-at-home night might better be called, we think, Play-at-home night. It is one evening set aside in each week for the members of the family to have a jolly get-together. It is an occasion for Mother and the girls to make a batch of fudge or taffy or pop-corn balls; for Father and the boys to have a get-acquainted hour, perhaps over the tool chest and work bench. We have seen some beautiful lamp shades and glove boxes made at a home work bench for boys and their father.

A part of the evening, then, is spent in games and contests and stunts with each member of the family participating. Suggestions for these may be found in books obtainable at almost any library, but for that matter, nearly every member of a family knows any number of them. Some of the best and merriest ones are likely to be dug up from the memories of Father and Mother, who played them in their youth when there were not so many opportunities of recreation outside their homes.

It is an excellent plan to let each member of the family take turns at arranging the program of amusements. When Stay-at-home night has become an established custom in a family, it makes for an evening of fun that no member is willing to miss for any outside function. But it is more than that.

Through home play, there may be conserved the spirit of the home which is so fundamental in the development of our character as a nation. In recent years the tendency has been more and more to seek the major portion of recreation and play life away from the home. It has resulted in the weakening of parental respect, and the bonds of fellowship and sympathy between parents and children.

It may seem too novel an idea to many parents who have become resigned to seeing John and Mary at meal times only. But we believe that if five families in the community were to try it for a few weeks, there would be just five families to urge its adoption by others, and that Stay-at-home night would become the big event in every week.

Hear Talk On Life Of Herbert Hoover

Herbert Hoover is better known to the students of the Bexley high school as a result of the talk given at the regular chapel exercises Monday, by Superintendent H. C. Dieterich.

Beginning with Hoover's boyhood and the obstacles which he overcame then, and following through his school life in Leland Stanford university where he was a member of the first graduating class, Mr. Dieterich stopped at intervals to ask if his audience of students could identify the subject of his talk. Not until he touched upon Hoover's war work were any of the students able to make positive identification.

MASONS PLAN TO START SIGNING OF LODGE PETITION

Will Ask for Establishment of Masonic Organization in Bexley

TO MEET DECEMBER 30

The signing of the petition by members of the Masonic lodge who live in Bexley, for the establishment of a Bexley lodge, will be started, it is expected, at the meeting of all Masons interested in the project, which has been called for 7:30 o'clock, Friday evening, December 30 in St. Alban's Mission, 838 South Drexel avenue.

Plans for seeking a charter for such a lodge were started a few weeks ago when a number of members of other lodges met to discuss it. Mr. Charles J. Pretzman has acted as chairman of preceding meetings and committees are working toward the perfection of plans leading to the actual presentation of the petition.

The enthusiastic reception given the idea has shown a great earnestness among many Masons living in Bexley for a lodge of their own in the village. All those who have attended preceding meetings for the consideration of the plans, and other Masons interested, are urged to be present at the meeting called for next week.

Club Will Present Group of Dramas

A group of three one-act plays is to be presented early in January by Ensteriken, dramatic club at Capital university.

Included in the group will be "Six Who Pass While the Lentils Boil," by Stewart Walker; "The Man of Destiny," by George Bernard Shaw; and "Riders to the Sea," by Synge. They will be given under the direction of Dr. W. O. Doescher, of the department of philosophy.

Twenty new members recently were received into the club. Of these, only one, Wilda Bousculp, is from Columbus. The others are Helen Montague, Massillon; Mabel Stockert, Massillon; Mildred Schaaf, Elm Grove, W. Va.; Norma Beitelspacher, Rockwell City, Iowa; Hilda Bright, Logan; Margaret Zank, Youngstown; Gladys Ganter, Hamilton; Mary Louise Black, Rushville; Ethel Reber, Sugar Grove; Floyd Yockers, West Alexandria; Henry Boyer, Circleville; Irving Leist, Circleville; Carl Mohrhoff, Crestline; Milton Schultz, Tonawanda; N. Y.; Lawrence Conrad, Loudenville; William Weiss, Fort Wayne, Ind.; Clydell Baseler, Plymouth, Ind.; Joseph Dasher, Peru, W. Va.; and George Enders, Fordson, Mich.

Student Pastors To Get Actual Experience

A new plan which will give students in the theological seminary of Capital university, a fortaste of the real work of the ministry, will go into effect at the beginning of the coming semester.

In accord with the plan, each student, beginning with the second semester of the middleman or second year, will be sent out for a week, each semester, to work in an assigned congregation under the directions of the pastor of the congregation. It is hoped by this method to have the future pastors more thoroughly equipped for practical work when they enter the ministry.

The board of trustees of the seminary has approved the plan, the theological faculty, header by Dr. R. C. H. Lenski, will work out the details ready for operation in the coming semester.

CHURCH TO GIVE OLD MORAVIAN CANDLE SERVICE

TO BURN 600 TAPERS

The enactment of the ancient Moravian Christmas Eve candle service is to be one of the unusual features of the Christmas celebration in East side churches.

The service is to take place at 7:30 o'clock Sunday evening in Morgan Memorial Methodist Episcopal church, at East Main street and Fairwood avenue, and probably will be the first time it ever has been given in the city. Arrangements for it are under the direction of Rev. Mr. R. O. McRae, pastor of the church, who has seen the performance of the service in the Moravian churches in Nazareth and Bethlehem, Pa.

Humility of spirit and simplicity of ritual are the two things which will characterize the service which is symbolical of the coming of the Light of the World.

At the beginning of the service, the congregation seated in a totally dark church, will listen to a program of Christmas music, furnished by the organist and choir. The darkened church will symbolize the world before the coming of the Christ as the Light.

Following the musical program, a procession will enter the church bearing about 600 lighted candles. These will be massed at the altar and from the altar will be passed out to members of the congregation until the darkness will be pierced by the gleam of the tiny flames throughout the auditorium.

CHRISTMAS CUSTOMS HAVE COME FROM MANY LANDS AND TIMES

Yule-tide Was Celebrated By Aryans 2000 Years Before Christ

FIRST CARD IN 1846

If one would find the origin of many of the pretty Christmas customs that American families have come to regard as inalienable with the holiday season, one must delve deep into history and search the annals of many countries of the world.

Holly and mistletoe, the Christmas feast, and the Christmas tree, the hanging of the Christmas stocking and the sending of Christmas cards—all such details of the celebration in modern homes had their beginning long ago and in remote parts of the earth.

Two thousand years before Christ, Yule-tide was celebrated by the Aryans, the great branch of the human family from which most of the Christian races are descended. The Aryans were sun-worshippers.

Day by day, as the sun's power decreased with the season, these primitive people feared he would be overwhelmed by darkness and remain forever in the underworld. When he apparently wheeled about and grew stronger, they felt that he had been born again. The Hweolurtid, or turning-time, therefore, was a period of rejoicing at the annual rebirth of the sun.

Since the fact of Christ's birth was not recorded and there was no certainty as to date, the early Christian Fathers wisely ascribed it to Yule-tide, and the birthday of the sun became that of the Son.

The birth of Christ was celebrated on dates varying from the first to the sixth of January; but December 25 was ever a favorite date. Pope Julius, 237-352 A. D., after careful investigation, considered it settled beyond a doubt that Christ was born on December 25.

Holly, laurel and mistletoe as decorations of the season, have been traced to the Druids for their origin. With the followers of this religion, these were emblems of resurrection and immortal hope, so they were deemed especially appropriate for use at Christmas time.

To the customs of the Druids the Romans and Saxons in early England added others and among them some of the jolliest and most colorful of the season. In these were the burning of the Yule-log, the singing of carols, the giving of the mystery plays.

In ancient England the Yule-tide observance was on a magnificent scale. Several thousand retainers sometimes were feasted in the baronial hall. In 1248 King Henry III held a feast for the poor which lasted for a week. Richard II held a celebration of Christmas at Litchfield at which 2,000 oxen and 200 tons of wine were consumed.

Gifts were presented by the lords to their tenants and by the nobles to their sovereigns.

It is said of Queen Elizabeth that she replenished her wardrobe in this way and that after once receiving a pair of silk stockings knitted by one of her maids she never afterward would wear those made of cotton.

Credit for introducing the Christmas tree into Germany, has been given to Martin Luther. And though he doubtless did much to popularise it, the Christmas tree is believed to have had its origin in mythological times.

The hanging of a stocking as a receptacle for gifts has been accounted for in an old story that St. Nicholas dropped a purse down a chimney, and that it fell into a stocking which had been hung there to dry.

In some countries the patron saint of Christmas has an assistant. In Norway the assistant is Kris Kringle. In Switzerland Father Christmas is aided by his wife, St. Lucy. In Russia, gifts are credited to the Babunka, or Grandmother.

There is some uncertainty as to the date of the first Christmas cards, but it is generally believed that the initiative belongs to J. C. Horsley, who in 1846, on behalf of Sir Henry Cole, dispatched a card described as "an elaborate affair, showing two allegorical designs of clothing the naked and feeding the hungry, with a family group of three generations, quaffing wine."

In the United States an outgrowth of this custom, and one which has grown rapidly here and has spread to other countries, is that of sending telegrams of greeting at Christmas and New Year's.

The observance of Christmas as a holiday for joyful festivities, was frowned upon by the early Puritans in New England. It was as late as 1856, while Nathaniel P. Banks was governor of Massachusetts, that the day was made a legal holiday in that state.

A CHRISTMAS CAROL

God rest ye, merry gentlemen; let nothing you dismay,
For Jesus Christ, our Saviour, was born on Christmas day.
The dawn rose red o'er Bethlehem, the stars shone through the gray
When Jesus Christ, our Saviour, was born on Christmas-day.

God rest ye, little children; let nothing you affright,
For Jesus Christ, your Saviour, was born this happy night;
Along the hills of Galilee the white flocks sleeping lay,
When Christ, the child of Nazareth, was born on Christmas-day

God rest ye, all good Christians; upon this blessed morn
The Lord of all good Christians was of a woman born;
Now all your sorrows he doth heal, your sins he takes away;
For Jesus Christ, our Saviour, was born on Christmas-day.

Dinah Maria Mulock.

CHOIR OF HOLY ROSARY TO SING ELABORATE MASS

An elaborate program of music will mark the Christmas celebration of solemn high mass in Holy Rosary Catholic church at 5 o'clock Sunday morning.

For a half hour preceding the celebration of the mass, Christmas carols will be sung. At 5 o'clock, the polyphonic male choir, under the direction of Prof. Franz Ziegler, will render Gounod's "Second Mass in G Major." At the offertory the congregation will sing "Adeste Fideles." During Holy Communion, following this, the quartet will sing "Adoro Te," and Cherubini's "Veni Jesu."

At 10:30 Christmas morning the juvenile male choir of 40 voices will sing high mass.

First bass, Clem Hintersheid, William M. Mumm, William Kappes, William Schmitz, and Arthur H. Maeder; second bass, Arthur E. Shannon, Harry Richter, Francis Nagle, Francis Eberly, and Louis Heinmiller.

Miss Agnes Schlatchter is organist for this choir and Miss Aileen Duffy is organist for the juvenile male choir.

$1800 IN MONEY TO BE GIVEN AS CHRISTMAS GIFTS

Approximately $1,800 in crisp new bills and shiny gold pieces was issued this week by the Miller-Main branch of the Citizens Trust and Savings bank, to be given in cash Christmas presents by residents in the East side, according to Ralph Stygler, manager.

The Christmas season is practically the only one in the year when there is a demand for gold coins, Mr. Stygler said. And because there is so little gold in general circulation, most of those who want it for Christmas gifts put in their orders for it early in the month.

Of the $400 in gold which the bank had on hands for Christmas orders, $100 was in twenty dollar coins; $150 was in ten dollar pieces; $100 was in fives; and $50 was in two and a half dollar pieces.

The bank provided, also, $1400 in new bills for those who desired to tuck them into a Christmas stocking. Of this amount $500 was in ten dollar bills; the same amount was in fives; and $400 was in ones.

Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Hislop, 411 N. Parkview avenue, have booked passage on the Laconia which sails from New York January 14 for an African cruise. They will tour Europe also, before returning home in April.

FAIRWOOD SCHOOL GIVES CHRISTMAS PROGRAM FOR P.T.A.

The Christmas program of the Fairwood Avenue school was omitted from the account of the program planned by the East Side schools, in last week's issue of the Eastern Times. The omission was due to a regretted oversight, for the plans for the season's celebration at this building were among the most elaborate in the district.

An entertainment which was given last Friday evening by the school for the Parent-Teacher association, was so well patronized that even standing room in the auditorium was at a premium. Two hundred children from all grades of the school took part in the entertainment, "Christmas Legends," in which there was presented a series of Christmas tableaux. A chorus of 80 children from the upper grades sang Christmas carols, also. The program was in charge of Miss Elizabeth Brunner, teacher of the third, as chairman.

The teachers at the building were entertained on Monday evening by Miss Lou H. Thompson, principal, with a dinner at the Columbus Woman's club. Following the dinner bridge was played.

At an assembly in the school auditorium Tuesday morning, the children of the building sang Christmas carols and heard the reading of the Christmas story. And in the afternoon each room in the building held its own Christmas party.

RECEIVE LETTERS AND NUMERALS FOR FOOTBALL ACTIVITY

Awarding of honors at the first annual football banquet of the Y. M. C. A. day school for boys, made Fred Hall, 1472 Franklin Ave., and Burson Renshaw, 1180 E. Broad St., wearers of the "Y", as two of the fifteen to win this major award for service on the day school team during its first football season. A full sports calendar is scheduled for this year at this Y. prep school in contrast to the necessarily limited program of basketball and tennis last year when the school was just being started.

One of the two managerial numerals awarded at this banquet was won by Albert McCarty, 1404 East Main St.. Presentation of letters and numerals were made by Coach Riley and C. V. Kendall, principal of the day school.

DEBATERS PREPARE ARGUMENTS; MEET WITTENBERG FIRST

Debate On Subjects of National and International Interest

SIX MEETS SCEDULED

The direct primary system and the use of armed intervention for the protection of property interests in foreign countries, are subject which will be argued when the Debate season opens this year at Capital.

Wittenberg university will send its debaters to take part in the event which will start the schedule at Capital. The date of this first encounter has not been set, but will take place late in January or early in February, pending completion of the new auditorium in the Music hall.

The Ohio conference question is: "Resolved, That the convention system of nominations should be substituted for the direct primary, constitutionality granted." It is the expectation that the Lutheran team will debate this question with Akron, Baldwin-Wallace, and Otterbein, as well as with Wittenberg.

At the end of February the following question will be taken up: "Resolved, That the United States government should abandon armed intervention in protecting property interests of her citizens in foreign countries." The University of Buffalo and Western Reserve are scheduled to meet the Lutherans on this question.

MANY SUNDAY SCHOOL PROGRAMS MARK WEEKEND

Cantatas Feature Entertainments By Groups In East Side Churches

SEVERAL ON FRIDAY

The week-end, particularly Friday evening, will find many of the Sunday schools of the East Side and Bexley churches presenting their annual Christmas entertainments for which, in a number of cases, plans have been under way for several weeks. Other of the Sunday schools have held their Christmas programs earlier in the week.

Children of the respective Sunday schools will participate in Christmas entertainments Friday evening in the Mayflower Congregational, Morgan Memorial Methodist Episcopal, Washington Avenue United Brethren and Hope Evangelical Lutheran churches.

Visits from Santa Claus, distribution of presents, the singing of carols, and appropriate recitations comprise the programs, for the most part, at the different places. Features of some of the entertainments will be cantatas or musical pageants by the Junior choirs of the Sunday Schools. Such a cantata is to be given at the Washington Avenue United Brethren church.

Both senior and junior choirs will present the Sunday School Christmas service of the Wilson Avenue Reformed church at 7:30 o'clock on Christmas eve. At Grace Lutheran and First English Lutheran churches the Junior choirs will sing Christmas cantatas on Christmas night at the regular hour for the church service.

The White Gifts service and the giving of a Christmas cantata took place at St. Albans' of Bexley on Thursday evening. The donations made at the White Gifts service will be distributed among needy families for their Christmas. The White Gifts service at the Washington Avenue United Brethren church was held on Wednesday evening.

A number of the Sunday school Christmas programs were presented on last Sunday evening. Among these were entertainments by the Sunday schools of Grace Lutheran, Franklin Park Methodist Episcopal, Mayflower Congregational, and Wilson Avenue Reformed church.

Christmas This Year Is Double Holiday

Following the established custom when Christmas falls on Sunday, Monday, December 26 will be observed widely as a holiday. In the East side practically all the stores will be closed on that day except restaurants and drug stores, and many of the latter will be closed for certain hours in the afternoon.

Halloween Opened Christmas Season Once Upon A Time

Halloween was once the beginning of the Christmas season, and the giving of presents at this time of year has come down to the modern world from the Roman Saturnalian, which was a feast day to Saturn on the 25th of this month in the Roman calendar.

These things were brought out by Rev. Mr. R. O. McRae, pastor of Morgan Memorial Methodist Episcopal church, in a talk last Sunday evening before his congregation.

"In the 13th and 14th centuries in England, Halloween opened the Christmas season," said he. "It was then that the reign of the Lord of Misrule began. In each family there was such a figure chosen. Sometimes several families would go together and chose one for the group.

"But licentiousness crept into the custom and finally the governing board of England found it necessary to pass a law that the Lord of Misrule in all towns should not begin his reign until the 1st of December.

"That the present Christmas festival in this country have come to us from many countries, was a point brought out by Mr. McRae. In explaining the custom of the Christmas tree, he said that the old sacred tree was the yew and that the evergreen came into use only about two centuries ago.

"The use of a tree in the celebration of Christmas was really an outgrowth of the old 'Adam and Eve' miracle plays which always were given on Christmas eve and in which a factor of importance was the adoration of the tree of life.

"These miracle plays came into existence in the eighth century and reached the height of their popularity in 14th or 15th, though they are still given on Christmas eve in certain parts of England.

"Our Christmas today is celebrated in the most Christian way that the world has ever seen, I believe. The place of the home, childhood and of philanthropy in the celebration, bear this out. It is an indication that the world is becoming more and more bound together in brotherhood.

Anticipate Christmas Joy At Homes For Orphans And Aged

In two institutions in the East Side where live 240 orphans and 22 women in the winter of life, there is, these days, the keenest anticipation of the joys of Christmas.

Elaborate plans are under way to make the day one of real enjoyment at St. Vincent's orphanage and at the Pauline Home for the Aged.

At the orphanage there are to be toys in profusion, quantities of candy, popcorn and cakes; a Christmas tree that reaches its top-most branches to the ceiling has been dressed in gay array; and the children themselves are busy preparing for the program which they will present Christmas afternoon when Bishop Hartley comes to see them.

The Christmas season brings from stores and from private homes each year a number of donations for the children of the orphanage. Following the Christmas program in which they will participate Sunday afternoon, the children will be given their Christmas presents which will include according to sisters in charge of the home, the playthings which gladden the heart of a child, and also useful things.

But children are having no greater fun out of the prospect of Christmas than the residents of the Pauline Home for the Aged, on the word of the matron. The 22 frail, white-haired women who live there are looking forward eagerly to their share in the season's fun.

The home has been elaborately decorated for the holiday. A Christmas party is being given the residents by the Columbus Business Women's club and the entertainment for this affair will include the giving of presents to each of the women who live there, and the presentation of a program for their pleasure.

Of the 22 residents, three will not be able to attend. Though [illegible] room in their rooms [illegible] attended [illegible]

MERRY CHRISTMAS, EVERYBODY!

We'd like to say it to each of you, so we are putting it here at the top of the editorial column where we hope each and every one of our readers will see it. We'd like to decorate the wish with red holly berries and waxen mistletoe, a bit of shining tinsel, and a scarlet bell, and seal it with a Santa Claus sticker. But perhaps you'll let your imagination paint in those details.

Merry Christmas, Everybody,— and in those three words we are wishing for you great happiness in the season. May all hearts be filled with a joy as bright as the Star that gleamed in the East nineteen hundred and twenty-eight years ago; may they be filled with the peace of that silently beautiful night; may they be filled with the loving kindness that was taught in later years by the babe Who was born that night.

THE LIGHTS AT MILLER AND MAIN

If a bold-lettered signboard were erected at Miller avenue and East Main street, setting forth that here is the community center of the East Side, it could not better convey the idea than does the present brilliant illumination of the corner. We heard a motorist make this remark the other day: These bright street lights certainly make it plain that there is a thriving, progressive business section here.

As important a traffic channel as East Main street is, might well be so lighted from Parsons avenue to the corporation line. Some day, in all probability, this will be so. In the meantime, it is to the credit of the Miller-Main merchants, through whose efforts and expense the lights were installed, that they recognized the need for the lights and their value to the neighborhood business district, and did not rest until the lights had been secured.

WE APPRECIATE

It may be a little late to express our thanks for the improvement of East Main street on either side of the crossing of the Norfolk & Western Railroad tracks, but we hope they are better late than never.

The city of Columbus recently sent out workmen to make badly needed repairs in the surface of the street there. All fall, those who drive their automobiles frequently over this part of East Main street had learned that springs, and wheels themselves, were to be saved from damage, it was necessary to slow down almost to a creep and then, at a snail's pace pick the shallower holes to fall into and climb out of.

There are those persons who doubtless think that the repair work is not a thing to express appreciation for since it is the duty of the city to keep its main thoroughfares in the best possible state of passability. But we are not one of these. We know that we'h have had to travel that street whether the surface had been repaired or not. We appreciate deeply its improvement.

STUDENT NEWS AT EAST HIGH SCHOOL

Girl Reserves Entertain Thirty Children Of Open Air School

The Girl Reserves of East High school brought happiness to 30 children, most of whom are enrolled at the Open Air school, at a Christmas party last Friday. The party was held around a brightly-dressed Christmas tree, and games and stories comprised the entertainment followed by the presentation of gifts and candy.

For many of these children, the party will be the biggest Christmas celebration they will have. A Christmas dinner also is being provided by the Girl Reserves for a needy family.

X-Rays In Christmas Colors

Red and green print made up the Christmas edition of East High schools paper, "The X-Rays." The copies made their appearance on Tuesday, the last day before vacation. Their distribution is handled by the salesmanship classes as part of its members' training.

Sing Carols In Halls

East's tradition of carol singing in the halls was carried out by the music department during the third period Monday morning. A three-part chorus went from one floor to another carolling the Christmas spirit to the various classes.

The entire student body gathered in the auditorium Tuesday for the annual Christmas program. The double quartet of the school, augmented to choir proportions, sang the cantata, "The Coming of the King" and the Christmas play, "Why the Chimes Rang," was given.

Christmas In Porto Rico

Instead of hanging up their stockings at Christmas time, the children of Porto Rico put out boxes of grass which the wise men may feed to their camels and which they then refill with gifts.

This was told to members of the Quill Literary society at their Christmas meeting, by Carmen Segarra, a native Porto Rican, who talked of Christmas customs on that island.

On the program for the meeting, also, were Jane Morton who gave a review of "Trader Horn," and Elsie Richards who reviewed "The Centaur Plays Croquet," from "The American Caravan."

Hellenic Program

"How Santa Claus Came to Simpson's Bar," by Bret Harte, and "Christmas Cards," by Christopher Morley, were presented at the Christmas program of the Hellenic Literary society. Following the program there was an exchange of gifts by members of the group.

French Club Meets

Alice Knepper, Kathryn Jacklon, and Jane Williams were on the first program of the year given by the French club. Alice Knepper recited a French poem; Kathryn Jacklon gave the life of Moliere in English and a French story was told by Jane Williams.

Club Gives Carnival

Betty Willard was king and Ruth Freil, queen, of the carnival given by the Spanish club. Baloons, confetti, and all the other picturesque details of a Spanish carnival gave the affair a colorful background. Carmen Segarra and Eleanor Hicklen were members of the committee in charge.

Fills Vacancy In Office

John Brunner was elected treasurer of the Latin club, to replace Charles Hughes who resigned, when that organization met Monday. A Christmas program was presented in which readings from the Bible were given by Archibald Krumm, and a comparison of Christmas with the Roman Saturnalian festival was drawn by Kathryn Jacklon.

Presents Mrs. Hertenstein

The recent musical program given under the auspices of the Gamut club presented Mrs. Marie Hertenstein the following program: "Ballade", by Brahms; "Berceuse," by Chopin; "Blue Danube Waltzes," by Schultz-Ezler; and a theme in the style of seven masters, by Sigmund Ochs.

See Educational Films

The physics class saw a demonstration of the wave theory of sound by motion picture last Friday. The demonstration was made by Mr. Walter R. Bailey. Films which explained the process of lemon and orange growing, the origin of the industry and the preparation of the fruit for the market, were shown to students in the chemistry and botany classes.

Soloists Will Assist In Christmas Program

Mr. and Mrs. Earle Hopkins, violinists, and Mr. Robert H. Griffin, tenor of the First Congregational church quartet, will assist the choir of the Oakwood Methodist Episcopal church in presenting a program of church music at 7:30 o'clock Sunday evening.

Two compositions of the late Prof. Herman Eberling, — "Christmas Pastorale," as a prelude, and "Triumphal March," as a postlude,—will be played by Mr. Frank R. Meier, at the organ.

To Advise Students In Selecting Careers

In the appointment of Prof. Fred Bernhohr, dean of the Capital University academy, as high school counsellor by the administration of Capital university, there has been taken a new and forward step in the Progressive Educational program outlined by the Evangelical Lutheran Synod of Ohio.

The position is an advisory one. Its incumbent is to give advice and information to those who plan to enter high school, academy, or college. In this way a plan is devised by which prospective students may secure valuable aid in shaping a career. The position will be maintained for the interest of young people in general and for the youth of the Evangelical Lutheran Synod of Ohio, in particular.

This part of the ceremony, Rev. Mr. McRae explained, symbolizes the coming of the light to individuals in the world. When the 600 tapers have been passed throughout the congregation, the entire body, led by the choir and accompanied by the organ, will sing Christmas carols in the candlelight.

In practically all of its details the service will coincide with that enacted each Christmas eve in the Moravian churches, according to Mr. McRae. A similar one was given last year at the church in Delaware where Mr. McRae was pastor at that time, and proved so beautiful and impressive a service that it was found necessary to repeat it twice in order that all those who desired to take part in it could do so.

Prof. Rauber Writes Economics Textbook

Prof. Earle Rauber, former professor of economics at Capital university, who is now working for his Ph. D. degree at the University of Chicago, has recently completed writing a text book on economics. The book, "Collateral Readings in Economics," is adapted to high school usage and gives much valuable information for the beginner in this field.

Prof. Rauber is writing his doctor's thesis on the economic history of electric power in the United States.

In Between Times

Jimmy is enrolled at an East Side school, but he has no great fondness for the classroom work. In fact, he much prefers to stay at home and read adventure books and boys' stories. Not infrequently, when there is a new book under his pillow, he discovers that he is suffering from a terrible headache early in the morning, which serves as an excellent excuse for staying home from school.

The other day, Jimmy awoke to just that discovery on a day when his school mate, Bill, had been asked to come home with him for lunch. At noon Bill arrived according to schedule. Jimmy's mother met him at the door.

"I'm awfully sorry, Billy, but Jimmy's sick in bed today," she told him. "But I'll be glad for you to stay for lunch, anyway."

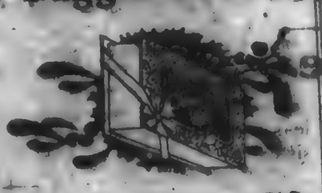
"Oh, that's all right," Bill answered. "I knew he was going to stay in bed today. He told me yesterday."

We cannot promise that it actually happened, but we overheard it being told, and vouched for as the truth, in an East Side grocery store the other day:

At 9:15 a. m. Mrs. M_____ called on the telephone.

"Please send me a quarter of a pound of liver for my cat," she told the grocery clerk who took her order.

At 9:50 a. m. there was a second call from Mrs. M_____.



"Please cancel my order for liver," said she. "My cat just caught a bird."

Singers Will Take Trip In February

Plans for the annual tour of the Capital university Glee club have been announced by F. H. Stonebumer, manager of the club.

The Capital singers will appear in almost a dozen cities in the midwest including 3 in Ohio, according to the announcement. They will travel by bus and the trip will last from February 10 to 19. On the schedule of places in which concerts will be given, are Botkins, Upper Sandusky, and Toledo, Ohio; Detroit and Saginaw, Mich.; Michigan City, Indiana; and Chicago and Shelbyville, Ill.

An innovation in the Glee club programs this year is an orchestra composed entirely of Glee club members. Wilbur Crist is directing the activities of the club.

WE WISH to take this opportunity to express to our patrons on the East Side and Bexley our appreciation for the splendid response and cooperation they have accorded.

CHILDREN ARE CHRISTMAS GUESTS OF GIRL RESERVES

A group of children from one of the day nurseries in the city were entertained Thursday afternoon, Dec. 22 by the Girl Reserve of the Bexley high school. Members of the triangle called for the children at the nursery and took them to the high school building where a tree hung with gifts awaited them.

The season's activities of the Bexley Girl Reserves will include, also, the provision of a Christmas dinner and gifts for the family which the group presented with a Thanksgiving dinner.

Mothers of the girls were entertained at a Christmas party in the high school auditorium last week. It is the plan to make this Christmas party for the mothers an annual affair. The program for the party included a playlet, "Who Is My Neighbor?" in which the speaking parts were carried by Helen Wildermuth and Melissa Jones. A violin duet was played by Eleanor Ludwig and Henrietta Bruch accompanied by Catherine Singer, and Elizabeth Eleanor Tracy sang a group of songs.

Devotional exercises were in charge of Erma Hart and a Christmas candle ceremony was conducted by Vrina Hughes. Clara Frances Ketner had the program in charge, and following its presentation, a tea was given.

POST OFFICE HAS GOOD RECORD IN CHRISTMAS RUSH

Villagers Evidence Satisfaction In Handling Of Mail By Substation

W. A. WHARTON IN CHARGE

More than 2,000 packages, 450 of which were insured, many hundreds of letters and cards, and stamp sales reaching almost $1,000 — that was the record for the Christmas season, of the new post office substation, No. 11, established this month in Bexley.

The branch post office, located in Wharton's grocery at 2258 E. Main street, was in operation only 17 days preceding Christmas, and was one of the busiest places in the village during that time. The business of the station included, also, the issuing of between 20 and 30 money orders, besides many other transactions of a minor nature.

Indicative of the kind of service which was given at the substation by Mr. W. A. Wharton who has charge of it, is the fact that not one piece of mail which passed through this office has been returned for any reason whatsoever.

That the residents of Bexley are highly pleased with the added mail service was evidenced by the many complimentary remarks heard both in and out of the office regarding it. Mr. Wharton was congratulated many times by the villagers for rendering the community a genuine service.

The establishment of the branch post office was a project of the village council. Councilman Samuel Beta was chairman of the committee which was instrumental in bringing about the establishment.

Mrs. Guy Rowlands, 187 Cassingham road, was hostess Thursday to members of the Pleasure club.

BUSINESS DURING CHRISTMAS SEASON SHOWS INCREASE

Merchants In East Side Declare Volume Is Larger Than Ever Before

That the volume of Christmas business which was done in the neighborhood stores of the East Side, was greater than it ever had been before, is indicated in the almost unanimous report of the East Side merchants that their stores saw increased sales during this season.

In several cases merchants have commented on the number of strange faces which were seen in their stores during the holiday shopping, and have expressed the belief that the knowledge of the things offered in the neighborhood shops, is being spread into new homes.

While the increased volume of Christmas business is at first glance, a thing of importance only to the individual merchants, it is in reality much more than that. It is a sign that the East Side business district is thriving and that it is thriving because neighborhood patronage is on the increase. It points to the fact that the East Side as a community sufficient unto itself, is taking steps forward.

PETITION COUNTY FOR IMPROVEMENT OF BLISS DITCH

Council Passes Ordinances To Issue Bonds For Proposed Village Improvements

WILL ORGANIZE JAN. 10

The improvement of Bliss ditch and lateral east of Bexley, by Franklin county, one of the largest projects of its kind in the county, and a necessary preliminary step to the building of improved streets in the area drained by the ditch, will be asked of the county commissioners by petition of the village, as the result of action taken by the Bexley council at its regular meeting this week.

Starting from Spring lake on the south, the ditch runs northeast through Berwick, north to East Main street, follows from there north and east along Brookside drive to James pike, and north along James pike to the government depot. Petition for its improvements also has been made to the county commissioners by East Columbus.

The project looks to the future improvement of lots and streets in the area adjoining the village on the east corporation line.

Steps were taken by council, also, to make immediate repairs on the village lighting circuit No. 1. Transformer trouble was reported by Street Commissioner David Shadrack, who told the village fathers that the trouble has left part of East Broad street, North Parkview avenue, North Columbia avenue, and part of North Drexel avenue, in darkness.

Council referred the matter to the light committee, O. C. Manly, chair-

No Eight O'Clock Classes, No Quizzes, Midterms Nor Dean's Reports For British Collegians

Former Instructor In Scotland Visiting Bexley, Talks Of College Life

AMERICANS ARE KEENER

This is the conclusion of Carl Kerr, of Belfast, Ireland, who has spent the Christmas holidays with his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel J. Carey, 730 Roosevelt avenue. Mr. Kerr is engaged in research work in organic chemistry at the University of Michigan while on a two-year fellowship in this country. He is a graduate of Belfast and Glasgow universities and has been a junior assistant at St. Andrews' university in Scotland to which he probably will return at the close of his work in this country.

In American universities, Mr. Kerr said he believed the students showed more eagerness to learn the things they are there to learn. They exhibit a greater determination to go to the universities, and to illustrate this point he pointed out the number of students who work their way through college.

None Work Way

"No one works one's way through school in the British universities," he explained. "One does not go to the university unless one has enough money to pay one's expenses. That is undoubtedly one reason why the enrollment in the American colleges is so much greater than in those in England."

There are many wide differences revealed between attending the university in the two countries as Mr. Kerr discussed it. And at some of these differences American students probably will cast envious eyes.

More Spare Time

British students have more spare time outside of class hours; they never start the day before 9 o'clock in the morning; they have no class recitations; they are never in danger of being sent home, for failing to make the grade during the term. These are some of the differences outlined by Mr. Kerr.

"Eight o'clock classes are unknown in the British universities," said he. "If any one suggested such a thing he'd probably be hurried off the grounds at once. Study is by the lecture system so there are never any class quizzes to prepare for. The professors simply deliver the lectures day after day and the students listen.

"The examination at the end of the term is the thing which determines whether or not the student has passed. There is no other basis for grading. So it is impossible to know just what he is doing in the middle of the term.

"For that matter if he fails to pass the examination at the end of the term he is not sent home. He may remain a student as long as he can pay his fees. For this reason one may find occasionally in British universities students who have been going to the university for 10 or 15 years but who have not in all that time received a degree of any kind."

In college life in all the British colleges there is no fraternity or sorority life and nothing that takes its place except Oxford and Cambridge.

There are athletics but not as they are known in this country.

"The American universities go in for very efficient teams," Mr. Kerr explained. "The teams in the British schools are not so finished and more students take part in the sports. Such things as crowds of 60,000 to 80,000 attending a football game are utterly unheard of in Britain.

Neither basketball nor baseball appears on the calendar of sports in the British college, nor is football recognizable as the game played in this country. However, every university has its cricket team and golf is played nearly everywhere also.

Student government is more highly developed over there, said Mr. Kerr. The courses of studies are not so scattered through all the subjects available.

"You find in our British universities, students talking all closely allied subjects," he explained. "I mean, one does not find someone taking both Greek and bacteriology, for example. One finds over here all sorts of strange combinations of subjects."

Co-eds at the British institutions have almost no rules and regulations to which they must conform. There are very few dormitories for women students and so co-eds who do not live at home, live in rooming houses and where rules are unheard-of, Mr. Kerr said.

Youth in England has not found itself the target of severe criticism by its elders, as has American youth

Porto Rican Tropical Summers Are Pleasanter Than Those In Ohio, Says Island Weather Man

Dr. Fassig, Visiting in East Side Home, Discusses Aviation In Relation To Indian Isle

DISCUSSES AVIATION

If you have thought of a Porto Rican summer as a sweltering unbearably warm season, reconstruct your ideas on the matter.

The summer in Porto Rico is much more pleasant than the same season of the year in any of the middle Atlantic states according to Dr. O. L. Fassig, of San Juan, Porto Rico, who with Mrs. Fassig, has spent the Christmas holidays with his sister, Mrs. C. A. Gill, 873 Linwood avenue.

In San Juan, he declared, the days throughout the year are like the bright sunshiny, ideal June days in Ohio. The temperature throughout the 12 months ranges usually between 70 and 85. The mercury in the summer climbs only to 91 or 92, and in the winter it never sinks below 62, Dr. Fassig said.

"The humidity is higher there," he explained. "But there is more active wind movement. Up here in Ohio it is the high temperature combined with light winds that makes the summer days oppressive. I much prefer Porto Rican summers to your Ohio ones.

"One finds so much enjoyment and so much of benefit in living the kind of an outdoor life that we are able to live the year round in San Juan.

No Chimneys on Houses

"None of our houses have chimneys, because we never need fire for heat. We have no such thing as a smoke nuisance except from the ships in port."

Dr. Fassig's work in Porto Rico is looking after the interests of the United States Weather bureau for the Indies and Central America. He has been engaged in this work there since 1919.

"We don't attempt to predict weather conditions from day to day down there as it is done in the states," he said. "The important changes are in rainfall rather than in temperature.

"Our principal business is to be on the lookout for hurricanes, during the hurricane season which is from June until November. These destructive storms average three or four a year. During the season just closed we had none, but the season preceding that there were eight or nine.

Floods Cause Damage

"Not all of them hit the islands, of course. And most of the damage to [illegible] done by floods instead of by high winds. Because of the mountainous topography and the deep and narrow valleys, heavy rainfalls will bring up sudden floods.

"It is our work to forecast these and send out warnings by the police departments, by telephone and by radio. Then the people in the flood area board up their homes and take themselves and their livestock to safety until the flood has receded.

An interesting phase of the work of the weather bureau in Porto Rico, is the sending up of pilot balloons daily to get the direction and velocity of the winds to aid aviators, according to Dr. Fassig.

"The baloon is under observation through a transit and its position is taken at the end of each minute," he explained. "From its relative positions we can compute the information about the winds. Frequently the baloons are kept under observation for two hours or more, before they burst or disappear in the clouds."

Flying Safer in Tropics

Aviation is less dangerous in the tropics than in the northern lands, Dr. Fassig said he believed.

"We have thunder storms and squalls but they are milder in form than those which visit the Atlantic coast farther north," said he. "We have no problems of ice and snow, and fogs are very rare indeed."

That the practical route for airplane travel between America and Europe will be found to be the southern route instead of the north, Dr. Fassig said he believed. This way, he said, will be to the Bermudas, the Azores and southern Europe instead of the northern way from New Foundland to Ireland.

The Porto Ricans are keeping abreast of the times in the matter of aviation, Dr. Fassig said. A new hydroplane service for mail and passengers was established this fall, he said, from Key West and Havana. It makes two trips weekly to Porto Rico.

Attends Meeting

Dr. Fassig has been in the United States since early in November and will return to Porto Rico late in January. He will return to the home of his sister, Mrs. Gill, Saturday from Nashville, Tenn., where he has been several days attending the annual meeting of the American Association of Science. He gave two papers before the departmental meeting of the Association of American Geographers. After spending New Year's at the home of Mrs. Gill, he and Mrs. Fassig will go to Washington, D. C., to remain until they sail for Porto Rico.

NEW LEAGUE IS BEING WATCHED

In last week's issue of "The Community News" of Grandview Heights, Marble Cliff and Upper Arlington, there appeared the following editorial on a Bexley project. Apparently the recently organized Parents' league has found that there are those who are interested in such an organization elsewhere.

The attention which the league is receiving outside its immediate community, should serve at least one good purpose. It should make its members strive to achieve actual results. If the parents of Bexley get something worth while from their project, perhaps they will pave the way for the establishment of similar groups in other places, all of which will have for their aim the making of better parents.

"Bexley parents have earned for themselves at least a passing place in the limelight by their recent organization of a Parents' League dedicated to the purpose of greater co-operation in the task of regulating the activities and pursuits of their children during their formative years.

"Their objective is laudable, in that they band together to restrict the extra-curricular activities of children ten years of age and under, and so direct their energies that upon maturity they will possess well-balanced attitudes toward the diversified demands and enticements of life.

"A discussion group of which ten-year-olds and youngers are the subject should be invaluable in that it permits of a trading of experience in child-raising which may result in a better understanding of the old, old problem of the irreconcilable viewpoints of the old and the new generations.

"The Bexley movement is an interesting one to reflect upon, and a better one to watch, providing it continues to exist and to function. Let's check the results ten years from now."

In Between Times

The trouble with an idle rumor is that it never remains idle.

Someone once said that a man must be either a hammer or an anvil, but we think he overlooked the fact that a goodly number prefer to be the bellows.

There's a celebrated English scientist who claims that the average span of life can be increased easily to 150 years, and that the cost would not be more than 12 cents a head, and we suppose there are a few isolated cases where the expense would be warranted.

We don't know of anything that can appear to act more coquettish and fickle without actually being those things, than a traffic light in a city where a campaign is being conducted by the police department against the runner of the yellow lights.

With Christmas five days past there's just one thing we don't think we ever care to see again, at least not until next Christmas, and that's Christmas candy.

"When it comes to selling arguments," says Impecunious Imogene, "no advertising writer can produce one like a dollar in the pocket."

The bride's gown was a sleeveless flesh-colored georgette, heavily embroidered in crystals and worn with silver hose and slippers. Her flowers were a shower bouquet of pink and white roses and valley lilies. She wore the gift of the bridegroom, a platinum sautoire set with a diamond and two emeralds.

BEXLEY TO MEET GROVEPORT TEAMS IN GAMES FRIDAY

SHIFTS IN LINEUP LIKELY

By "Bud" Lauffer

Rumors that several changes will be made in the opening lineup were prevalent in the Bexley camp this week, as Coach Smith groomed his charges for the clash with the Groveport basketeers.

The girls' basketball team of Bexley High school will take on its second opponent of the season when it meets the Groveport girls in a preliminary to the boys' game with the visitors. The game is scheduled to begin promptly at 7:30.

Although the appearance of the Bexley girls in their game with Gahanna showed a marked weakness in passing, they have improved vastly judging from their work in practice during the past week. Coach Clare H. Schoolar has spent considerable time on the work of the offense, and has developed a smooth-running passing team which predicts a Bexley victory.

The goal-shooting ability of Miss Laura Reed seems to be Bexley's most valuable asset. She and Miss Dorothy Klingbeil make a reliable pair of forwards. They should start the Groveport game at these posts.

Miss Ludwig and Miss Bush will probably start at the center positions and Miss Katherine Klingbeil and Miss Manly will no doubt be the guards in the opening lineup.

Coach Smith admitted there would probably be several shifts in the line up altho he would make no statement as to the nature of the changes.

"I believe that we will have a tough time defeating Groveport," Smith said Wednesday, "but I feel that the team has improved wonderfully since the Gahanna game and the boys should give a good account of themselves."

Jack Ross, who has been kept out of the lineup because of scholastic difficulties, has brought his subjects up, and will be available Friday night. He will probably see action at the center position sometime during the game.

Dave Davis, a dependable guard of last year's squad, who has been kept out of basketball because of an injury received in football, has made his appearance at practice and should be ready for the Delaware game.

The addition of these two men should strengthen the team considerably, though it is doubtful if the Bexley squad will be a match for the team which Delaware will send to Bexley January 13.

On that date, the Bexley basketeers will meet their first real opposition of the season, when they take on the team which last year went into the semi-finals of the Class A District Tournament held at Delaware. The occasion will be the dedication of Bexley's splendid new gym in the new Junior High school in Cassingham road. Both the boys' and girls' teams of both schools will play.

CHARGE OF DEFEAT IS UNJUST; GAME WAS PRACTICE PLAY

By "Bud" Lauffer

As Bexley High sport correspondent for the Eastern Times, I feel it is my privilege and my duty to correct a mistake made by an overly-enthusiastic sport correspondent recently.

Following the practice game, that Bexley played with the Y-Day School, a story appeared in a downtown newspaper that Bexley had been defeated, giving the lineups and extensive details.

Bexley was not defeated in regular game by the Y-Day team. The game was a practice affair. The Bexley squad had not practiced for the game—in fact the games was not arranged until the morning it was played, and both coaches agreed that it was to be merely a practice contest.

Only three-quarters of the game was played, and no formalities of a regular game were observed.

But as a result of this adverse publicity, Bexley has been charged up with a loss in the "won and lost" columns of the local sport writers.

Bexley did not suffer defeat in the accepted sense of the sport circles and to charge them up with a loss is a rank injustice to the boys.

Sr. Otto Mees, president of Capital university, spoke on "Background," Tuesday before members of the University Women's club, and their husbands.

LICHTENBERG IS TO HEAD SCHOOL BOARD FOR 1928

Fritz A. Lichtenberg was elected president of the Bexley board of education at the first meeting of the body in the new year. He succeeds J. F. Eldor, and served last year in the capacity of vice-president.

K. G. Busch was elected vice-president for the new year and J. L. W. Henney was re-elected to the office of clerk. Both Busch and Henney were re-elected to positions on the board at the November election.

EAST VS. NORTH TONIGHT STARTS SEASON'S PLAY

Holiday Trip Gave Needed Game Experience In Preparation For Schedule

PROBABLE LINEUP GIVEN

The corners rounded off and the wrinkles smoothed out in their game by the holiday trip which gave them three victories and three defeats, the cage tossers at East High school are ready to go tonight when they meet the quintet from North High on North's floor, in the first game of the official schedule.

FIRST ROUND OF BASKETBALL AT EAST

North at North, Jan. 6.
West at East, Jan. 10 or 11.
Steubenville at Steubenville, Jan. 13.
Uhrichsville at Uhrichsville, Jan. 14.
Central at Central, Jan. 20.
South at East, Jan. 24.
Aquinas at East, Jan. 27.

According to Coach Robert Karch, the probable lineup will find Burke and Hamilton at forward, Hopson at center, and Munster and Paul Cohen at guard. Others who are likely to see action during the evening are Dave Cohen and Moore, forwards; Harbison, guard, and Clossen, forward or guard.

East High was second in the league of Columbus high schools last year, but is suffering this year from loss of veterans by graduation. Burke is the only letter man holding over from last year.

In February, when the second round of the schedule will start, it is expected that the squad will benefit by the addition of two players of promise who are now ineligible. These are Coppess and Boyce.

The second game of the first round of the league schedule which was slated originally for next Friday will be played next Tuesday or Wednesday and will be with the team from West. It will be played in the gymnasium at East.

The holiday basketball trip served the purpose, Coach Karch said, of giving the members of the team a much needed game experience, and left them better prepared for the season ahead. The lads from East won in the rounds with Newark, Lancaster and Galion, but met defeat at the hands of Canton, Kenton and Ashland, Ky.

The final cuts in the membership of the basketball squads at Bexley high school, were announced this week by Carlton H. Smith, coach of the boys, and Miss Clare H. Schoolergirls' coach. Sixteen lads have been retained on the official boys' squad and 19 girls compose the girls' squad.

The personnel of the squads follows:

Boys' squad: Robert Woodward, Stewart Hirsch, Robert Palmer, William Diehl, David Davis, Jack Jones, Jack Ross, Robert Dickey, James Zuber, Lincoln Kilbourne, Burton Elder, Don Norris, Jack Boyland, Robert Brenner, and Sidney Sweet.

George Morris, of the state department of education, was a visitor Wednesday at the Bexley schools. Mr. Morris observed the work being done in both the senior and junior high schools.

HUNDREDS VISIT DISPLAY OF NEW CHEVROLET CARS

Many Improvements In Body And Motor Intrigue Interest Of Crowds

SHOW FIVE NEW MODELS

Between 700 and 800 persons attended the first day of the formal introduction of the new Chevrolet models by the Pepper-Jones Company at their showrooms at 1176 East Main street. All Columbus dealers held the first formal showing of the new cars at that time though the national show had opened Sunday. A city ordinance in Columbus prevented the exhibition on Sunday.

Interest in the new models has been evident all week by the crowds that have thronged into the display rooms of the East Side dealer. Five complete models, including the coach, cabriolet, the four-door sedan, the Imperial landau and the coupe, are on exhibition, as well as a half-ton and a ton chassis.

In the new models, have been incorporated a number of changes in which particular interest has been shown. The cars are four inches longer than previous models, having now a wheel base of 107 inches. They are equipped with four-wheel brakes with independent emergency brake. They have longer and roomier bodies, made by Fisher.

The steering gear has been improved with ball bearings throughout to make steering easier. A longer and deeper radiator with thermostatic control, a new wind tunnel fan shroud, an improved instrument panel with indirect lighting are also among the new features.

Numerous motor improvements include invar-strut pistons, larger camshaft, two-port exhaust, improved tappets and crankcase ventilating system. A point of particular interest in the show is the declaration of the dealers that all models are available for immediate delivery.

Activities of the camp in the coming year probably will show considerable extension as a result of the opening of the new home in the year just past. The camp has approximately 1,800 members and is the largest in the state. Its new home, which it has occupied since September, was erected at an estimated cost of $100,000. One of its distinguishing features is a large pipe organ.

Wittenmeier, who heads the camp for 1928, is a public and fraternity entertainer who broadcasts frequently from the three radio broadcasting stations in Columbus. He is librarian at the Franklin county court house.

The staff of officers installed to serve with him include the following: Smith J. Stewart, advisor lieutenant; Nicholas Koehler, banker; Earl A. Heffenauer, clerk; M. P. CAPITAL LOSES IN FIRST BASKETBALL GAME OF SEASON

Prospects This Year Are Not Considered As Very Brilliant

IS TWENTY-FIRST YEAR

Capital University basketball players, led by Captain Milton "Dan" Sheatsley of Bexley, opened the twenty-first court season for the Lutheran Institution when they played the quintet from Bowling Green State Normal college on Thursday evening.

Prospects at the Capital camp are not so brilliant this year due to the loss of a group of stars through graduation. However, the team will be exceptionally strong defensively, and if they can achieve a point-manufacturing unit, the local fans will not be disappointed.

Basketball teams at Cpaital in the past have been exceptionally good. Upon consulting statistics recently compiled, it was learned, that since the first quintet represented the college back in '07-'08, a total of 229 games have been played. Of this total, 434 were won, giving the school an all-time record of .585%. With this as a background, supporters of the Purple team will bear in mind that an "off" year now and then is inevitable, yet they may look for a fighting team that will not accept defeat until the final whistle is blown. Coach Katherman has a reputation of sending out "fighting Lutheran" squads, and win or lose, we have his word for it that they will be in the game with plenty of pep.

The Evangelistic services which opened Sunday in the Washington Avenue United Brethren church, and which will continue through the month of January, have been well attended, and gratification at the responses with which they have met, was expressed by Rev. Mr. A. B. Cox, pastor.

Rev. Mr. Cox is being assisted with the services by Rev. Mr. Charles A. York, of Indiana, Evangelistic singer and young peoples' worker.

Different ministers delivered the sermons at each of the evening services during the week. On Monday, the pulpit was occupied by Rev. D. F. Mills, pastor of Avondale United Brethren church. The speaker Tuesday evening was Rev. Mr. J. E. Spears, pastor of the Fifth Avenue United Brethren church. Rev. Mr. Civen McKibben, pastor of the Cleveland Avenue Church of Christ and the Christian Union, delivered the sermon Wednesday evening. On Thursday the speaker was Rev. Mr. C. E. Miller, pastor of the Burgess Avenue United Brethren church.

The pulpit Friday evening will be filled by Rev. Mr. S. Kurtz, pastor of the East Linden United Brethren church, and the sermon Saturday evening will be given by Rev. Mr. J. R. Bowser, pastor of the St. Clair Avenue United Brethren church.

THIS IS DAY TO PAY DEBTORS ON CAPITAL CAMPUS

Today is "Debt Liquidation Day" at Capital university.

That the first Friday after the Christmas vacation shall be so designated and so observed is a feature which has been instituted on the Capital campus by Dr. Otto Mees, president.

On this day the students are urged to square their accounts not only with fellow students, but with merchants, doctors, and all others to whom they may happen to be indebted.

CONSTRUCTION IS SLOW IN LAST MONTH OF YEAR

Drops Below November, But Is Triple Figure For Same Month in '26

ONE IS $30,000 HOME

Building activities in Bexley during December slumped to a total valuation $25,000 below that for November, but they were represented by a figure three times as large as that for the same month in 1926.

Total valuation of proposed construction as shown by the building permits issued by Building Inspector O. P. Dunlop, was $99,460 for December. For the preceding month the preceding month the valuation was $124,650, but for December, 1926, the valuation was only $31,550.

YEAR IN BUILDING

The total valuation for which permits were issued during 1927, was $3,036,800, according to the figures of Building Inspector Dunlop. Fees collected for the permits totalled $3,444.06.

Permits were issued for the erection of 11 homes. One of these was valued at $30,000 and is to be constructed by Walter A. Morrison at 41 Stanbery road. It is to be a two-story structure of brick.

The only other home in the list, valued at more than $10,000, will be built by Dr. S. D. Edelman at 2630 Fair avenue. It will have two stories and nine rooms, and be built of stone and stucco at an estimated cost of $14,500.

Other homes for which permits were issued during the month are: an $8,000, brick and stucco, with two stories and six rooms to be erected at 44 North Cassingham road by Charles F. Starck; an $8,000, stone and stucco, with two stories and six rooms, to be erected at 50 North Cassingham road, also by Starck; a $7,200 frame, with two stories and six rooms, to be built at 767 Montrose avenue by Mrs. Floyd Smith;

A $7,200 frame of two stories to be built at 228 South Roosevelt avenue, by A. J. Smith; a $5,400, two-story, brick, stucco and shingle at 838 Vernon road, by A. W. Zimmer; a $5,200, two-story brick at 282 North Ardmore road, by A. H. Lang;

A $4,300 one-story frame cottage at 763 Euclaire avenue by Mrs. M. E. Hill; and two $4,000 two-story, six-room frames at 717 and 713 Grandon avenue, by Whitaker and Beard.

Permits were issued for the construction of seven garages and for repairs to two buildings, neither valuation more than $200.

Report Year's Work; Outline Future Plans

The annual congregational meeting of the Wilson Avenue Reformed church will be held at 8 o'clock Wednesday evening, January 11, in the church auditorium. At this time a general report of the year's work will be made, plans will be outlined for the coming year, and members will be appointed to the standing committees.

A social hour will follow the meeting. The committee in charge of this part of the evening is composed of Edwin S. Stotz, C. O. Gravel and F. P. Zinn.

To Hold Fifth Church Night Thursday

The fifth church night this year of the Wilson Avenue Church of Christ, will be held Thursday evening, January 12, in the church. It will consist of supper followed by devotions. On this evening, also, the official board of the church will hold a meeting.

WILLARD TO OPEN IN NEW LOCATION ABOUT FEB. 1

New Corporation Organizes; Buys Willard Restaurant; Wendt Is President

EXPAND IN NEW ROOMS

With February 1 set as the tenative date for the opening of the Willard restaurant in its new location at the northwest corner of East Main street and Drexel avenue, announcement is made of the organization of the Willard Restaurant, Inc., and of the purchase of the restaurant by this corporation.

Willard H. Wendt is president and treasurer of the new corporation. Louis C. Fuchs is vice-president, and Mrs. Lucille F. Wendt is secretary.

The new location, 2268-70 East Main street, has been leased by the corporation for a period of 10 years. It will furnish ample space for the expansion of the business. On the main floor the restaurant will occupy the corner room and it will have also a portion of the second floor. The latter space is to be equipped for tea room service, private parties, and to take care of the overflow from the main dining room downstairs.

Nearly all of the equipment in the new location will be new. It will include a 25-foot Pasadena tile fountain which will occupy the east side of the dining room downstairs, and which is said to be the most beautiful one in the vicinity of Columbus. According to Mr. Wendt, there is none other in the city like it, and none more beautiful nor more up-to-date from the Atlantic coast to the Mississippi river.

The decoration of the restaurant probably will be started Monday. This is planned to be exceptionally attractive and distinctive. It is expected that installation of the equipment will be begun the latter part of January to have everything in readiness for opening February 1.

BRANCH LIBRARY OPENS MONDAY IN NEW JUNIOR HIGH

Miss Dorothy Hayes Will Have Charge of Branches In Two Schools

MORE BOOKS TO BE ADDED

Announcement of the opening of the branch library in the new Junior High school building in Cassingham road on Monday, and the appointment of Miss Dorothy Hayes to have supervision of it and also of the branch library in the East Main street grade building, has been made by Mrs. Sarah H. Bilby, librarian of the Bexley public library.

The branch library in the grade school has been in existence in previous years, but the one in the Junior High school building is an innovation. The latter is to be installed in the room especially designed and equipped for use as a library. Several hundred volumes already have been placed on the shelves and others are to be added, Mrs. Bilby said.

Miss Hayes, who will have charge of the two branches under Mrs. Bilby's direction, was graduated from Ohio State university last June.

DEBATERS GO TO WITTENBERG FOR INITIAL CONTEST

Next Thursday is the day toward which the forensic forces at Capital university are pointing their preparations.

It is on that date that the debating season will open, with the Capital's negative team meeting the affirmative team of Wittenberg at Springfield on the subject: Resolved, That the convention system of nominations should be substituted for the direct primary, constitutionality granted." Those who will represent Capital on the negative trio are Martin Horn, Theodore Lindner, and Myron Mehl.

The sequel to next Thursday's debate will take place January 20, when the affirmatives of Capital will meet the negatives of Wittenberg in Bexley on the same question. The Capital affirmatives are Earl Metz, Paul Masoner and Harold Moench.

Attorney Henry Williams, teacher of the Men's class of Franklin Park Methodist Episcopal Sunday school, will be the speaker at the Community dinner at the church next Wednesday evening.

NEW YEARS' EVE

With the thermometer taking a sudden catapult of no less than fifty degrees all in the space of a few short hours, celebrators of the New Yea... will not soon forget the dentist of old 1927. Beginning with a drizzling rain in the early morning, housewives did their marketing for the extra long week-end, and apathetic motorists stood in line under umbrellas hoping to get their new licenses before the opportunity was gone.

Around noon the weatherman provided an hour or so of crisp winter freshness that dried up the puddles and reminded us of what December weather should be. But the mercury just wouldn't stand still, and down it went, bring with it a fine sifting whiteness out of the skies.

North Side homes were filled with celebrators, where bridge or dancing was in progress. Scores went to the theatre or to the special parties at club and downtown hotels. Filling stations did a rushing business in alcohol. Hosts at private parties shoveled in the coal so that the house would be comfortable in spite of frigid blasts that swept in with each late comer.

And then, after an evening of merriment when the New Year was appropriately greeted, the merrymakers started forth bundled in fur coats, galoshes, mufflers and caps. A rush to the cars only to find that the engine just wouldn't start. Teakettles were brought into action. The few fortunate ones pushed dead motors for a few blocks while accellerators coaxed. Taxi cabs were taxed to the utmost to care for the crowd. Street cars were packed to the doors. Garage men did a rushing business.

It was a memorable greeting for 1928.

VILLAGE FATHERS REORGANIZE AND OPEN YEAR'S WORK

Pass Appropriation Ordinance For 1928; Approve Mayor's Reappointments

RE-ELECT WHEATON AS PRESIDENT

With the swearing in of all Bexley officials, the reorganization of council, and the passage, by that body of the annual appropriation ordinance, the stage was set Tuesday evening by the village fathers for another year.

Preceding the meeting of council council members and other officials took the oath of office, administered by Justice A. C. Kuhn. At the council table, the first business following the call to order by Mayor Stephen F. Ludwig, was the reelection of R. S. Wheaton as president of the group.

The appropriation ordinance was passed with the following sums designated in the various funds: $13,188 in the general fund for salaries and general expenses; $66,000 in the service fund for use in street repairing street lighting, sewer and sidewalk construction, etc.; $28,150 in the safety fund for fire and police protection traffic lights, and maintenance of the police department; $39,044 in the water fund for water supply and maintenance of the water department; $8,500 from motor vehicle licenses, and $6,500 from gasoline tax in the fund for street maintenance; and $525,000 in the sinking fund for interest and retirement of bonds.

Ordinances were passed, also, for the issuing of bonds for the improvement of the following streets: Grandon avenue from Main street to Livingston avenue; Dawson avenue from Maryland avenue to Ruhl avenue, and from Caroline avenue to Delmar drive; Drexel avenue from Caroline avenue to Delmar drive; Maryland avenue from Drexel avenue to Cassady avenue; and Sherwood road from Drexel avenue to Remington road.

A resolution was approved to offer $58,300 worth of bonds to the retirement board of the State Teachers' Retirement system.

Provided delivery can be made by February 1, two new Fords are to be provided for the police department.

STATE INSPECTOR CALLS BEXLEY HI "ONE OF THE BEST"

Sites New Junior High Building Model To Be Followed By Other Schools

"One of the best in the state," was the term which was applied to the Bexley high school by George Morris, state inspector of high schools, in an address before the senior high school student body last Friday following a two-day inspection of it and the junior high school in the village.

The teaching force, the qualifications for teachers which the Bexley schools insist upon having fulfilled, the fine spirit and cooperation between teachers and students, and the attitude of the students were factors with which Inspector Morris expressed himself very well pleased.

He was highly enthusiastic, according to Superintendent Dieterich, over the new junior high school building and declared that school officials with building plans under consideration, who ask him to recommend model building for them to visit, will be referred to the Bexley.

In the regular chapel exercises of the students on Monday, an address was given by Miss Mae Patterson, of Piketon, graduate of Ohio Wesleyan university, Smith college, and an extensive traveler. Miss Patterson spoke on "Transportation," giving various methods used in the many foreign countries which she has visited.

IS ASSISTING AT U. B. EVANGELISTIC SERVICES

REV. MR. CHARLES A. YORK

Rev. Mr. Charles A. York is in the city to assist Rev. Mr. A. B. Cox, pastor of Washington Avenue United Brethren church, with the Evangelistic services being conducted by the church during the month of January.

The sermons, except during the first week, were delivered by guest speakers, are being given by the pastor. But Rev. Mr. York, who comes from Indiana, and who is an Evangelistic singer and young people's worker, has charge of the music. A chorus of 40 voices sings at the services regularly under his direction. Special solos are given frequently by Rev. Mr. York.

An hour's concert was given this week by Rev. Mr. York over the radio when he broadcasted from station WAIU, under the auspices of the Pocket Testament league.

The Evangelistic services at the Washington Avenue United Brethren church have created great interest and have been given good attendance, according to Rev. Mr. Cox.

The Capital University Culture club announces a change in its scheduled program for the 1927-1928 season. The lecture to have been given on Thursday, January 12th by Norman Thomas, head of the League for Industrial Democracy was cancelled.

In Mr. Thomas' place, Syud Hossian, a brilliant Oriental orator has been secured, and he will appear at the Lutheran school on February 16. Mr. Hossain has won an international reputation for his knowledge of the political, economical, and cultural relations between the East and West.

On Wednesday he attended a meeting in New York City of the American Association of Colleges, of which he is past president. After attending the Conference of the National Lutheran Educational Association at Atlantic City on Thursday, he returned to Pittsburgh on Friday to attend a Mass Meeting of Luther Leagues at the Pittsburgh Y. On Sunday evening Dr. Manikam will address the congregation of Christ Lutheran church on the subject, "The Real Mother India."

HEIDELBERG TO MEET CAPITAL HERE SATURDAY

Lutherans Make Poor Showing In First Week Of Play; Defense is Weak

EXPECT STIFF FIGHT

The first Ohio Conference foe to invade the Capital University camp will be the team from Heidelberg arriving for a court battle Saturday evening. Last year the Reformed quintet defeated the Lutherans at Tiffin by a score of 38 to 30. It is expected that the Lutherans, weak on defense, will be hard put to it in the fracas with the Tiffinites who have a strong basketball outfit.

The first week of cage competition for Capital found the basketball squad failing to hit its usual stride.

After losing a ragged court battle to Bowling Green by a score of 41 to 24, the Lutherans journeyed to Ada to play Ohio Northern. Again they met with a reverse in the 36 to 32 vanquishing dealt by the Polar Bears. With three minutes left to play, Capital led 26 to 22, only to crack defensively.

The defense of the Lutherans seems to be the main shortcoming with which Coach Katherman has to contend. Haub and Kauber, forwards, have functioned well in both encounters, outscoring their opponents in each instance. What Capital lacks is a center with bucket-shooting ability, and a guard adept at handling the ball. Thus far Captain Sheatsley, as running guard, has been bearing the brunt of the attacks. If Katherman can develop a good center and guard out of the material on hand, there will be a chance for the Lutherans to complete a successful season.

EAST SIDERS WIN IN PUBLIC DEBATE OF Y. LAW SCHOOL

Argue Merits of Appointive And Elective System In Ohio Supreme Court

NEGATIVES GET DECISION

Members of the winning team in the first public debate conducted by the recently organized debating societies of the Columbus Y. M. C. A. College of Law, at the last regular "Activities Hour" were H. E. Gingher, 526 Kelton Ave.; Miss Margaret Koss, 598 Berkeley Ave., and Elmer Dornbierer, 1784 Bryden Rd. Judges were unanimously agreed on giving the decision to this negative team.

Six representatives of the three debating societies, participated in this first public debate whose subject relating to the desirability of the present system of appointing members of the Supreme Court of Ohio over their choice by election, which had been debated previously in the separate meetings of the societies.

These debating societies are a part of the organized activities program at the Columbus Y. M. C. A. Schools formulated by Charles M. Roudebush, director of the schools. This Y. law school is the only evening law college in the state to organize its extra curricular activities and to give credit for meritorious participation.

After he formally announced the subject of this first public debate, Dean Charles R. Frankham stated that two similar open debates would be staged by these debating societies this year.

All future members of these debating societies are to be elected by present members from students who demonstrate a particular liking and aptitude for legal debating.

Several members of these debating societies are also taking special work in public speaking given in the commerce school on Tuesday and Thursday evenings. Opined by a majority of the audience as the most effective speaker on the program, Dornbrierer reflected particular credit on Arthur H. Kuhlman, under whom he had taken debating while an undergraduate at Capital University. Kuhlman is also an instructor in practical speaking to the Y. commerce school classes.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Dickson, 1831 Bryden road, left Thursday for some time in St. Petersburg, Fla.

CHOIR WILL COME FROM DAYTON FOR HALL DEDICATION

Dedication of the new auditorium of the Capital university conservatory of music is to take place February 14 and will be a concert by the Dayton Westminster choir, directed by John Finley Williamson.

The concert will come on the heels of an extensive tour by the choir through Indiana, Illinois, Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas, and Louisiana. The Westminster choir is regarded as one of the finest of present day choirs and is ranked with St. Olaf's Lutheran choir of Northfield, Minn.

DELAWARE TILT WILL DEDICATE JUNIOR HIGH GYM

Girls Meet Bliss In Preliminary Dedicatory Program Is Planned

LICHTENBERG WILL TALK

By "Bud" Lanfer

The Bexley basketeers will take on their first strong opponents, Friday evening, when they meet the Delaware quintet on the new Junior High school floor. The game will dedicate the new gymnasium, at which all of Bexley's important games will be played hereafter.

Mr. Frits A. Lichtenberg, newly elected president of the board of education, will deliver a dedicatory address and a physical education class of junior high school girls will give an exhibition of classwork under the supervision of Miss Dorothy Gill, instructor. The Bexley high school band will furnish the music.

Bexley will be represented by a much improved aggregation, according to reports from the Bexley camp. Coach Smith has been able to devote his entire time, in the past two weeks to the squad's team work as a whole and the result has been the rounding of the team into excellent shape.

A splendid offensive was displayed in the defeat administered to Groveport, 27 to 11, last Friday. The goal shooting of Jack Ross, who held down the center position in the Groveport game, was a material improvement in the team. Although he missed practically every lump, his offensive work was exceptional. He was high scorer of the evening, with five baskets and one foul for a total of 11 points.

The probable lineup is the same for the Delaware game. However, Dave Davis may get a chance at the back guard position sometime during the contest.

In a preliminary tilt, the Bexley girls will do battle with a team from Bliss college. The same lineup which faced Groveport also will enter the Bliss game. The lineup is as follows: Singer and Reed at forward; D. Klingbeil and Ludwig at center; and K. Klingbeil and Manly at guard.

The girls' passing has improved decidedly, as evidenced in their victory over the Groveport girls by a 23 to 20 score, last week.

"JOHN" AND "PAUL" WILL GET REPLY THAT IS LOUDEST

One fifth of the men students at Capital university answer to the name of John or Paul.

These two names hold the record as far as given names on the Capital campus are concerned. William, Carl, and Frederick are next in the order named and the three comprise practically the same total as those answering to John and Paul. Harold comes next.

Among the co-eds, Mary and Martha hold sway, with Helen and Dorothy next on the list.

When it comes to surnames, Miller seems to be the most popular, with Hax, Weiss and Wolf, following. Most of the names show a strong German tendency, probably due to the fact that the consistency of the Joint Lutherans Synod of Ohio, of which Capital is the chief Educational Institution, is of German ancestry.

Are New Officers Of Co-operative Club

Joe E. Cross, 432 Linwood avenue, is the new president of the Co-operative club. Among those elected to office for the year in the club were also, H. W. Emswiler, 187 Remington road, vice-president; and H. E. Lutz, 510 Taylor avenue, treasurer.

EAST TASTES OF DEFEAT AGAIN AT HANDS OF WEST

Easterners Tire In Last Period And Lose Second City League Game

CENTRAL IS UP NEXT

By Jack Keller

After outplaying West high's quintet for three quarters, East's basket shooters faltered long enough to allow the Cowboy forwards to garner enough points to grasp a 26-20 victory Tuesday evening. This was East's second appearance on the court in a City League battle.

Never letting up for a moment in their flashy ball tossing in the first three quarters of the game, East held West to a tie at the opening of the fourth. But in the last half of the final quarter, four balls arched up and into the bucket from the hands of West forwards, and these won the game.

A jinx has fallen on East's quintet. All games have been lost by a very small margin of points. This must be remedied before the next game or grave disasters may result.

Paul Cohen played a mighty fine, clean game through the entire tilt. Burke also is to be commended for his showing. The cool, unexcitable Munster played his usual star game at right guard. Hamilton, Hobson and Moore did their share of fighting and ball tossing through the melee.

East's next foe is Central and this contest is to take place January 20.

MUST DO REPAIR WORK OR EXPECT LAW PROCEEDINGS

Village Advises Traction Co. To Remedy Conditions In East Main

THREAT TO TEST RIGHT TO OPERATE

The threat to bring legal action to test the rights of the Southern Ohio Public Service company in using the streets of Bexley for their tracks, unless the company takes immediate steps to improve the street between and adjacent to its tracks in East Main street, is contained in a letter sent to the company by Village Solicitor Harley E. Peters, by the instruction of the village council.

In his communication to the company, Mr. Peters pointed out that previous requests of the village for the making of these improvements had been answered with the assurance that the matter was being called to the attention of the operating department, but that there had been no visible results.

The company was informed that several minor accidents already had occurred and that the village felt that it could not let such conditions continue.

Mr. Peters reported to council members this week that no answer had been received from the Southern Ohio Public Service company up to this time.

The body of the letter to the company follows:

"I have written upon two occasions calling attention to the dangerous condition of your tracks on East Main street in the village of Bexley, and in answer to each letter you have stated that you are calling the matter to the attention of your operating department. I am informed by the village council that no work has been done to remedy the situation. Several minor accidents have already happened, and the village does not feel that it can permit such conditions to continue.

"You have been operating for a number of years without a franchise, and council does not feel disposed to grant a new franchise to your company if it insists upon maintaining such dangerous conditions within the village. On the contrary, we will feel constrained to bring legal action to test your rights to the use of the streets of the village unless these conditions are remedied at once."

WILL INSTALL PASTOR SUNDAY

DR. JOHN L. TAIT

Rev. Dr. John L. Tait, who has been pastor-elect of the Bexley Presbyterian church for several months, will be formally installed in that position at special installation services at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon in the auditorium of the Bexley senior high school where the congregation holds its regular services.

Dr. William Oxley Thompson, president emeritus of Ohio State university, will deliver the sermon and there will be special music by Mrs. H. C. Lord. The installation will be conducted by Rev. Dr. Frank H. Throop moderator of the presbytery of Columbus.

The "Charge to the Pastor," will be given by Dr. W. A. Perrin, representative of the Ohio Presbyterian homes, and the "Charge to the People," will be given by Rev. Mr. A. H. Limouse, pastor of Northminster Presbyterian church.

"FROZEN CAMPFIRE" IS MEETING TOPIC OF GIRL RESERVES

Members of the Bexley Girl Reserves met Wednesday evening after school for a "Frozen Campfire" program in the senior high school auditorium. Ruth Mees gave an introduction to the meeting by reciting a poem, "Foreign Lands." Stories of winter campfires were told by Miss Selma Hamman and Miss Ruth C. Geist, who took their material from their own travel experiences. The program closed with the recitation of "America For Me", by Norma Ijams.

LEAP YEAR RULES WILL BE IN VOGUE AT SENIOR-JUNIOR

The girls of the upper classes of the Bexley High school will make their own dates, provide transportation, and assume the responsibilities of giving their escorts an enjoyable evening when the Senior-Junior party is held in the senior high school auditorium February 10, for the party is to be a Leap Year affair.

Only members of the senior classes and the faculty will be invited to the party which is the annual social function provided by the seniors for the juniors. More than 100 are expected to attend.

Committees to have charge of arrangements were appointed this week by Charles Tracy, president of the senior class. They are: decoration, Dorothy Kelley, chairman, Helen Wildermuth, and Catherine Singer; refreshment, Stewart Hirsch, chairman, William Diehl, and Arch Houzie; amusement, Jane Roderick, chairman, Eleanor Ludwig, and Dorothy Gockenbach.

Brothers Are Injured In Auto Accident

Devon Wilson, 1799 East Main street, and his brother, Virgil, were recovering this week from an automobile accident which occurred Sunday afternoon about three miles east of Bexley on the national road, and in which both young men received bruises.

The car in which they were riding hit a telephone pole, causing considerable damage to the car and giving them and a young woman who was with them, bruises and a severe shaking up. None of the injuries are said to be serious.

White Cross Guild, No. 8, of the Oakwood Methodist Episcopal church, will give a roast pork dinner in the dining rooms of the church, Thursday, January 19, from 6:30 o'clock to 7 o'clock.

CONGREGATION APPROVES PLAN FOR ADDITION

Personnel of Standing Committee Announced At Annual Meeting

TO START BUILDING SOON

Building operations are to be started at an early date for the $40,000 addition to the present church home of the Wilson Avenue Reformed church at the corner of Wilson Avenue and Fair avenue, as a result of the approval by the congregation of plans submitted by the building committee at the annual congregational meeting Wednesday evening.

It is expected that the new unit will be ready for dedication by September 1, according to Mr. Clarence Woods, pastor. The plans are for an auditorium to have a seating capacity of 400 persons adjoining the present building. With the completion of the new unit, the present building will be converted into the educational unit of the church. The basement beneath the new portion will connect with the basement to provide social rooms.

About half of the estimated cost of the new structure has been raised within the church membership, the remainder having been a gift from the churches in three synods, contributed on the church's annual home mission day in November.

Members of the building committee are E. V. Barr, chairman; J. W. Weaver, secretary; and C. G. McBride, treasurer; Dr. Clifton Reedy, W. H. Wetherby, C. O. Fravel, W. S. Sunkle, F. P. Zinn, Alvin Furry, L. J. Wheaton, and Charles Rau.

Other business, aside from the approval of the building plans, which was taken up at the congregational meeting, included the appointment of standing committees of the church for the year. These were announced by

PUPILS BANK $526 FIRSTDAY SAVINGS SYSTEM IS BEGUN

Pennies And Twenty-dollar Gold Pieces Are Deposited In Accounts

Practical lessons in thrift were instituted in the grades and junior high school of Bexley this week when the school savings system was inaugurated with the first bank day on Tuesday.

Nearly all of the pupils took part in the activities of banking and practically all of them were prouder of their bank books with the figures of their deposit entered within, than of any Christmas present that Santa Claus left in their stockings.

The money came in all denominations from pennies to twenty dollar gold pieces. A total of $526.54 was banked.

Six rooms in the two buildings, — four at the East Main street grade building, and two in the Junior High school building, — averaged 95 per cent or higher.

Miss Ioth Baldwin's room of junior high school students was the only one with an average of 100 per cent, signifying that each child registered in the room had deposited savings.

Those averaging 95 percent or more were: Mr. H. H. Hutchinson's room in the junior high school, 96.2 per cent; Miss Martha Smith's second grade at East Main Street school, 96 per cent; Miss Eugenie Hummel's fourth and fifth grade room at East Main street, 96 per cent; Miss Mary McLee's fifth grade at East Main street, 96 per cent; and Miss Della Kyle's sixth grade at East Main street, 95 per cent.

Seminary Students To Hear Rev. Mr. Pertner

Rev. Mr. Louis Pertner, of Detroit, will speak to the Seminary Students association of Capital university, on Tuesday evening, January 17th, on the subject, "Present Day Music and Problems in Home Mission Work." This will be the third number of the series of lectures which the organization has arranged for the school year, on subjects of practical interest to theological students. Edward Ferolt, of Michigan City, Indiana, is president of the association.

RESPONSIBILITIES OF FREEDOM

We do a great deal of talking about freedom and personal liberty. Most of it is prattle.

The other day a famous statesman outlined the problems that confront our country in the new year. At the top of the list was "lawlessness." It is a great pity that we whose forefathers endowed with political and personal liberty unknown before in any country, should so far forget the responsibilities of that liberty. None of us has the right to so great a liberty that it interferes with any other man's liberty.

If here were two persons on an otherwise deserted island, the liberty and freedom of each would necessarily be limitd by the presence of the other. In any community, individual liberty is, likewise, limited by every other individual there.

Lawlessness in our country is an abuse of our freedom. It is an indifference to the responsibilities of freedom. It is an utter disregard of the rights of our neighbors. It is the substitution of license for liberty. It is breaking down our social structure.

Men and women, alike, in war time, threw themselves into the struggle with tremendous zeal. They labored untiringly to save America. Millions were subscribed by our business men. Long hours of work were given with $1 a year as the sole monetary reward for the most intensive service.

Now that we are menaced at home, a like devotion and a like labor are needed if life is to be at all worth living. Real patriotism is sincere service for the good of our country, which means service to fellow citizens more than to ourselves.

It is the duty of every one to know the extent of the law's violations now, and the pernicious effects, and to give every ounce of energy to help save America from herself.

It came---so did 1928

Your first occasion this winter to really "fire up" came with 1928. Did your grate melt or the shaker go bad? We will promptly make any kind of furnace repairs or even sell you a new furnace.

and Street Commissioner David Shadrack. The purchase of the cars was authorized with the reservation on time of delivery.

The matter of creating a new business district in Cassady avenue between the railroad and Caroline Avenue, which has been under consideration and investigation for some time, was brought up for discussion. A recommendation establishing the west side of the street for business; was referred again to the zoning board with a request for an amendment concerning the east side of the street.

A petition was presented from business men in the 2500 block in East Main street, asking that head-in parking be allowed in front of the business establishments there, where parking is now required to parallel the curb. In a discussion of this project, council members expressed themselves averse to granting the petition on the grounds that head-in parking would be a menace to public safety because it would force eastbound traffic into that portion of the street adjoining and between the interurban car tracks, where, they pointed out, repairs by the traction company are badly needed.

Standing committees in 1928 will have the same personnel as in 1927 as a result of the appointments made by Mayor Ludwig. The slate of appointive offices will remain the same, also.

Miss Bergman is Bride

Before a floral altar at the end of an aisle made by gold pillars and yellow satin ribbons, in the east end of the ballroom at the Neil House, marriage vows were exchanged at 8:30 o'clock Monday evening, by Miss Veleria Bergman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick W. Bergman, of the Neil House, and Mr. Burns Maynard Barker, son of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Barker, 1845 Franklin Park South.

Palms and ferns formed a background for the altar and tall wicker vases of snapdragons and gypsophila gave the setting color. The bride wore conventional white with a tulle veil. Her attendants were Mrs. Todd F. Cartwright, sister of the bridegroom; Mrs. Alban A. Ahn (Rhea McCarty); and Miss Louise Bergman sister of the bride. Their dresses were made similarly of chiffon with petalled skirts shorter in front than in the back. Mrs. Cartwright wore orchid; Mrs. Ahn, blue over pink; and Miss Bergman, pink.

Shirley Cartwright, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Todd F. Cartwright, was a pretty little flower girl in a dainty frock of blue voile, trimmed with real lace. She carried a basket of assorted flowers.

Mr. Frederick F. Barker, was best man and the ushers were Dr. Alban A. Ahn, and Mr. Todd F. Cartwright. The officiating ministers were Dr. Joseph A. Vance, of Detroit, and Dr. S. S. Palmer, of Broad Street Presbyterian church.

Following the ceremony, a wedding dinner was served to 210 guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Barker will make their home in Portsmouth, Va., where Mr. Barker will manage a new hotel.

English-Dupuis Wedding

A half hour's organ recital by Mrs. James F. Glenn will precede the marriage ceremony at noon Saturday in the First Methodist Episcopal church, when Miss Marian Rose Dupuis, of Savannah, Ill., becomes the bride of Mr. Walter English, son of Mrs. Ada L. English, 1227 Bryden road. A group of songs including "All For You," "O Promise Me," and "At Dawning" will be sung by Mr. Thomas G. Constable.

For the ceremony the altar will be decked with Southern smilax, palms and baskets of pale pink roses and lilies, and will be lighted by three seven-branch candelabras. The service will be read by Rev. Dr. Thomas Crawford and the couple will be unattended.

Acting as ushers will be Mr. Jack Emerson, of Detroit, Mich., a cousin of the bridegroom-elect; Mr. Henry H. Metters, Mr. Thomas H. Metters, Mr. Harold Platter, and Mr. J. Morton Bobb, jr.

Miss Dupuis will wear a chiffon gown of violet blue, made with long sleeves and uneven hemline and will carry sweetheart roses, lilies-of-the-valley and forgetmenots.

A wedding breakfast will be served at the Maramor immediately following the ceremony, when seated with the bride and bridegroom will be 23 close friends and relatives. After the wedding breakfast the couple will leave for two weeks in New York and upon their return will be at home at 1227 Bryden road.

Both Miss Dupuis and Mr. English are graduates of Ohio State university where the former was a member of Delta Delta Delta sorority and Mr. English belonged to Beta Gamma Sigman and Alpha Kappa Psi, honorary commerce fraternity.

Miss Court Weds

Only close friends and members of the immediate families were present at 8 o'clock Tuesday morning in Holy Rosary chapel at the marriage of Miss Loretta Court, daughter of Mrs. Nicholas A. Court, 1341 Bryden road, and Mr. James E. Scanlon, of Somerset.

Baskets of snap dragons were used to dress the altar for the service which was read by Rev. Father J. J. Murphy. The couple was attended by Miss Grace Court, sister of the bride, as maid of honor, and by Mr. Anthony Scanlon, brother of the bridegroom, as best man.

Sets Wedding Date

Wednesday, February 8, is the day chosen by Miss Louise Binder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert K. Binder, 540 Reinhard avenue, for her marriage to Mr. Edward E. Looker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Looker, 714 Kelton avenue. The ceremony will be solemnized at the home of the bride-elect's parents.

For her only attendant Miss Binder has chosen Miss Isabel Maloney, and Mr. Looker's best man will be Mr. E. Eugene Eicher.

MOTION PICTURES OF BIBLE HISTORY TO BE PRESENTED

LUTHER LEAGUE SPONSORS FILMS

A series of motion pictures on religious themes is to be shown in the new auditorium of the conservatory of music on the Capital campus for six consecutive Sunday evenings beginning Sunday, January 22, under the auspices of the Luther League of Christ Lutheran church. No admission is to be charged and the public has been invited to attend.

The first film consisting of six reels is entitled "Jesus of Nazareth." This is a new sacred film portraying all the chief events in the life of the Man of Galilee. Those who have seen it have termed it a massive production unfolding the events of His life and portraying them so clearly and plainly that the smallest child will understand the story and its message.

Is Historical Spectacle

The second in the series, also a six reel film, called "The Fall of Jerusalem" will be presented on the evening of January 29. This is an historical spectacle of great significance. Thousands of soldiers under Nebuchadnezzar, capture Jerusalem because the King and his people ignored the righteous counsels of Jeremiah. This marks the beginning of the exile of the Chosen People who have never regained the promised land. The characterization of Jeremiah, the great Statesman is authenic and has been declared of great value to all students of the Bible and ancient history.

Coming on February 5, the third number will take the form of a slide lecture on the great Passion drama, Oberammagau. No films ever have been made of this great performance so slides will be used instead of motion pictures for this number in the series.

Commended By Pastor

On February 12 the subject of the six reel film is "The Stream of Life." This picture has been highly commended by Dr. C. V. Sheatsley, pastor of Lutheran church. It is a drama of spiritual self-recovery. Philip Maynard, a child of Christian parents, forgets God when he goes to the city and becomes engulfed in business, until sorrow causes him to think once more of his God. Philip's wife wanders into a little church and finds consolation for her sorrow; and later, Philip, in a lonely night virgil, has a vision and experiences the gentle presence of the Great Comforter. This picture is said to have led thousands to Christ.

"The Least of These" is the title of the fifth picture. It portrays the story of a man of great wealth who used that wealth only for his self-gratification, until God showed him that he could and should minister to Him by ministering to his fellowmen. This will be shown February 19.

Cast of 10,000 Persons

The last of the series comes on February 26. It is a seven reel film entitled "The Birth of a Race." It has been called a magnificant masterpiece of Biblical history. Two years were required to make the picture which contains a cast of 10,000 people. To show the elements entering into the making of the "Great American race" it shows salient points from the creation and the time of Moses and the Life of Christ to the time of Washington and Lincoln.

All the six Sunday evenings during the pictures are run there will be no evening service at Christ church. The showing of these pictures will take place at the usual time of evening service, 7:30.

BEXLEY IS SLATED TO WIN SATURDAY AT WESTERVILLE

Villagers Took Defeat Last Week From Delaware; Girls Beat Bliss

BOTH TEAMS PLAY WESTERVILLE

By "Bud" Leaffer

The Bexley basketeers make their first out-of-town trip tomorrow evening when they travel to Westerville, for two games with the Westerville quintets. Both the boys' and girls' teams will play, and a large part of the student body is expected to follow the team.

The same team which put up such a splendid fight against Delaware last Friday will represent Bexley at Westerville. Ross at center has added considerably to the strength of the offensive, and will start at that position again tomorrow night. Elder and Kilbourne will again be at the forward posts, and Hirsch and Woodward will hold down the guard positions.

Although the boys bowed in defeat to Delaware, their teamwork was excellent, and the co-operation and team spirit was the best seen on the Bexley gym this year. They should pull down a win at Westerville.

The girls team will probably be the same as last week also. The shifting of Dorothy Klingbeil from forward to center seems to have strengthened the team considerably. Her vacancy at the forward position is being filled by Katharine Singer who gave a good account of herself against Bliss College last Friday. Miss Singer was responsible for 12 of the 30 points which Bexley rung up in defeating Bliss.

Laura Reed will be at the other forward, and Eleanor Ludwig will fill the other center position again. "Zitz" Manly and Katherine Klingbeil will no doubt be at the guard positions again.

Mrs. Glenn Will Give Organ Recital

Mrs. Leila Brown Glenn, instructor in organ at Capital university conservatory of music, will give an organ recital at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon, at the First Methodist Episcopal church at Bryden road and Eighteenth street.

The recital is being given under the auspices of the Women's Music Club. The most outstanding number on the program will be the "Storm King Symphony," by Dickinson, which reflects the varying moods of the Storm King mountain which guards the highlands of the Hudson.

Among the lighter selections which Mrs. Glenn will play, will be "The Music Box," "The Funeral March of the Marionette," and "Dainty Cradle Song." The program will close with Wagner's "Overture from Tannhauser."

OTTERBEIN WINS FROM LUTHERANS BY 40-29 COUNT

Capital Cagers Lose Fifth Game This Season To Team From Westerville

HAUB SCORES 17 OF 29

Capital university bowed her head in defeat on the basketball court for the fifth time in as many tries Wednesday evening. The event marked the renewal of athletic relations with Otterbein College, following a rift of six years.

It also was the fifth time in twenty years that the Westerville school has managed to cop the honors, the Bexley institution winning the remainder of the nineteen games played.

Visitors Take Lead

Otterbein opened the game with a rush, taking the lead to a 8-1 count. Capital took time out to gain inspiration. The result was a deluge of sensational shots, Kauber and Haub each contributing as pretty a pair of fielders as have ever been caged on the Lutheran court.

With Capital in the lead at 9-8, Otterbein took time out to stop the onrush, and the ruse succeeded. Kauber was guarded closely, aided by a couple of charities. In the meanwhile Otterbein started things working again, Buell and Seamon each going big to bring the court to 24-15 in favor of the U. B. quintet at the end of the half.

Use Otterbein Subs

The second half found Coach Sears of Otterbein using his subs to start. Taking advantage of the opportunity, the Lutherans ran the score to 25-25. Immediately, the Otterbein mentor sent in his first string.

The freshened regulars began to ride roughshod over the dispirited home team and ran the score to 40-27 just before the end of the game. Haub ended the scoring of the fray by sinking a neat fielder just as the gun cracked to bring the final score to 40-29.

Haub Is High Scorer

For the visitors, Capt. Buell and Seamon were the cause of the Lutherans downfall. For Capital, Haub manufactured the points, altho weak on defense. Nicol, starting his first game, played exceptional basketball for a newcomer.

The lineup:

Otterbein—40—Barnes, rf.; Regal, rf.; Gibson, lf.; Seitz, lf.; Seamon, c.; Saul, c.; Buell (C), rg.; Miley, lg.; Fowler, lg.

Capital—29—Haub, rf.; Kauber, lf.; Sheatsley (C), c-lg.; Kershbaum c.; Dill, rg.; Nicol, lg.

Referee—Mr. Pfeiffer, of Denison.

Stranger In City Wrecks Own Automobile

What was a mysterious automobile wreck which left a pile of junk which had once been a car, at the corner of Parkview avenue and East Broad street Tuesday morning, was solved when Robert Epley, of Pickerton, returned to his home later in the day without his automobile.

Giving the cause of the accident as his unfamiliarity with Columbus and Bexley, Epley said he drove his car to a collision with the automobile of F. F. Fisher at the intersection. Epley's machine was turned over three times by the impact, he said, and as a result had to be sold for junk. No one was injured in the accident, and Epley said he and his companion repaired the damage to Fisher's car by replacing a broken wheel with an undamaged one from Epley's car.

EAST PREPARES TO MAKE GAME WITH CENTRAL GOOD ONE

Expect To Put Down Jinx That Has Followed Season's Play Thus Far

PROBABLE LINEUP IS SAME

It will be a back-up game from the standpoint of the spectators, for word from East's camp announces that East is ready to do battle and expects to put down the jinx that has camped on its trail thus far in the season.

LUTHERAN CHORAL SOCIETY TO SING WITH SYMPHONY

The Lutheran Choral society, composed of 150 voices from Lutheran choirs in Columbus and the vicinity, will appear in concert with the Columbus Symphony orchestra at Memorial hall at 3 o'clock, Sunday, January 29.

Mendelssohn's "Ninety-fifth Psalm", is to be sung by the society. Ellis E. Snyder, of the Capital university conservatory of music, is the director of the chorus, and the soloists who appear with it are Miss Thelma Reese and Miss Alice Laughridge, sopranos, and Mr. Aaron Burnell, tenor.

A number of the members of the group are from Circleville, Grove City, Westerville, Gahanna, and Valley Crossing. They come to Columbus each week for the rehearsals of the society.

The Lutheran Women's Sewing league has charge of the ticket sale for the concert by the society and the Columbus Symphony orchestra. No seats will be reserved. The net proceeds of the concert are to be used for the Lutheran Evangelistic center to maintain its activities.

Mrs. Charles Baab, 1822 Bryden road, is president of the Lutheran Women's Sewing league.

A "Coin Bag Party" will be held by the Ladies' Aid society of the Oakwood Methodist Episcopal church on Thursday afternoon, January 26, in the church parlors. The coin bags have been in the hands of the members of the society during the past year, having been remembered on holidays and birthdays. All the women of the church have been invited to attend the party. The program will consist of a coin bag parade, headed by Mrs. W. R. Jones, vice-president, and Mrs. G. W. Ebright, secretary, carrying the national and christian flags; and a social hour with music and readings. Those in charge are: Mrs. Samuel Hagans, president and general secretary; Mrs. Clyde E. Ray, program chairman; and Mrs. S. E. Umstot, chairman of the refreshment committee.

The Brotherhood of Grace Lutheran church, had a buffet supper and entertainment in the church parlors Wednesday evening.

CONSERVATORY TO BEAR NAME OF DR. MEES BOARD RULES

Annual Contest Of Ohio College Glee Clubs Will Be Held Here

OTHER BUILDINGS TO BE NAMED

Mees hall is the name by which the new music auditorium at Capital university is to be known, as the result of action taken by the university board of trustees to go honor Dr. Otto Mees, president of the institution and under whose regime the school has shown such growth and progress.

The conservatory of music which was erected at a cost of $250,000 is said to be one of the finest in the country. It is to be used instead of Memorial hall this year for the annual contest of the Ohio Association of College Glee clubs which will take place February 25. The cup which is the highest award was presented last year to Ohio Wesleyan university.

Capital Club Concert

In Mees Hall on February 9, the Capital university Glee club will give its first concert of the year following which it will start, February 19, on a tour of the Mid-west. As a special feature of its programs this season there will be an orchestra composed entirely of club members.

Samuel Loyer is baritone soloist and the quartet will be composed of Ralph Ground, first tenor; Theodore Fricke, second tenor; Elmer Zimmerman, baritone; and Raymond Vogeley, second bass. Wilbur Crist is director.

Lighting and scenic equipment for the stage of the new Mees hall, are to be purchased by the classes of 1925 and 1926. These groups voted recently to spend the balance in their treasuries for this purpose. The funds, totaling about $500, have been placed in the hands of Dr. W. O. Doescher, who will make the purchases.

Receive Name Suggestions

In taking action to designate the conservatory of music as Mees hall, the board of trustees of the university, acted also to give other unnamed buildings on the campus, names that will be appropriate and distinctive.

Many of the buildings already have names given them in honor of a faculty or friend of the institution. Such are Schenk Divinity hall, Loy auditorium, Rudolf Memorial library, and Drexel hall. Among the buildings which thus far have no special name are the recitation hall, the girls' dormitory and the mens' dormitory.

A number of names already have been suggested for these. Eich hall for the girls' dormitory, in honor of Miss Justina Eich who is the first full time dean of women on the Capital faculty, is among the suggestions. University hall has been offered for the mens' dormitory, and Bernlohr Field for the new athletic field, in honor of "Bill" Bernlohr, Capital's greatest athlete.

At its June meeting, the board has announced that it will act on all suggestions submitted.

BUY PICTURES FOR SCHOOL WITH FUNDS FROM EXHIBITION

Eleven pictures have taken their places on the walls of the corridor and recess of the new junior high school in Cassingham road. They were purchased with proceeds from the art exhibition held in the fall under the auspices of the Bexley schools.

Two of the eleven have been hung in the corridor. These are Watt's "Galahad," and Willard's "Spirit of '76."

The pictures which have been hung in the class rooms are: "Pilgrims Going to Church," "Concord Bridge," "The Boyhood of Lincoln," "The Angelus," "The Horse Fair," "Joan of Arc," "The Appeal of the Great Spirit," "The Matinee," and "Wake Up."

Pictures of Rome, illustrative of the life of Caesar, and a talk explaining them, were features of the meeting of the Latin club of Bexley High school which was held Wednesday afternoon after school. A business session also was held at which time the club adopted its first constitution.

The Men's Brotherhood of the Wilson avenue Reformed church held a regular meeting Wednesday in the church.

ST. ALBANS WILL HAVE NEW RECTOR IN CHARGE MCH. 1

Rev. Mr. Donaldson Comes To Take Bexley Rectorship From Chillicothe

IS EX-SERVICE MAN

Rev. Mr. Thomas Donaldson will assume the rectorship of St. Albans of Bexley March 1, it was announced this week. He will come to the East Side village from Chillicothe where, for the past year and a half he has been the rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church.

He will fill the vacancy left by the resignation of Rev. Mr. Harold F. Hohly, who accepted a call to All Saints' church of Portsmouth.

The new rector-elect at St. Albans is an ex-service man and was ordained to the priesthood in 1919. He is a native of Maryland, and formerly was in the employ of the Pennsylvania railroad company, and later was associated in business with the Fidelity Trust company of Baltimore.

As a member of the United States field artillery, he was mobilized in June, 1916, and sent to the Mexican border. Upon his return he became lay-assistant to the Rev. Mr. Hugh Burkhead at Emmanuel church and while there pursued his studies, was ordained to the diaconate in 1918, and placed in charge of the Chapel of the Redemption in Baltimore.

He saw service again for several months in 1918 during the World War, and upon his discharge, completed his theological training at the General Theological seminary and at the summer school in Berkeley.

Following his ordination in 1919 by Bishop Murray, Rev. Mr. Donaldson resumed the rectorship at the Chapel of the Redemption, later answering a call to Christ Church in Easton, Md. From this parish he resigned to accept the work at Chillicothe.

St. Albans of Bexley was organized three years ago with five communicants. At the present time there are approximately 100. Following the resignation and departure of Rev. Mr. Hohly from the rectorship several weeks ago, guest pastors have conducted the services at the church. For the last three weeks, the Very Reverend Mr. Charles E. Byrer, dean of Bexley hall, Gambier, has been in charge.

School Orchestra To Play At Whitehall

The orchestra of the Bexley senior high school will furnish music on Wednesday evening at the presentation of the play, "Mother Mine," at the new Whitehall club house, which is being given by the Women's club of the organization.

The play will be presented both Wednesday and Thursday evenings and is a part of the dedication ceremonies of the new club house, in Jewell road, which was opened January Twelfth.

Semester Ends With Examinations Next Week

Final examination on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday of next week, will mark the close of the semester's work at the Bexley Senior High school. The new semester begins January 30. Few changes are to be made in the schedules and organization for the new semester according to H. C. Dieterick, superintendent.

Change Day of Church Night

The regular church night of the Wilson Avenue Church of Christ has been changed next week from Thursday to Tuesday. Dinner will be served at 6:30 and will be followed by the usual church night program. Rev. Mr. Walter Collins, pastor of the church, will continue the discussion of the history of the Church of Christ.

OFFICER FINDS BABY DESERTED IN BRYDEN ROAD

Two-Year-Old Girl Is Left In Baby Buggy In Front Of St. Ann's

LISPS NAME "CATHERINE"

When little Catherine was put into her baby buggy Wednesday evening and all her clothes piled neatly in a basket beside her, she didn't know that in a little while she would be a homeless little foundling.

And she wouldn't have understood if she had been told, for Catherine is only a wee little girl, between 18 months and two years old, according to the matron at the Franklin County detention home where she eventually spent the night.

She was found in Bryden road in front of St. Ann's home about 5 o'clock Wednesday evening, by Officer W. H. Lowery. And she greeted the officer with a gurgle and a smile as if the whole thing were some delightful joke.

A note pinned to her clothing was addressed to the sisters of St. Ann's home and asked them to take care of the baby for about a year. It was signed "Mother," and stated that the mother of the baby was cruelly treated by her husband and wanted to find a job which she could not do if she had Catherine with her.

At the detention home where she was taken by Officer Lowery, she was in the best of spirits and lisped her first name in somewhat doubtful baby talk. Beyond that, however, she could cast no light on her identity.

Catherine is a colored baby, and it is believed by juvenile court workers that she was deserted before St. Ann's home in the expectation that she would be taken in there and cared for by the sisters in charge.

An investigation has been started by the court to find her parents.

As the Eastern Times goes to press Friday morning, Catherine is to be taken into court to have her case heard, probably to be given a temporary committment to the children's home until the investigation can be made.

DOROTHY KELLEY IS NAMED EDITOR OF B. H. S. ANNUAL

The 1928 year book of the Bexley high school will be edited by Dorothy Kelley. The entire staff for the annual was announced Thursday.

Arch Houstle will be business manager with William Diehl as assistant and Stewart Hirsch as advertising manager.

Open Intra-mural Season At Capital

Intra-mural sports at Capital university officially got under way this week with the first inter-class basketball game. On the Lutheran campus, each class in the school is represented by at least one quintet.

Volley ball also will be started shortly, in which any number of teams may be entered. The intra-mural schedule calls for every student to be a member of some athletic organization. The records show that, with varsity teams included, more than 80 per cent of the men students participate in some athletic activity.

Juvenile Court Work To To Bexley P. T. A.

Members of the Bexley Parent-Teacher association were told of the work of the Franklin County Juvenile Court, by Miss Mabel Foster, of the court staff, at the meeting Wednesday afternoon in the auditorium of the Junior High school in Cassingham road. Baskets of snap dragons were used to dress the altar for the service which was read by Rev. Father J. J. Murphy. The couple was attended by Miss Grace Court, sister of the bride, as maid of honor, and by Mr. Anthony Scanlon, brother of the bridegroom, as best man.

The bride's gown was of shell pink chiffon with which she wore a picture hat of French blue and carried a bouquet of bride's roses, orchids and forgetmenots. The maid of honor wore French blue chiffon and a shell pink hat and carried Columbia roses and forgetmenots.

MOTION PICTURES OF BIBLE HISTORY TO BE PRESENTED

LUTHER LEAGUE SPONSORS FILMS

A series of motion pictures on religious themes is to be shown in the new auditorium of the conservatory of music on the Capital campus for six consecutive Sunday evenings beginning Sunday, January 22, under the auspices of the Luther League of Christ Lutheran church. No admission is to be charged and the public has been invited to attend.

The first film consisting of six reels is entitled "Jesus of Nazareth." This is a new sacred film portraying all the chief events in the life of the Man of Galilee. Those who have seen it have termed it a massive production unfolding the events of His life and portraying them so clearly and plainly that the smallest child will understand the story and its message.

In Historical Spectacle

The second in the series, also a six reel film, called "The Fall of Jerusalem" will be presented on the evening of January 29. This is an historical spectacle of great significance. Thousands of soldiers under Nebuchadnezzar, capture Jerusalem because the King and his people ignored the righteous counsels of Jeremiah. This marks the beginning of the exile of the Chosen People who have never regained the promised land. The characterization of Jeremiah, the great Statesman is authenic and has been declared of great value to all students of the Bible and ancient history.

Coming on February 5, the third number will take the form of a slide lecture on the great Passion drama, Oberammagau. No films ever have been made of this great performance so slides will be used instead of motion pictures for this number in the series.

Commended By Pastor

On February 12 the subject of the six reel film is "The Stream of Life." This picture has been highly commended by Dr. C. V. Sheatsley, pastor of Christ Lutheran church. It is a drama of spiritual self-recovery. Philip Maynard, a child of Christian parents, forgets God when he goes to the city and becomes engulfed in business, until sorrow causes him to think once more of his God. Philip's wife wanders into a little church and finds consolation for her sorrow; and later, Philip, in a lonely night virgil, has a vision and experiences the gentle presence of the Great Comforter. This picture is said to have led thousands to Christ.

"The Least of These" is the title of the fifth picture. It portrays the story of a man of great wealth who used that wealth only for his self-gratification, until God showed him that he could and should minister to Him by ministering to his fellowmen. This will be shown February 19.

Cast of 10,000 Person

The last of the series comes on February 26. It is a seven reel film entitled "The Birth of a Race." It has been called a magnificant masterpiece of Biblical history. Two years were required to make the picture which contains a cast of 10,000 people. To show the elements entering into the making of the "Great American race" it shows salient points from the creation and the time of Moses and the Life of Christ to the time of Washington and Lincoln.

For the six Sunday evenings during these pictures are run there will be no evening service at Christ church. The showing of these pictures will take place at the usual time of evening service, 7:30.

BEXLEY IS SLATED TO WIN SATURDAY AT WESTERVILLE

BOTH TEAMS PLAY WESTERVILLE

By "Bud" Lauffer

The Bexley basketeers make their first out-of-town trip tomorrow evening when they travel to Westerville, for two games with the Westerville quintets. Both the boys' and girls' teams will play, and a large part of the student body is expected to follow the team.

The same team which put up such a splendid fight against Delaware last Friday will represent Bexley at Westerville. Ross at center has added considerably to the strength of the offensive, and will start at that position again tomorrow night. Elder and Kilbourne will again be at the forward posts, and Hirsch and Woodward will hold down the guard positions.

Although the boys bowed in defeat to Delaware, their teamwork was excellent, and the co-operation and team spirit was the best seen on the Bexley gym this year. They should pull down a win at Westerville.

The girls team will probably be the same as last week also. The shifting of Dorothy Klingbeil from forward to center seems to have strengthened the team considerably. Her vacancy at the forward position is being filled by Katherine Singer who gave a good account of herself against Bliss College last Friday. Miss Singer was responsible for 18 of the 30 points which Bexley rung up in defeating Bliss.

Laura Reed will be at the other forward, and Eleanor Ludwig will fill the other center position again. "Zits" Manly and Katherine Klingbeil will no doubt be at the guard positions again.

Mrs. Glenn Will Give Organ Recital

Mrs. Leila Brown Glenn, instructor in organ at Capital university conservatory of music, will give an organ recital at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon, at the First Methodist Episcopal church at Bryden road and Eighteenth street.

The recital is being given under the auspices of the Women's Music Club. The most outstanding number on the program will be the "Storm King Symphony," by Dickinson, which reflects the varying moods of the Storm King mountain which guards the highlands of the Hudson.

Among the lighter selections which Mrs. Glenn will play, will be "The Music Box," "The Funeral March of the Marionette," and "Dainty Cradle Song." The program will close with Wagner's "Overture from Tannhauser."

OTTERBEIN WINS FROM LUTHERANS BY 40-29 COUNT

Capital Cagers Lose Fifth Game This Season To Team From Westerville

HAUB SCORES 17 OF 29

Capital university bowed her head in defeat on the basketball court for the fifth time in as many tries Wednesday evening. The event marked the renewal of athletic relations with Otterbein College, following a rift of six years.

It also was the fifth time in twenty years that the Westerville school has managed to cop the honors, the Bexley institution winning the remainder of the nineteen games played.

Visitors Take Lead

Otterbein opened the game with a rush, taking the lead to a 8-1 count. Capital took time out to gain inspiration. The result was a deluge of sensational shots, Kauber and Haub each contributing as pretty a pair of fielders as have ever been caged on the Lutheran court.

With Capital in the lead at 9-8, Otterbein took time out to stop the onrush, and the ruse succeeded. Kauber was guarded closely, aided by a couple of charities. In the meanwhile Otterbein started things working again, Buell and Seamon each going big to bring the court to 24-15 in favor of the U. B. quintet at the end of the half.

Use Otterbein Subs

The second half found Coach Sears of Otterbein using his subs to start. Taking advantage of the opportunity, the Lutherans ran the score to 25-25. Immediately, the Otterbein mentor sent in his first string.

The freshened regulars began to ride roughshod over the dispirited home team and ran the score to 40-21 just before the end of the game. Haub ended the scoring of the fray by sinking a neat fielder just as the gun cracked to bring the final score to 40-29.

Haub Is High Scorer

For the visitors, Capt. Buell and Seamon were the cause of the Lutheran downfall. For Capital, Haub manufactured the points, altho weak on defense. Nicol, starting his first game, played exceptional basketball for a newcomer.

The lineup:

Otterbein—40—Barnes, rf.; Regal, rf.; Gibson, lf.; Seits," lf.; Seamon, c.; Saul, c.; Buell (C), rg.; Miley, lg.; Fowler, lg.

Capital—29—Haub, rf.; Kauber, lf.; Sheatsley (C), c-lg.; Kerschbaum c.; Dill, rg.; Nicol, lg.

Referee—Mr. Pfeiffer, of Denison.

About 20 tables can be accommodated. In charge of the affair are Mrs. Katherine Dennis and Mrs. Gustav Bruder.

P. T. A. Hears Talk By Faculty Member

A talk by Dr. O. J. Engleman, of Ohio State university, and a program of music, were given at the meeting of the Fairwood Parent-Teacher association meeting Thursday evening at the school building.

The musical numbers were furnished by an instrumental quartet composed of Mabel G. Kahler, pianist; Luella H Mulligan, violinist; Kathryn Sallonsworth, 'cellist; and Evelyn G. Parker, flutist.

Stranger In City Wrecks Own Automobile

What was a mysterious automobile wreck which left a pile of junk which had once been a car, at the corner of Parkview avenue and East Broad street Tuesday morning, was solved when Robert Epley, of Pickerton, returned to his home later in the day without his automobile.

Giving the cause of the accident as his unfamiliarity with Columbus and Bexley, Epley said he drove his car to a collision with the automobile of F. F. Fisher at the intersection. Epley's machine was turned over three times by the impact, he said, and as a result had to be sold for junk. No one was injured in the accident, and Epley said he and his companion repaired the damage to Fisher's car by replacing a broken wheel with an undamaged one from Epley's car.

Expect To Put Down Jinx That Has Followed Season's Play Thus Far

PROBABLE LINEUP IS SAME

It will be a hang-up game from the standpoint of the spectators, for word from East's camp announces that East is ready to do battle and expects to put down the jinx that has camped on its trail thus far in the season.

LUTHERAN CHORAL SOCIETY TO SING WITH SYMPHONY

The Lutheran Choral society, composed of 150 voices from Lutheran choirs in Columbus and the vicinity, will appear in concert with the Columbus Symphony orchestra at Memorial hall at 3 o'clock, Sunday, January 29.

Mendelssohn's "Ninety-fifth Psalm", is to be sung by the society. Ellis E. Snyder, of the Capital university conservatory of music, is the director of the chorus, and the soloists who appear with it are Miss Thelma Reese and Miss Alice Laugeridge, sopranos, and Mr. Aaron Buraell, tenor.

A number of the members of the group are from Circleville, Grove City, Westerville, Gahanna, and Valley Crossing. They come to Columbus each week for the rehearsals of the society.

The Lutheran Woman's Sewing league has charge of the ticket sale for the concert by the society and the Columbus Symphony orchestra. No seats will be reserved. The net proceeds of the concert are to be used for the Lutheran Evangelistic center to maintain its activities.

Mrs. Charles Bash, 1822 Bryden road, is president of the Lutheran Women's Sewing league.

A "Coin Bag Party" will be held by the Ladies' Aid society of the Oakwood Methodist Episcopal church on Thursday afternoon, January 26, in the church parlors. The coin bags have been in the hands of the members of the society during the past year, having been remembered on holidays and birthdays. All the women of the church have been invited to attend the party. The program will consist of a coin bag parade, headed by Mrs. W. R. Jones, vice-president, and Mrs. G. W. Ebright, secretary, carrying the national and christian flags; and a social hour with music and readings. Those in charge are: Mrs. Samuel Hagans, president and general secretary; Mrs. Clyde E. Ray, program chairman; and Mrs. S. E. Umstott, chairman of the refreshment committee.

The Brotherhood of Grace Lutheran church, had a buffet supper and an entertainment in the church parlors Wednesday evening.

CONSERVATORY TO BEAR NAME OF DR. MEES BOARD RULES

Annual Contest Of Ohio College Glee Clubs Will Be Held Here

OTHER BUILDINGS TO BE NAMED

Mees hall is the name by which the new music auditorium at Capital university is to be known, as the result of action taken by the university board of trustees to so honor Dr. Otto Mees, president of the institution and under whose regime the school has shown such growth and progress.

The conservatory of music which was erected at a cost of $250,000 is said to be one of the finest in the country. It is to be used instead of Memorial hall this year for the annual contest of the Ohio Association of College Glee clubs which will take place February 25. The cup which is the highest award was presented last year to Ohio Wesleyan university.

Capital Club Concert

In Mees Hall on February 9, the Capital university Glee club will give its first concert of the year following which it will start, February 19, on a tour of the Mid-west. As a special feature of its programs this season there will be an orchestra composed entirely of club members.

Samuel Loyer is baritone soloist and the quartet will be composed of Ralph Ground, first tenor; Theodore Fricke, second tenor; Elmer Zimmerman, baritone; and Raymond Vogeley, second bass. Wilbur Crist is director.

Lighting and scenic equipment for the stage of the new Mees hall, are to be purchased by the classes of 1925 and 1926. These groups voted recently to spend the balance in their treasuries for this purpose. The funds, totaling about $500, have been placed in the hands of Dr. W. G. Boescher, who will make the purchases.

Receive Name Suggestions

In taking action to designate the conservatory of music as Mees hall, the board of trustees of the university noted also to give other unnamed buildings on the campus, names that will be appropriate and distinctive.

Many of the buildings already have names given them in honor of a faculty or friend of the institution. Such are Schenk Divinity hall, Loy auditorium, Rudolf Memorial library, and Drexel hall. Among the buildings which thus far have no special name are the recitation hall, the girls' dormitory and the mens' dormitory.

A number of names already have been suggested for these. Eich hall for the girls' dormitory, in honor of Miss Justina Eich who is the first full time dean of women on the Capital faculty, is among the suggestions. University hall has been offered for the mens' dormitory, and Bernlohr Field for the new athletic field, in honor of "Bill" Bernlohr, Capital's greatest athlete.

At its June meeting, the board has announced that it will act on all suggestions submitted.

BUY PICTURES FOR SCHOOL WITH FUNDS FROM EXHIBITION

Eleven pictures have taken their places on the walls of the corridor and rooms of the new junior high school in Cassingham road. They were purchased with proceeds from the art exhibition held in the fall under the auspices of the Bexley schools.

Two of the eleven have been hung in the corridor. These are Watt's "Galahad," and Willard's "Spirit of '76."

The pictures which have been hung in the class rooms are: "Pilgrims Going to Church," "Concord Bridge," "The Boyhood of Lincoln," "The Angelus," "The Horse Fair," "Joan of Arc," "The Appeal of the Great Spirit," "The Matinee," and "Wake Up."

Pictures of Rome, illustrative of the life of Caesar, and a talk explaining them, were features of the meeting of the Latin club of Bexley High school which was held Wednesday afternoon after school. A business session also was held at which time the club adopted its first constitution.

The Men's Brotherhood of the Wilson avenue Reformed church held a regular meeting Wednesday in the church.

Former East Sider Is Ill In St. Louis

Friends of Mrs. Margaret Hawley Hahn, of St. Louis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Hawley, of Miller avenue, will be interested in the report received by her parents that her condition is as good as may be expected. Mrs. Hahn was operated on three weeks ago in Baptist hospital in St. Louis. She will remain at the hospital for several weeks.

ST. ALBANS WILL HAVE NEW RECTOR IN CHARGE MCH. 1

IS EX-SERVICE MAN

Rev. Mr. Thomas Donaldson will assume the rectorship of St. Albans of Bexley March 1, it was announced this week. He will come to the East Side village from Chillicothe where, for the past year and a half he has been the rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church.

He will fill the vacancy left by the resignation of Rev. Mr. Harold F. Hohly, who accepted a call to All Saints' church of Portsmouth.

The new rector-elect at St. Albans is an ex-service man and was ordained to the priesthood in 1919. He is a native of Maryland, and formerly was in the employ of the Pennsylvania railroad company, and later was associated in business with the Fidelity Trust company of Baltimore.

As a member of the United States field artillery, he was mobilized in June, 1916, and sent to the Mexican border. Upon his return he became lay-assistant to the Rev. Dr. Hugh Birkhead at Emmanuel church and while there pursued his studies, was ordained to the diaconate in 1918, and placed in charge of the Chapel of the Redemption in Baltimore.

He saw service again for several months in 1918 during the World War, and upon his discharge, completed his theological training at the General Theological seminary and at the summer school in Berkeley.

Following his ordination in 1919 by Bishop Murray, Rev. Mr. Donaldson resumed the rectorship at the Chapel of the Redemption, later answering a call to Christ Church in Easton, Md. From this parish he resigned to accept the work at Chillicothe.

St. Albans of Bexley was organized three years ago with five communicants. At the present time there are approximately 100. Following the resignation and departure of Rev. Mr. Hohly from the rectorship several weeks ago, guest pastors have conducted the services at the church. For the last three weeks, the Very Reverend Mr. Charles E. Byrer, dean of Bexley hall, Gambier, has been in charge.

School Orchesta To Play At Whitehall

The orchestra of the Bexley senior high school will furnish music on Wednesday evening at the presentation of the play, "Mother Mine," at the new Whitehall club house, which is being given by the Women's club of the organization.

The play will be presented both Wednesday and Thursday evenings and is a part of the dedication ceremonies of the new club house, in Jewell road, which was opened January Twelfth.

Semester Ends With Examinations Next Week

Final examination on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday of next week, will mark the close of the semester's work at the Bexley Senior High school. The new semester begins January 30. Few changes are to be made in the schedules and organization for the new semester according to H. C. Dieterick, superintendent.

Change Day of Church Night

The regular church night of the Wilson Avenue Church of Christ has been changed next week from Thursday to Tuesday. Dinner will be served at 6:30 and will be followed by the usual church night program. Rev. Mr. Walter Collins, pastor of the church, will continue the discussion of the history of the Church of Christ.

OFFICER FINDS BABY DESERTED IN BRYDEN ROAD

When little Catherine was put into her baby buggy Wednesday evening and all her clothes piled neatly in a basket beside her, she didn't know that in a little while she would be a homeless little foundling.

And she wouldn't have understood if she had been told, for Catherine is only a wee little girl, between 18 months and two years old, according to the matron at the Franklin County detention home where she eventually spent the night.

She was found in Bryden road in front of St. Ann's home about 9 o'clock Wednesday evening, by Officer W. H. Lowery. And she greeted the officer with a gurgle and a smile as if the whole thing were some delightful joke.

A note pinned to her clothing was addressed to the sisters of St. Ann's home and asked them to take care of the baby for about a year. It was signed "Mother," and stated that the mother of the baby was cruelly treated by her husband and wanted to find a job which she could not do if she had Catherine with her.

At the detention home where she was taken by Officer Lowery, she was in the best of spirits and lisped her first name in somewhat doubtful baby talk. Beyond that, however, she could cast no light on her identity.

Catherine is a colored baby, and it is believed by juvenile court workers that she was deserted before St. Ann's home in the expectation that she would be taken in there and cared for by the sisters in charge.

As soon as [illegible] by the court to find her parents.

As the Eastern Times goes to press Friday morning, Catherine is to be taken into court to have her case heard, probably to be given a temporary committment to the children's home until the investigation can be made.

DOROTHY KELLEY IS NAMED EDITOR OF B. H. S. ANNUAL

The 1928 year book of the Bexley high school will be edited by Dorothy Kelley. The entire staff for the annual was announced Thursday.

Arch Houstle will be business manager with William Diehl as assistant and Stewart Hirsch as advertising manager.

Open Intra-mural Season At Capital

Intra-mural sports at Capital university officially got under way this week with the first inter-class basketball game. On the Lutheran campus, each class in the school is represented by at least one quintet.

Volley ball also will be started shortly, in which any number of teams may be entered. The intramural schedule calls for every student to be a member of some athletic organization. The records show that, with varsity teams included, more than 80 per cent of the men students participate in some athletic activity.

Juvenile Court Work To To Bexley P. T. A.

Members of the Bexley Parent-Teacher association were told of the work of the Franklin County Juvenile Court, by Miss Mabel Farrar, of the court staff, at the meeting Wednesday afternoon in the auditorium of the Junior High school in Cassingham road. Special music was furnished by the orchestra of the junior high school and by a soloist from Capital university. SPORTSMANSHIP

The increasing interest in basketball, in almost all sports for that matter, is a splendid thing if it means all that it should mean.

It is a wholesome recreation, this enjoyment by boys and girls and by men and women, of a game well played. There is the zest of competition, the exhilaration of physical endeavor, the keenness of mental alertness, and the admirable spectacle of a machine of several parts functioning in harmony and accord to the achievement of a definite end.

All these things are there in a basketball game and they are things felt by the spectators as well as by the participants. But in a good basketball game there is something else of infinite importance. It is the presence of sportsmanship. A basketball game that fails to be an exhibition of sportsmanship falls shor tof being a good one.

If it doesn't teach both players and spectators, alike, the spirit of sportsmanship, it fails to accomplish the biggest thing it can accomplish in the life of a community. The sport of any game is in playing to win, but real victory is not divisible. Where there are contestants, there must be a winner and a loser.

Sportsmanship is the difference between a bad loser and a good loser, and likewise between a bad winner and a good one. Sportsmanship permits no whimpering at defeat, no alibis from the defeated; it permits no boasting of victory, no jeering from the victorious. Sportsmanship demands that a thing well done be decognized wholeheartedly wheater it be done by one side or the other; it demands abiding by the rules, and no quibbling over decisions of the referee.

Analyze those things and one finds them applicable to life as well as to basketball. Certainly if basketball, or any sport, can teach these things to the young and the old, the players and the spectators, it has a place in the life of any community. It is a factor to be encouraged in any community.

One sometimes hears it said of a team or of a school, "The sportsmanship there is very poor." The statement is a stain on the escutcheon of that school, a blot on the reputation of the entire community for that matter. We should like to hear it said, always, of our schools and of our teams, "There, they have real sportsmanship."

We should like the entire community to merit the same praise. Sportsmanship, after all, is merely a sense of fair play and honest dealing. It is a creed to live by. Teach sportsmanship to a lad in school and you give him a foundation upon which to build a worth while life.

We've heard the "Two Black Crows," appreciated in various ways, but we were totally unprepared for the response made by one little girl after hearing their first record for the first time. Said she, "It's awful pretty ain't it?"

When police found a bottle of corn whisky in the pocket of a man they arrested the other night, he declared someone else must have put it in his pocket. — And yet there are some folks who don't believe in Santa Claus.

SPORTSMANSHIP

The increasing interest in basketball, in almost all sports for that matter, is a splendid thing if it means all that it should mean.

It is a wholesome recreation, this enjoyment by boys and girls and by men and women, of a game well played. There is the zest of competition, the exhilaration of physical endeavor, the keenness of mental alertness, and the admirable spectacle of a machine of several parts functioning in harmony and accord to the achievement of a definite end.

All these things are there in a basketball game and they are things felt by the spectators as well as by the participants. But in a good basketball game there is something else of infinite importance. It is the presence of sportsmanship. A basketball game that fails to be an exhibition of sportsmanship falls shor tof being a good one.

If it doesn't teach both players and spectators, alike, the spirit of sportsmanship, it fails to accomplish the biggest thing it can accomplish in the life of a community. The sport of any game is in playing to win, but real victory is not divisible. Where there are contestants, there must be a winner and a loser.

Sportsmanship is the difference between a bad loser and a good loser, and likewise between a bad winner and a good one. Sportsmanship permits no whimpering at defeat, no alibis from the defeated; it permits no boasting of victory, no jeering from the victorious. Sportsmanship demands that a thing well done be decognized wholeheartedly wheater it be done by one side or the other; it demands abiding by the rules, and no quibbling over decisions of the referee.

Analyze those things and one finds them applicable to life as well as to basketball. Certainly if basketball, or any sport, can teach these things to the young and the old, the players and the spectators, it has a place in the life of any community. It is a factor to be encouraged in any community.

One sometimes hears it said of a team or of a school, "The sportsmanship there is very poor." The statement is a stain on the escutcheon of that school, a blot on the reputation of the entire community for that matter. We should like to hear it said, always, of our schools and of our teams, "There, they have real sportsmanship."

We should like the entire community to merit the same praise. Sportsmanship, after all, is merely a sense of fair play and honest dealing. It is a creed to live by. Teach sportsmanship to a lad in school and you give him a foundation upon which to build a worth while life.

We've heard the "Two Black Crows," appreciated in various ways, but we were totally unprepared for the response made by one little girl after hearing their first record for the first time. Said she, "It's awful pretty ain't it?"

When police found a bottle of corn whisky in the pocket of a man they arrested the other night, he declared someone else must have put it in his pocket. — And yet there are some folks who don't believe in Santa Claus.

MORRISON PLANS "GARDEN CITY" OF APARTMENTS

Asks Approval Of Project By Council; Is Referred To Zoning Board

PROVIDES IMPROVEMENTS

A project to build an extensive apartment house community to be known as an "English Garden City", and to contain 78 apartments, was outlined to the Bexley village council at its regular meeting Tuesday evening, by Walter W. Morrison who said he contemplated erecting the garden city on the south side of E. Broad street between Roosevelt avenue and Gould road, if the village fathers gave their consent to it.

Action was withheld on the plan pending an official report of the zoning board on the matter. Morrison was referred to the board.

Several Family Units

Morrison's plan as outlined by him, would build houses of two or three family units, the total number to be grouped about an elaborate garden which would be, also, a recreation center. A sum of $10,000 would be set aside for landscaping alone he said.

A swimming pool, 30 ft. by 75 ft, would be contained in the garden, as would two playgrounds equipped with latest equipment, four tennis courts, and two horse-shoe courts.

Provide For Bonds

The regular business of council at its meeting included the passage of a number of ordinances for issuing bonds to pay for street improvements already completed. The following sums were provided for by the ordinances: $8,950 for Drexel avenue from Caroline avenue to Delmar drive; $34,700 for Grandon avenue, from Livingston avenue to East Main street; $19,300 for Bryden road from Cassady avenue to Remington road; $11,700 for Allegheny avenue from Cassady road to Spruce street; $12,000 for Maryland avenue from Drexel avenue to Cassady road; $25,000 for Sherwood road from Drexel avenue to Remington road; $17,300 for Dawson avenue from Caroline avenue to Delmar drive; and $500 for Denver avenue from Drexel avenue to Ashbourne road.

Pay Third of Cost

A resolution was accepted by the council to provide for the payment by the village, of 33 and one-third percent of paving Cassingham road between Cassady road and Dawson avenue, and of the entire cost of paving the intersections.

Plans and specifications were filed by the village engineers for improving the following streets: Havenwood drive South from Euclaire avenue to Cassingham road; Elm avenue from Parkview avenue to Columbia avenue; and Elm avenue from Cassady avenue to Remington road.

Instead of the usual two weeks intervention between regular meetings of council, there will be three weeks this time. The next meeting is scheduled for February 14.

GIRLS LEARN TO PERFORM RESCUE WORK IN WATER

Try making a surface dive in six feet of water and hoisting a 15-pound brick from the bottom to the top of the water, and you will have some understanding of just a part of the tests which were passed by the five East High school girls who were successful in passing the Junior Life Saving examinations conducted by the Rer Cross of America.

Those who were successful were: Dorothy Daishley, Emily West, Lillian Callif, Helen Walz, and Helen Beavers. They demonstrated, to the satisfaction of the examiner, that they were proficient in breaking the holds of drowning persons, in making the proper approaches to a drowning person and in bringing up heavy articles from the depth.

TRAFFIC LIGHTS TO BE READY FOR OPERATION SOON

Installations Are Being Made In East Side For Safety of School Children

TO INSTALL 62 IN CITY

Weather permitting, the new traffic control lights which are to take their places at busy intersections in the East side, primarily for the protection of school children crossing the streets, will be ready for operation in two weeks or a little longer, it was said this week by C. F. Clay, superintendent of fire and police telegraph, who is directing the installations.

Two of the lights already have been installed in the East side. These are at East Broad street and Franklin Park West, and at East Main street and Ohio avenue.

The work of installation is being done, as fast as the weather will permit, by two gangs of workmen. It was delayed considerably by slow delivery of cable, Mr. Clay said, the original intention having been to have the lights in operation before the first of the year. Sixty-two are to be installed near school centers throughout the city.

East side intersections where the lights are to be operated are: East Main street and Ohio avenue; East Main street and Miller avenue; East Main street and Eighteenth street; Ohio avenue and Fulton street; Wilson avenue and Oak street; Bryden road and Miller avenue; Champion avenue and Ohio avenue; East Broad street and Ohio avenue; East Broad street and Franklin Park West; and East Broad street and Nelson road.

East High Gradnate Passes Bar Examinations

Only Columbus Woman Among List of Successful January Applicants

LIKES BRIEF WORK

MRS. BESSIE WRENN CHINN

Mrs. Chinn is to take charge of the pleadings and draw up briefs for the firm of Ingalls, Landis and Selby, following her admission to the bar Friday. She was the only Columbus woman to pass the January bar examination.

Passing the state examination for admission to the bar, while working in a law office during the day and keeping house for her husband at night is the achievement of Mrs. Bessie Wrenn Chinn, the only Columbus woman and one of four Ohio women, who were successful applicants for the January state examination.

Mrs. Chinn, who makes her home with her parents at 1308 Oak street, is to practice law in the office of Ingalls, Landis and Selby, 9 E. Long St., where she has been employed as stenographer for the past five years. She will take charge of the pleadings and draw up briefs for the men of the firm, although she intends to plead her own cases as she gains experience.

A graduate of East High school, Mrs. Chinn married when she was 21 years of age. She has kept her interest in her work, however, and five years ago when she took a desk in a law office, she determined to learn everything about the new job. The following year she registered for the bar examination and put her name down for a four year course in the Y. M. C. A. law school. Her grades during her first three years were so high and her knowledge of the law, gained in her practical administration of details during the day, gained her a scholarship and she studied during her fourth year under the terms of a Y. M. C. A. scholarship.

The laws of Ohio now require that candidates have two years training at a university before studying law, but because Mrs. Chinn had registered for the examination four years ago, she was permitted to stand and passed with a high grade.

"I expect to plead in the courts," Mrs. Chinn said Friday, "although as yet I have never been in a court room my work in the office has kept me so busy. But no criminal cases for me, I think they require special aptitude, and I do not think that I would care for that branch of the work. Study of the law is a wonderful training for any woman, it trains her to think clearly and logically, even if she never actually practices."

The new woman lawyer is only 30 years of age, is small, dark and attractive. She has no children. Mrs. Chinn was sworn in as an attorney-at-law, along with the other successful applicants in Ohio, Friday during the meeting of the Ohio State Bar Association. Chief Justice Carrington T. Marshall administered the oath.

Other East Siders who passed the January examination and took their oath Friday were Albert H. Germaine, 643 Linwood avenue; Benjamin S. Lurie, 346 South Drexel avenue, Bexley; William D. Murphy, Jr., 840 Berkeley road; Rufus M. Schockey, 145 South Ardmore road, Bexley; Ray J. Stone, 1591 Bryden road, and Walter Dressel, 1628 Greenway avenue.

TO RESUME WORK ON INITIAL UNIT OF BEXLEY CHURCH

Work on the first unit of the Bexley Methodist Episcopal church in East Broad street, which has been held up by revamping of plans, is to be resumed within the next two weeks and will continue to completion of the unit probably about the middle or latter part of the summer.

Action necessary for the resumption of work was taken last Saturday at a meeting of the official board of the church. The unit under construction is the west one of the edifice which the congregation expects to build eventally.

It will provide an auditorium with a seating capacity of 650 persons, and adequate room for the Sunday School activities. There will be, also, a dining room where it will be possible to serve 350 persons, and a kitchen.

When the entire church is completed, this unit will be used for educational work in the church.

FIRE CAUSES $500 DAMAGE TO STORE

Five hundred dollars was the estimate of damage to the Piggly Wiggly store at 1615 East Main street, Wednesday evening about 8 o'clock, when fire broke out in the basement of the building.

An overheated furnace was said by firemen to have been the cause of the fire. A neighbor who saw smoke pouring from the building turned in the alarm. The work of the firemen was hindered by the fact that the basement and first floor were filled with smoke.

EXAMS ARE HELD

Mideyear exams were the order of the day this week at Capital University. Registration for the new semester, which begins Monday, January 30th, was held Thursday and Friday, the 26th and 27th.

RECOVER BICYCLES TAKEN FROM HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS

Theft Is Committed In Morning; Wheels Are Recovered In Afternoon

LEAD POLICE ON CHASE

Three Bexley lads—Robert Wheaton 63 North Columbia avenue, Robert Lauffer, 108 North Cassingham road Eugene Seegar, 477 Maplewood avenue, Cedarhurst,—have learned to lock their bicycles when they leave them and three other youths who professed to be tramps who had bummed their way from South Carolina, discovered that was serious business taking bicycles from the Bexley High school grounds.

Report was made to Deputy Marshal Gray Tuesday noon that during the morning three bicycles, the property of the Bexley boys mentioned above, had been stolen from the East side of the high school building. The report was carried in down town papers that afternoon and was read by C. C. Schmidt, of Reynoldsburg who was in Columbus.

Returning to his home, Schmidt discovered three boys riding bicycles which answered the description of the stolen ones, a short distance this side of Reynoldsburg. He telephoned Bexley police and Marshal David Shadrack and Deputy Marshals Gray and Ralph Antle, left immediately in the Bexley speed car.

They found, when they reached Reynoldsburg that a crowd of citizens of that village had been successful in holding two of the boys but the third had escaped. After a chase across two fields, however, the last member of the trio was caught.

The three gave their names as Stanley Thavis, George Morrison and John Drumm. They were penniless and said they lived in South Carolina though one of the group carried a police badge from Trenton, N. J., and about two dozen personal cards printed with the name, Samuel Taggart, police said.

They were placed in detention pending an investigation by the juvenile court.

TO GIVE THREE ONE-ACT PLAYS IN HIGH SCHOOL

Rehearsals have started for three one-act plays which are to be presented by members of the dramatic class at the Bexley high school, in the auditorium probably about the middle of February. A definite date is to be set later.

Plans have been made, also, to form a Dramatic club in the high school with the members of the present dramatic class as charter members of the club. A committee has been selected to draw a constitution, and following the completion of this work, officers will be elected.

The plays which the class will present next month are "The Playgoers" by Arthur Pinero; "The Turtle-doves," by Margaret Scott Oliver; and "Rosalind," by James Barrie.

"The Turtle-doves," Elinor Ludwig, Elizabeth Tracy, Helen Wildermuth, Dorothy Klingbeil, Henrietta Busch, Mary Peters and Mary Wheeler.

SCHOOLS IN EAST SIDE REORGANIZE FOR COMING TERM

More Than 300 Pupils Change Buildings; Expect Many New Ones

EAST TO GRADUATE 29

Approximately 325 pupils in East side schools will bid farewell to one building and enroll at another next Friday, as the first semester's work of the 1927-28 school year is brought to a close and reorganization made for the second semester. This number is exclusive of the graduating class at East High school which numbers 29.

The coming week at several of the schools in the East side will be marked by special exercises in honor of the students who will leave each center to resume their studies in a new environment.

At East High school the graduating class this semester is smaller, by 12 persons, than the graduating class at the midyear in 1927. It is composed of 17 boys and 12 girls, most of whom will remain at East to continue work along special lines. They will share in the commencement exercises in June.

Roosevelt Junior high school will send out the largest number of any building in the East side. The pupils who will leave the school for East high, South high, or Central high, according to their home address, numbered about 100. The 9-A farewell program and party was held on Wednesday in the school's auditorium. The operetta, "The Bells of Barcelona," was presented, and there was special music.

Principal W. W. Wager, of Roosevelt, said that he expected about 150 new pupils to enroll at the building, this being one of the largest number expected by any of the east side principals.

One hundred and twenty-five new students are expected at Franklin Junior high by Miss Edna B. Hatton, principal. Sixty 9-A students are being graduated from the building, to enter East high. In their honor the 9-A farewell program and party will be held at the building next Wednesday evening. A play will be given and the program will be followed by a social hour.

Of the elementary schools, Fairwood avenue building probably will see the largest class leave for junior high schools. Miss Lou H. Thompson, principal, said that 40 students would leave the school for Roosevelt, Franklin and Pilgrim junior highs.

The good-bye program for the 6-A pupils, there, is to take place next Friday evening. A farewell address by Miss Thompson and talks and music by the pupils will constitute the program. A group of 40 new enrollments is expected at Fairwood, Miss Thompson said.

New pupils entering East Main street school probably will total around 50, it was estimated by Miss Ruby McMahan, principal. From East Main street school, 29 pupils will leave to enroll at Roosevelt and Franklin Junior highs.

Fair avenue school is sending 35 students to Franklin Junior high, according to Miss Rose Hammond, principal. A party to be given for this group will be held next Wednesday afternoon. The program of instrumental and vocal music, and a talk by Miss Hammond, will be followed by a party for the children.

Thirty pupils will leave the Livingston Avenue school, it was said by E. E. Garwick, principal, most of them going to Roosevelt and a few to Mound or Barrett junior highs. Mr. Garwick expects an enrollment of about 35 including 20 who will enter the first grade from the kindergarten.

Ohio Avenue school will lose 28 pupils to Roosevelt and Franklin Junior highs and will receive about 36 new ones, it was estimated by Mrs. Margaret Raney, principal.

Men Will Conduct Missionary Meeting

The men's division of the missionary society of the Wilson Avenue Church of Christ, will conduct the meeting of the society which will be held at the church Wednesday. The subject of the meeting will be, "Our Father." Rev. Mr. Isaiah Moore, pastor of the Monroe Avenue Church of Christ, will be the principal speaker, and special music will be furnished by a quartet from Rev. Mr. Moore's church.

Neatly-clad Clean-cut Beggar Is Arrested, Then Is Given Money And Found Position

The moral of this story the reader may draw for himself, but the facts at face value will show that sometimes it pays to be arrested.

It paid William R. Morgan, who was without a job and hungry last week and who was arrested as a vagrant in Bexley Saturday evening. When he was apprehended he had 50 cents in his pocket and wasn't sure where the next nickel was coming from. When he was dismissed by the police an hour after his arrest, he was several dollars to the good, and had the promise of a job which materialized this week.

Morgan, who was described by police as a clean-cut, neatly-dressed man of about 26, presented himself at Bexley back doors several evenings last week and asked for food. He operated in Bryden road, Bexley Park road, Drexel avenue, Columbia avenue and Cassingham road. He made his calls always at the opportune hour, about dinner time.

The village police received a number of calls from houses where Morgan had begged and gone. But when the officers arrived on the scene Morgan always had disappeared. Saturday evening, however, he stopped at the home of Don L. Tobin, 2624 Bexley Park road. Mr. Tobin give him 50 cents and then followed the beggar, by automobile.

When he had trailed Morgan almost to Franklin Park he returned to East Main street and picked up Officer Gray. Upon being taken to the municipal office, Morgan told a straightforward story which coincided perfectly with the story he had told wherever he had been questioned as he canvassed for food.

He said, according to officer Gray, that he had come from West Virginia and was a roofer by trade. He had worked on a building down town until the job had been completed there. Then he had been unable to find other work. To the inquiry as to why he had chosen to beg in Bexley he replied, "Because people in Bexley have plenty to eat."

His story and appearance impressed Tobin so favorably that the latter gave him several dollars and promised to help him find work this week.

MISTAKES AND THE BENEFIT OF A DOUBT

We all make them daily,— mistakes.

Many of them aren't serious, fortunately. Usually it is possible to correct many of them with a courteous, "I beg your pardon." If the average man or woman who comes in daily contact with the public does not have occasion to use those four words, every day, he or she is either super-human or not very thoughtful of other people.

We ought not, of course, lose sight of the fact that those four words are not an "Open sesame," to reinstating one's self in good graces after one has been guilty of some small mistake. But they are so easy to say, and say sincerely, that all of us should acquire the habit of using them wherever they belong.

The best thing that these spoken words can do is to confirm the thought of the benefit of a doubt in the mind of the person who has been offended by a mistake. It is a big best. It is a fine sentiment in daily living,— this giving of the benefit of a doubt. It is akin to loving kindness. If this sentiment is absent in a human heart, there is bitterness there, a suspicion that others deliberately try to give offense and take pleasure in doing it. That is a deplorable state of mind.

We have heard it said by psychologists and physiologists that anger turns an actual poison into the blood stream of the person who is angry. Surely bitterness and suspicion of one's fellow men, then, must turn a similar poison into one's soul, a poison which shrivels the finest feelings.

All of us have encountered those persons who appear to take a malicious delight in mistakes which others make. They seem, sometimes, even to enjoy exaggerating an act into a mistake in order to derive from it a sinister glee. Such a mind is a more pathetic thing than the twisted leg of a crippled child.

The person who really gets the most out of living, is the person who is understanding of mistakes as well as forgiving of them. That person's mind is the opposite of the one which takes delight in suspecting others of mistakes even before they make them. It is not only the kind of a mind that is easier for others to live in the world with, but it is the kind of a mind that gets the richness out of life.

INTRODUCING A NEW EDITOR

Next week's issue of The Eastern Times will carry a new name at the head of this column. Mrs. Ruth Young White will take over the editorship beginning with that issue.

But before we end our association with the paper we want to say a word about these last five months' work. There has been a great deal of real joy in it. We have liked knowing all of those who have given us such splendid assistance in gathering the news of the East Side and Bexley. We are genuinely sorry that circumstances will not permit us to continue the relationship.

In leaving the paper, however, we are glad to leave its editorial work in the hands of Mrs. White, who has been a friend of ours for a number of years, and who is a competent newspaper woman. We know that our readers and our news sources will continue to be as kind to her as they have been to us. For her, as editor, and The Eastern Times, as a clean, honest community newspaper, working for the betterment of the East Side and Bexley, we wish an ever increasing success.

In Between Times

The way some people brag about their ancestors one would suppose that they invented them. — And maybe they did.

Never were our folks at the country club so sorely puzzled as the other evening, when the chairman of the membership committee informed us that there were a couple of country gentlemen who had applied for membership. There was really no precedent to be found.

When we were young and attended Sabbath school, we were impressed with the necessity of being alert and jumping quickly when we heard Gabriel's horn. But in these days, with all sorts and varieties of horns blowing constantly, the problem is how will we distinguish Gabriel's horn. We may take solace however, in the fact that we are all learning to jump quickly when we hear a horn.

Little by little we come to a better understanding of why Colonel Lindbergh is what he is, and we came to a great deal of it when we read that Mrs. Lindbergh, after flying three days in snow and storm, twice being forced to land, was able to say convincingly that she was not a bit tired, hadn't worried at all, and had enjoyed the whole trip.

Miss Byers had been in ill health for nearly a year. She came early in January to visit her brother. She had made her home for a number of years with another brother, Joseph P. Byers, of Louisville, Ky. Her father was secretary of the state board of charities for several years, beginning in 1868, and for five years prior to that time was chaplain at the state penitentiary.

Besides the brothers named above, Miss Byers is survived by two other brothers, Orin G. Byers, of Toledo; and Dennison D. Byers, of East Orange, N. J.; and a sister, Mrs. Robert Patterson, 611 East Rich street.

FINES TOTAL $280 SO FAR IN MONTH; MORE VIOLATIONS

Fines For 1928 Not Quite Five Times More Than Thus Far in January

MORE SPEEDERS CAUGHT

Infringements of the law in Bexley are on the increase if the amount of fines collected by the village is a true indication of conditions.

The total for fines collected in 1926 was $967.14, according to figures obtained at the municipal office. The sum collected so far in the month of January is $280, and the number of offenders who faced Mayor Stephen Ludwig in the village court last Saturday was the largest for any day in many months, it was said.

Most of the offenders, said Deputy Marshal Gray, are speed law and traffic violators, the majority of whom have been arrested for too fast driving.

The fact that the village police officers use a touring car instead of a motorcycle a great deal of the time, is responsible, Gray said, for the increase in arrests. Speeders are less often aware of a police officer's presence if the latter is driving an automobile instead of riding a motorcycle, he explained.

Additional members on the police force of the village also have had much to do with the increase in arrests. Four additional officers were put on duty by the village the first of last October. Officer Gray had been on duty alone in the village up to that time. Just how much of an increase this has brought about is shown best by the amounts collected in fines. Of the $967.14 collected for the year, the sum of $754 was collected during the months of October, November and December.

TABLE ETIQUETTE AND SERVING

By Ella Mae Ives

The head of the table, which is the place of the host, is at the end of the table farthest from the door thru which the company enters.

The host with the most distinguished lady, or the guest of honor, who is to sit at his right, leads the way to the dining room. The hostess with the gentleman who is to sit at her right is the last to enter.

Role of Hostess

The hostess is served first. In this way she waits the longest before the food served is eaten. When all have been served she begins eating and this is the cue for the others to begin and to use the piece of silver which she is using. If the food is served very hot or very cold and it deteriorates on standing, the hostess does not wait for the rest, but begins eating as soon as a few are served. She also gives the signal for leaving the table at the end of the meal.

Plates are placed and removed at the right of the person.

Serve To The Left

In removing a course, the dishes of food are taken first, then the soiled dishes or silver relating to that course.

If one is a guest for one meal only, the napkin is not folded; if for more than one meal, one handles the napkin, as the hostess does.

Use of Silver

Dip the spoon away from the person when eating soup or when serving yourself from a dish that is passed.

The teaspoon must never be left in the cup. Its only purpose is for stirring and when the stirring is finished it is laid on the saucer.

The fork is used for the vegetables in side dishes when practicable, but if they are very soft the spoon may be used. The fork is used for cutting and eating salad. The lettuce cup should be eaten—not wasted.

When it is necessary to remove something like gristle or fruit pits from the mouth, the piece of silver that is being used for that particular food, the fork or spoon, is used to place the object at the side of the plate.

Table Don'ts

Do not let lumps of sugar fall with a splash into the cup. Place the lumps upon the saucer first and then carefully into the cup.

Do not cut off the stream of syrup or cream from a pitcher with your own fork or spoon or knife.

Do not place the slice of bread on the tablecloth and then butter it. First break up the slice into small pieces, perhaps quarters.

Bread and crackers are not broken into the soup.

Do not put salt on the tablecloth but on the side of the plate.

Table Setting

Silver, napkin and plate for each cover should be placed one inch from edge of table. Silver is placed in order of serving—the first used, being farthest from the plate, except the oyster fork, which is placed to the right of all silver, and the dinner knife and fork come next to the plate (on opposite sides). When many courses are served it is best to serve suitable silver with each course at the time of serving it.

Allow Twenty Inches

A cover for each person consists of the plate, silver, bread-and-butter plate, napkin and glass. Twenty inches in width is the space that should ordinarily be allowed and on formal occasions 30 inches. Fifteen inches in depth will allow enough room for silver and china.

Knives are placed at the right, cutting edge toward the plate. Forks, as a rule, are placed at the left, tines up. However, oyster forks are placed at the right of the spoons, and salad forks, when used with a salad course alone, are at the right.

Placing of Pieces

The space between the knives and forks should be wide enough for a plate whether or not the plate is placed when the table is set.

Spoons are placed at the right of the knives, bowls up.

The bread-and-butter plate at the left above the fork. The butter spreader, either on the plate or at its right.

"TEN-FIFTEEN AND ALL'S WELL"

The leather-lunged town-crier of early colonial days, who used to make the rounds every night, ringing his bell and crying, "Ten o'clock, and all is well" had nothing on the co-eds at Capital university. Miss Justina Eich, Dean of Women at the Lutheran school, has decreed that the curfew, in the shape of an old Swiss cow-bell shall ring every night at stated times as a warning to all the inmates of the Dormitory, that lights must be out. Each evening at 10:15, one of the proctors of the dormitory, who is Miss Katheryn Sanders, of Circleville, Ohio, and Miss Yula Zell, of Marysville, Ohio, will carry the bell from one floor to the other and through the halls.

At 10:30, the warning will be sounded again, and this time lights must be extinguished. The bell has a deep, mellow tone, and is loud enough to be heard by all the girls in the building.

ANNOUNCE SUMMER SCHOOL PLANS AT LUTHERAN SCHOOL

Professor C. F. Vogel, of the elementary normal department at Capital university, will have charge of the summer school session at the Lutheran school, to extend for a period of six weeks, from June 18 to July 27.

There will be work given also in the regular college of liberal arts which will lead to the A. B. or B. S. degree, and in the college of music, where courses will be given for public school music teachers and supervisors. Work will be offered also in theoretical and applied music. A course in religious education, to train church workers, completes the program.

MANY SEE FIRST FILM OF SERIES GIVEN BY LEAGUE

A crowd that was close to capacity, gathered at Mees conservatory of music on the Capital university campus, last Sunday evening for the showing of the film, "Jesus of Nazareth", first of a series of six films on religious themes which are to be shown on consecutive Sunday evenings under the auspices of the Luther League of Christ Lutheran church.

Praise of the film which portrayed the life of Christ from the annunciation and birth to His death and resurrection, was heard expressed by many of the spectators. A number of the scenes had been staged in accordance with the conception of them by great painters of sacred art.

A special attraction besides the religious film, was the showing of motion pictures of Madame Ernestine Schumann-Heink receiving the degree of doctor of music which was conferred upon her by Capital university when she sang in Columbus last fall.

The second religious film to be presented at 7:30 o'clock Sunday evening will be "The Fall of Jerusalem." It tells the story of the capture of the Holy city during the reign of Nebuchadnezzar. The public is invited to attend and no admission is charged.

EAST STUDENT TO PRESENT "DULCY" ON FEBRUARY 16

Mary Louise Miller and James McDowell are to play the leading roles in "Dulcy," a three-act comedy which is to be presented at East High school by the students on Thursday evening, February 16.

Miss Mabel Hughes is directing rehearsals for the play which has had popularity in New York and on road tours. The story of the comedy is that of a young bride whose greatest aspiration is to achieve success for her husband who is struggling in the imitation pearl business. But her well-meant attempts lead only to the embarrassment of her husband and involves them both in situations highly amusing.

The cast for the play was selected following a series of tryouts in the auditorium under the supervision of Miss Hughes. Miss Miller, in the role of "Dulcy", and James McDowell as leading man, will be supported by Alice Knepper, Mary Kaufman, Richard Boster, Ben Harmon, William Adamson, Lester Thompson, Fred Morton, and Robert Smith.

From Denver, Dr. Hein will go to Los Angeles, California, to attend a meeting of the California District of Synod from February 7th to 10th.

UPPER ARLINGTON TO BE BIGGEST GAME OF YEAR

Bexley High Fans, Remembering Football Victory, Anticipate Great Game

TEAMS EVENLY MATCHED

By "Bud" Lauger

To those Bexley High fans who can remember back as far as November 4 last, when the crack Upper Arlington eleven received a neat little setback on the Bexley gridiron, tomorrow's rising sun should give a feeling of anticipation and expectancy. For tomorrow is the day of the Upper Arlington-Bexley basketball game. The game will be played on the Arlington floor, with a preliminary tilt between the girls' teams of the two schools scheduled to start at 7:30.

Now, may I ask, just how many of the customers, do not remember this afore-mentioned November 4. Not very many, I'll wager. For on that day, an undefeated Arlington football team that had scored something like three hundred points to twenty-five for their opponents took the field against a team, which had taken an 18 to 6 defeat at the hands of Groveport, representing Bexley and in one of the greatest battles ever witnessed on the Bexley gridiron, the Bexley lads out-fought and out-smarted the strong Arlington eleven and sent them home with the short end of a 14 to 6 score.

To Be Battle Royal

And now, once more, Upper Arlington and Bexley will face each other in an athletic contest, this time on the basketball floor. Whether Bexley will turn in another win is hard to say but this much is certain — the game will be a battle royal from start to finish.

Both teams this year are pretty evenly matched, with Arlington perhaps holding a slight advantage again, in-as-much as their team was not seriously affected by graduation. Both teams have splendid records Bexley has rung up victories over St. Marys, Gahanna, Groveport, Columbus Academy, and Plain City, bowing only to Delaware and Westerville, both Class A teams. Upper Arlington has defeated such formidable foes as Hilliards, Groveport, Gahanna Grove City and Mt. Sterling, losing by one point to a Class A team at Greenfield.

Girls Undefeated

The girls team will also run up against some pretty stiff opposition. Coach Schooler's shifted lineup will probably start the game again. This lineup places Reed and Singer at forwards, Ludwig and D. Klingbeil at the center positions and Manly and K. Klingbeil at the guard posts. This team, an undefeated crowd thus far, is especially blessed in that it has no individual stars. The whole squad is practically on a par, and splendid coordination and team-work result. The girls have chalked up wins over Groveport, Plain City, Bliss College and the Alumni, and should give a good account of themselves tomorrow night.

GATES DEMOLISHED

A tempestuous driver, who was in too much of a hurry to stop even for a locomotive, crashed into the crossing gates at the N. & W. crossing on East Main street Wednesday morning and completely demolished them. The hasty gentleman was F. W. Arnold whose car received a broken wind shield. The N. & W. office said that the gates were to be replaced at once.

Drug Co. Takes Corner Room

The Metropolitan Drug Co., will open its second Columbus store about Feb. 8 in the large corner room of the new building at the southeast corner of Main street and Pleasant Ridge avenue, recently completed by Galbraith and Leonard. The first store of the company is located at the corner of Broad street and Warren avenue.

A Piggly Wiggly branch is to occupy the east room in the Main street building, Mr. Stuckey of Galbraith & Leonard announced. This building and the one opposite, at the north-east corner of Main street and Dawson avenue, have apartment space above the storerooms, each containing eight apartments, consisting of two rooms and bath on the first floor and three rooms and bath on the second floor.

HE WON'T SPEED AGAIN

Arrested twice in a half hour for the same misdemeanor was the experience of C. W. Grisby of Newark, as he tried to drive through Bexley in record time Tuesday afternoon. At 4:45 o'clock Deputy Marshall E. A. Antle followed a Chevrolet coach going 48 miles through the village and was not able to stop it until the driver had reached Eastmoor. C. W. Grisby, who was at the wheel, admitted that he had been speeding, but he grumbled because he had been stopped outside the village limits.

However he returned to the police station, gave bond for appearing Saturday morning and started off eastward, still in a angry mood. Deputy Marshall Antle once more went out on his rounds and almost at once caught the same Chevrolet going about 35 miles an hour. This time Grisby admitted the joke was on him and after his second appearance at the police station, left for Newark at a legal rate of speed.

EAST HIGH BEATS AQUINAS FIVE BY CLOSE MARGIN

Is First Victory of Season for Orange and Black. Who Win by Only One Point

CLOSSON THROWS FOUL

East High cagers broke into the win column last Friday by defeating the Aquinas Dragons by a 32-31 score, in their home gymnasium.

East led the first two quarters, but the Burke and Beckwith combination pulled Aquinas into the lead at the half. In the final quarter the Tigers tied the count. Overtime was necessary to settle the argument which East won with a timely foul, tossed by Lee Closson.

The Orange and Black court men played a rapid fire basketball game, but they frequently missed the iron ring by wide margins. Their defensive play pulled them out of the hole during the final period.

CHURCH IS CALLED GREATEST ASSET OF COLUMBUS

"Life and its possibilities through the power and influence of Jesus Christ are the greatest things in Columbus and the world," was the conclusion reached by Rev. Mr. C. L. Allen, pastor of the Miller Ave. Evangelical church, in his sermon Sunday night, when he used the topic, "Our City's Greatest Asset." This was the first of a series on the general subject, "The Greatest Things in Columbus."

That many things might be considered the greatest assets was conceded by Rev. Mr. Allen who listed our industries, where men earn their bread and butter; medical science with its excellent hospital and scientific care of the sick; and the educational institutions. "We recognize the worth of these assets, but I believe that the church of Jesus Christ is the greatest asset," he declared.

"The church is the greatest of all, because no other institution or organization can fill its place; because it brings to the city something no other organization can bring, salvation to the sinful; because it sets the true ideals and standards for life, such as purity, equal rights of womankhood, proper conception of childhood, honesty and integrity in business, social righteousness, and brotherhood and love; because it brings comfort to the bereaved and to those in trouble; and because it is the one institution for which Christ died."

Sunday Rev. Mr. Allen will discuss "The City's Greatest Liability."

Mrs. Hinterschied's Father Dead

George Baker, aged 71, died Monday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Martin J. Hinterschied, 2394 Sherwood avenue, Bexley. The body was taken to Rising Sun, Ohio for funeral and burial Tuesday morning. Two other daughters, a son, nine grandchildren, a brother and a sister survive.

EAST SIDERS CHOSEN

A normal building month with permits attaining a valuation slightly less than that of January, 1927, but reaching a total in number, double that of last year, was enjoyed in Bexley during January, according to figures announced Wednesday by O. P. Dunlap, building inspector. Fourteen permits for houses and garages were issued last month, with a total valuation of $92,800.

CURTIS C. LATTIMER.

During the same month last year seven permits were issued, with a valuation of $124,900, the larger total being due to the issuance of two $45,000 permits in January, 1927 to W. D. Fulton for two of his units in the Sessions Village. Mr. Fulton registered with the Bexley building office the first day of January last year that he might be the first to get the village permission to build.

Drop from December

January's figure for 1928 is slightly lower than that of December, 1927 when the valuation reached $89,460 of which $86,650 was for residence and $2,550 for garages. Of the 1928 total $2,800 is to be spent for garages.

The largest permit issued during January was to O. M. Rose, 362 Northmoor place for a two story stone and stucco residence at 116 S. Columbia avenue, to cost $40,000. Other residences are to be built by the A. F. Realty Co. at 196 South Stannard road, a two story brick residence and two car garage to cost $13,000 in all; by R. H. May Have Lodge Room Contemplated building in Bexley includes a structure on South Drexel avenue at Main street to be built by Walter Morrison. The plans call for an excavation that will carry a three story building, so that it will be possible to build on a third floor to be used as a hall for lodge or other social purposes. The building will resemble in style the recently completed structure on Main street at Drexel avenue and will be set back 12 feet from the rear of the Main street one. It will have six storerooms on the first floor and apartments above, each with sun room, bath, living room, dining room and kitchen. The apartments are to be exceptionally desirable because of the large amount of window space.

Mrs. Rolland M. Saltsman, 2652 Berkley Park road, is in Enid, Okla., where she was called by the illness of her mother, Mrs. H. H. Hartwell.

DREXEL AVENUE PROJECT

East Side and Bexley residents carried off most of the elective and appointive honors in the power of the Aladdin Temple of Shriners when they met for the annual meeting last Friday evening. Curtis C. Lattimer, 618 Kimball place, Franklin County Surveyor, was most signally honored with election as potentate, to succeed Dr. W. D. Murphy, also an East sider with residence at 1091 Franklin Park South. Both the new and the retiring potentates were named representatives to the imperial council.

W. E. Joseph, 20 Parsons avenue, was chosen recorder for the thirty-sixth term; Ray Zirkel, 724 Oakwood avenue, whose hobby is music and producing plays, is the new Oriental guide; Allen W. Williams, 51 Meadow Park avenue, is chief rabban; Judge Robert P. Duncan of Parkview avenue is high priest and William C. Willard 35 Eastmoor boulevard is treasurer for a second term.

Potentate Lattimer has announced the reappointment of all appointive officers of the temple, among whom are: Captain Harry R. Allen, 165 Winner avenue, commanding officer of the patrol; Mayor Thomas and M. A. Pixley, 368 South Parkview avenue, ceremonial director; and John J. Chester, jr., 2363 Fair avenue, a ceremonial master.

Following the election Judge Duncan, speaking for the 17 Shriners employed in the county surveyor's office, gave the new potentate a huge bouquet of flowers, in a basket and members of Aladdin patrol, of which Mr. Lattimer is first lieutenant, presented another basket. Past Potentate W. D. Murphy received a past potentate's jewel, the gift of Aladdin's membership, from the hands of Past Potentate John F. McCune, who held office 35 years ago.

Aladdin Temple, which, with a membership of 8285, is one of the largest Shrine temples in North America, is planning to send a large delegation to the imperial council meeting in Miami, Fla., in May.

All the women's organizations of Oakwood M. E. church gathered in one group Wednesday in the church parlors for an all-day meeting to discuss foreign and home missions and to make plans for hospital work for White Cross and the Children's hospital. About 50 women were present.

The morning program was concluded with a playlet, of which Mrs. J. M. Vail was in charge.

Three Small Fires In One Afternoon

Three fires disturbed the serenity of a perfect winter day in Bexley, Wednesday, one of which caused any appreciable damage.

The city fire department was called at noon to the home of H. L. Bryan, builder, 603 Sheridan avenue, when a chimney flue caught fire. The house which belongs to Mr. Bryan's father-in-law, U. H. Carter, not got damaged.

In the afternoon the weeds in a vacant lot at 163 Dawson avenue caught fire from a heap of rubbish which was being burned in the yard next to it. The flames were put out before they had spread more than a few feet.

A shack belonging to a group of boys in the neighborhood of Sheridan avenue and used by them as a club house, burned to the ground early Wednesday evening. The shack, which had been built by the boys, was in the lot next to the home of Mrs. Jennie H. Bailey, 761 Sheridan avenue. It is thought that the boys made a fire during the afternoon and had been careless in extinguishing the coals.

COURT QUINTET ENDS STRINGS OF FIVE DEFEATS

Capital University Five Beats Antioch College by Cloce Score of 25-23

KAUBER IS STAR

After bowing in defeat for five successive times, the Capital University court quintet at last found their stride and handed a neat surprise to the Antioch College five last Saturday night. The result was a 25-23 victory for the home lads.

The game opened with slow passing, until Kauber took the ball down the floor to sink a neat fielder to open the counting. Teegarden accepted a charity and Bostwick sank a long shot to give Antioch the lead, which they maintained throughout the first half. Early with a hook shot and Seeman with a free toss brought the total to 6-2, before Kauber again found the loop for another fielder. Kerschbaum made a basket just before the gun cracked to bring the score to 14-10 in favor of Antioch.

As in the Otterbein game, the Lutherans came back strong in the second frame, only this time they weren't to be stopped. Haub took the tip-off from Kerschbaum to dribble in for a sensational shot. Shortly after Haub was injured, but came around with the smelling salts. Kerschbaum tied the score at 14-all. The lanky center repeated and Cap jumped into the lead, which it maintained until the end of the game. Kauber made a charity. Teegarden and Bostwick did likewise, and the score stood 17-16. Then Haug staggered in under the basket and pushed the ball in for another pair of markers. Kauber added two more free tosses. Bostwick charities and Kauber heaved a pretty one through after a nice dribble. Seeman went out on personals, enabling Haub to count two gift throws. Teegarden dribbled in and shot. Kauber fouled him and the basket was good. Teegarden added the two donation shots and Kauber was out via the personal route. O'Connor was able to connect for a beautiful long effort just before the game ended.

Is Still Studying at 81 Years

"It is never too late to learn," is the motto of Douglas C. Drake, 1616 Franklin avenue, who is the oldest student in the Columbus schools, and older than any members of the faculty. Mr. Drake, who is 81 years of age, is studying lip-reading at Central Evening school.

At the age of 17 Mr. Drake enlisted in the 133rd Regiment Ohio Volunteer Infantry and was quartered at Camp Chase. Later the regiment was sent to Fort Powhatan near Petersburg, Va., and the boy's first encounter with the enemy was at Petersburg, in June, 1864. During his years of service his hearing was impaired and it is to overcome the difficulties caused by his deafness that he is returning to school in his old age.

Principal To Speak

H. C. Dieterich, principal of the Bexley schools, will go to Chillicothe Tuesday to speak before the Kiwanis club on "Abraham Lincoln." The following Tuesday he will address the Rotary Club at Bucyrus.

RECEPTION TO PUBLIC MARKS FORMAL OPENING TO NEW UNIT

President and Faculty Members Welcome Visitors to Conservatory and Dorm

NAME TRIBUTE TO MEES

The Bexley and Columbus public was welcomed and was given an opportunity to inspect the new Mees Conservatory of Music and the Girls' Dormitory at Capital university Wednesday afternoon and evening, when the formal opening of the first unit in the $1,500,000 building program of the school took place.

Official opening hours were from 2:30 until 5 in the afternoon and from 7:30 until 10 in the evening. Guests were welcomed by President and Mrs. Otto Mees, Dean and Mrs. R. V. Smith and by women members of the faculty including Miss Justine Eich dean of women; Miss Dorothy F. Conrad, librarian; Mrs. G. C. Guest, assistant dean of women; Mademoiselle Lina Moanier, professor of French; Mrs. Santiago Gutierrez, professor of Spanish; Miss Clara Loum of the department of education and Miss Helene Schmidt, instructor of physical education.

Guests Register

Every guest was asked to register and the committee in charge of registration was headed by Miss Frieda Michelfelder of New Washington. In the girls' dormitory Miss Naomi Miller of Piqua was chairman of the guide committee and Miss Martha Zimmerman was chairman of the music committee.

During the reception musical selections were offered by piano, violin and voice students and instructors and by the University Glee club and orchestra. School was dismissed for the afternoon, that students might help in showing visitors over new buildings and over the campus.

President Mees was singularly honored by the action of the board of trustees, which made official the naming of this new $250,000 music hall and auditorium, Mees hall in his honor. Dr. Mees, the trustees felt, was to a large extent responsible for the origin and early growth of the Conservatory of Music, which now operates the largest extension department of any conservatory in the state, having 20 branch studios in different cities.

MRS. SHEDD GIVES GIRL SCOUTS NEW SUMMER CAMP SITE

A lovely camp site, to be located on the high banks of a small springfed creek, is to be placed at the disposal of the Franklin County Girl Scouts, through the generosity of Mrs. Frederick Shedd, 264 North Drexel avenue, it was announced at the annual meeting of the Girl Scout Council held Monday in the executive headquarters, 175 South High street.

Mrs. Shedd, who owns a large farm 11 miles north and west of West Jefferson, off the Mechanicsburg road has set aside a large portion near a shady creek, for the use of Girl Scouts. Whether the site will be ready for next summer will depend upon whether camp buildings can be erected in time, Mrs. Selden H. Trumbull, 906 East Broad street, said Thursday.

The Franklin County Scouts have a camp site on Big Darby, so that if the Shedd farm is not ready by next summer, the girls will have two swimming holes.

Mrs. Trumbull is the new commissioner of the council. Other East side women elected to the council are Mrs. L. S. MacPhail, 177 Woodland avenue, second deputy commissioner, and Mrs. A. W. Kuhns, 200 Woodland avenue, treasurer.

KETNER CONTINUES AS NATIONAL OFFICER

F. G. Ketner, 2559 Fair avenue livestock marketing specialist for the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation, has been reelected secretary-treasurer of the National Livestock Producers' association, after having served for two years in the office. He is also secretary-treasurer of the National Producers Stocker and Feeder Pool association, a subsidiary organization which purchases cooperatively feeder livestock from the range for corn belt feedlots.

The cooperative work done by the association is noteworthy in this day of discussions about the necessity of farmer cooperation. Recent reports show that 13 terminal cooperative livestock commission associations, making up the national group, have purchased and sold livestock to the value of $50,000,000 during 1927.

SECOND SEMESTER OPENS AT BEXLEY AND EAST HIGH

Majority of Mid-Year Graduates At Both Schools to Continue Studies There

ONE NEW TEACHER

The second semester has started off in the Bexley schools with no interruption of routine schedules and with little change of personnel. School was dismissed last Friday afternoon to allow the teachers to make reports and to adjust class-room schedules, but the administrative system worked so well, H. C. Dieterich, the principal, declared, that when the pupils began their second semester work Monday morning, they carried on their regular class work as usual.

The few pupils of the Bexley high school who completed their courses in the mid-year are going on with their high school work and will not receive their diplomas until June. The only addition to the teaching staff is G. E. Elliott, who is to have classes in English and mathematics in the Junior High school in Cassingham road. Mr. Elliott formerly taught in the high school at Ironton, Ohio.

Two groups from the 6th A grade in the Bexley grade school entered the Junior High school, but no new pupils were received at the senior high school.

East high school students enjoyed two days' vacation Thursday and Friday, while the administrative staff of the high school made preparations for the new semester to open Monday. Most of the 9 boys and girls, who finished their work and were eligible for diplomas at the end of the first semester, will remain in school until June.

EDITORIAL—EASTERN TIMES

The Editor Asks Your Cooperation

A real community newspaper is one which represents the community in every phase of its activities, civic, business, educational, social, religious and and political. What one person is interested in, another may not care to read about; what a housewife looks for first may be the page or column that is totally neglected by the high school boy or the downtown business man. To catch the attention of all, the community newspaper must cater to the varied interests of all.

The Eastern Times has that ideal before it continually, to cater to the varied interests of every East Sider and Bexley resident. We try to cover every inch of territory, but without a large editorial staff, it is impossible to talk to every reader every week. May we ask each one of you to regard this editorial as a personal conversation with you, in which we are telling you that we want and need your cooperation in gathering items of interest to you and your families?

The point of all these remarks is that The Eastern Times would be very happy if you would send into the office any items, large or small, that you may come across week by week. The office is centrally located at the corner of Miller avenue and Main street and we would like to have you drop in to see us. But if you do not have time for that, call the telephone numbers listed above or write the item out and mail it to us. Our ideal is a real community paper and we cannot attain that ideal without your cooperation.

MAY HONOR JOHN S. JONES

The late John Stephen Jones of the Sunday Creek Coal Co., father of Mrs. W. E. Tytus, 248 North Parkview avenue, may be memorialized in the giving of his name to the new viaduct on State Route No. 16, where this road leaves Granville to start to Columbus. Construction of the new traffic bridge has been ordered by State Highway Director George F. Schlesinger and the state highway department in considering designating it as the John S. Jones Memorial, because of the interest Mr. Jones took in the promotion of good roads.

The viaduct will eliminate a one-way bridge, a blind crossing and three sharp curves, traffic hazards which have caused many accidents. The structure, to cost $180,000, will lead from the end of Cherry street, Granville, to a bend in the Columbus road, making an even grade and a gradual curve. It will span the New York Central R. R. tracks and Raccoon Creek, doing away with curves in the present road, which still follows the old path of a pioneer trail.

Enjoys Delicious Terrapin

Dr. Edward Reinert, 115 North Cassingham road, who is spending a month's holiday near Biloxi, Miss., is enjoying the delicate and delicious sea food there, especially the terrapin, according to letters received by his friends. He tells that the wonderful diamond back turtles, which are sold in eastern markets at $1 an inch, are to be had, only when three or four days of cold has driven them from their accustomed haunts in the brackish bayous, to bury themselves in the sandy mud along the shores. When the tide goes out the hunters wade along in the shore mud and spot the animals with trained eye.

The Truth Seekers of the Wilson Avenue Reformed church will meet at the home of Misses Marie and Aletha Miller on Thurman avenue.

GOCKENBACH IS TO REENTER POLITICS, IS INTIMATION

Bexley Man May Stand For Legislature, While Retaining Business Connection

NOT COUNTY CANDIDATE

It has been intimated to The Eastern Times that Harold C. Gockenbach 63 Cunningham road, will be the first to announce himself as candidate for nomination as member of the Ohio legislature. This piece of political news will come as a surprise to all, except close friends of Mr. Gockenbach who have been urging him to enter the legislature, because of the service he would be able to render as the result of his previous political experience.

Only last week downtown political writers were suggesting the name of Mr. Gockenbach as a potential candidate for the nomination as county treasurer, for which office Otto F. Ehring and Harry B. Richter are already in the field. A certain group has been touting him for that office, but for several reasons, Mr. Gockenbach is more favorably inclined toward the idea of standing for state legislature than for the county office, it is said.

Although Mr. Gockenbach likes politics, he also is deeply interested in business, and as he would prefer to combine the two, rather than devote himself exclusively to the county office, he is listening to the suggestions that he run for the state office. At the expiration of his term of office as clerk of courts, he became secretary of the Dollar Building & Loan association, an office he would be able to continue to hold, if he became a law-maker.

Mr. Gockenbach was born on the East Side and has always lived in that community.

To Handle Footgrip Replacement Fenders

Fred W. Heiser of the Miller-Main garage, 1418 East Main street, has been awarded the exclusive rights in the county to handle the Fostoria fender, a replacement fender for all makes of cars. He is carrying 187 different models of fenders, a thing that he is able to do because he uses the whole upper floor of his garage as a storing space. The Fostoria company is the only company in the United States which is making fenders for all cars.

Mrs. Boyer Dies

The death of Mrs. Margaret Weir Boyer, wife of Rev. Mr. James W. Boyer, retired Presbyterian minister, 1601 Bryden road, occurred Tuesday after a long illness. She is survived in addition to her husband by two daughters, Miss Ellen Boyer and Miss Esther Boyer. The latter left Jan. 25 for a Mediterranean cruise, acting as hostess on the S. S. Transylvania.

BOYS ARE TO BE BELLES OF SENIOR JUNIOR BALL

Consider and pity the fate of boys who have to affect feminine coyness and wait for invitations from girls to a dancing party; imagine the feelings of girls who have to cast aside traditional shyness and invite their boy friends to escort them to the same dancing party!

Such is the state of affairs at Bexley High school, where the senior-junior party Friday night, is to be in the form of a leap year dance. 'Tis said that the boys are exercising the privilege, usually sacred to the other sex, of refusing a second or third invitation, "because of another engagement," but in spite of such setbacks, more than 75 have signed up to be present.

Charles Tracy, president of the senior class, announces that the honor guests are to be Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Dieterich, Mrs. Russell Kessler and Mr. and Mrs. Carlton Smith. Stewart Hirsch is chairman of refreshments; Dorothy Kelley of decorations; Jane Hedesick of programs and William B. Diehl of clean-up activities. The faculty sponsors are Miss E. Clare Schuster and Miss Ella McCormick.

There will be entertainment for those who do not dance.

HIS FRIENDS URGE THAT HE STAND FOR LEGISLATURE

HAROLD C. GOCKENBACH

Political dope has it that Mr. Gockenbach will be a candidate for the nomination as member of the state legislature. He is secretary of the Dollar Building and Loan Co.

CHOIR IS TO GIVE FIRST CONCERT IN NEW MEES HALL

Dayton Men and Women, Sixty In Number, Aim at Worship and Artistry

CLOSES TOUR HERE

The opening concert in the new Mees Music Hall at Capital university will be given Tuesday evening by the Dayton Westminster Choir under the direction of John Finley Williamson. This choir, which ranks with St. Olaf's as one of the best in the country, is now on an extensive tour of the West and South, including Indiana, Illinois, Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas, and Louisiana. Glowing reports have come from their performances in these states which were given for the chief purpose of improving choral singing in churches. The choir closes its tour with the Capital university concert.

The Westminster Choir, which consists of sixty voices, men and women, was started six years ago by Mr. Williamson. It was the outgrowth of a system of choral directing and singing, built up by Mr. Williamson with its aims of worship and artistry.

The group sings without accompaniment and from memory. Mrs. Lorean Hodapp, well known Dayton soprano, will be the leading soloist.

Tickets for the concert may be obtained at the Capital University Conservatory Box Office, from February 1 on; at Heatons Music Store on February 9th; or at any Lutheran Church in Columbus.

Tragic Homecoming

Edwin S. Stotz, 515 Fairwood avenue, has received news of the death of his brother-in-law, Dr. J. J. Encke of Aurora, Ill. Mrs. Encke spent the week end with Mr. Stotz and his family the first of February, returning to her home last Wednesday. The following Monday her husband died suddenly.

In "Dulcy" Cast

Mary Louise Miller, Richard T. Boster, Alice Knepper, Benjamin Harmon, Mary Kaufman and James McDowell are in the cast of "Dulcy" to be presented by East High school pupils Feb. 16.

FOUR HUNDRED TO GATHER AT DINNER

The annual Father and Son dinner sponsored by the Bexley Parent-Teacher association will be held Thursday, Feb. 16 in the Junior High school building. Four hundred are expected to be present at the dinner, tickets for which may be obtained at the school buildings.

Mrs. Roy Wildermuth is in charge of the dining room and Mrs. Wendell Beggs of the supper. Rabbi Tarshish will speak and there will be entertainment by a magician. A moving picture comedy will complete the program, which will end at 9 p. m., owing to the fact that Thursday is a school night.

The annual Lincoln banquet of the Brotherhood of the Grace Lutheran church will be held Tuesday evening at the church. Edward C. Turner will be the speaker.

SPECIAL PROGRAM FOR BIRTHDAY OF GREAT PRESIDENT

All Bexley Schools Will Recall Lincoln's Memory By Patriotic Exercises

All the Bexley schools will celebrate Lincoln's birthday with special programs Monday afternoon. The high school pupils will gather in the auditorium with Robert Long, a senior, presiding. Marjorie Dieterich will speak on "Lincoln, a Master of Men"; Mildred Jones will read the story "The Perfect Tribute", Katharine Englehart will give "A Tribute to Lincoln" and Ellis Neunhers will recite "Oh, Captain, My Captain."

Musical numbers will include songs by the whole school, a vocal solo by Helen Wildermuth, a piano solo by Jean Brightman, a piano duet by Mary Schneider and Margaret Johnson, an instrumental duet by Eleanor and Martha Ludwig and singing by the Boys' Glee club.

In the Junior High school and in the grade school the boys and girls will tell stories of the life of Lincoln and will give recitations, readings and musical numbers.

The debating team of Bexley high school will meet South High school in the second annual contest some time in March or April. The question up for discussion is "Resolved—That the primary system of nominating candidates for office should be abolished in the United States." Each school will have two teams so that both sides of the question can be defended by both schools.

The debaters for Bexley High are; Dorothy Gockenbach, Morris Mattlin, Dorothy Kelly, Paul Taber, Ruth Phalor and Arch Houstle. Miss Alice Brooks of the public speaking department and H. C. Dieterich, superintendent, are the coaches.

VILLAGE TEAM TO PLAY GRANVILLE

Bexley Girls Will Meet Capital U. —Louis Russell May Be in Boys' Lineup

By "Bud" Lawfer

The Bexley High school basketball team will play host to the Granville quintet, Saturday evening, at the new Junior High gym on Cunningham rd. A preliminary tilt between the Bexley girls and a girls team from Capital University is billed to open the program at 7:30.

Little is known at the Bexley camp about the Granville lads, altho it is rumored that they are a strong aggregation, having defeated Newark, a Class A team. Practice at the suburban school has been interrupted this week, so prospects for a victory are not so bright.

The opening lineup will probably find Milbourne at center in the place of Ross, Zuber and Elder at forwards and Woodward and Hirsch at the guard posts. There is a possibility that "Louis" Russell, captain of the team who was ineligible last semester because of his studies, will see service Saturday night.

The Upper Arlington basketball teams rather upset Bexley's plans last Saturday night, in the Arlington gym. The Bexley teams had an idea they would carry off at least one win at the north-end school, but the Arlington lads evidently had the same kind of an idea, for when the smoke of the battle cleared away, Upper Arlington had hung up two victories over the Bexley cagers. Bexley boys lost out 24 to 15, and the girls were defeated 23 to 18.

MOTHERS TO BE IN DEMAND MARCH 3

Mothers, both real and borrowed, will be in much demand at Capital university March 3, when Mothers' Day will be celebrated on the campus. Mothers are to come from out-of-town to visit their daughters, but if it happened that any should not be able to get here, the co-eds are planning to adopt other women just for the day.

A mother and daughter banquet will be held in the new dormitory dining-room, where members of CAP, the co-ed organization, will put on an appropriate program.

MISSES PREFER LESS ORNATE PRESENTS FOR VALENTINE'S DAY

Fancy paper, trimmed with lace and ornamented with fantastic cupids and outstretched bows and arrows, with deep red hearts, blue forget-me-nots, and crinkled paper puffs, no longer are looked upon with favor as Valentine gifts by the misses of courting age.

This is the edict handed out by proprietors of the variety shops of the East Side who have made their shops very gay and festive for the holiday of true lovers, Feb. 14. A box of candy or a bouquet of posies has almost entirely taken the place of the elaborate what-not, they say, and it is only the old-fashioned folk, usually an elderly gentleman or a white-haired lady, who calls for the typical valentine of their youth.

"Only recently," one variety shop merchant confided, "I had a customer of rustic appearance, who asked for a valentine for his best girl and walked unerringly toward the shelf of ornate German valentines. It took all my knowledge of salesmanship to persuade him to take her a box of candy along with a rather plain Valentine card, rather than to spend a dollar on a cobwebby doo-dad of hearts and flowers."

The favorites among the large variety of valentines handed by the East Side merchants are the mechanical greeting cards, the eyes and heads of which turn coquettishly to make the sentiment more effective.

GARBAGE DISPOSAL IS NOT ONE OF BEXLEY'S WORRIES

Residents of Bexley were congratulating themselves on their foresightedness Tuesday, when the plight of the village of Upper Arlington came to their notice. That village, which has had a contract with a man for carting away garbage, was notified then that he would no longer do the work after March 1. With only 30 days to make other [illegible] the village fathers were scratching their heads in bewilderment.

Bexley need fear no such dilemma. The government owns two dump and hires men to collect garbage from every house in the village once every week. The refuse is then sold to Farmer Walters, who lives northeast of Bexley, and who feeds it to his drove of hogs.

Lincoln's Birthday Is Celebrated

Most of the schools in the East side district will have special Lincoln day programs Monday morning, to commemorate Lincoln's birthday, which comes on Sunday.

Recitations and songs will be given by the children at Fairwood, Fair Avenue, East Main Street and Ohio Avenue schools, while at Livingston Avenue school, there will be a patriotic program commemorating both Lincoln and Washington later in the month.

THREATEN TO BREAK UP DEBATE DATE

"I want to sit with my girl," was the complaint of Merril Rarick Wednesday night as he arrived at the new music hall at Capital university to hear the debate with Otterbein. "And my tickets are for seats 3 and 5, which lets someone sit between us."

"This place must have awfully long rows," spoke up Harold Mullenhop, "My ticket is for seat 101. Can you imagine that?"

Harm Harms, the director, to whom both complaints were directed, was able to straighten out the tangle in a moment with an explanation as to the seating arrangement. To the left of the stage, the seats are numbered 2-4-6, etc., and to the right they are numbered 1-3-5, etc. The first seat bears the numeral 101 and the sections are named A-B- and C. This system, the most up-to-date worked out by seating experts, though confusing at first to young men who want to sit with their girls, eliminates much confusion, when it is understood, Mr. Harms says.

Uniformed Nurses To Sing

The Nurses' Chorus of the White Cross hospital, consisting of 24 young women dressed in uniform, will give a second concert at the Miller Ave. Evangelical church Sunday evening. Rev. Mr. C. L. Allen, the pastor, will preach on "Our City's Greatest Problem—Or Why Young People Go Wrong."

EAST SIDE GUEST TO GIVE BIBLE TALK OVER WCAH

N. D. Edwards, Bible student, of Portsmouth, Ohio, is the week-end guest of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gould, 2590 East Main street. Mr. Edwards will give a radio talk Sunday, at 11:45 a. m., over WCAH on "Parables of the Kingdom." In his honor Mr. and Mrs. Gould will entertain as dinner guests Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. George H. Zimmerman of the Fort Hayes hotel. Mrs. Edwards probably will accompany Mr. Edwards to Columbus.

SIXTH A STUDENTS SAY FAREWELL TO THEIR CLASSMATES

PROGRAMS ARE GIVEN

Farewells were said publicly and privately and new school contracts were made by a large number of East Side pupils during the past week end, when the first school semester ended and the second one began. In all of the elementary schools in the district programs were held in honor of the Six A boys and girls, who left their first school home for junior high schools, some of them attaining the dignity of graduation exercises.

A large and handsome portrait of George Washington was given to the Fairwood Avenue school by the 46 boys and girls, who were leaving to go to Franklin, Pilgrim and Roosevelt junior high schools, at exercises held Thursday. The gift was a surprise to the teachers and to the principal, Miss Lou Thompson, to whom it was presented by Evelyn Beery, president of the school. Henry Cowan made a speech on behalf of the 6 A class, thanking the teachers for their help, and the class sang its song. Many parents were present.

Teachers Given Flowers

The program at East Main Street school consisted of the teachers' and other pupils' farewell to the graduates and of the graduates' farewell to their building. At the final assembly Wednesday morning class recitations and the class history were heard and gifts of flowers were made to the principal, Miss Ruby MaMahan, and to 6 A teachers. Miss Lois Harbage, director of the Franklin County Scouts, spoke on Girl Scout activities. Twenty-nine 6 A pupils and two pupils from the night-saving class left for Franklin and Roosevelt high schools.

In honor of the 35 students who left Fair Avenue school for Franklin Junior high, graduation exercises were held Thursday afternoon with an address by the principal, Miss Rose Hammond, and recitations and musical numbers by the boys and girls. The members of the 6 B class, which entered the 9 A, acted as hostesses at the party for parents and graduates, which followed.

The Glee club of Ohio Avenue school gave a sing Thursday afternoon for the pleasure of the 38 pupils who left for Franklin and Roosevelt Junior High. E. E. Garwick, principal of Livingston Avenue school gave a farewell address Thursday afternoon to his class of 38, who have entered Roosevelt and Franklin schools.

Franklin Junior High received 180 new pupils for the second semester and sent 65 to East and Central Senior High. Roosevelt Junior High received 150 new pupils and East High's registration was added to by the same number.

Youthful Patrol Officers Clear Streets For Pupils

Fishing Poles Bearing Red Flags Used As Stop Signals To Motorists

Fitted out with wide white Sam Browne belts and wearing large patrol badges, upon which are printed the words, "Safety Patrol Officer—Elementary Schools", 10 to 12 year-old officers of the school patrol of East Main Street school are successfully directing traffic for the benefit of their school mates.

For the purpose of seeing the small children of the building safely across Main street at their rush hours, from 8:10 until 8:30 o'clock; from 12:40 until 1 o'clock and immediately after three o'clock, the boys who have completed their training under the auspices of the Columbus Automobile Club and their principal, Miss Ruby McMahan, have taken charge of adjusting traffic. Two captains have been named, Robert Fancher, aged 11, 1580 East Main street; and Edward Warren, aged 12, Rich and Twenty-second streets; and two lieutenants, Raymond Earhart, aged 10, 710 Kimball Place and Roy Merchant, aged 12, 562 Lilley avenue. Claude Hayes is a guard and a corps of privates is under training.

Thirteen feet bamboo fishing poles, on the end of which are red flags, bearing the word "Stop" in white, are the magic wands which the patrol waves to guarantee safety for his small charges. The children gather in groups at the street crossings and it is the duty of the patrol-man to interrupt traffic as seldom as possible. When a crowd of youngsters is ready the young officer lowers his red flag and motorists are obliged to stop until they are safely across. Any driver who disregards the signal is reported to the principal.

W. S. Bird, manager of the auto club, intends to install the same system at Roosevelt and Livingston avenue schools.

Has Narrow Escape From Death In Auto

An accident, in which an East side woman narrowly escaped death, took place at the corner of Oakwood avenue and Mooberry street last Friday, when the automobile being driven by Mrs. John W. Vernon, 907 Champion avenue, was struck by a car driven by Allen P. Roe, 828 Woodland avenue. Mrs. Vernon was going south on Oakwood avenue and was halfway across, when she felt the impact of another car.

The Vernon car turned over and pinned her underneath, the top striking the top of her head. She was extricated by passers-by and taken to her home, where it was found she had cuts on her head and bruises on her body. Mrs. Roe, who was riding with Mr. Roe, was cut also. Crowds gathered Saturday at the corner of Miller avenue and Main street to watch the installation of a new traffic control light, one of ten being placed at East Side intersections, mainly for the safety of school children. The crowds marvelled at the number of ropes, poles and workmen needed, as well as at the large amount of cables.

LINCOLN'S SIMPLICITY

February, though the shortest month of the year, is the champion one for birthdays and festive days, Lincoln, Washington, St. Valentine, Victor Hugo, Lanier, Whittier, Longfellow and Edison being some of the sons of the second month. The schools on the East Side are all to celebrate Lincoln's natal day with appropriate programs, which makes interesting to them two previously unpublished letters of the favorite president, while he was a member of Congress in Washington in 1848. Theye were printed in the current issue of Collier's Weekly.

"Suppose you do not prefix the 'Hon' to the address on your letters any more. I like the letters very much, but I would rather they should not have that upon them," he wrote. Titles never impressed this great man overmuch. He was too busy doing the work that he felt called to do, to waste time preening himself about what he had already done.

Do you know of any East Side residents, children or adults, who have birthdays on Feb. 29? If so, send along their names and addresses, so that the other readers of "The Eastern Times" can congratulate them vicariously through our columns. We hope also to have a complete list of East Side babies born on that day and we can make the list complete, only if our readers assist us. Use our office as a clearing house of interesting East Side news.

The Parent Teacher association of Fair Avenue school met Wednesday to celebrate the 31st anniversary of the founding of the Congress of Parents and Teachers. Five Hours Later:--

Home again—weary, nervous and dreading the moment you must tell husband of the dented fender. Lastly, but not leastly, you are not at all pleased with what you thought were bargains.

Isn't it the Truth?

Isn't the above a history of many of your downtown shopping trips? And haven't you a friend down the street who spends wearying hours taking in almost every sale advertised by the big down town stores? Somehow or other these sales hold a strange fascination for her. She even buys things she really does not need and that are not a genuine saving in price. The folly of all this is not always realized and the remedy not considered.

In the first place you go right past your community store where you can transact much of the same business you go down town for and at no greater expenditure—usually less—with the additional saving in time and energy.

In this connection let us not overlook the more personal service you receive when dealing among people who learn to know you individually and learn to know your likes and dislikes. Another thing worth while bearing in mind is the confidence you may feel knowing that these merchants are operating on a small scale and in their own neighborhood, where they must build up and maintain their reputation upon the strength of the merits of every service and every piece of merchandise handled.

Of course it is understood that not all of your needs are available nong your community merchants. But if you will acquaint yourself with the many services offered you conveniently, you will find many, many ways you can save yourself the griefs connected with unnecessary and wearying trips down town.

Watch your community merchants' window displays. Visit his place of business the next time you go down to the corner and give him an opportunity to serve you. The easiest and most profitable way, however, is to glance at their messages in The Eastern Times advertising columns when you are perusing the columns for East Side and Bexley news. There you will find that he tells you every week of his services or quotes you special prices that will b genuinely enlightening and profitable to you.

Then the next time you start down town pause just long enough to consider whether you could save yourself time, money and energy by buying your service or merchandise in your neighborhood.

EAST SIDE MAN ADVISES LAWN PREPARATION NOW

It is of the utmost importance that preparation be begun now for spring planting or improvement of your lawn. You cannot wait until May or June to plant seed and then expect a luxuriant and enduring lawn to develop from your efforts, if you have not started months before in a definite program of soil preparation.

The soil should be prepared to a depth of at least three inches—better still, six to eight inches by the application of proper fertilizers, suitable to your particular soil conditions and the correct "working up" of the soil. In applying fertilizers and other preparations now, you have the advantage of a natural process—thawing and freezing—which is highly beneficial and eliminates the necessity of hours of digging and raking later on.

I will be glad to study your lawn and advise you as to the needs of your individual yard and will take a personal interest in it, or I will send a small booklet, a manual, "The Seeding and Care of Lawns", giving complete instructions for every step in lawn work.

If you are interested in large estate lawns or golf courses, I am also in a splendid position to help you being connected with the O. W. Scott and Sons Co., growers and importers of Scott's Creeping Bent and Scott's Lawn Seed.

BOYS WHO STOLE AUTOMOBILE HERE ARE APPREHENDED

Are Suspected of Escaping From Custody and Murdering Sheriff's Deputies

STUDENT SEES THEFT

Main street in front of Bexley High School was the scene Tuesday of a daring robbery on the part of two young men, believed to have escaped from Sheriff's deputies on their way to the Pendleton, Ind., reformatory and to have killed or done away with those deputies, who were escorting them to the reformatory.

The Chevrolet coupe belonging to Joseph Sculler, 2528 Sherwood road, had been parked by his son, Simon Sculler, outside the high school building. About 1:00 o'clock Robert Fetsinger, 611 College avenue, who was in the study room overlooking the street saw two youths drive up in a Chrysler roadster, stop, abandon it and climb into the Sculler car. He thought that some one of Simon's friends were morrowing his auto and he did not report the incident. At three o'clock young Sculler discovered the loss and notified Bexley police and the Franklin County sheriff.

The sheriff's car started in pursuit but was outdistanced. Later in the day the youth's were captured at St Clairsville by Belle County sheriff's deputies following a gun battle. Both of the prisoners had bandaged hands and they were carrying two automatic pistols and a road map, on which a route from Decatur, Ill. was traced. They had abandoned the Sculler car after a filling station attendant called the sheriff as a result of their suspicious actions, and had fled to woods where they opened fire on the deputies. Deputy Sheriff Wayne Street returned fire and wounded one of the boys in the leg. Both surrendered.

They gave their names as Albert Jennings, 17, and Frank Forbes, 17, but it is believed that they are John Burns and Samuel Barker who are wanted in Indiana. They are being held pending identification by Indiana officials. The roadster which the boys abandoned is owned by Paul Bayiol of Springfield for whom the Bexley police are holding it.

We See Ourselves As We Were Twenty-Five Years Ago

Old-timers in the Miller-Main district are amused and interested in the photograph of the north-west corner of those streets, taken in 1902 by Harry McCann, 2415 Sherwood road, and displayed in the window of his store this week.

The twenty-five year-old photograph shows that there was only one two-story building on that corner, the one occupied by Zimmerman & Co., grocery, with apartments above. To the west of it was Harry McCann & Co., dry goods and notions, the only business which still exists today. Next to him was the tiny shop of Dick Grobe, barber, then Zimmerman's meat shop, then the office of Dr. Overly, all of which space is now occupied by Mr. McCann's enlarged store. Where M. L. Walters' saloon and pool-room was located in 1902, the Stearns-Knight sales-room is situated today.

The council takes charge of the assembly meetings each day and help with duties about the building, assigned by the teachers and principal.

Bryden Road Scout Gets Rare Life Saving Medal

Hailed as a hero by Governor Donahey, by Max Stearn, president of the Columbus Council of Boy Scouts and by Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Kattus of Cincinnati, parents of eight-year-old Carol Kattus, Robert Dingledine, jr., 16, who saved Carol from drowning, was awarded the life-saving medal of the Boy Scouts of America Monday night at the Neil House. Robert is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Dingledine, 2371 Bryden road.

"Let it be an epic in your life and it is my hope that you may always show others how to live so constructively," Governor Donahey said to the young hero Tuesday morning when he formally congratulated him.

The brave deed was committed last August at Clear Lake, Ind. Carol and her parents were out in a boat with Robert, Carol trailing her hand in the water. Suddenly she fell in and as she came up the second time, Robert grabbed her sleeve and pulled her into the boat.

"Any Boy Scout would have done the same thing," Robert says, when pressed to tell of the incident, which was worthy of an honor conferred on only 12 other Boy Scouts in the United States.

NEW RESTAURANT OPENED BY FOUR HUNDRED GUESTS

East Side Folks Make Gala Occasion of First Night of New Willard

Four hundred persons dined at the New Willard Restaurant Wednesday evening when the formal opening of Bexley's newest and finest restaurant took place. The dining place, located in the new building at the north-west corner of Main street and Drexel avenue, was gaily decorated for the occasion with flowers on the tables and tiny baskets of nuts and candy, bearing Valentine place cards at each cover. Elbet Hingst and His Commodore Boys played during the evening and there were favors for all the guests.

The restaurant occupies two floors, the ground floor to be used for quick lunches and dining and the second to be divided into three small private dining-rooms, for private parties, bridges and teas. The ground floor is separated into two parts, the east side equipped with a soda fountain and small green and ivory topped tables for refreshments and lunches and the west side to have linen-covered tables for more elaborate service. A corps of chic young girls act as waitresses.

The atmosphere of the restaurant is one of beauty and colorfulness. The floor is of brown and white Terrazo marble and the soda fountain is of Pasadena tile in vivid colorings. Cushioned stools form a ring around the fountain and there is a foot-rest fashioned of the tile. The background of the fountain is of black marble with lights in candle effect and at the sides are walnut cupboards for the new fountain equipment.

Separating the two parts of the restaurant is a decorative marble bar and to hide the service from the kitchen are elaborate screens. The hand-painted plaster walls are strip-panelled, decorated in green and cream with green and copper draperies of atmosphere gauze embellished with hand embroidery at the windows. Wall lights have tinted parchment shades. The floors of the second floor rooms are carpeted in red and black and the draperies harmonize with that color scheme. G. E. Parthurst was the decorator and constructor of the interior.

Reservations have been made for parties to be held every night for three weeks after the opening, numbers of guests ranging from 10 to 75 people. Willard H. Wendt, who has been operating the Willard Restaurants, one at 1511 East Main street and the other on Main street, just east of Drexel avenue, has disposed of them to devote all his time to the new project.

EAST SIDE BRANCH OPENED BY TAILORS

An East Side branch of the firm of Kirchner and Sons, 397 South High street, will be opened Saturday at 1394 East Main street, near Miller avenue. Kirchner and Sons are merchant tailors and they operate in connection with the tailoring establishment a dry cleaning department. They expect to give the same high-class service which they have given for 20 years at their South High St. address. Francis Kirchner will manage the Main street branch for his father.

FOUNDER OF GWINN COMPANY SUCCUMBS

C. Eugene Gwinn, a founder of the Gwinn Milling Co., East Main street, and a vice president of the company, died Monday afternoon at his home, 1240 Bryden road. He had been suffering with heart disease for a year. Mr. Gwinn, a native of Huntington, W. Va., is survived by his wife, one daughter, Mrs. Milton B. Jones, a son Henry E. Gwinn and a grandson, Gwinn Jones. Burial was made in Huntington Friday.

VICTORY FOR PENSION FUND QUOTA

More than double the quota was subscribed by the First English Lutheran church in the national wide appeal among United Lutheran churches for a four million dollar fund to pension aged and disabled pastors. The quota was $5,000 for the First English church and the members subscribed $12,000. In celebration of the success of the campaign a special victory service will be held Sunday morning.

Too Much Heat

An overheated furnace caused the fire which broke out Wednesday morning at the home of William Canata, 964 Euclaire avenue. Little damage was done, as the fire and water were confined to the basement, the fire coming through in only one spot in the living room. Two weeks ago a similar fire was put out at the Pugh house next door, at 960 Euclaire avenue.

Mrs. Perrin Has Guests

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Goldey, of Philadelphia and their son, Harry Goldey, manager of the Guarantee Trust Co. of London, Eng., were guests for two weeks at the home of Mrs. Frances Perrin, 1399 East Main street.

Mr. Chamberlin Convalescing

N. E. Chamberlin, 515 Linwood avenue, has returned to his home after six weeks' confinement with pneumonia in the Street Railway hospital, Front and Spring streets. Mr. Chamberlin is a dispatcher for the Columbus Railway Power and Light Co., and speaks very highly of the care given him in the company hospital. He is very much improved in health and is convalescing at his home.

Prepare For Revival

Cottage prayer meetings are held Tuesday and Friday evenings during three weeks, beginning this week in the homes of members of the Miller Avenue Evangelical church. They are in preparation for the revival services to be conducted, beginning March 4, by the pastor, Rev. Mr. C. L. Allen, assisted by a musical director, Prof. N. B. Van Dall of Akron.

Mr. Siebert Is Better

Carl L. Siebert, 1760 East Main street, who has been ill at Mt. Carmel hospital, suffering from uremic poisoning, is much better, according to reports from the hospital. He is expected to return to his home this week and to be out in several weeks.

Rabbi To Speak

Rabbi Tarshish of Temple Israel will be the guest-speaker at the community dinner, Thursday, Feb. 23 at the Franklin Park M. E. church. His subject will be "George Washington."

Hears Good Programs

The radio set installed at Livingston avenue school last semester is greatly enjoyed by the pupils there. A loud speaker in each room makes it possible for everyone to listen in, the loud speakers being necessary because the school lacks an auditorium. While President Coolidge was in Havana recently, the children heard his speech and last Friday they listened to Walter Damrosch in New York.

Patriotic Exercises

Programs commemorating the greatness of both Lincoln and Washington will be given by pupils of Livingston Avenue school Friday morning. Individual patriotic programs are to be given in all the rooms of Franklin Junior High this week and next week, Miss Edna Hatton, the principal, has announced.

"ETERNAL SERVANT PROBLEM" IN PLAY

"Playgoers" by Pinero, a comedy in which a housewife attempts to solve the servant problem and fails most amusingly, is to be given by the Dramatic club of Bexley High School Tuesday in the auditorium.

Miss Helen Wildermuth will play the part of "The Mistress"; Paul Taber of "The Master"; Henriette Bush, "The Parlor Maid"; Dorothy Klingbeil, "The Cook"; Mary Peters, "The House Maid"; Mary Wheeler, "The Useful Maid"; Eleanor Ludwig "The Kitchen Maid" and Burton Elder, "The Odd Man." Mrs. Olive Fortenbacher is directing the play, and will give two readings, "Yellow Butterfly" by Mary Raymond Shipman Andrews and "A Sisterly Scheme" by H. C. Bunner.

AVERAGE OF SIX BOOKS A PERSON BEING CIRCULATED

Bexley Library Is Being Used To Remarkable Degree, 1927 Report Shows

FICTION MOST POPULAR

The Bexley Public library is being used to an extent that put it in the model class, according to the report for 1927, just issued by Mrs. R. D. Bilby, director of the library, under the supervision of the library board.

The circulation per capita reckoned on a basis of 5500 inhabitants for Bexley is 6.8 books, with a total circulation of adult fiction, adult non-fiction and juvenile volumes amounting to 37, 596. According to a recent library magazine, a model small library has a circulation of five books per capita, Mrs. Bilby says, so she feels that the village library is being used to a remarkable degree.

Fiction is the more popular than non-fiction for home reading, the reports show, 23,412 books in the fiction class having been loaned during the year, while 8,435 books in the non-fiction class were taken out. Juvenile volumes were enjoyed by 5,758 children.

Of the 1817 borrowers during 1927, 359 were children, and 585 new borrowers were added during last year. The gain in circulation over the preceding year was 13.49% while the number of volumes had been increased from 4,623 to 6,456. More than 2850 books a month have been circulated and the permanent collection has been added to at the rate of 150 books a month.

"The reference service of the library has been available to school students at all times, as well as to borrowers," the report reads. "An average of 109 questions a month are answered. The library offers special reading courses to adults through the 'Reading With a Purpose' series, published by the American Library association. Students numbering 170 were given reading certificates in June for reading ten or more books on the graded lists, compiled by the library in cooperation with the teachers."

One of the big accomplishments of the past year was the addition of a school branch in the Junior High school building. Miss Ruth E. Garbisch and Miss Dorothy Hayes are assistants to Mrs. Bilby. Copies of the report may be obtained at the library and its branches.

East Teacher Hurt

John D. Harlor, 1299 Fair avenue, teacher of social science at East High school, is confined to his home as the result of injuries sustained when he was knocked down by a Dispatch truck last week at the corner of Wilson and Oak streets. His back was wrenched and his hand was cut. He is expected to return to the classroom next week.

New Junior President

Kindergarten Registration

Children, five years of age, are registering for the second semester kindergarten classes at Fairwood avenue, East Main street, Ohio avenue, schools.

February 29 Is Gala Day For Leap Year Celebrants

Persons Born on Extra Day Soon To Have Rare Birthday; Parties Are Planned

When birthdays come but once every four years, they are occasions for rejoicing on the part of those who can remain four times as young as the ordinary person, and are times for congratulation by those who grow a year older on the same day annually. East Side and Bexley folk are rich in members who have a Leap Year origin and who can celebrate their natal day of February 29 only once every four years, with the exception of the century years, when they skip eight years.

Walter G. Kneeland, 877 Carpenter street, born Feb. 29, 1896, was not two years old technically until Feb 29, 1904, so that on Wednesday he will celebrate his seventh birhtday He was a year old, as far as birthdays are concerned, for eight years but for all that, he will be 32 years old this year. Mr. Kneeland is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Kneeland, 2585 East Main street. He is married and has four children living one of the five born to Mr. and Mrs Kneeland having died.

Little Marian Pslaum, 1334 Livingston avenue, was born in 1920 and has seen only two real birthdays, as his little Mary Frances Simcox, 98 Seymour street. Both are pupils in the third grade at Fairwood Avenue school. Robert B. McDowell, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. McDowell, 704 Euclaire avenue, a student in the 7 A class at Bexley Junior High school, is to have his third birthday on Leap Year day.

An afternoon bridge party for 16 guests and an evening dinner party for 16 guests will mark the celebration of the sixth birthday of Mrs. Robert E. Tuite (Helen Kiefer), 980 East Main street. She was born Feb 29, 1904, and is secretary of the Leap Year club, formed in 1920 at a luncheon in the Lazarus tearoom. Her mother, Mrs. Frank E. Kiefer, also of 965 East Main street, will entertain in her honor Wednesday week.

Mrs. L. J. Taber, 970 College avenue, will be nine years old by Leap Year counting, but 40 years old by yearly reckoning. There will be a family dinner in her honor. Leap Year birthdays run in Mrs. Taber's family for she has a cousin who also was born on Feb. 29.

PUBLIC HEARING TO BE HELD BY BEXLEY COUNCIL

Debate on Proposed Garden City Community Petition Is Expected

OPPOSITION MAY COME

A lively interchange of opinion is expected at the public hearing Feb. 27 at 7 p. m. in the Bexley village office building on the petition of Walter Morrison for approval of the proposed community English Garden City, north of Broad street, between Gould road and Roosevelt avenue. The hearing was set by village councilmen at their regular gathering Tuesday evening. The garden city plans call for 73 apartment houses, grouped about playgrounds, and confined to two and three family apartment units, and it is expected that there will be opposition on the part of property owners in Bexley who have exclusive holdings.

Approval of bond issues and assessments for street improvements and paving made up most of the business Tuesday evening, when Robert Wheaton presided in the absence of Mayor Stephen B. Ludwig, who is in New York. Special assessments are to be made for constructing a storm sewer in Clifton avenue; for improving Drexel avenue from Maryland avenue to Caroline avenue, and for improving Walnut street from Maryland avenue to Delmar Drive.

Streets To Be Paved

Bonds amounting to $61,000 are to be issued for paving the village share in improving Dawson avenue from Main street to Fair avenue; Elm avenue from Parkview to Columbia avenue, and from Cassady road to Remington road; Cassingham road from Main street to Fair avenue; Cassady road from Sherwood road to Brentwood road; Havenwood Drive from Euclaire avenue to Cassingham road; Remington road from Powell avenue to south line of Elm avenue; also Fair avenue at Drexel by widening. Other streets are to have a lighting system.

A delegation including John Dunnick, G. A. Sackett, W. J. Keever and A. B. Ashman, representing Dawson avenue property owners, asked that Dawson avenue be not included in the paving program on the ground that owners preferred the rural effect of no sidewalks and that the owners were willing to shoulder the expense of re-surfacing. Council agreed to reconsider the matter if at the next meeting a petition be presented from property owners along the whole length, who would agree to re-surface the whole street.

To Remove Parkway

Decision is to be made at the meeting whether the parkway at Cassingham and Fair avenues is to be removed and whether that at Dawson avenue is to be cut through. It was agreed to equip each police car, the marshal's car and the village office with fire extinguishers to fight automobile fires. The clerk was authorized to advertise for a tractor, for repairing streets, not to exceed $2000 in cost.

The solicitor was authorized to prepare an amendment to the zoning ordinance creating a business district in North Cassady road in the unplotted land from Caroline to Ruhl avenues on the west side of Cassady. The zoning board recommended that North Cassady avenue on both east and west sides of Ruhl avenue, north to south line of railroads be placed in a business zone, all business structures to be of other material than frame and be set back six feet on Cassady avenue and 10 feet on side streets.

Had Tonsil Operation

GET READY FOR CHURCH CONVENTION

Chairmen and committee members for the international convention of the Churches of Christ will meet Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the Wilson Avenue Church of Christ to make local arrangements for the convention to be held at Memorial Hall in April. Robert M. Hopkins of St Louis, chairman of the program committee and H. B. Holloway of St Louis, chairman of the transportation committee, will speak. Rev. Mr Walter Collins, pastor of the Wilson Avenue church, is general chairman for local arrangements.

ORDER OF DE MOLAY TO HOLD CEREMONIAL

Dr. W. L. Ainsworth, 1232 Franklin avenue, chairman of the advisory committee of the Columbus Chapter, Order of DeMolay, affectionately called "dad" for Saturday at 7:45 p. m., at the chapter headquarters, W. O. W. home "the head-ded," announces a ceremonial 36 West College street. Many East Side and Bexley boys are members of this organization, which is national in scope and has chapters in every state as well as in many foreign provinces and dominions.

The initiatory and DeMolay degrees will be conferred on a class of 24 candidates Saturday. All members of the various Masonic bodies are especially invited to witness the conferring of the degrees and to learn the objects of the order. The local chapter has an active membership of 450 boys between the ages of 16 and 20.

NO CHILLS FOR THIS INGENIOUS STUDENT

Sir Harry Lauder's famous line, "It's nice to get up in the morning, but it's nicer to lie in bed," does not hold true in the case of Walter Wiggert, seminary student at Capital university.

This ingenious young man likes to sleep with plenty of fresh air in his room, but he has a natural aversion to dressing in a cold room on winter mornings. Accordingly, Wiggert has rigged up a contraption of ropes and pulleys, which makes it possible for him to close his window by merely pulling a string, and thus avoid the necessity of getting out of bed before the room is warm.

He has received many compliments from friends who have examined his device.

Girls From Mountain District Of Kentucky Attend Bexley School

From the mountain district of Kentucky, the source of so much romantic literature, has come this year two pupils to Bexley High school. They are Miss Margaret Smith, a 16 year old miss from Knott county, Kentucky and her friend, Miss Molly Conley from the same county. Why they chose Bexley as their northern homes is an interesting story.

At Vest, Kentucky, about seven miles from Margaret's mountain home, Delta Zeta national sorority maintains a school, called the Delta Zeta high school. Margaret and Molly both attended the sorority school, living in the dormitory, where lived 24 other girls. More than 100 boys and girls attended the classes there and all maintained contact with the college girls belonging to the chapters of Delta Zeta in all parts of the country, by means of friendly letters, Christmas packages and visits by national officers.

Mrs. Warren A. Stevens, 83 Cassingham road, a member of Delta Zeta became very much interested in the Kentucky boys and girls attending the high school and offered to take one of the girls into her home and give her the advantages of an education in the Bexley high school. Her neighbor, Mrs. C. F. Harms, 89 South Cassingham road, joined in the project. Margaret and Molly were chosen for the opportunity and they arrived in Bexley in the autumn, ready for the big adventure.

Margaret is now a sophomore in the high school and is taking a college preparatory course, intending to train to be a teacher when she enters university. She finds geometry the hardest of her subjects, due to her lack of previous training in advanced mathematics and also due to the fact that she arrived two weeks after school convened and missed the opening lessons. She is very fond of French and English and of cooking.

The current conception of the Kentucky mountains as the home of ignorant, backward people who eat nothing but salt pork and corn pone and who do not know that the World War was fought, is too romantic to be true, Margaret says. Although her mountain home is eight miles from the nearest town and seven miles from the nearest train, she has had a grade school and junior high school education, has often gone to picture shows at Hyman, Ky., eight miles away, and has ridden in automobiles whose the roads are smooth enough. The favorite method of transportation however, in Knott county is on horseback. She lives on a 200 acre farm, where her family raises all sorts of vegetables, and have stock of all kinds, besides mining their own coal for heating and cooking purposes.

The mountain folk would find the hurry and bustle of life in a big city most confusing, Margaret says, and they would be amazed at the opportunity for social life. "Some weeks we don't see anyone except our own family and so of course we don't talk as much as most people do in a big city," she observes. The boys and girls are very fond of the square and barn dances, which are held in the young people's homes, and since they are very musical, they delight in singing the folk songs that have grown up among mountain folk.

Margaret brings out that educational conditions are very much improved in Kentucky since the churches, national sororities and settlement houses have established institutions for the boys and girls. Her mother remembers that when she was a girl, she had to travel seven or eight miles to a tiny school, where they learned nothing more advanced than "readin', writin', spellin', and 'rithmetic."

CAN YOU REMEMBER?

Imagine an East Side bounded on the south by Main street, having an eastern extension in the form of a vague suburb called Bullitt Park and containing only a few scattered homes, and stopping at Franklin Park to the north. This was the picture described by pioneer Miller-Main merchants last week, as they talked of the almost unbelievable progress that Columbus has made eastward within the last twenty-five years.

Foreign critics of American civilization say that America is too new and moves too swiftly to have any traditions. Perhaps that is true, but it is certainly interesting to live in a city that is growing so fast that even young people can remember how fast it has grown. We can remember when there was a frog pond at Champion and Madison avenues and only a mud path beyond, so that when we went there to play, we were always scolded by our mothers for having muddy feet.

We can remember when the driving park occupied a large part of what is now called Bexley, when there were no streets east of Alum creek and no school farther out than the old East High, now Franklin Junior High school. We can remember when the circle occupied the entire center of East Broad street, before Drexel avenue was cut and when it did not matter if traffic was held up, for there were only a few crazy autos in town, which did not often venture as far east as that. And we are not so old either!

GROWING OUTSIDE BOUNDARIES.

In order to introduce a community paper to East Siders and Bexley residents, we have made the distribution a free one, but of necessity the distribution has had to be limited. It now reaches 6,000 homes in the district, including Bexley as far east as Roosevelt avenue and as far north as Broad street. On the East side of Columbus the boundaries are Livingston avenue to the south, Fair avenue to the north and Ohio avenue to the west.

Many families outside those boundaries have complained to the Eastern Times that they feel left out and last week three of those families asked that special arrangements be made for them, that the paper may be sent to their homes and that they may pay the extra cost of distribution. Mrs. O. J. Imes, 760 Chelsea avenue; Mrs. H. B. Donley, 766 Chelsea avenue and Mrs. Harry Reasoner, 778 Chelsea avenue, called in to say they had heard their friends talking about The Eastern Times and they wanted it. One of them explained that she had lived on the North Side for five years and had been used to a community paper and did not want to be without one.

HONOR STUDENTS ARE DESIGNATED FOR FIRST TERM

Pierian Society of Franklin Gives Pins; Ohio and Bexley Post Lists

MUST GET FOUR A's

Honors for scholarship, school spirit and attendance have been awarded at several East Side schools during the first part of the second semester. Pierian Honor society of Franklin Junior High school chose fifteen 9 A pupils because of their exceptionally high scholastic ability and their school spirit. Miss Edna Hatton, principal, made the presentation of the Honor society pins.

Those elected to membership were Regina Arnold, Jane Bates, Elizabeth Dornbirer, Alice Dysart, Carolyn Glover, Mary Hartsough, Mary Grace Hoagland, Virginia Lawson, Sarah McKeever, Esther Rosen, Gertrude Scott, Georgeanna Yuster, Robert Bebb, Donald Compton and Harold Gabriel. Only twenty per cent of the number were boys.

One hundred and fifteen boys and girls at Ohio Avenue school had no grade lower than G during the past six weeks and were posted on the honor roll at the school by Mrs. Margaret Rarey, the principal. An even more coveted honor is that of being included on the list of those present every day last semester and not tardy. That list included:

On List at Bexley

Twenty-three boys and girls are honor students for last semester at Bexley High school. This group represents an exceptionally high grade of scholarship, the standard calling for four grades of A in major subjects and B plus in a minor subject. The following attained that standard:

Vivian Beck, Katherine Englehart, Erna Hart, Dorothy Kelley, Katherine Murray, Jane Roderick, Catherine Singer, Helen Wannemacher, Helen Wildermuth, David Davis, Melissa Jones, Julia Kromer.

Thirty-four students are on the honor roll for the fifth month of the school year, namely, January.

Ohio Avenue Captains

Douglas Miller and Gabrill Brown have been named captains of the school patrol of Ohio Avenue school to regulate traffic for small children as they go to and fro. They are stationed one half block south of the traffic light, which has been installed at Ohio Avenue and Fulton street, to warn autoists not to endanger the lives of the pupils by speeding to avoid stopping for the red light.

WANTED SPRING TONIC BUT GOT BRUISE — BURN STERILIZER

Theodore Hax of Massillon, student at Capital university, will not need a spring tonic this year.

Tuesday he decided that he was blue and run down in health and that he would accept the long-standing advice of grandmothers and old-fashioned doctors and take a tonic. He inquired among his friends for a prescription and was told that Sal Hepatic would answer the purpose. Going to the medicine chest maintained by him and his room mate, he found two bottles, both the same size and neither one labeled.

Smelling of both, he meditated before making a choice. Finally he "counted out", as children do in games, closed his eyes and took a dose. A strange burning possessed him, than a strange soothing sensation. His suspicions were aroused as to the efficacy of the unknown medicine and further investigation proved he had taken Sterizol, an antiseptic for burns and bruises. Theodore will take no more tonics this year.

IMAGINE ORDERING 90 POUNDS OF MEAT

That is a problem that the most experienced housewife would shrink from, even though she had planned menus for her family every day in the year for 20 years. It is a problem, however, that those in charge of the cafeteria at East High school face every day and successfully.

The latest figures show that it takes two and a half bushels of potatoes, ninety pounds of meat, ten gallons of ice cream, 200 half pints of milk, 30 dozen ham sandwiches and 160 dozen other kinds of sandwiches. All food is sold to the hungry young students at cost price.

SCHOOL RIVALRY FANS INTEREST

Dayton Oakwood and Bexley High, Rivals for Two Years, To Try for Supremacy

By "Bud" Lauffer

Friday night for the last time this season, the Bexley quintet will be seen in action on its own floor. Dayton Oakwood, a rival of two years standing is the opposition, and a girls preliminary is also sheduled, this battle carded for the Junior Hi Floor at 7:30.

Now about this crowd from the Gem City, let's go back to the fall of 1926, when the Smith-coached athletes first met the Oakwood lads. That year, this east end school was the proud owner of a football team with an unstained record — eight straight victories and no defeats.

Well, Oakwood High school had a team with much the same kind of a record, only a little better—about 205 points to their credit, and their goal-line uncrossed. To say that Bexley crossed Oakwood's goal line three times during the sixty minutes of play and won, 19 to 0.

Good enough! so the following basketball season, the Smith bunch chartered an interurban, dashed over to Dayton, and came back with another victory, 32 to 22.

Well, along came the track season, and Oakwood put in a bid for a victory on the track, but Bexley romped away with a 69 to 34 victory. A few weeks later Bexley and Oakwood met, this time on the diamond, and once more Coach Smith's warriors came out on top, with a score of 12 to 3.

Last fall, the two teams again opposed each other in Dayton. The result is still being talked about. Bexley won, 19 to 0.

What's this about Oakwood defeating Bexley in girls basketball and tennis. We will credit Oakwood with these victories. They did hand the Bexley lasses a decisive 30 to 9 defeat, and Oakwood's tennis team, one of the best ever seen then—did take a love match from Bexley.

Anyway, all this discussion is meant only to give the customers the right idea about this Bexley-Oakwood game—it's going to be a real battle. Let's come out and give the basketball team some real support for their last contest this season.

Auto Thieves Wanted By Youngstown Police

The two youths who stole the Chevrolet coupe belonging to Joseph Sculler, 2528 Sherwood road, while it was parked in front of the Bexley High school, have been identified as Emil Grandsee and Frank Tornes, 17 year old Youngstown boys, who are wanted there for stealing five automobiles and for three holdups. They were suspected of being the two prisoners of the reformatory at Pendleton, Ind., who murdered two Indiana deputy sheriffs, and then escaped, but fingerprints showed they were not the Indiana fugitives.

Youngstown officers then stepped in and identified them and the boys were transfered from St. Clairsville, O., where they were caught, to Youngstown. The roadster, abandoned in front of Bexley High school when the Sculler car was stolen, was returned to its owner, Paul Bayloi of Springfield, who called for it at the Bexley police headquarters.

Speaks On Health

Dr. Winfield Scott Hall, nationally known lecturer, gave two interesting talks to Bexley High school students Monday. He spoke to the boys and girls in separate groups, dealing with the subject of health and of the problems which concern proper physical development of adolescents. Dr. Hall was brought to Columbus by the Broad Street Presbyterian church.

FLOODED BASEMENT CONDITION TO BE REMEDIED BY STORM SEWERS

Work Will Be Started This Spring on New Drains in Southeastern Section of City

COMPLETED BY AUTUMN

The city engineering department is promising the citizens of the southeastern part of the city that they will have no more flooded basements after September 1, when the southeast sewer relief program will have been completed.

City council has appropriated $200,000 from the sewer relief fund and bids will be taken during the latter part of March or the first of April, after which work will be started. The main line will be located on Gault street and other lines are to be on Bulen avenue, Cole street, Mooberry street, Miller avenue, Fulton street, Mound street, Berkeley road and Kimball Place. The work will be under way this summer, with the specification that it be finished by September 1, O. Bonney, of the city engineering department says.

The flooded basement conditions in houses on the streets to be affected by the new program have resulted from the fact that surplus water has been draining in sanitary sewers which do not take care of enough water. The new storm sewers are designated to carry off the heavy rains during the spring and summer, the periods when the most complaints have been received about water standing in basements.

Storm drains in the southern half of the southeast district are being installed now and are nearing completion, so that workmen can be transferred to the northern half of the section after contracts have been awarded.

Streets affected by the program are bounded by Mound street on the north, Bedford avenue on the west, Livingston avenue on the south and Industrial avenue on the east. They include Mound, Fulton, Cole, Mooberry, Kent, Gault and Livingston avenues running east and west and Bedford, Kimball Place, Lockbourne road, Miller, Kelton, Lilley, Berkeley, Seymour, Fairwood, Bulen and Industrial avenues, running north and south.

LECTURER FROM HOLY LAND DIES

Student At Capital University, Known for Talks on Palestine Passes Away

Afif Nicola Shahla, 26, a native of Palestine who was enrolled in the Theological seminary of Capital university, and who is known throughout Ohio for his lectures on his native land, died at Mt. Carmel hospital Tuesday evening. He had suffered a complication of diseases following an operation for appendicitis, which resulted in a lingering illness lasting for eleven weeks.

Born in Jerusalem on February 14, 1902, he lived at his home and assisted his father as a shepherd boy in the Holy Land for 10 years. Following two years in the employ of the British government he came to Boston in 1921.

In 1922 he came to Columbus and entered Capital university. After taking a special preparatory course in the Lutheran college, he entered the Theological seminary in 1926, and had but one more year of study to complete his education for the Lutheran ministry.

He had completed the requirements for citizenship in the United States and had received his naturalization papers. He was a member of Christ Church, confirmed by Rev. C. V. Sheatsley in 1924.

Delivering illustrated lectures on Palestine and the Holy Land had been Shahla's means of earning his college expenses. He was also enabled to make a visit to his home in Palestine during the past summer by earnings from his lectures.

BYSTANDER IS HERO AT MILLER-MAIN FIRE

Paul Simmons, who was standing on the street at the corner of Main street and Miller avenue Monday night, was the hero of the fire, which broke out in the apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Peake, 1462½ East Main street. A thin place in the gas pipe of the stove in the apartment burned through and flames shot up and enveloped the wall. Mrs. Peake ran to the street with her baby in her arms and Mr. Simmons, hearing her cries, turned in the alarm.

Before the fire-fighting apparatus arrived, however, he had gone to the apartment, supervised the turning off of the gas in the basement and kept the walls surrounding the stove cool, so that they would not ignite. No damage was done. The police car and six units of the fire department arrived after the blaze had been extinguished.

FIRE CAUSED BY HOT ELECTRIC PAD

An overheated electric bed pad caused a small fire at the home of Mrs. Joseph Stancliff, 750 Maplewood avenue, east of Bexley, just after midnight Wednesday night. Twenty-five dollars damage resulted.

THRIFTY BURGLAR COVETS GROCERIES

Piles Up Articles For Pantry Shelves Before Frightened Away by Bexley Police

His wife had evidently prepared a list of groceries needed to fill the bare places on her pantry shelves for the burglar who was surprised in the Kroger store at the corner of Montrose avenue and Main street Tuesday night by Deputy Marshal Robert Bradfield of the Bexley police force. The intruder escaped without his loot.

Deputy Marshal Bradfield noticed an automobile parked in front of the Kroger store between two and three o'clock Wednesday morning, and guessing that something was wrong, called to the man who was working next door to telephone Deputy Marshal C. D. Read at the headquarters. He then inspected the Kroger building and found the glass in the front door broken. Upon entering he came upon a huge pile of groceries, neatly arranged for transfering to the waiting auto. The man had fled out the back, alarmed by the appearance of the officer.

About $30 worth of food, including flour, bread, vegetables, fruit and staples had been chosen by the thrifty burgular and for himself he had laid out cigarettes and tobacco. The automobile which was to carry off the groceries was a stolen one, belonging to W. H. Hyde, 1305 Northwest boulevard. It was taken in charge by the Bexley police.

First Dean Of Women In High School Works Toward Preventing Failures

Colleges and universities have long since realized the necessity of a dean of women to act in an advisory and administrative capacity for the women students, but it remained for Bexley High School to inaugurate the idea in Columbus of a dean of women for high school girls. Miss E. Clare Schooler, also director of physical education for girls, is the first dean of women at the village high school.

Every day during the seventh period, from 2:15 until 3 o'clock Miss Schooler is in her office on the second floor of the high school building to confer with the girls about their problems, educational, social or personal. Her conferences are confidential in character and in most cases are voluntary on the part of the girls.

An important part of her work as dean, however, is concerned with conferences with girls who have failed in one or more studies during the past semester. Miss Schooler calls in each pupil who has fallen below the passing mark, talks to her privately and endeavors to find out why she has not passed. Written reports to H. C. Dieterich, the principal, always kept confidential, are perfect examples of the importance of tactful psychological methods in determining causes for failures. Once the cause is determined it is easy to suggest ways of improving, Miss Schooler says.

"Not enough study" is the comment after one girl's name; "Health poor" is another reason; "Poor attendance because she has crushes"; "No background or foundation"; "She doesn't care"; "Pure laziness and procrastination"; "She tries hard, but cannot retain facts"; "Has no background, because she has moved too much"; "Is flighty, careless and rattle-brained"; "Is careless and sullen at any correction"; "She doesn't stop to think"; "Works hard, but gets too nervous"; "Worries about her studies too much." These are typical findings.

In her dual capacity as dean of women and director of physical education, Miss Schooler gives physical examinations and maintains a first aid station. She has found that the girls are in excellent physical condition, their eyes and their throats being most often in need of attention. In cases of emergency, the pupils are sent to the school doctor, Dr. Merrill Turton.

Miss Schooler is a graduate of Ohio State university and has studied for two summer terms at Columbia university, where she took training for work as dean of women and worked toward her master's degree. For two years she was director of physical education in Beverly Hills, California, and taught the children of such celebrities as Will Rogers.

Illness as a Stimulant

The Eastern Times often has to record that its readers are confined to their homes through sickness or an accident, and although we sympathize most deeply with the patients and with their families, we sometimes wonder if illness is always an unmitigated misfortune.

Most of us are so rushed these days and are so busily occupied with the important or unimportant details of mere living, that we never stop to think. Booth Tarkington has Clare Ambler, his newest character, naively and charmingly remark, that the trouble with the worl dtoday is that people do not think. "You'd think they would," she tells her young admirer earnestly, "but they don't." And her admirer ecstatically agrees that she has discovered the root of all evil.

Perhaps she has. Perhaps we all need a mild sick spell now and then to force us to think. We have grown to depend too much upon superficial reading and entertainment and upon the necessity of rapidly getting from one place to another. We don't have to think deeply to fill our days with activity and so we don't stop to wonder what it is all about.

Perhaps there are some of us who are occupying the wrong niche in business or professional life and do not realize it. Perhaps we would like to study to fit ourselves for something we would like to do better. Perhaps we would like to work out what we really think about religion, or about science, but we have never had time. While convalescing from an illness is an excellent opportunity for concentrated thought. And then it is good for all of us to be thrown upon ourselves for amusement, for recreation. We are apt to think of fun as being a matter of numbers.

Not long ago we spent several months in a hospital with typhoid fever and until then we had never realized how unresourceful we were. Sickness is the best stimulant to stock-taking that we know about.

JUDGE NEWMAN STRICKEN BY HEARTS DISEASE

Stricken with heart disease while at the Athletic club Sunday evening, Oscar W. Newman, 57 Winner avenue, ex-justice of the Ohio supreme court, fell dead before help could come. Mr. Newman had complained of a pain after finishing his dinner and had called Dr. Charles E. Turner but death came before Dr. Turner arrived.

Mrs. Newman was out of town Sunday, visiting at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Paul Kellogg of Champaign, Ill. Mrs. Kellogg, who is the wife of Captain Kellogg of the United States army and head of the R. O. T. C. cadets of the University of Illinois, is the mother of a son born last week.

Judge Newman was born in Portsmouth and entered public life upon being elected prosecuting attorney of Scioto county. Later he served on the common pleas bench of that county and in 1912 was elected justice of the Ohio supreme court, serving until 1918, when he was defeated for reelection. Since that time he has practiced law, with offices at 17 South High street. During the Columbus gas rate controversy he was asked to prepare data, showing both the city's and gas company's side of the case and as a result decided that the 40 cent rate was not exorbitant.

He is survived by his widow and daughter, Mrs. Kellogg.

The COMMUNITY CIRCLE

Dependable
Friendly
Conscientious

and bound together by one outstanding interest---the rendering of SATISFACTORY SERVICE to the People of the EAST SIDE and BEXLEY.

In the midst of your community there stands this sturdy circle of merchants, representing every line of business needed in an average American town. You are truly fortunate in abiding where you are assured of this satisfactory service — a service that is friendly, solicitous, prompt, fair in price and above all DEPENDABLE.

These merchants are all personally interested in your community, its schools, its churches and in you as an individual. In dealing with them you have a personal contact that is missing in the cold, complex organization of larger concerns, and the community merchants know more how to meet the needs and demands of their own particular clientele. They are satisfied with a comparatively small margin of profit, which they in turn put right back to work directly and indirectly toward the betterment of the East Side or Bexley.

The confidence with which you can buy from your community merchant is a worthy feature. Clever imitations, adulterations and "fly-by-night" concerns are thrust upon the public on all sides. Even experts have difficulty in recognizing the genuine. With such conditions existing, you learn to depend much upon the dealer's word. And the community merchant, because his business is less complex and maintained solely on its merits, is the merchant you learn to depend upon.

The public is inclined to be blinded by enormous sales with "big store" fascination and the "big store" name, but for the most part the people on the East Side and Bexley are becoming convinced that "around the corner" is a merchant capable of satisfying most of their wants and with a saving in time, money, and the worry and fatigue of a down-town shopping trip.

The next time you start downtown to shop, check off your list the things you can get in your community, and the next time you lift the receiver to send downtown for service, stop to consider that neighborhood service people are nearer, cheaper and more conscientious.

Then watch the benefits on your family budget, especially on the side of confidence, convenience and fatigue.

National MINERAL WALLBOARD

With a few panels of National Mineral Wallboard and a few hours pleasant work, you can make your garage storm tight, sturdy and comfortable—and your motor will thank you!

Make Your Garage a Real Motor Home

It's risky business to keep your motor car investment protected by no more than a single outside wall.

Winter winds and temperatures not only make a cold garage mighty unpleasant for the owner, but cause the formation of that dangerous "sludge" in the crankcase which may cause far greater expense than the small cost of giving the garage inside walls and ceilings.

For real, fire-proof insulation simply line the studding and rafters with easy-fitting panels of National Mineral Wallboard—the new super-strong wallboard that has the purest gypsum ever discovered.

Let us show you what an easy job it is with National Board—the only plaster wallboard to be backed by the National Gold Bond Guarantee.

FALL IN ELEVATOR SHAFT RESULTS IN PAINFUL INJURIES

Injuries including a leg broken under the knee, an ankle, two bones of which are broken in two places and the rest of the ankle crushed, were sustained by R. M. Rockey, aged 35, 471 Oakwood avenue, Friday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock, when he stepped into an unlighted elevator shaft in the Coshocton hotel at Coshocton, O. Mr. Rockey, who is a representative of the Tippecanoe Fireworks Co., had called the elevator to take him up stairs and since it was always kept unlighted, he decided to step in to light it. The elevator, however, had been taken to the second floor, and Mr. Rockey stepped into a shaft, extending 20 feet below. Mrs. Rockey, who has just returned from his bedside, says that he complains of intense pains in his back, but doctors are deferring taking X Rays pictures, to determine possible injury to his spine, until the swelling in his ankle has been reduced.

Mrs. Rockey reports that his watch was broken, but that his spectacles were not, showing that the brunt of the fall was on the lower part of his body. He will have to remain in the hospital at Coshocton for six or seven weeks before he can be moved, his physicians say.

MAP SHOWS MOST RISKY CORNERS

Mt. Vernon at Twentieth is Most Dangerous; Livingston at Champion Follows

Motorists on the East Side of the city will do well to stop, look and listen at intersections, designated by the city planning commission as dangerous, in its report of the third traffic survey of the city. Thirteen of the most perilous corners last year were pointed out by the engineer, R. C. Chaney and a map made showing the number of accidents which took place. Mr. Vernon avenue at Twentieth street was the worst in the city, from the viewpoint of accidents, with 12 reported. On the East Side, Livingston and Champion avenues came next with 10; Livingston and Washington avenues had 10; Rich street at Grant avenue had eight; Long and Twentieth streets had eight and St. Clair and Atcheson street had seven.

The lesson of the traffic accident map confirms generally the theories as to value of light controlled intersections, danger from mixed traffic and from inadequate provision of capacity for movement, the report says.

"Hazard is accentuated upon some portions of such streets as Parsons, Livingston, Long and Mt. Vernon Volume of flow enters into this and many accidents occur at minor intersections, but it is thought that characteristics of the various ways are largely responsible for the increased danger on some sections of these streets," the report brings out.

"In the cases of all but East Broad street there will be noted the characteristics of the streets in Columbus which are called upon for thoroughfare duty, the presence of street cars narrow effective width of roadway and the frequency of intersections."

COUNCIL DECIDES TO FORCE PAVING NEAR CAR TRACKS

To Forestall Further Delay By Setting March 20 As Time For Completion

PLAN WEEK ORDINANCE

The continued presence of the rough and unsightly places in the road bordering the car tracks of the Southern Ohio Public Service Co. on East Main street, east of Pleasant Ridge avenue, aroused the Bexley council to a fighting mood Tuesday night and Solicitor Peters was authorized to take steps to force the company to do the necessary paving.

Upon proposal of Councilman Allen J. Pretsman, the solicitor was asked to write to the public service company, requiring that work be started on or before March 10 and be finished by March 20. A restraining order was the threat held out by council in case the company refused to comply with the requirement.

Machinery was started by the village fathers for an early and effective campaign against the presence of tall and noxious weeds in vacant lots and in parkways in the village. The solicitor was instructed to prepare a new ordinance to cope with the situation and plans were discussed for employing a man to cut down harmful weeds and those obstructing the view at least twice during the coming season.

As the result of numerous complaints on the part of Bexley residents that not sufficient parking space was available near Main street and Drexel avenue, Marshal Shadrack was given permission to shorten the safety zone at the northwest corner by the length of one automobile. The traffic problem was discussed also in connection with the request of a committee from Christ Lutheran church, that the members of their congregation be allowed to park heading in from the filling station west of the church to Pleasant Ridge avenue east of the church. This request was refused on the ground that the existence of head-in parking in only one spot would confuse the public and would be discrimination against business and other interests.

New Street Lights Planned

Recommendation for the extension of the street lighting system in Bexley was made by Councilman Kennedy, following a trip of inspection made by him together with Councilman Manly and Wheaton. Engineers were authorized to place lights on Cassingham road and Montrose avenue from Main street to Charles street to the alley south of Astor street.

On Maryland avenue between Drexel and Cassady avenues; on Ardmore, Cassingham and Bemington road from Broad street to Maryland avenue; on Bemington road from Broad street to Elm avenue; on Stanwood road from Broad street to Powell avenue; on Elm avenue from Remington road to Cassady avenue; on Maryland avenue from Drexel avenue to Cassady avenue and on Powell avenue from Stanwood road to Gould road. The residents of Grandon avenue are to be asked if they want lights at this time. By this program the 328 lights now in existence will be increased by 156, Mr. Kennedy said.

The transfer of $1100 from the sanitary sewer fund to the Gould road sanitary sewer fund to pay the engineer's claims for preparing plans and specifications for the sanitary sewer in the alley east of Chelsea avenue and in Gould road was authorized. In passing resolutions for proceeding with the paving of Bexley streets, council agreed to consider until the next meeting whether sidewalks are to be placed on Dawson avenue, in view of the opposition of residents there. Councilman Bonnet was asked to investigate the village gas contract and report at the next meeting; Chief of Police Gray was asked to investigate the types of fire extinguishers for police autos and the Columbus Railway Power and Light Company was authorized to install poles under the supervision of the village engineer.

The report of the zoning commission relative to the proposed English Garden City was filed.

Dr. Fowler To Speak

Dr. Frank G. Fowler of the Bexley Methodist church will address the Brotherhood of Christ Lutheran church on East Main street at Drexel avenue at its regular meeting Thursday at 8 p. m. A short musical program will be presented and there will be a social hour.

In honor of the happy day the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Reed, Mrs. Roy Converse, 2617 Medary avenue, gave a family dinner Sunday, at which were present Mr. Irvin Reed, who lives with his parents at the family home, and Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Reed and their son, 425 Linwood avenue. Another son, Henry Reed of Chicago and another daughter, Mrs. Arthur Frensel of Beverly Hills, California, were unable to be present.

Mr. Reed is 72 years old and Mrs Reed, formerly Katherine Harsh of Grove City, is 67. Plans are already being discussed for a happy reunion and anniversary celebration two years hence, when 50 years of married life will have been completed. Mr. and Mrs. Reed have three grandchildren.

The Bible as the most interesting and the most cherished book in the world occasioned a great deal of interest among members of the Wilson Avenue Church of Christ at a special "Bible Service" held Sunday evening. The oldest specimen was brought by Miss Nellie Simpson of Miller avenue, a Bible 300 years old owned by Miss Farmer, 1406 Neil avenue. A unique display was that brought by Mrs. M. E. Hayhurst, 111 Huron road, in the form of a box containing scripture references in German, brought by her aunt from the old country.

There were Bibles and New Testaments in Greek and Welsh and a copy of the Gospel of St. John in Portuguese. Old hymnals of dignified ancestry were brought also by members. Rev. Mr. Collins arranged the books on a table on the pulpit rostrum and commented upon them during the course of his sermon.

Bexley Residents Disapprove English Garden City Proposal

Express Reluctance To Allow Multiple Family Dwellings in Single-House District

OBJECT TO RENTERS

This fact was definitely determined at a meeting of Bexley citizens with members of the Bexley zoning commission Monday evening in the municipal office, although ultimate decision rested with council at its meeting Tuesday evening. Two hundred men and women crowded the municipal office to its capacity and with an interchange of comment that would have delighted the heart of an admirer of the modern New England village type of government, heaped a storm of disapproval upon the proposal to amend the zoning ordinance to permit rental and multiple property to be built in a district restricted to single houses on single lots.

Referred Back to Council

The result was a motion, made by Ralph J. Bartlett and seconded by David Shaw Archer, both of the zoning commission, referring the matter back to council with the disapproval of the commission.

The meeting opened at seven o'clock with William Edmiston, chairman of the commission, in the chair. He called first upon Walter Morrison, builder, who had conceived the project, to explain it. With charts of the layouts and with drawings of the proposed apartment houses on view Mr. Morrison told of the plot between Roosevelt avenue and Gould road, to be divided into 73 lots, upon which were to be built a number of two three and four family dwellings, all to resemble single houses. He outlined a junior and a senior playground with swimming pool, tennis courts, volley-ball courts and playground equipment; a kindergarten with registered teacher and an attractive layout of winding streets and artistically planned houses.

The meeting was then thrown open for discussion. Residents facing the project made the first objections by calling attention to the noise that the children on the playground would make; others objected to the fact that the lowest rental of $75 would tend to bring a roving class of people and give to Bexley "a tenement house district"; C. C. Lyons suggested that Mr. Morrison be put under bond to complete the project in a manner worthy of Bexley.

Principle At Stake

Mr. Archer of the zoning commission brought out the fact that the thing at stake was whether Bexley objected to giving up the right to demand that single houses be built on single lots in districts set aside for that purpose and declared that builders should be compelled to erect apartment house property in apartment house districts. Dr. E. C. Mills followed up that trend of thought by saying that if one concession were made, many other concessions would have to follow. He referred slightingly to the scheme as a "hodgepodge" and suggested that although his property would not be affected by the proposed village, he was ready like the three guardsmen to stand with other Bexley residents, "all for one and one for all."

Several men and women then told of incidents, whereby they had been compelled to change plans for their houses, because of the refusal of the zoning commission to permit them to alter rules about setting back a certain number of feet from the street and permitting a certain number of feet to intervene between houses. The members of the commission laughingly admitted that they were "hard-boiled" and called upon Mayor Ludwig to give his opinion.

The mayor complimented the people upon their good citizenship in attending the meeting and put himself on record as opposed to the proposition. "Let us not depart from our traditional policy, which has made Bexley a beautiful village of home owners, who pride themselves on beautifying their surroundings. Renters do not take the interest in their property that home owners do and only by restriction can we remain the Bexley that is the model for village suburbs in other parts of the country."

Attend National Meet

Principals and teachers at East Side schools are among those attending the sessions of the National Education association in Boston this week. INVITED TO JOIN STUDY COMMITTEE

President Mees Asked to Make Russian Trip to Observe Educational Conditions

President Otto Mees of Capital university has recently received an invitation from the American Society for Cultural Relations with Russia to serve with a small group of prominent leaders in American education on a committee to study educational conditions and facilities in modern Russia. Dr. Mees is undecided as to whether he will accept the invitation.

The commission will leave New York in the latter part of June, 1928. They will travel by way of Sweden and Finland to and through Russia to Odessa and Constantinople. Negotiations for the return trip have not been completed, but the route will be by steamer through the Mediterranean or by rail through Czechoslovakia and northern ports.

CARL BOLANDER AND DOC McCLAIN ARE ON SCHOOL PROGRAM

The arts-music program given for the pupils of Bexley High school Monday morning was one of the most artistic and enjoyable of the year. Doc McClain, a 7th grade pupil at the Pilgrim Junior High school, provided the musical part of the program with five violin numbers, all classical in nature. This talented boy, a former student at the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music, was enthusiastically received.

Carl Bolander, director of the Columbus Galery of Fine Arts, discussed "Art and Its Value", illustrating modern paintings and studies in black and white. He brought out that art has not only an aesthetic value but a practical value in designing and constructing homes and in advertising. He showed the advances that have been made in beautifying greeting cards, wrapping papers, posters, and parcel containers.

"The A. I. U. tower is one of the finest pieces of architecture in America", Mr. Bolander said, adding that it could be put in a class with the Parthenon.

John McNulty Speaks

The Dramatic club of Bexley High school arranged a program Wednesday afternoon in the school auditorium, inviting all the pupils to hear John McNulty, dramatic critic for the Columbus Citizen. Mr. McNulty told of amusing incidents in connection with the theater and with his desk as writer on the theater. Burton Elder is president of the Dramatic club.

Miss Verona Harmon, 1000 Bryden road, who has been visiting in New York, Montclair, N. J. and Boston since the holidays, will return home the first of March.

Mayor Ludwig Publicly Shows Resentment At Village Being Termed "Parasitical"

"I resent having villages, including Bexley, called parasites," said Mayor Stephen E. Ludwig in an informal speech Monday night in the village office building before Bexley citizens who had gathered to express their views on the proposed amendment of the zoning ordinance. The mayor was making his answer to members of the Columbus planing commission, who declared in their report of the third traffic survey of the city that parasitical villages on the edges of Columbus were hindering the zoning commission in its plans for the growing city.

"They say that we interfere with their planning for the future," he brought out. "We have had a zoning commission longer than has Columbus and we are only 18 years old, as compared to Columbus' 150 years. Furthermore, Columbus adopted our ideas about a zoning commission and is following us in many directions. Who are the members of the commission, anyway?" he went on. "I read three papers every day and am fairly well-informed, yet I do not know the names of any of the members."

As for Bexley being a parasite, the mayor declared that the village is paying [illegible] for everything it is getting from Columbus. "We have a business man's agreement with Columbus," he said. "We pay for our water, giving Columbus a good profit and at the same time furnishing us water at a lower rate than we could furnish it if we had a plant of our own. We pay for fire protection, we get as good protection as does Columbus, and the Columbus fire department is making money as a result of the deal. We save money that way, for a fire department of our own would be an expensive thing."

In answer to the charge that "Parasitical villages" were impending the artistic development of Columbus, Mayor Ludwig called attention to the fact that Columbus people always bring their visitors to see Bexley and that they are proud of the beautiful homes and gardens of the residents at the extreme eastern edge of the city.

"Our police officers wear uniforms resembling those of members of the Columbus police force, our street markers are similar, as is our traffic light system," he told his constituents. "We have done that so that the appearance of the village would harmonize with Columbus' appearance, making it seem a part of an artistic whole."

Andre Maurois, the young Frenchman who is best known here for his "Ariel" the life of Shelley, has written an interesting article for the New York Times magazine on his impressions of America. The thing that impresses him the most about the people of this country, he says, is the lack of social barriers between classes. Unlike most superficial observers of American life he does not poke fun at democratic United States having social classes; he sees the inevitability of such social distinctions and then goes on to attribute a great part of America's success to the elasticity of those same distinctions.

Anyone who has lived abroad is appalled by the apathy with which English, Frenchmen, Italians, etc., accept the fact of their birth as a thing that cannot be bettered or lowered by their own efforts. The son of a servant asks nothing better than to be a servant also; a son of a "tradesman" is satisfied is he does well as his father. Of course there are exceptions, such as the late Lord Northcliff and the fascinating Lloyd George, but it is the exceptional man in England who rises above his station.

Only in America is it not unusual for a man to be born in a lowly home on a side street and rise by his own efforts to a fine home on the best streets and to the social standing that here accompanies success. The son of a servant is given as good an education as the son of a banker and he is fitted to take his place in society as is the richer man. He is always ready to seize success because he is not burdened with the "inferiority complex" which is apt to keep the son of an English servant in the path of mediocrity.

We can only hope that as America acquires traditions with the years she will never lose sight of the importance of keeping opportunity open for all, of maintaining the elasticity of social distinctions.

Watching the Oak Grow

TWO decades ago most of East Main Street was a dusty road stretching far to the East with only an occasional grouping of homes or a lowly farm house dotting the landscape. Your very property was probably in "the country" surrounding a rapidly growing city.

New industries came to Columbus.

Columbus speedily outgrew its limited boundaries and bulged here and there at the most propitious points. The East Side was one of these points of expansion. The nucleus of this rapid Eastward development was two or three groups of stores, probably a "general" store or two.—(Remember the type? You bought everything; these from calico through cane sugar and your "Sunday" dishes to farming implements.)

This type of stores served heroically for a few more short years, then their impracticability became evident and the specialized community store was found necessary. Their advancement has been phenominal and now with a highly developed East Side and Bexley, we find a remarkably convenient service almost at our very doorstep capable of saving many hours of weary, ing down town trips.

Among the things we always had to go downtown for was gifts, whether it were an inexpensive bridge prize or a handsome wedding gift, but now we have in our midst two shops that specialize in these lines. Either store is capable of meeting any gift needed and have splendid lines of tallies, cards of sentiment and decorations, also.

We no longer need to depend on two or three monopolizing downtown dry cleaning establishments. We call the dry cleaner in our neighborhood. He knows our requirements, remembers just how we want the sleeves pressed, remembers that we usually forget to empty the pockets and take off the buckle, remembers that we want our garment on Wednesday evening and not Thursday afternoon, and so on.

We can buy furniture, radios, phonographs, automobiles, shoes or real estate right from our neighborhood dealer and know that the service, the price and the quality is right.

Two decades ago we didn't have a grocer who carried fresh vegetables all the year around and every kind of choice meats and staple goods ready for prompt, sanitary delivery.

The services available in our neighborhood are another thing that makes living away from the downtown hustle and bustle a real pleasure. The electric shops, the plumbers, the tire and battery services, the garages are all within easy reach and cheaper and more convenient than having to call miles downtown for every bit of service.

The hardware store is not so new to us, but the expansion of his indispensible line of merchandise to meet modern demands is new. The old style of drug store is gone. We now have druggists, the better ones, registered in an association, "C. R. D. A.", which demands a certain high standard of skill and quality which assures us of perfect pharmaceutical service.

We have cosy, clean, quiet restaurants where the children may lunch wholesomely at noon and the family may dine to give the housewife a change and rest.

Watch the Oak Grow

WE HAVE only touched upon the remarkable development of community stores which compares favorably with the famous "STURDY OAKS FROM LITTLE ACORNS GROW." Observe for yourself the phenomenal advancements being made in your neighborhood shopping districts. Almost every week "The Times" announces the opening of a new store. Watch your independent neighborhood merchant grow, give him your generous support, show him you appreciate the fact that it is largely through these progressive merchants that you have your splendid streets, schools, churches and other civic improvements.

EAST SIDE WILL BENEFIT BY NEW PAVING PROGRAM

Numerous Streets and Alleys To Be Included in Plan For Spring

NO MAIN THOROUGHFARES

Numerous streets and alleys on the east side of Columbus are included in the paving program of Columbus for 1928, the beginning of which is dependent upon the opening of favorable weather. The Columbus treasury's and abutting property owners' share will bring the total cost of paving for the season to $1,750,000, the city to pay $818,000. Jobs for about 500 men during the spring, summer and fall will be provided.

No main streets on the East Side are included in the year's program, due to the fact that the majority of the thoroughfares have been put in good condition recently.

Larger projects include Cole street from Fairwood avenue to the East Terminal; Forest street from the alley west of Seymour avenue to Industrial avenue; Gault street, from Miller avenue to Kelton avenue; Miller avenue from Whittier street to Spencer's subdivision; Stanley avenue from Oakwood avenue to Wilson avenue and from Wilson avenue to Linwood avenue; Columbus street from the first alley west of Kelton avenue to Berkeley road and Forest street from Lilley avenue to the first alley west of Seymour street.

Among the alleys are the alley west of Bedford avenue, from Newton street to the alley north of Livingston avenue; the alley west of Kimball Place from Newton street to the alley north of Livingston avenue; Kutchins street from Linwood avenue to Latta avenue; the alley north of Phoebe street from Lockbourne avenue to Miller avenue; the alley west of Studer aven., from Forest street to Columbus street; the alley north of Sycamore street from Wilson avenue to Linwood avenue.

Bradfield And Speeder Have Exciting Race

A pickle salesman, charged by Licking county authorities with reckless driving and with "jumping" his garage bill at Kirkersville, caused plenty of excitement on the National Highway between Kirkersville and Bexley Monday evening. Bexley police were informed by telephone to keep their eyes open for a Pontiac truck being driven about 50 miles an hour and some minutes later Deputy Marshall Bradfield came upon the offender near Eastmoor and chased him down Drexel avenue past Broad street at a gait of 50 miles per.

He gave his name as Harry E. Drum, pickle and cheese salesman, 197 Dakota avenue, and was held for Kirkersville police who said that he sneaked off without paying a garage for pulling him out of the mud.

LOCAL STUDENTS ON HONOR ROLL

Five East Side and Bexley Boys Average 80 Per Cent or Above; Active on Campus

Postle, junior, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Postle of the Seneca hotel and was a member of the varsity basketball squad. PERMITS NUMBER TWICE THOSE OF FEB. LAST YEAR

Permission Given to Build 34 Structures at Valuation of Nearly $200,000

PRESAGES BIG YEAR

Building activities in Bexley for 1928 have started off with a volume which presages a big year for the industry, according to figures for February given out this week by O. P. Dunlop, building inspector. Thirty-four permits were granted last month with a valuation of $195,800, the number of permits being almost twice the number taken out last year and the valuation being almost three times that of 1927.

Seventeen new residences are to be built, four of them to be doubles, and one, a five-family apartment. Two others of the residences are to cost in excess of $20,000, that of William E. Benua at 239 North Parkview avenue to cost $25,000 and that of William H. Althaus at 2479 Fair avenue to cost $22,500. Proposed garages for last month number 17.

In 1927 the 20 permits granted during February had a valuation of $86,650, with nine residences costing $68,000 and 11 garages costing $3,650. The largest valuation at that time was $12,000 for a Hansberger Co. house. In January of this year fourteen permits for houses and garages were issued, with a total valuation of $92,800.

Permits for single houses during February, 1928, include the following Mrs. James Alspach, a two story brick at 291 South Cassingham road, $10,000, with garage to cost $300; William E. Benua, two story stone and frame with garage attached at 239 North Parkview avenue, $25,000; H. L. Young, two story frame and shingle with two car garage at 757 Montrose avenue, $9,500; Floyd W. Freeman, two story stone and stucco with two car garage at 2562 Bexley Park road, $10,300; Hansberger Co., two story brick and shingle with two car garage at 171 South Remington, $10,300; C. and G. McAllister, two story stone and stucco with two car garage at 108 South Cassingham, $10,300; William H. Althaus, 2479 Fair avenue, two story stone with two car garage, $22,500; A. W. Zimmer, two story brick and stucco with garage attached at 798 Vernon road.

Three doubles are to be built by George Stone, one at 845 Sheridan avenue, a frame with two car garage to cost $9,800; a second frame with two car garage at 954-56 Sheridan avenue to cost $8,300 and another frame with two car garage at 866-68 Sheridan avenue to cost $8,300. Mrs. Walter Hoag has a permit for a frame double with two car garage at 928-30 Sheridan avenue to cost $9,300.

Charles J. Schlesinger is to build a two story, five apartment residence at 747-55 Sheridan avenue, between Mound and Aster. It is to be of brick and stucco and is to cost $25,000. Among permits for garages are those issued to St. Charles college, 2020 E. Broad Street, for a five car building to cost $600; Pearl P. Baughman, a two car garage at 99 North Cassingham road, $250; Westerman and Westerman, a one car garage at 794 South Cassingham road, $150; and A. C. WIFE PREACHES IN HUSBAND'S STEAD

Mrs. John L. Tait Fills Bexley Pulpit When Mr. Tait Called To Fort Leavenworth

The only woman occupying a Columbus pulpit last Sunday was Mrs. John L. Tait, wife of the pastor of the Bexley Presbyterian church, who as war worker, missionary society executive and "minister extraordinary" was chosen by that church to carry on the work in the absence of her husband.

Rev. Mr. Tait, who was the only Y. M. C. A. war worker placed on the chaplain general's staff in Washington as a reserve officer, was called three weeks ago to Fort Leavenworth to carry on a special series of meetings with the 18,000 soldiers there. He was asked to deal particularly with the 1200 boys in the military prison by preaching and by personal interviews. The session voted to allow him to do that work and the first Sunday during his absence Rev. W. A. Perrins occupied the pulpit.

But stories of Mrs. Tait's remarkable success in war work has reached the ears of the Bexley church and she was asked to fill the pulpit. Mrs. Tait was stationed at Coblents by the Religious Work Commission of France to tell Bible and missionary stories to the army of occupation and she also was on duty in England. She has always been prominent in the work of the Presbyterian church and the members of the Bexley church say that she repeated her success with their congregation.

Bible readings, instead of a sermon, was what Mrs. Tait named her talks. Last Sunday her topic was "Greater Things Than These Shall Ye Do," during the course of which she told of the great work done by the Presbyterian church of America in mission fields in 1927.

Rev. Mr. Tait returns this week and will preach Sunday morning. He will take up the catechumen class for children and will start other work preparatory to Easter.

TRAFFIC AT MILLER-MAIN STREETS SHOWS 16 PERCENT INCREASE

East Side street conditions, both as to way they care for traffic and as to how the traffic flow compares with the preceding year, are discussed in the recent traffic survey report for 1927 made by the Columbus planning commission.

"Whittier street paving is in good condition, but is approaching a traffic condition which necessitated the widening of North High street north of Fifth avenue," the reports read. "Its roadway, 36 feet wide, should be widened to 48 as a minimum for safety and freedom from interference. The street being only 60 feet wide should be increased to 66 as a minimum or 70 or 80 as more favorable. The double car tracks on the street aggravate the traffic delays and dangers.

"East Livingston avenue is in a similiar situation as its 42 foot roadway allows no more favorable movement than the 36 foot width of Whittier. The street width varies and should be increased to that suggested for Whittier."

The flow of traffic at Miller and Main streets has increased 16 percent in the past year, the report shows; all Livingston avenue stations showed 10 per cent increase, as well as all Broad street stations east of Parsons avenue.

CELEBRATES NINETY-FIFTH BIRTHDAY

Mrs. Anna C. King, 818 Champion avenue and Walter B. C. Mound street, Monday evening. Fifty guests were present, including Mr. Frank's children and grandchildren.

In spite of his advanced age Mr. Frank enjoys fairly good health. A paralytic stroke suffered eight years ago has impaired his eyesight and hearing, but he has no painful diseases. He has been a resident of Columbus 70 years, coming here from Germany when he was 22 years of age.

COUNCIL TO HEAR PRO AND CON OF CROSSING FIGHT

Has Designated March 19 For Public Airing of N. & W. Grade Crossing Question

EASTGATE SUIT ON CALENDAR

A public hearing before the Columbus city council will be held March 19 to consider the request of the Norfolk and Western Railroad to proceed with the $4,000,000 grade crossing elimination and improvement program. At that time representatives of Eastgate residents, who have brought suit to stop present plans, will appear before council, the latter body having granted the request of Simeon Nash, attorney for the Eastgate folks, that the hearing be declared public.

On the other hand Attorney James Bouiger, counsel for the N. & W., asked council last Monday for authority from the city to proceed with the work, and there is a possibility that the East Broad street and East Main street crossing will be elevated this year, those in authority say.

The suit of the Eastgate group seeks to stop the N. & W. from moving the northern end of its tracks approximately 800 feet east and it is scheduled to be heard April 24 in the state supreme court. Residents threaten to carry the fight to the United State court if the decision of the state supreme court is adverse.

GROUP OF 13 HAS UNLUCKY TIME IN TRAFFIC COURT

Thirteen offenders against Bexley traffic laws last week paid fines ranging from $15 to $5 in traffic court Saturday before Mayor Stephen Ludwig. J. W. Peppelmayer, 348 East Whittier street, paid the heaviest fall of $15.

Those who had to pay $10 were E. J. McCleary, 1284 Mooberry street; N. A. Hallwood, 2559 Brentwood road; Seton Hedges, 1097 Madison avenue; H. S. Hallwood, 974 Gilbert street; W. V. Rosenfeld, 986 South Eighteenth street; E. Boon, 1218½ East Long street; E. H. Welf of Newark and E. L. Stephens of Marietta. After being given a 10-day jail sentence and $25 fine, both suspended, Paul Gleason of Thornville, paid $10 and costs.

Five dollar fines were given Asa Moor, 256 South Columbia avenue; Farrell Francis, 241 Clarendon avenue and Marvin Francis, 1305 West Broad street.

STUDENT AT OHIO AVENUE IS HURT

Lloyd B. Bentley, aged nine, 1061½ East Main street, suffered a slight concussion in an automobile accident last Friday night, in which his mother, father and younger sister were slightly injured. Mr. and Mrs. Preston Bentley and small Marie and Lloyd were driving with Earl Stanley of Chauncey, when the automobile collided with a street car at Fifth and Main streets.

Lloyd was taken to the hospital, where he remained until Monday and although he was better the middle of the week, Mrs. Bentley is having further examination due to the fact that he seems to get no better. He is a pupil at the Ohio Avenue school. Mr. Bentley suffered a broken nose and cuts on his head and Mrs. Bentley was slightly cut. Small Sylvia developed nose bleed but is better now.

Robert O'Donald, 117 Livingston avenue, was bruised when he was struck by an auto driven by S. E. Thomas, 1317 Livingston avenue, at Livingston avenue and Third street.

THREATENS TO STOP COLUMBUS SERVICE TO BEXLEY NEXT YEAR

A sentiment to force Bexley to be annexed to Columbus or to install its own utilities was voiced by two members of city council Monday evening, in connection with the introduction and passing of an ordinance renewing the contract for water for the village during the current year.

"I am going to vote against renewing Columbus services to Bexley next year," said Councilman Lewis and Councilman Karns agreed with him. The ordinance which fixed a rate 10 cents higher than that of Columbus, was passed.

A "jitney supper" will be served by members of the Eversole Guild of the Wilson Avenue Church of Christ Friday evening, March 10.

Special Classes Help Restore Normal Sight By Removing Causes Of Strain

Gradual restoration of normal eye sight by removing causes of eye-strain among children in the class room, rather than by serious and painful operation is being afforded to children from the East Side and other portions of the city by the sight-saving class being conducted at the East Main Street school. Miracles almost as great as those recorded during Apostolic days have been performed, according to Mrs. Della Griffith, the young and attractive teacher.

The sight-saving class has been established at the East Side school and also at Hubbard Avenue school by the board of education to help boys and girls, who are not blind and yet are being made wretched and nervous in the ordinary classroom because of eye strain suffered by their weakened eyes. The school nurse, who examines all school children twice a year, discovers some of the children needing the special treatment, regular teachers discover others and Mrs. Griffith says that she has discovered others on the streets and at theaters and has persuaded them to enter her class.

At East Main Street Mrs. Griffith has a large, light front room, with small desks and chairs placed at angles so as to catch the light from all windows. The window shades are double, so that they can be pulled down either from the top or from the middle of the sash, because the light coming from the top is the best light, experts say. The print of the text books is 17 times larger than ordinary and lessons are written on yellow unglazed paper with heavy drawing pencils. The small desks are adjustable so that they can be moved forward, backward or to stand at an angle. Two hundred watt lights illuminate the room and all artistic work is done by hand, working with colored paper, because crayon and water color make a glare that is bad for weak eyes.

These precautions all make for a maximum of light with a minumum of glare and the success of the precautions has been marked. Helen Fritz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Fritz, 1788 Mooberry street, suffered from congenital cataracts and since the doctors said she was too young to be operated upon, she was removed from Fairwood school and sent to the sight-saving class at East Main street. After two years there she was taken to the eye specialist for the regular examination and to his astonishment, the cataracts had completely disappeared.

"Who operated on the child?" he demanded of Mrs. Fritz. "No one," she replied, "she has been going to the sight-saving classes. Helen still attends the classes but with the strengthening of her eyes, she will be able to return to her regular grade at Fairwood. Ten boys and girls went to junior high school at second semester with their eyes so improved as to obviate the necessity of a "reader," a boy or girl paid by the state to read the lessons for their less fortunate classmates.

One of the members of Mrs. Griffith's class is Bernard Cook, 785 Ebner street, who has shown so much talent as an artist that he has been offered a scholarship by Karl Bolander of the Gallery of Fine Arts. He keeps the blackboards decorated with clever crayon work and makes beautiful posters which are exhibited for the other children. In two years' time his eyes will have been so strengthened that he will be able to accept the art school scholarship, eye specialists say.

Members of the class are from five grades and they are taught reading, arithmetic and typewriting, the latter not as a vocation, by Mrs. Griffith while they go to their regular teachers for geography and spelling. The state pays the carfare of children who come from a distance and they are given a hot lunch at noon, which Mrs. Griffith prepares on her electric grill. At present, she says, only 17 children are enrolled in the classes, when the enrollment should be 30 and she is very anxious to learn about children who need such a type of schooling.

Mrs. Griffith took a special course in sight-saving at the University of Cincinnati. The supervisor for her work is Miss Alice Burdge, who has charge of the work in the southern half of the state.

Mrs. J. V. L. Bonney, 2356 Commonwealth avenue entertained Twig 10 of the Children's hospital Wednesday.

COMMUNITY JOURNALISM

During the past week-end we attended a district meeting of members of the Ohio Newspaper association in Bucyrus and there came into contact with editors and publishers of small daily and weekly papers in what is named "The Harding District." Being city-born and city-bred we had always felt a secret and almost involuntary contempt for small town journalism, but we came away feeling that community journalism, such as country dailies and weeklies and such as the Eastern Times represent, is one of the most vital forces today.

We found the country editors as interesting a group of men as we have met. They had their fingers on every force and every movement in their counties and showed their ability to promote the well-being of their communities. We were told of their courageous editorial policies, which ran from opposing the government's corn-borer policy to exposing crookedness in politics.

The Eastern Times was glad to sit in with such a conscientious group of men. Although only six months old we are happily settling into our rightful place as a necessary and interesting adjunct to life in the East Side and Bexley. The paper has become such a regular afternoon caller that people are watching for it as eagerly as for their big weekly magazines and their big daily papers.

Requests have come from residents south of Livingston avenue for distribution there and merchants on East Main street have invited us to investigate whether it would be feasible to finance the project in consideration of the two extra pages needed for added news and advertising. Similar requests are coming from the Oak street residents. The task of distribution requires the services of 32 boys and we are making every effort to get the papers into every home in our district. What do you think of the whole project?

DOCTOR, DENTIST AND OPTEMETRIST AT ONE MILLER-MAIN CORNER

The entire second floor of the Harris building at Miller and Main, with entrance at 1452 East Main street, is now devoted to doctors' and dentists' offices. Dr. Carl W. Emmert, 852 S. Cassingham road, a graduate of the Ohio State university college of dentistry, is occupying the east suite. He has been practicing in Columbus 15 years.

Dr. O. Orval Kraner, optometrist, who lives at 681 Lilley avenue, has moved into the front west suite. He is a graduate of the Ohio State University college of optometry and has been practicing in the community for two years. Dr. Joseph B. Chronik, M. D., who lives at 1359 East Main street, has the west rear suite. He has been practicing for seven years following his graduation from Fordham university, N. Y., and Temple University school of medicine at Philadelphia.

The three doctors who have ten rooms in all are using the large room facing Main street for a common waiting room. The East Side community is thus afforded regular downtown service, with various sorts of treatment available in one building.

HOLD MISSIONARY ORATORICAL CONTEST

The Woman's Missionary Society of the Miller Avenue Evangelical church entertained the husbands of the members and the members of the Young People's Missionary society at a pot luck supper last Thursday evening. A program followed, including a missionary oratorical contest by the young people.

An orchestra directed by Donald Wiles, Allen Moore, cellist; Miss Geraldine Allen, Miss Mildred Himmel and Mrs. M. Baughman, pianists, furnished the music and Miss Mary Kimmel had charge of the devotions. The oratorical readings were given by Miss Mildred Berry, "Through the Closed Gate"; Miss Glenna M. Boden, "Polly's Pocket Money"; Miss Eleanor Mettles, "The Wheat Field," and Miss Dorothy Middleton, "Words of Cheer From Pekin." The silver medal for excellence was given to Miss Middleton.

Auto Are To Be Kept Underneath Apartment

An underground garage, which will house 35 automobiles, will be one of the distinctive features of the new 51-family apartment to be built on the site of the old Lazarus homestead on the north-west corner of Ohio avenue and Bryden road. Work is to be started early in March, according to Galbreath & Leonard, builders.

The apartment will be three stories in height, of English architecture, and will have three and four-room suites. Each will contain an electric refrigerator, vapor heat and shower baths. Six months will be allowed for completion and about $500,000 will be spent. Downie W. Moore, 67 South Ohio avenue, is the architect. Work on razing the old homestead has been finished.

Mr. Arthur M. Crumrine, 1536 Menlo Place, has gone to California, where he will visit San Francisco, Los Angeles, San Diego, going later to San Antonio, Tex., and New Orleans, La. At New Orleans he will meet Mrs. Crumrine and their son, Arthur, Jr., who have been spending the winter in St. Petersburg, Fla.

Special children's meetings are scheduled each Tuesday and Friday afternoons at 3:30 o'clock with Professor Vandall in charge. The children trained at these meetings will give a public program.

Friendly Contact —

The Most Powerful Influence In Community Buying

The people of this community have been rapidly drawn to more and more community buying through the channels of convenience, service and quality of merchandise. But the most powerful of all of these influences is the friendly contact present in dealing with neighborhood merchants. The cold complexity of the down-town business places is absent and the warm neighborly spirit of friendly service and keen desire to please their neighborhood clientele prevails.

Sentiment in business, friendliness between buyer and seller is not supposed to be essential in modern marketing, but by the very character of our community citizens, good fellowship, that hearty hand shake, that slap on the back, and "We're with you for a better community" spirit registers for more than all the cold impersonal business methods.

Stopping One Leak In Your Family Budget

Try going over your shopping list before you go down town and checking off everything you can get in your friendly neighborhood shopping district, which represents almost every line, and watch your family budget show a savings in time, money and energy.

BEXLEY AND SOUTH TO DEBATE APRIL 20

April 20 is announced as the date for the second annual debate of Bexley High school and South High school. Each school is to have a negative and an affirmative team, which will debate simultaneously at the two schools on the question, "Resolved, That the Primary System of Nominating Candidates for Office Should be Abolished." South High, which belongs to the Ohio Debating League has debated this question on other occasions, and has won from Westerville.

Members of the Bexley team include Dorothy Kelley, Arch Houstle, Morris Matlin, Dorothy Gockenbach, Ruth Phalor and Paul Taber. The latter is the only junior, the others being seniors. Arch Houstle and Dorothy Kelley were on last year's team when the decision was "one all." Miss Alice Brooks, teacher of public speaking, is coaching the team.

CAMP FIRE GIRLS CELEBRATE THEIR 16TH ANNIVERSARY

Melva Davis Is To Receive Rank of Torch Bearer and Also Health Honor

TO CONDUCT CEREMONIAL

Camp Fire girls will gather in gala array for the sixteenth birthday anniversary celebration of the organization Sunday at 2:30 p. m. at East High school. Many will wear ceremonial gowns and others will be clad in the service costume of middy and skirt and red tie.

The girls will march into the school by groups, each one carrying a banner bearing the name of her group. A bugle will sound to call the assembly into being and first in line will come the Camp Fire glee club, bearing United States flags, Camp Fire, Red Cross and Needlework Guild flags. Behind the club will come the various groups, all singing "The Walking Song." Last will come the small group of 15, the Pasiki group, led by Mrs. Myrtle C. Cray, executive secretary.

The Pasiki girls are to conduct the ceremonial with simple symbolism, lighting the candles around which the groups gather. In the membership of Mrs. Cray's organization are Rachel Moore, 1386 Oak street and Melva Davis, 1606 Bryden road. Around the grand council fire the glee club will sing Camp Fire songs and the Pasiki group will make the motions representing the words of the songs.

Melva Davis Honored

Girls of Pilgrim Junior High school will put on a stunt, after which awards will be made to Wood Gatherers, Fire Makers and Torch Bearers. Melva Davis, 1606 Bryden road, will be the only member to receive the rank of Torch bearer, the highest rank of the organization, having won the distinction in leadership. She is guardian of the Alkula Camp Fire at Franklin Park M. E. church and has been swimming counsellor at the camp for two seasons. She will be given also the National health honor, designed for those who keep for 12 months the health habits laid down by the national health chart.

Following the honor ceremony, candles will be extinguished, a farewell song sung and taps sounded. Then the girls will exhibit the infants' and children's garments made by Camp Fire girls for the Red Cross and the Needlework Guild, showing the scope of the national project of the organization. Next week the garments will be taken to the second floor of the Lazarus' store for further inspection by the public, with Mrs. George C. Sellers, jr., in charge.

Divides for Meetings

The Girl Scout troop, meeting at St. Alban's church, Bexley, has been divided for meetings. Troop 28 will gather Wednesday afternoons and Troop 3 Thursday afternoons. Miss Ruth Giessen will captain both troops and will devote Saturdays to troop and patrol hikes and out-of-door Scoutcraft.

Mrs. J. M. Andrew, 2281 Brentwood road is training to become a lieutenant to assist Miss Giessen and Mrs. Walter A. Fox, 468 South Parkview avenue is already acting in that capacity.

COMPANY IGNORES REQUEST THAT CAR TRACKS BE PAVED

For months Bexley residents have bumped over and grumbled about the rough spots between and bordering the car tracks of the Southern Ohio Public Service Co., on East Main street, east of Pleasant Ridge avenue. They have declared that the company ought to be made to repair them, especially in view of the fact that the traction cars of the company make no stop in Bexley and thus are offering no convenience to the residents of the village.

Members of council headed the grumbling and two weeks ago decided to inform the company that work must be started before March 10 and finished before March 20, or a restraining order would be put in effect. Solicitor Peters wrote the letter and members of council awaited the outcome with bated breath Tuesday night at their regular meeting. The outcome was an anti-climax, however; the company had calmly ignored the letter, neither starting the repair work, nor making any other answer to council's threat. Time will be up March 20, councilmen commented in ominous tones.

NOTED AUTHOR IS FORMER PUPIL OF H. C. DIETERICH

Julius King of New York, noted writer of children's books, will speak Thursday afternoon at the Bexley High school and at the Junior High school on his experiences as a writer. Mr. King is a personal friend and former student of H. C. Dieterich, Bexley school superintendent, having graduated from the Ashtabula High school in 1911, when Mr. Dieterich was associated with Ashtabula schools. Mr. King has been invited to visit Columbus by the Lazarus book shop.

NO ONE HURT IN QUEER ACCIDENT

Sedan Sideswipes Autos Parked On Bryden Road and Then Turns Over On Left Side

Sideswiping two cars parked along the curb in such a manner as to overturn her own car without injury to herself was the experience of Mrs. Harry Damrin, 346 South Burgess avenue, in a peculiar accident Wednesday afternoon at the corner of Bryden road and Linwood avenue, in front of the Bryden apartments. The Damrin automobile was damaged to the extent of a broken front axle, a broken window, one broken wheel and badly damaged fenders.

Mrs. Damrin said that she had taken her small daughter to the corner of Parsons avenue and Bryden road and noticed that she crossed the street in front of another car. Worrying about a possible accident, she turned her head, while driving at a good rate of speed and crashed into the fender of a gasoline car, sliding into the electric in front of it, and crumbling the fenders of both parked cars badly. The wheel of the Damrin car rolled up the wheel of the electric and caused it to turn over on the left side. Mrs. Damrin escaped without a scratch, although passers-by who extricated her, expected to find her dead.

ROOSEVELT PUPIL LEADS ORCHESTRA

Myron Hanley Will Occupy Chair of Concert-Meister of All-Junior High Concert

Myron Hanley, an eighth grade pupil at the Roosevelt Junior High school, will occupy the chair of concert-Meister and will play a violin solo, "Air Varie", No. 5 by De Beriot, at the sixth annual concert of the All-Junior High orchestra Wednesday evening at Memorial Hall. The orchestra contains 136 pieces. Each school building will receive, for its own use in purchasing instruments to be loaned to the boys and girls, 50 per cent of the proceeds of its sale of tickets.

In addition to Myron Hanley, pupils of other East Side Junior High schools have prominent places in the orchestra. Donald Himes and Joe Weisberg of Roosevelt are the only tympani players and Frederick Ehrman and Jack Park of the same school are playing the trombone, an unusual instrument among children. Franklin Junior High is furnishing four cello players and two string bass players, showing an increase in interest in these instruments.

Young musicians from Roosevelt include as violinists: Eva Berman, Kenneth Bowsher, Martin Horwitz, Mary Johnson, Charles Nichlaus, Sam Toplosky, William Zipf, Paul Califf, Norman Cohen, Gershen Kerstein and Albert Rosen; cellist, Myrtle Hauck; pianist, Georgina Hickerson; flutist, Franklin Lentz; clarinet, Woodrow Johnson and Charles Wacher; cornetist, Charles Gaver and Merwood Hauck; trombone player; Frederick Ehrman and Jack Park and tympani players, Donald Himes and Joe Weisberg.

Tickets for the concert are on sale at every school. Last year more than 2000 were disposed of.

Miss Grace Hanna, 1361 Livingston avenue, entertained her club at a bridge tea Saturday in the Lazarus tea room.

SOLONS CONSIDER TRAFFIC PROBLEM NEAR JUNIOR HIGH

Suggest Reinforcing Parking Regulations, One-Way Driving and Widening of Streets

TO EDUCATE MOTORISTS

Traffic congestion in the vicinity of the Bexley Junior High school on Cassingham road is to be eliminated. Bexley council made that decision at its meeting Tuesday evening, following the report of Councilman Kerr that Tuesday afternoon during an entertainment at the school cars were parked on both sides of the street with nine cars headed north, standing in the middle, so that through traffic was impossible.

A number of suggestions for immediate enforcing of traffic regulations near the school were made by council. Mayor Stephen E. Ludwig asked the safety committee, consisting of F. H. Bonnett, Samuel Bets and Allen J. Pretsman, to confer with the school board, and City Engineer Kennedy was authorized to prepare estimates for widening the street at least 15 feet.

Chief of Police Gray was ordered to enforce strictly the regulation of no parking on the east side of Cassingham road, with only northbound traffic from Fair to Powell avenues, thus making a detour at Powell avenue necessary. Councilman Pretsman suggested that a list of parking and driving instructions be printed and placed in the automobiles of everyone who parks in that district, and also that teachers be asked to explain the regulations in the school rooms.

Street Improvements

Council authorized the borrowing of money and the issuing of notes in anticipation of the levy of special assessments for the improvement of Cassady road from Sherwood road to Brentwood road; of Havenwood drive from Euclaire avenue to Cassingham road; of Cassingham road from Main to Fair, and of Elm avenue from Parkview to Columbia avenues and from Cassady to Remington roads. It was decided to improve Dawson avenue from Main street to Fair avenue, with sidewalks, paving, sewers and drains.

Dr. Edward C. Mills, 220 South Cassady road, asked on behalf of residents in the vicinity, that Elm avenue be made only 24 feet wide from Cassady to Cassingham roads. He maintained that in that district there were no residents, hence there would be no parking of cars; that a 30 foot street would not leave enough room

Day's Permits Total $70,000

Two $35,000 permits were issued by the Bexley building department Wednesday, presaging a big month in Bexley building activities, according to O. P. Dunlop, building inspector.

Ross W. Cheek, 15 Fifteenth avenue, received permission to erect a residence for himself and family at 72 Meadow Park between Broad and Clifton avenue. It will be a two story stone and stucco house. Walter W. Morrison, builder, took out a permit for the two story building to contain six storerooms with apartments above at 528-31 South Drexel avenue, just off Main street. The addition of a lodge room for a future Bexley lodge of Masons has been given up by the men interested in a Masonic lodge.

MRS. DIEHL HEADS PLANT GUILD

Mrs. William Ross Diehl, 308 Parkview avenue, was elected president of the Plant, Flower and Fruit Guild at the meeting Monday at the home of Mrs. Clarence E. Palmer, 340 South Parkview avenue. Other officers are East Side and Bexley women also and include Mrs. C. Leon Morris, 173 South Parkview avenue, and Mrs. John N. Brittain, Nelson road, vice presidents; Mrs. Harold S. Beggs, 356 South Parkview avenue, recording secretary; Mrs. William A. Duboc, 826 Franklin avenue, treasurer; Mrs. Frederick G. Hatton, 181 Stanberry place, corresponding secretary.

To Celebrate Devotional Day

The annual international devotional day services of the Order of DeMolay will be held at the First Baptist church Sunday morning at 10:30 o'clock. Dr. Daniel Rittenhouse will preach the sermon. Members of the order as well as of the advisory board, are asked to meet in a body in front of the church at 10 a. m.

STUDENTS CHOOSE HEADS FOR "HOME ROOMS" OF SCHOOL

Form First Unit of Complete Organization of Bexley High, Which Has High Purpose

TO IMPROVE SCHOLARSHIP

The complete organization of Bexley High school students into a sort of community self-governing association, was started Wednesday with the election of officers in each of the "home rooms" of the school. The presidents chosen at that time become ex-officio members of the school council, the officers of which are elected by the entire student body. The president, vice-president and secretary of the council are regarded as high officers of the school, as well as of the school council.

In addition to the school council, there exists the school court, which consists of seven members of the senior class, and above that is the Honor Club, made of students of high scholarship and leadership.

Officers chosen Wednesday for the seniors are: Room 12, Erna Hart, president; Dorothy Gockenbach, vice president; Ralph Barnett, secretary. Room 13, Robert Long, president; James Zuber, vice president; Lawrence Moyer, secretary. For the juniors the three officers given here in the order of president, vice president and secretary are: Room 10, Lewis Reits, Martha Stewart, Marion Manley; Room 11, David Davis, Melissa Jones, Martha Davis; Room 17, Norma Ijams, Helen McDowell, Martin Polster. For the sophomores, Room 8, Edward Teegardin, Louise Nesser, Leo Polser; Room 5, Robert Brunner, Betty Eisele, Anna Freeman; Room 18, Richard Koch, Joan Brightman, Mary Schneider. For the 9 A freshmen, Room 2, Elwood Marah, Leah Coleman, Ruth Waddell.

The purpose of the organization, which is more complete than most of the schools of the country, is to improve scholarship, create a finer school spirit, inculcate in the minds of the students a higher respect for school property and the rights of others and make Bexley High a better school, Superintendent Dieterich says. No student can hold office in any of the organizations whose grades are below B.

HAS FACE INFECTION

H. W. Emswiler, 617 Bulen avenue, principal of Starling Junior High school, is being treated at Grant hospital for an infection of the face. The infection developed from an abscess on his nose and was not considered serious until Sunday.

MISS SCHOOLER HAS PAINFUL INJURY

Miss E. Clare Schooler, dean of women and director of girls' activities at Bexley High school, sprained the ligaments surrounding the ankle of her right foot Sunday, when she slipped as she stepped from her automobile. She is attending classes with her ankle tightly bound, and leaning on a cane. Physicians tell her it will be several months before she will have full use of her ankle.

LECTURE WITH PICTURES ON "PASSION PLAY"

Dr. L. A. Bumstead of Delaware will give an illustrated lecture on "The Passion Play" at the Oakwood M. E. church Friday evening, March 23, at 8 o'clock under the auspices of the Queen Esther society. In connection with the lecture a sacred concert will be given by Mrs. Roscoe H. Eckelbrery, organist; Mrs. Hable Dunn Hopkins, violinist; Miss Agnes Southerland, soprano and Mr. Ralph H. McCall, bass.

A social hour will follow.

COUNCIL HEARS OF ZONING VIOLATION

J. P. Reynolds Sets House Four Feet to Front of Others on Cassingham Road

Violation of the zoning regulation, requiring houses to be set back 50 feet, was reported to Bexley council Tuesday night by the village zoning commission in the case of J. P. Reynolds on Lot 658 Ardmore addition, No. 2 on North Cassingham road. The violation which consists of placing the new house four feet to the front of all other houses on the street, was discovered by O. P. Dunlop, building inspector, and Mr. Reynolds was advised to stop digging and rebuild according to village regulations.

Mr. Dunlop found several days later that Mr. Reynolds had proceeded with plastering without complying with the regulation and the village then stopped work on the house. The next step, in case there is continued violation, Solicitor Peters advised council, is to arrest the owner for violation of the zoning ordinance, each two days' violation constituting a separate offense. The adjoining property owners can stop work by injunction, the solicitor said.

CHURCH TO BUILD NEW STRUCTURE

Plans Completed for Auditorium, Sunday School and Club Rooms For Wilson Avenue

Work is to be started within two weeks on the new building to be erected for the Wilson Avenue Reformed Church, Fair and Wilson avenues, it was decided following meetings at the church Monday and Wednesday evenings, at which time details of the building plans were discussed.

The new unit will be connected with the present church, erected 30 years ago, and will contain the church auditorium, with a seating capacity of 400, and a Sunday School chapel to accommodate 200 persons. To the rear of the present building will be erected rooms to care for the beginners' and primary departments and for the nursery. The entire basement will be finished with kitchens, dining rooms and serving rooms for 350 persons, and there will be a private club room for the Boy Scouts.

Introducing Our New Department

In keeping with the policy of the Eastern Times to render its readers every service possible through the columns of a community newspaper, a new department is being opened in this week's issue known as "The Eastern Times Business Directory."

The genuine need of our readers for a convenient, accurate classified directory to every business available within their own community boundaries was recognized and this directory was the outcome. It appears this week for the first time—incomplete, subject to change and the criticism of our readers.

IS YOUR NAME IN THE TIMES DIRECTORY?

You are entitled to entry in this directory if you are in any line of business in the East Side or Bexley and it is purely an oversight or an error if your name does not appear. We will greatly appreciate a call from you notifying us of the omission.

If your name is among those listed, check it over for any errors or a change in classification or an addition. For example, you may be classified under painter and your line includes all kinds of decorating. Call us and ask us to change it. To be effective it must be properly classified.

HOW YOU MAY HELP

The service of this department can be effective only after every individual, partnership and company, professional or otherwise, in business in the community are properly entered.

Do you know a dressmaker who should be listed? Are you a business man whom we have overlooked in compiling this directory? Et Cetera. Phone in the name at once. We shall greatly appreciate your efforts.

TO BE PERMANENT DEPARTMENT

This department has already met with such hearty approval that it is the plan of the Directory Editor to make this a permanent department. We hope to have all changes and entries made by April 5th. With this in mind we would greatly appreciate your prompt action in helping us list everyone eligible.

Directory Editor's office hours: Every morning until 9:30 and Mon., Tues., Wed., Fri., and Sat. evenings from 5:30 to 10:30. She will be glad to discuss this matter with you freely.

The Directory Editor, Miss Parks.

Freedom And Cooperation Are Emphasized Under Dalton Plan

Upper Grade Pupils Budget Own Time For Mastering Teachers' Monthly Contract

TEACHER AS LEADER

A school where children work voluntarily under the leadership of their teachers, rather than unwillingly under the compulsion of their teachers, has long been the dream of educators. That dream is being realized among the older pupils of Fairwood Avenue school, the only East Side school where the Dalton plan is in effect and one of the three in Columbus.

The Dalton plan, under which the month's work is laid out by the teacher for the child to master under his own plan and according to his own capabilities, was instituted at the Fairwood school last September and in spite of difficulties in the way of introducing an entirely new system, both to teachers and pupils, it is now working in such satisfactory fashion as to warrant it being adopted by other schools.

Make Own Appointments

The Eastern Times representative visited the Fairwood grades this week to watch the working of the plan, now being discussed by all modern educators. She found the boys and girls in the grades beginning with 4 A's and including 6 A's, gathered in their "home rooms", engaged in organization work with their teacher. One by one the hands went up for permission to announce that he or she had completed one of the units of the monthly contract, with which the teacher had supplied each, and to ask for appointments with the teacher for individual or group conferences.

The boys and girls were seated with their desks arranged in table fashion and after each had completed his "appointment" with fellow pupils and with teacher, he was free to go with the work at hand. He knew that he must master so much geography, arithmetic, spelling, reading, English, history before he could get credit for the month's work and he was studying under his own incentive.

At the sound of the bell for the next period, he was ready to enter "closed laboratory", where he recited along with other members of his grade, or for a study period, where he pored over his books studiously without even a teacher in the room to keep discipline. He was allowed to go from one laboratory to another to consult the principal or the teacher. he was allowed to join a group which was practicing telling stories in one corner of the room, or another which was spelling words together. There was none of the repression which characterized the old school rooms where all marched in ranks, sat in fixed seats, was not allowed to whisper or even wriggle, except in set gymnastics. The children could come and go, as they would in a good home.

From 1:30 until 2 in the afternoon the children met by grades for a conference period when the teacher discussed the work to be done and tried to stimulate her pupils to better work. During the next hour time was devoted to music, art, physical training and club work. Fairwood boasts its own glee club, nature study club and even a morals' and manners' club where Susie and Johnie ask questions of teacher as to how they should act when mother has company and how they should greet the minister when he comes to call.

Good For Quick and Slow

"The Dalton plan has three principles," Miss Lou E. Thompson, the principal explained. "Freedom, co-operation of groups and within groups, and budgeting of time so as to meet the individual situation."

"I like the new plan," one chubby boy told me, "because it allows me to go slow with history, which is hard for me, and to go fast with arithmetic which is easy."

"I like to have my month's work outlined for me, because I can get through all of it quickly and thoroughly by myself and then do extra problems which Miss Thompson and the teachers plan for me," a brilliant little student spoke up.

"We like it," chimed in two little girls," because it makes us feel grown-up. We feel responsible for following out the monthly chart, and we like to feel that teacher is expecting us to finish it on time."

The teachers under this plan map out the work for their subject for the ensuing month and then teach the same subject to all children in the 4A to the 6A grades. They mark the work completed on a chart attached to each monthly contract and when the child is ready for the periodical test, he is given the list of questions and takes his test by himself. Oftimes the child next to him is engaged in an entirely different piece of work, so that each child must work out his own problem by thinking it through, not by copying his neighbor, or by mechanical feats of memory.

"The Dalton plan puts the relation between the teacher and the child on the right basis, the teacher as helper in the child's own problem of education," Miss Thompson says in summing up the advantages of this modern experiment which East Side boys and girls are enjoying.

The recent traffic survey made by the Columbus Planning commission shows that the flow of traffic at the corner of Miller avenue and Main street has increased sixteen per cent since last year, thus telling in a graphic way of the increase in popularity of the Miller-Main community. Perhaps no corner in the city has a more definite community spirit than this East Side corner, the heart of a delightful and friendly residence district.

Proof of the popularity of this corner is found in the number of businesses that have Miller-Main as a business designation. There are garages, banks, real estate brokers and other dealers who have chosen to identify themselves by this geographical nomenclature, thus telling people where they are by their very name closely connecting themselves with the community.

Only during the past few months the columns of The Eastern Times have been filled with notices of openings of new shops and stores near this corner, bearing out the silent contention of the traffic survey that Miller and Main is fast becoming one of the most important centers in Columbus. It is intensely interesting to be living and working in a section which is growing so rapidly both in numbers and in public favor.

for sidewalks and that more speeding would take place on a wide street than on a narrow street. It was decided to put in a 24 foot street east to Ardmore road and a 20 foot street from Ardmore road east.

Chelsea Ave. Gets Lights

J. B. Bellamy, 2404 Fair avenue, requested that sidewalks on Dawson avenue be put as near as 4½ feet from the curb, so that school children would use them and council agreed to consider his request. A petition of owners of improved property on Chelsea avenue was presented by H. B. Donley, 796 Chelsea avenue, asking for street lights and it was moved to include Chelsea avenue in the spring program. A letter from A. W. Bartholomew, 960 Grandon avenue, stated that the residents of that street did not favor the installation of street lights at this time.

Solicitor Peters reported the renewal of the Bexley water contract with Columbus from April, 1928 to April, 1929, explaining that the city council had refused to renew it for a longer period than one year.

It was authorized to borrow money and levy assessments for the construction of sanitary sewers in District No. 2, to include an 8 inch sanitary sewer in Park Hill Drive, connecting with the present sewer in Westland avenue and running approximately to east line of Lot No. 4 of Park Hill addition. The cost will be $1500. The Taylor Tractor Co. was awarded the contract for a caterpillar tractor.

OLDEST LIVING MEMBER

Rev. Mr. William Stuart Eagleson, 84 North Ohio avenue, is to be honored as the oldest living member of Phi Gamma Delta fraternity at the golden anniversary banquet of the fraternity to be held March 31 at the Deshler-Wallick hotel. Rev. Mr. Eagleson was initiated into the fraternity at Washington and Jefferson college in 1858, only ten years after the founding of the Greek letter society.

TO COST $35,000

Theodore J. Shirtzinger is to build a five apartment residence at 747-55 Sheridan avenue for George M. Morris, 768 Sheridan avenue. The cost will be $35,000 instead of $25,000, as stated last week.

Producer of Minstrel

Carl E. Turvey, 689 Vernon road, is producer and interlocutor for a minstrel show to be given by Linden lodge of Masons at their temple Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of next week.

Reynolds Speaks On Cooperation

Frank E. Reynolds, secretary of the State Teachers' association, gave the address at the meeting of the Bexley Parent Teacher association Wednesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock in the Junior High school building. Mr. Reynolds spoke on "Co-operation of the Home and School." Donald McLain, an 11 year old boy from Pilgrim Junior High, played several violin selections.

KILLED AT DOOR OF MAIN ST. FLORIST

A tragic accident Sunday afternoon at 2838 East Main street, where an automobile backed into a Columbus, Newark and Zanesville Traction car, resulted in the death of two women and a man. The car was being driven by Otto P. Hancher of Hilliards and with him were his daughter, Mrs. Irene Albright, 216 East Town street, and Mrs. Helen Basham, 860 Ellsworth avenue.

The three were bound for the florist shop of Joseph A. Martin of the Main street address, where they had intended to order flowers for the funeral of Ruth Fern Basham of Reynoldsburg, a relation of the three. Mr. Hancher drove west on Main street and then started to back into the driveway leading to the florists' seemingly disregarding the interurban car only 50 feet away. The bodies of the two women were hurled many feet, while the man's body lay beside the car. Mr. Hancher and Mrs. Basham were killed instantly and Mrs. Albright died at Grant hospital later.

AGED WOMAN KILLED

Mrs. Sarah Hester, aged 69, 1748 East Main street, died Wednesday night at St. Francis hospital as the result of injuries sustained when she was struck by an automobile driven by J. A. Kingaberry, 2566 Brentwood road. Death came five hours after the accident, caused by internal injuries and shock.

Mrs. Hester was taken to the hospital by Hughes Gardner, 2564 Sherwood road.

Mrs. W. J. Dolan and daughter, Rosemary, 1725 Franklin Park South, are in Miami, Fla.

Mrs. and Mrs. Frank W. Carpenter, 532 Kelton avenue, are visiting their daughter, Mrs. J. Donald Church, Cuyahoga Falls.

MODERN CIRCUIT RIDER TRAVELS 200 MILES EVERY WEEK-END

Although the circuit-rider, whose territory used to cover hundreds of miles has become a matter of history, Capital university presents an up-to-date case of similar nature.

Professor Arthur H. Kuhlman, head of the public speaking department, and coach of debate, travels 200 miles every week-end to serve the Lutheran Congregation at Moulton, Ohio, as pastor. Every Saturday morning, Professor Kuhlman journeys to the small town northwest of Columbus, a distance of 100 miles, and every Sunday after he has conducted services, he returns over the same ground to assume the duties of instructor on Monday. The Moulton congregation expects to extend a call as regular pastor to one of the class which will graduate from the theological seminary of Capital university in June.

"BABIES" OF CLASSES RANGE FROM 20 TO 18 YEARS OF AGE

That "being the youngest" has more than one advantage is maintained by at least four members of the student body at Capital university. The four in question are the "babies" of their respective classes. The "oldest" of the "youngest" is Sylvanus L. Schillinger, son of Mrs. Ida L. Schillinger of Warren, Pa. He is a member of the senior class and has not yet passed his twentieth birthday anniversary. Young Schillinger is managing editor of the Capital Chimes, bi-weekly campus newspaper, associate editor of the Year book, member of the negative debate team, and a charter member of the Men's club.

Joseph Adam Pfueger, son of Prof. L. Pfueger of Regina college, Saskatchewan, Canada, is still younger in proportion than Schillinger. This young man just recently passed his eighteenth birthday anniversary and is enrolled as a full-fledged junior.

For the sophomores, Miss Elizabeth Emmert, daughter of Dr. C. W. Emmert, 852 South Cassady avenue, holds the title of "youngest." She is only 17 years of age. Miss Emmert is assistant circulation manager and reporter for the Capital Chimes, member of the C. A. P., largest co-ed organization, the co-ed debate team, Dramatic club, and of the sophomore intramural basketball team.

The "baby" of the "baby" class is Verne Edward Mohne, son of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Mohne of Elroy, Wis. He is 16 years of age.

City Leaves Grade Crossing Controversy Up To Courts

East Gate Residents Gather In Large Numbers at Public Hearing Before Council

DEMAND COMPENSATION

City council refused to intervene in the controversy between the N. & W. railroad and Eastgate residents over the grade crossing elimination program, following the public hearing on the question held Monday night in the council chamber. The room was crowded with Eastgate property owners, who tried to heckle railroad counsel, until they discovered that council was with them to a man, when they tried loud applause instead.

Council maintained that, since the suit filed by Eastgate residents against the railroad was scheduled for hearing in the state supreme court, April 24, it was unwise for that body to give permission to the railroad to proceed. The suit has been heard in two courts, the railroad having been winner in the common pleas court and the residents in the appelate courts.

Reads Letter From Nash

The hearing was started Monday night by Chairman Zimpfer, who read a letter from Simeon Nash, counsel for Eastgaters, which declared that his clients were not seeking to delay action, but were maintaining their rights to be compensated for damage to their property. The railroad had asserted its right to change the location of its tracks several hundred feet eastward without compensation of property owners, the letter said, thus setting a precedent for damaging the property of other restricted additions, without compensation.

Councilman Zimpfer admitted that he was responsible for the reopening of the question at this time, saying that thousands of men were without employment and that since both the city and the railroad were anxious to go ahead with the work, he wanted to try to smooth out matters and give the railroad permission to begin. He brought out that the completion of the program would aid in the smoke abatement solution, in that whistling at the crossing would be eliminated and in that the grade would be such that booster engines would not be needed.

James Boulger, attorney for the railroad, speaking in favor of the suggestion that the work go ahead at once, said that the company was willing to have the courts settle matter for anyone who wanted to claim damages. He declared that the railroad was spending three million dollars, of which several hundred thousand dollars were for labor alone, and that the railroad, to show its good intent, had bought land that the city would have bought and had made plans for bridges and to beautify Franklin Park, where the railroad goes through.

At Work Many Years

Colonel Simeon Nash, attorney for the Eastgaters, answered by saying that the railroad has been buying lots since 1920 and has had engineers and surveyors at work on the project for eight years. Therefore, he said, the matter could have been thrashed out before Eastgate was laid out, when the original owners obtained an agreement with the railroad. As for Eastgate residents filing suits for damages, Mr. Nash pointed out, the law says that where the grade of the street is changed or where ingress or egress is interfered with, property owners have the right to claim damages; whereas the point in dispute with the N. & W. railroad is about compensation for violation of contract. If the property holders were to file separate suits, there would be several hundred claims before the courts, he said.

As to the question of whether yards were to be built by the N. & W. near Eastgate, Mr. Boulger said that there will be four tracks and that trains would be run in, with the probability that cars will be standing there.

Councilmen, in making their position on the matter clear, declared that many men and women had put their last dollars in homes in Eastgate and that the railroad was now proposing to lower the value of those homes, without adequately compensating for that damage. They said it would not be fair to throw the whole burden of a public improvement upon one section and that the only condition under which council would give the railroad permission to proceed, was that the railroad put up bond to secure damages to all property owners affected.

THREE TRUMPETERS CALL STUDENTS TO DEVOTIONAL HOUR

The far-famed Three Musketeers have a counterpart in the three trumpeters at Capital university, who have been introduced into the daily college chapel services.

A trio of trumpeters now call the hurrying students from the bustle of their classroom and study to the brief devotional period each morning in Mees Hall. Theodore Liefeld of Pittsburgh, and Earl Beach, and Karl Mohrhoff of Crestline, the trumpeters blend the martial tones of their instruments.

These three men, who are all Freshmen, also accompany the hymns of the devotional service. The addition to the chapel service was made at the suggestion of President Mees, who is himself an accomplished musician.

An Appreciation

Names are being accepted during our office hours: Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Friday evenings from 5:30 to 10:30 and before 9:30 every morning. FR. 0160.

BEXLEY STUDENTS BONE FOR OLD FASHIONED "BEE"

Excitement over the number and position of letters in a word has reached a high pitch at Bexley High school, as the result of the introduction of a series of spelling tests, which are to culminate in an old-fashioned spelling bee.

Last week a list of 200 words of more than ordinary difficulty were pronounced to the students for a spelling test, without giving them an opportunity to study. The results showed that 18 of the students rated 90 per cent or above and 184 of them had 70 per cent or above, thus giving a passing grade to more than 50 per cent of the boys and girls.

Today the same words were pronounced, after giving each pupil a chance to study them, and the four from each room who make the highest grades will constitute a spelling team for that room, to compete in the spelling bee. The spelling bee will be set sometime next week by Superintendent Dieterich, to take place instead of the regular chapel program.

These are some of the words over which Bexley boys and girls are poring: Try them on each other: criticise or criticize, besiege, laboratory, sergeant, naphtha, isthmus, unanimous, privilege, noticeable, rhythm, referred.

DR. OVERLY RECOVERS FROM LONG ILLNESS

Dr. John E. Overly, 1453 East Main street, is convalescing from a serious illness due to bowel trouble. He has been confined to his bed for four weeks, this being the first serious illness he has had for almost 40 years. Dr. Overly, who has maintained his office at Miller and Main streets for 44 years, is a veteran enthusiast for this section and has been almost unbelievable progress since coming to that corner.

The doctor has watched every house on Ohio avenue east of Main street being built, has seen Miller avenue as a mud road and has witnessed the emergence of Bexley from a peaceful countryside. Although he is 73 years of age, his friends think of him as a much younger man, due to his exceptionally active life and his ordinarily rugged health.

SENIOR PLAY CHOSEN

The senior play for Bexley High school will be "The Goose Hangs High" by Lewis Beach, it was announced Wednesday. The play will be given under the direction of Mrs. Olive White Fortenbacher June 5 and 6 during commencement week.

Dr. Benson To Speak

Dr. John Benson of the White Cross hospital will be the speaker at the community dinner of the Franklin Park Methodist church March 29 at 6 p. m.

ONE THOUSAND, LESS ONE ARE STUDYING AT EAST HIGH

The nine hundred and ninety and nine have gathered at East East High school and are gathering there every day. For that cryptic and interesting number is the enrollment figure for the school this semester, 25 students having dropped out for various reasons since the beginning of the second term, when 1024 were on hand each day.

In February the thousand mark was reached for the first time since East High school has had a new building, but for the rest of the year, the enrollment will remain at one less than a thousand. Of the total, 117 students are taking courses in the home economics department, making a record number studying those subjects.

DOROTHY KELLEY IS CHOSEN HEAD

In President of Bexley High Student Body, And Will Appoint Student Court

Dorothy Kelley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Kelley, 2456 Powell avenue, was chosen president of Bexley High school student body at the election held Wednesday morning. Jane Roderick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Roderick, 460 South Drexel avenue, is the vice president and Scott Lyon, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Lyon, 192 South Cassady avenue, is the secretary.

Voting was by typewritten ballots in precincts, represented by the home rooms. The new officers not only head the student body, but they are officers ex-officio of the student council. Miss Kelley, as president, will appoint the members of the student court, seven in number chosen from the senior class.

The organization of Bexley High school has three departments as does the United States government; the executive, represented by the newly elected officers; the legislative, represented by the school council, and the judicial, represented by the school court. There will be regular weekly meetings of the governing bodies, which will correspond to the meetings now held in the home rooms each Wednesday morning, the home rooms representing the various states.

Miss Kelley defeated Morris Mattlin and Arch Houstle for president; Miss Roderick defeated Katherine Englehart and Lawrence Lamp for vice president and Scott Lyon defeated Ruth Smith and Ted Wilson for secretary.

TO GIVE CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR PLAY

"Crusade With Christ," a play laid in a newspaper office and in an officer's meeting of the Christian Endeavor society, will be given by young people of the Wilson Avenue Church of Christ Sunday evening, instead of the regular service.

Those who will take part include Wallace Pickens, as Jacob Corbin, editor of the Daily Tribune; Walter Stotz, as Rev. Mr. Richard Wallsworth, the new minister; Selwyn Clark as Clifton Hilgerson, son of a wealthy lumber merchant and president of the C. E.; Melvin Eyerman as Dwight Barkley, the newspaper photographer; Jack Reeves, as Sam Spalding, the reporter; Cleta Clark as Cleora Hilgerson; Mabel Case as Betty June Corbin; Mrs. Wallace Pickens as Mrs. Maryetta; Margaret McLaughlin as Grace Winthrop, the stenographer; Lucile Jones as Rachel Cory, assistant society editor and Marjorie Pickens as Alma Lenorsky, a Polish-Russian girl.

SKATER SUFFERS HEAD INJURIES IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Robert McDonald, aged 12, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. McDonald, 1237 S. Ohio avenue, is scheduled to come home soon from Grant hospital, where he has been since last Saturday for treatment for injuries, suffered in an accident. Robert was skating on N. Champion avenue, and stepped in the path of an auto, driven by David Young, 951 Wilson avenue. The driver put on the brakes, but both wheels ran over him, the hind wheel sliding and dragging the boy along the street.
